Laughter fills Hearst home--at last

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For the first time in nearly three years there was laughter of a happy family celebration in the Randolph Hearst household.

Patty had come home at last.

"Before no time, almost instantly, the house was filled with laughter," Miss Hearst's attorney, Al Johnson, said Saturday.

"The police officers who had guarded the house for a year said it was great to hear that laughter in a house where there hadn't been any for so long."

Johnson, who became the young heiress' close friend and confidant during her trial and imprisonment, spoke of the gathering of family and friends which followed Miss Hearst's release on $1.5 million bail Friday.

He said her first request when she got home was for a mai tai, then she consumed a large plate of shrimp and later joined the family for a big roast beef dinner.

She stayed awake for some 24 hours and pitched in in the kitchen making guacamole for the guests.

The attorney said he personally drove Miss Hearst home and in the car "we were laughing and joking just about the fact we didn't believe this day was happening."

He said the 22-year-old Miss Hearst noted that she had been awake since 1 a.m. Friday when she left on her trip from the Metropolitan Correction Center at San Diego. "She said, 'I've been up since 1 o'clock in the morning on the road. But this is great,''' Johnson recalled.

She was taken to the Nob Hill apartment where her parents moved after her kidnaping, a refuge they sought to escape the unhappy memories of Miss Hearst's childhood home at nearby Hillsborough.

"I pointed the apartment house out to her," Johnson said. "I said,'Pat, there it is.' She looked up at the top of the building and said, 'Yes, Al, that's a beautiful smokestack.'''

As she walked into the apartment, past the platoons, of armed security guards, Miss Hearst was greeted by her younger sister Anne.

"They embraced and hugged and kissed and giggled," Johnson said.

Then, he said, the newly released prisoner walked through every room of the apartment "picking up and touching a lot of things — touching the art objects that her mother had."

"I said, 'Pat, Is it like I told you it was?''' Johnson said. "She said, 'Oh, it's much nicer.'''

Although the Hearsts provided a separate bedroom for Miss Hearst, Johnson said she choose to spend her first night at home sharing a room with her sister, Anne.

After Miss Hearst had her mai tai and "a whole big plate of shrimp," Johnson said she began answering telephone calls from old friends and members of the family. "She was just overjoyed to talk to them. She was just bubbling over," he said.

Hearst told a reporter for her father's newspaper Saturday that her homecoming was easy — "It was like I never left. It's nice to be home."

Carter, Kissinger confer

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger briefed President-elect Jimmy Carter on foreign affairs for 5½ hours Saturday and promised to do all he can to smooth Carter's transition to the presidency.

Kissinger talked with Carter and Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale in the book-lined study of Carter's ranch-style home on the edge of this tiny southwest Georgia town.

Then Carter and Kissinger mingled with hundreds of tourists as they went on a tour of Plains. They visited Carter's peanut warehouse and the railroad depot before Carter saw the secretary of state to his car saying, "Have a nice trip."

In their public appearances both men were extremely cordial despite an election campaign in which Kissinger himself was frequently an issue.

"I have always believed that foreign policy is a nonpartisan affair and all Americans should support the foreign policy of the United States," Kissinger said during a break in the meeting.

"For this reason we will do our utmost to share all information we possess, and to cooperate in a smooth transition so that the new administration can be successful for the peace and progress of all Americans," Kissinger said.

The secretary of state was a favorite target for Carter's barbs during the campaign but when they met reporters on the patio of Carter's home they were all smiles and compliments and courtesy.

Carter called the man he had accused of running an "amoral" foreign policy "my good friend.

"There is no incompatibility among us," on transition matters, Carter said at one point.

He did not refer to the suggestions of some Democrats that Kissinger be retained as a special envoy to continue efforts to negotiate peace in the Middle East.

But he did say he looks forward to "a long relationship" with the secretary.

"I'm very grateful for a chance to renew our friendship and look forward to a long relationship with him as good and as fruitful as this meeting has been today."

Radioactive air mass drifts in over Pacific from China explosion

SEATTLE (AP) — An air mass containing radioactive debris from a Chinese nuclear explosion drifted over the Pacific Northwest on Saturday, but federal officials said there was little reason for alarm.

Preliminary checks in the Seattle area indicated no increase in radiation levels, according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The air mass "passed over the Northwest without incident," added Bob Jacobson, a spokesman at the Environmental Protection Agency's regional headquarters in Seattle.

An NOAA spokesman in Washington, D.C., said the air mass was moving southeasterly and was expected to be over the Atlantic Ocean by Sunday night. The projected path of the air mass would take it over the Midwest and the Southeast.

Federal officials said they anticipated no problems. But they said rain could wash some radioactive material out of the air mass. In case of rain, foodstuffs on the ground could be contaminated, but a normal washing would eliminate any danger, according to an EPA spokesman.

"The radioactive debris is expected to remain at high altitude level and have little effect on ground level, except for possibly two areas of the United States," an EPA spokesman in Washington said.

The two areas he listed:

—Four southeastern states: Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina. A potential storm system could bring rain, which might pick up some radioactive material.

—Four Great Lakes states: Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois and Indiana. Predicted snow flurries have "some possibility of interacting with the radioactive material and bringing it to earth."

The Federal Aviation Administration, which would issue warnings to airlines if the cloud were considered too dangerous for airplanes to fly through, said no such warnings were needed.

However, two organizations of consumer advocate Ralph Nader urged the government to divert all civil aircraft away from the cloud.

"In light of the serious potential hazards involved, it is essential that you move at once to protect the health and safety of airline passengers, crew members, ground personnel and others," the Nader groups said in a telegram to government officials.

An FAA spokeswoman in Washington said the EPA and the FAA, along with the Air Force and the Energy Research and Development Administration, had concluded that airplanes did not need to be rerouted around the cloud.

Passengers inside airplanes would not be contaminated, and the airplanes would require no special cleaning upon landing, she added.

In the Seattle area, telephone lines at the Puget Sound Air Pollution Control Agency were busy Saturday with calls from people concerned about any possible fallout from the cloud, but state and federal agencies said there was little cause to worry.

EPA officials in Seattle had said their main concern was rain — but there was no rain.

Carter's wait, see attitude gains praise

Holds off on tax cut, spending plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the economy gives off mixed signals, President-elect Jimmy Carter's wait-and-see attitude toward tax cuts and spending programs is winning him bipartisan praise.

Carter's aides say he will not adopt any economic policies that would commit his Cabinet to a course of action it didn't have a hand in shaping.

But equally important, in the minds of many, is that the economy is in such an uncertain state that it would be a mistake to decide on any new policy at this point.

Carter and his aides will look closely at December statistics on unemployment, industrial output and business indicators — all of which were unfavorable in October and November — for clues on what direction the economy may take.

Carter has said he will consider recommending a tax cut and other measures to stimulate the economy if the slowdown continues. Although some of his advisers have stated publicly what they want him to do, Carter has refused to be pinned down.

Carter's cautious approach drew praise this past week from Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board and Chairman Alan Greenspan of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Although Greenspan didn't mention Carter by name, he obviously had him in mind when he said "quite correctly, everybody is saying it will be at least two months" before decisions are made on new economic policies.

Billionaire's desire to talk revealed in secret memos

Aides feared testimony by Howard Hughes

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Reclusive billionaire Howard Hughes wanted to meet with members of the Senate Watergate Committee in 1974, but his advisers were afraid of what he might say because he was under daily sedation, the Las Vegas Sun reported Saturday.

The copyrighted story from Vancouver, B.C., said Hughes' wishes were revealed in secret documents which are now in the possession of a former Hughes aide, John Meier.

Meier, a fugitive from American authorities, claims to have obtained the memos legally from Mexican authorities, who allegedly confiscated the documents following Hughes' death last spring.

The Sun did not say who wrote the memos.

A federal grand jury indicted Meier on a multimillion dollar tax charge in 1973. Additionally, the Summa Corp., the umbrella organization overseeing Hughes' financial empire, has filed a $9.5 million suit against Meier in connection with alleged mishandling of Hughes' money for the purchase of mining properties.

The questions of how Meier got the documents and whether they are authentic remain in doubt.

Meier has made some of the documents available to newsmen.

According to the Sun, the documents purportedly show that the Hughes' organization was tipped off about pending Internal Revenue Service investigations.

A memo apparently sent to Hughes in January 1974 advised him that he was in no condition, either physically or mentally, to stand up to the rigors of testifying before the Watergate Committee.

"You are your own biggest danger at this moment," the memo reads in part. "Suppose you had the tablets that I know you obtained and started muttering about the political deals we, or rather you, have had. This could be trouble and I want no part of this. Neither do you.

Elsewhere, the memos said, "When I told you that we had so far resisted the efforts of the IRS, SEC and the Senate Watergate Committee from seeing you, it was for your own good. These people would love the opportunity to get to grips with you personally, and they would not be easy to shake. They are all after publicity for themselves and giving you a bad time is one way to get it."

"Also, you are aware that I do not want to let you meet with these people because you are in no fit state to stand up to them either mentally or physically."

HOME BURNS

Arson suspected in La Verne house fire

Arsonists are suspected of touching off a fire that destroyed an abandoned wood and stucco home owned by the City of La Verne Saturday afternoon bringing La Verne and Los Angeles County firemen to 240 E. Amherst St.

The fire reported at 3:09 p.m. completely destroyed the old home that stood abandoned for several years. The loss, according to the Los Angeles County Fire Department, was "nil."

Several residents in the area reported seeing two men in a small sports car in the area just prior to the fire. Several other persons were also seen running through an orange grove just north of the burning home just as firemen arrived.

The Los Angeles County Sheriff's office was also investigating another small fire that was set in a palm tree about a block from the home. A resident in the area was able to put out the palm tree fire with a garden hose before firemen arrived.

Thousand job applications a day pour into Carter's office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Job applications are pouring into President-elect Jimmy Carter's office here at the rate of more than a thousand a day, but most of the applicants are going to be disappointed.

Matthew B. Coffey, 35, director of Carter's personnel office here, said in an interview Thursday that his office is overwhelmed by mail and a "steady stream of walk-ins, modestly and immodestly offering their services" to the new administration.

Many other Carter staffers report receiving dozens of phone calls a day from friends and friends-of-friends wanting to find out how to find work with the Carter administration.

Those who show up at one of the reception desks outside transition headquarters in Washington are given a standard government application form and a questionnaire asking for name, date of birth, race, education and political affilition, if any.

Most hopefuls who turn in their resumes will eventually get politely worded letters saying, in effect, thanks but no thanks.

"People in this country still believe there's a great patronage system," Coffey said, "but there just aren't that many jobs filled by presidential appointment."

Coffey and his staff of 38, with the help of Carter's political advisers, are concentrating now on the 32 key jobs the president-elect must fill, such as the Cabinet secretaries, undersecretaries, heads of independent agencies and a few regulatory commisson posts. They have identified a total of 300 jobs they expect Carter to fill in time.

In addition, there are about 3,000 part-time posts on presidential commissions and the boards of quasi-governmental units like ConRail, the U.S. Postal Service and the National Endowment for the Arts.

About 1,800 policy-making slots in the various government agencies are expected to be filled by the agency heads.

Richard C.D. Fleming, 31, who headed the Carter personnel program before the election and recruited Coffey, now his boss, said the office received more than 10,000 job applications even before the election.

When people phone or come in asking how to apply for jobs, they are told to send their resumes to P.O. Box 2600, Washington, D.C., 20013.

Asked what will become of the thousands of applications that don't make the cut, Coffey said they'll be put in the "inactive file" and eventually shipped to the "Jimmy Carter presidential library."

Coffey suggested that the route most job seekers should follow is to do what he did: take the competitive Civil Service examination.

"I'm proof that the Civil Service works," Coffey said. "I spent a year at the Civil Service Commission, four years at the White House (handling personnel for the late President Lyndon B. Johnson) and eight years in broadcasting. There's a lot of paper in the (Civil) Service, but there are a lot of dedicated people, too."

Coffey is on leave from his post as president of the National Association of Public Radio Stations.

Chino council, planners meet to air problems

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

In an effort to increase the level of coordination and communication between the Chino City Council and its planning commission, a joint study session was held Saturday to discuss some of the problems facing the city and what can be done about them.

Members of both the City Council and the planning commission attended the informal meeting to discuss school overcrowding, sewage treatment needs, and the general quality of life that residents of Chino can expect.

The purpose of the meeting, according to Planning Commission Chairman Jim Johns, was to "give planning commissioners a direction to follow in implementing City Council policy."

On the issue of school overcrowding, a serious issue facing Chino residents, the consensus opinion was that there was of little the city could legally do to help alleviate the problem.

School overcrowding in Chino has become a problem recently due to the flurry of residential building activity that has been taking place in the Chino area during the last few years.

It was pointed out Saturday, that the problem will definitely persist until at least January of 1978, when a new elementary school is scheduled to open. After that time, members were informed, school overcrowding in Chino could take on even more serious dimensions, due to a lack of funds for the construction of new schools.

A question was raised by one planning commissioner, whether the city might possibly have the power to stop construction in the area if there was not enough room for children in the schools.

Generally it was felt that the city did not at this time have a legal basis to stop residential construction for that reason.

"The problem is that much of this construction taking place in the Chino area is being controlled by the county," said Chino Mayor Bob McLeod.

"The children who live in those houses will be going to Chino schools," he said, " and we will have no power to control that rate of growth."

"What we need is a total coordination between the school district, the city, the county and the citizens in order to solve this problem."

In the area of sewage treatment, the rapid growth rate in the Chino area has also caused long range problems.

On this issue, however, it was felt the city through its planning commission could have significant control. At present, it is estimated that the Chino Basin Municipal Water District will be able to handle projected growth needs until at least the year 1980.

After that time there are a number of options the city can take to insure citizens adequate sewage service. These include, adding facilities, tying into a statewide industrial sewage line, and forcing developers to provide water and sewage saving features on plumbing fixtures they put in new houses.

On the issue of the quality of life that should be guaranteed to all residents in Chino, the council and commission members seemed to agree that the city has a significant role in that area through the use of zoning laws and building codes.

Drivers fail to show up; race canceled

A 600-lap, 24-hour marathon race to benefit the Help Them Walk Again Foundation was canceled Friday and Saturday at the Grand Prix Driving Course in Pomona due to a lack of drivers.

The racing teams were scheduled to drive the course 600 times at a cost of $1.50 per lap, per team. The sponsors of the marathon up until Friday were seeking team supporters from the community. Only one team arrived for the marathon when six teams were scheduled for the event, according to a spokesman at the Grand Prix Driving Course Saturday night.

The spokesman said it was the second time the marathon event had been canceled for lack of driving teams.

It was unknown Saturday if the event would be rescheduled for a later date.

Spotlight on crime

Man jailed in revenge attack

A 19-year-old Chino man has been booked into West End Jail on a charge of attack with a deadly weapon.

Bail was set at $5,000 for Billy Joe Day who was arrested by West End sheriff's deputies at the Smith store in Los Serranos early Saturday morning.

According to sheriff's deputies, Day went to to 4275 Descanso St., Los Serranos, about 4 a.m. and confronted Richard Daniel Solwick with a loaded shotgun.

Deputies said that Day wanted to get revenge for a fight between Solwick and Day's father Friday night.

Deputies said that Solwick's wife Charlene grabbed Day from behind, and that Day dropped the shotgun.

They said that Day lunged for Solwick who hit him on the head with the butt of a .22.

Day left the areas, but returned on arrival of the deputies who arrested him.

Search on for gunman

Pomona police were searching for a man with a small handgun who fired at least four shots at another man at Towne Avenue and Arrow Highway Saturday afternoon following an argument over a woman.

The victim, Lowry Marks, 22, of Pomona, according to police was not hit in the incident. Marks, police said, got into an argument with the gunman in the parking lot outside of the Chocolate City bar about 1 p.m. The gunman began chasing the victim across Towne Avenue and fired two shots into the ground. The gunman continued chasing the victim through the Exxon Service Station on Towne Avenue and fired at least two more shots.

Police said Marks managed to stop a motorist who drove him out of the area. The gunman fled.

The gunman was described as a black, 20, 6 feet 1, 155 pounds with black hair and brown eyes.

Memorial services mark Kennedys' tragic passing

John F.—prayer vigil set

DALLAS (AP) — A hastily organized prayer vigil will mark the anniversary Monday of the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas.

Mayor Robert Folsom had canceled the traditional commemoration, but Dallas County Demoratic Chairman Ron Kessler said Saturday he received "about 500 phone calls" protesting the lack of a memorial service.

Kennedy was shot to death near Dealey Plaza in downtown Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. The Warren Commission concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in killing Kennedy.

The observance will be held at noon Monday at the Kennedy Memorial, not far from the assassination site, Kessler said. The services will consist of a short prayer and a moment of silence.

"There will be no speeches," Kessler said.

Dr. Paul A. Stauffer, executive director of the Greater Dallas Community of Churches, and the Rev. Zan Holmes, a former state legislator, will preside at the service.

Folsom reportedly called for cancellation of the formal observation because of "declining public interest."

Robert—heirs grieved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two children of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy collapsed during services Saturday at Kennedy's grave in Arlington National Cemetery.

Ethel Kennedy and four of the couple's 11 children marked what would have been the senator's 51st birthday with prayers, a traditional family observance on the senator's birthday.

The youngest child, Rory, 7, and her 11-year-old brother, Max, fell forward as they knelt to pray. They were helped to the family's automobile by a Kennedy friend, David Hackett.

Ethel Kennedy was pregnant with Rory when the Democratic senator was shot on June 5, 1968, moments after winning the California presidential primary. He died 25 hours later.

A pot of daisies rested beside the plain white cross that marks the senator's grave. Mrs. Kennedy, Rory, Max, Douglas, 10, Christopher, 13, and a family employe, Ena Bernard, placed yellow roses on the grave before the services began.

After the two children were helped back to the car, the Rev. Jerry Creedon conducted a brief mass for the widow and other children.

Gilmore could get freedom if pardon board fails to act

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Convicted murderer Gary Mark Gilmore could be set free if the Utah Board of Pardons fails to take action soon on his request for immediate execution by firing squad, according to the prosecutor in the case.

Gilmore, who has said he wants to die rather than spend the rest of his life in prison, could be released if he is not executed or sentenced to a jail term before Dec. 7, Utah County Attorney Noall T. Wootton said in a letter to the pardons board.

Under state law, Wootton said, an execution must be carried out no sooner than 30 days and no later than 60 days from sentencing.

"The requirements of this statute are, of course, waived if the defendant initiates some action requiring a delay beyond the maximum time," Wootton wrote to board chairman George W. Latimer. "This, however, Mr. Gilmore has not done.

"It may well be argued, therefore, that the time limit established by the statute cited ... continues to run and that upon its expiration, the State of Utah and all its various agencies of government, including its courts, the governor and the Board of Pardons, lose jurisdiction to do anything."

Deputy Atty. Gen. Robert B. Hansen, Utah's attorney general-elect, said Saturday that Wootton's interpretation of the law, which would free Gilmore if the execution or resentencing does not take place by Dec. 7, is "well-founded" but that he would argue against it. He did not say what interpretation he placed on the law.

No condemned prisoner has been released on the basis of the law since it was passed in 1973. And even if Wooton's interpretation is accepted, Gilmore would be unlikely to walk away from prison a free man because he faces another murder charge.

He was sentenced to die for the murder of a Provo motel clerk during a robbery last July. He is also charged with murder in connection with another Provo-area robbery the night before the clerk was slain.

The pardons board planned to review the matter last Wednesday, but Gilmore and his girl friend, Nicole Barrett, attempted to carry out an apparent suicide pact on Tuesday. Both were found unconscious — Gilmore in his cell and Mrs. Barrett in her Springville apartment.

Both were hospitalized for treatment of drug overdoses, and both recovered. Gilmore was returned to Utah State Prison, and Mrs. Barrett was admitted to Utah State Hospital on Friday.

Doctors said Mrs. Barrett, 20, was in a state of depression and that she still planned to carry out her pact with Gilmore, 35.

Prison officials, on orders from doctors and from Mrs. Barrett's family, refused to allow Gilmore to telephone Mrs. Barrett on Friday, and the prisoner began a hunger strike which continued on Saturday.

The next scheduled meeting of the pardons board is Dec. 6, but in light of the Dec. 7 execution date cited by Wootton, Gilmore's attorney, Tom Jones, said he would ask for an earlier hearing, preferrably on Wednesday.

Cabinet appointment list readied

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter's talent scouts are expected to present him this week with their first recommendations of people to fill Cabinet posts and other key jobs in the Carter administration.

If he likes the selections he receives while in Washington, Carter could begin interviewing some of them as early as the end of the week or the beginning of the following week.

Matthew B. Coffey, director of the transition team's Talent Inventory Program, said in a recent interview that his staff will offer Carter about 15 potential candidates for each of the 32 top government jobs to be filled.

Carter and Vice Presidentelect Walter Mondale also have been soliciting suggestions on their own, and they may come up with some people the talent scouts haven't found.

But, Coffey said, "we hope we will have the widest-ranging, most checked-out list" of anyone dropping names in the hat.

On Carter's instructions, he said, "for every position there are going to be qualified women, blacks and other minorities recommended to him."

Coffey reports to former campaign manager Hamilton Jordan, whose political coordination team is working with the talent hunters to screen potential appointees.

As a result of preliminary work done during the campaign, Coffey said, Carter's staff is months ahead of the late President John F. Kennedy, whose transition work didn't begin until two days after the election. Kennedy nonetheless named his cabinet in eight days.

Before the election this year, Richard C. D. Fleming headed a team effort to identify the most important jobs Carter must fill and to describe in detail each job.

A 31-year-old city planner working for a community development firm in Atlanta, Fleming had been a volunteer member of the "peanut brigade" that flew into the primary states to campaign for Carter. In July, he joined the fledgling transition team and put together a 3½-inch briefing book outlining the qualifications needed for the 32 top jobs in government.

Those posts include the Cabinet secretaries, undersecretaries, independent agency heads at the National Security Agency, Central Intelligence Agency, the Office of Management and Budget and the regulatory commissions where vacancies will occur.

Fleming also recruited Coffey, 35, who had handled personnel in the White House under the late President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Coffey, now Fleming's boss, took over after the election to begin putting names next to the jobs Fleming had identified.

"We developed a system to collect, organize and do a rough screening of the people whose names were sent to us," Coffey sai "Now, we're in the second stage, and outreach program to find and evaluate individuals who are qualified but who weren't on anybody's list."

Jordan had said earlier that some of the jobs are being taken in clusters. That is, a group of names will be submitted of people who might be qualified for any of several jobs, such as secretary of state, secretary of defense, CIA or NSA chief in one cluster and treasury secretary, commerce secretary, OMB director and chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers in another.

When Carter gets a list of names for a job or a cluster of jobs, Coffey said, each person on the list will have been put through at least three "quality checks," which he defined as "talking to references of our choice rather than those submitted by the candidate."

Carter may ask for more information, more names or designate somone to talk to certain of the candidates.

If Carter decides he's interested in one or more of the candidates after he has interviewed them, then — with the candidates' permission — the FBI will be asked to begin a full-field investigation. It involves checking various records regarding the candidate and interviewing co-workers, neighbors, friends and other associates.

The FBI probes serve two purposes. They determine whether a person can gain a top-secret security clearance, and they sometimes uncover derogatory information that might otherwise be discovered by the media or in Senate confirmation proceedings.

It is expected that some people will take themselves out of the runnning before the FBI checks start. Coffey noted that many people with the management skills to run a government department wouldn't be willing to take the kind of pay cut necessary to accept a Cabinet post that pays $63,000 a year.

After the FBI reports are in, it will be up to Carter and his advisers to narrow the field.

Meatcutters vote to accept new contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — About 1,000 members of a wholesale meatcutters union voted overwhelmingly Saturday to accept a new three-year agreement with employers represented by the Associated Meat & Food Suppliers of Southern California.

A spokesman said the agreement covers Local 274, Provision House Workers Union, and involves some 50 companies which supply hotels, restaurants and institutional service.

He said the economic package will total about $2.50 an hour over the term of the contract.

However, he said a strike is continuing by another 1,000 members of Local 274 against the Vernon Meat Dealers Association.

He said the strike began Tuesday and picket lines have been expanded to all wholesale plants in the association.

He said an unfair labor practice charge has been filed against the dealers.

Russian visitors to U.S. exhibit inquire about Carter, detente

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian visitors to a U.S. Bicentennial exhibit now attracting capacity crowds in the Soviet capital often have questions about President-elect Jimmy Carter and the future of U.S.-Soviet detente.

"Some appear to be quite worried about him (Carter) because of things he said about detente during the campaign," said David Monk, 27, of Cambridge, Mass., one of the 30 Russian-speaking exhibit guides.

He said he tells Soviet questioners, "In my personal opinion, attitudes toward the Soviet Union won't be terribly different than they are under the Ford administration. They seem to be reassured by that."

Despite a bomb scare this week and waiting in a queue that could run to five hours in near freezing temperatures, Russians flock to the exhibit in numbers that surprise its American organizers.

"We expected a good turnout, but nothing like this," said director Frank Ursino as he surveyed a line of some 10,000 outside the sprawling exhibit hall in Sokolniki Park northeast of central Moscow.

The Russian public is usually most attracted by gadgetry and high quality objects in Western displays. But this show has little material attraction and instead is a sight-and-sound celebration of America on the country's 200th birthday — heavy on films and pictures of places, history and people rather than things.

An important factor in the high interest is the Soviet practice of constantly measuring the Communist system against America, thereby whetting the public appetite for an American version of things.

A comment book, which visitors are encouraged to sign at the end of the exhibit, offers insights on public thinking:

"You've achieved a lot in 200 years. But we're only 60."—unsigned.

"... monotonous and tiring. Our exhibit is more interesting and visual." — unsigned.

"Very, very, very fascinating." — unsigned.

"I love an American student from Brooklyn, and I hope there will never be an atomic war." — Natasha.

The reference to "our exhibit" is unclear because the Soviet companion show, celebrating the 60th anniversary of the Soviet state, is not scheduled to open until 1977 in Los Angeles.

As is usual with U.S. exhibits here, the American guides are among the top attractions.

"This is one of the few chances these people get to talk to Americans under approved circumstances," said Joe Repka, 32, of Jersey City, N.J., who like most of the guides is a veteran of at least one other exhibit in Russia.

"Most of the questions I get are about unemployment, the cost of education and the like, but they seem genuinely interested, not provocative. The things they hear are so contradictory it makes them think more about Americans.

Woman shot in argument; husband held

A 42-year-old Chino woman has been reported in good condition at Ontario Community Hospital after being shot in the face.

Her common-law husband has been arrested in connection with the shooting.

Della Mae Hicks of 13034 Carrillo St. was taken to the hospital in a private car after the shooting Saturday shortly after 7:15 p.m. in the front room at her home.

Arrested in a field near the house about half an hour after the shooting was David Huntley. Chino police had called upon Ontario police for help, and the Ontario police helicopter aided in finding Huntley in the field.

Police investigating the matter said that the shooting resulted from a family dispute.

Huntley reportedly pulled a .22 revolver and shot Miss Hicks in the face.

The bullet entered the head in the nose area and lodged near an eye.

Huntley has been booked into the West End Jail on a charge of attempted murder.

Republicans' 'ideological' differences still exist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller and Ronald Reagan have made it clear that the ideological schism which wracked the Republican party this year still exists.

The vice president, a symbol of moderate, eastern Republicanism, predicted in a magazine interview released today that a "moderate, progressive Republican party will emerge" from coming internal struggles.

Reagan, in a companion copyright interview with U.S. News & World Report, repeated his conservative campaign call for "a banner ... of bold colors — no pastel shades."

The two men agreed that the party should aim its appeal at independent voters. Reagan said they won't be attracted without a strong statement of common philosophy, while Rockefeller called for able candidates backed by a good organization.

Reagan, who lost the GOP presidential nomination to President Ford, said that his blueprint for the GOP would be the party's 1976 platform adopted at the Kansas City convention. Rockefeller disagreed.

"It was the rank and file that wrote that platform in what was literally a revolution against the document handed down by the party hierarchy. It deals in specifics, in conservative principles — no hedging on where we stand," Reagan said.

Rockefeller put it differently, "Conservative forces pushed through a platform ... that took positions that were far more conservative in certain areas than the majority of the party would have reflected."

The party "is going to continue to be a vibrant force in this country" despite its loss of the White House after eight years and its failure to gain seats in Congress, Rockefeller said.

Gambling nation's pastime: Two-thirds of American people indulge...criminal prospering

EDITOR'S NOTE: There are some who think it would be a moral advance to drop strictures against gambling. And there are others who know in their gut that it is wrong, although they can't tell you why. Meanwhile, gambling becomes more and more an American way.

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

From Las Vegas East to Las Vegas West, gambling is sweeping the country.

When Atlantic City, N.J., won the right to be the nation's second casino city this month, it only underscored a trend startling to behold.

More and more it is legal to try to get something for next to nothing. Four of five Americans approve of gambling as a pastime and two of three freely admit they gamble within the law, or without it.

Thirteen states, all in the East and Midwest, sell lottery tickets, thereby putting the aegis of government on betmaking. In New York, bettors can wager on the horses and never leave home. And while New Jersey was authorizing its decaying resort area to spin the wheel of fortune, New York City and Long Island voters authorized "Las Vegas Night" with roulette, blackjack and craps for charitable institutions "and other worthy causes."

From the public Horseshoe Club in Gardena, Calif., where people line up to play poker, to the private Mayfair Club in Manhattan, where consenting adults wager discreetly on bridge and backgammon, the name of the game is betting.

Even on daytime television, game shows sport the Las Vegas accoutrements of crap table dice and oversize playing cards for "21". The audiences shriek and grown with the winners and the losers.

All over America, people bet on anything that moves — a whopping $60 billion a year on sports alone, illegally at that, and no one knows how much on other forms of gambling. Something not too subtle is happening to the Protestant Work Ethic, which brands gambling as frivolous and sinful.

It has been an abiding contradiction of American life that millions bet every day, while often supporting legislation that makes that activity illegal.

And it has produced strange ironies. When New Jersey, a repurted stronghold of the Mafia since Prohibition days, turned down statewide casino gambling in 1974, one of the arguments against the tables and the slots was that it would attract the wrong elements to the state.

Even while Atlantic City interests spent more than a million dollars to convince New Jersey voters that casino gambling was okay, a federal commission issued the results of a three-year study. It said that gambling is "a pastime indulged in by two-thirds of the American people, and approved of by perhaps 80 per cent ... contributes more than any other single enterprise to police corruption ... and to the well-being of the nation's criminals."

Enforcing laws against gambling is impossible, the commission said flatly. It recommends the legalization of gambling,

Gambling—

making it competitive with illegal gambling.

Not that all the nation embraces legalization. On the same day Atlantic City won, Detroit voters turned down an advisory referendum to permit casino gambling in the Motor City. Nor are there other casino cities on the horizon, although moves persist in Florida and New York state.

Anti-gambling sentiment is alive even in the lottery states, but gets stronger toward the Midwest and especially stronger in the South and Southwest. "There, people thoroughly believe, as their church tells them, that one works to produce products for other men," said James Ritchie, executive director of the National Gambling Commission. "And that you're rewarded by God's grace in money for your efforts. And to waste God's grace is a sin. The work ethic is reflected in attitudes that permeate all our laws."

Legal gambling winnings are heavily taxed. Since taxes are rarely paid on illegal winnings, the legal games suffer the disadvantage. For that reason, among others, state lotteries have barely put a crimp into illegal numbers games, Ritchie says.

"The gambling spirit is part of the American spirit," says sociologist Frederick Preston of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. "It is a sort of plunging ahead and conquering, a kind of boldness, aggressiveness."

In the glitter of Las Vegas, one man from Los Angeles sipped a glass of water at a casino bar and wondered how to tell his wife that he had blown the whole vacation kitty of $800 in his first hour at the crap table. They had not even gone up to their room yet.

In the breakfast hours of the morning, another man fidgeted nervously, his hands trembling, at the wildly ringing quarter slot machine where he had just hit the $650 jackpot. He was waiting for a casino aide to arrive with the rest of the payoff.

In Gardena, Calif., the Horseshoe Club and other poker clubs are an aberration of California law. When legislators long ago banned most gambling, they could not bring themselves to rule out a friendly game of draw. So poker and an oriental game called Pan survived.

The club rents seats to players at up to $8 an hour, depending on the betting limit. The players are mostly older. Most seem to know each other. The games are serious, quiet and conservative. There is no liquor and the only holiday on which the club closes is Christmas.

"Some of them you can set your watches by," explains Tom Parks, one of the partners.

The staff of 475 manages the games, runs the dining room and keeps order. Above every table, hidden in the ceiling, is a TV camera. All play can be monitored to catch cheats, mechanics, card maniplators.

The Gardena clubs hire former casino employes as managers. When a cheat is discovered, his chips are divided among the other players, and in some cases he is prosecuted.

A man called Acey Ducey, keeps coming back to the Horseshoe — in disguise — and keeps getting caught.

The club also bans people who let their gambling get out of control. Occasionally a spouse will complain that a husband or wife is gambling away the grocery money, and occasionally a player will write and ask to be barred for his own good.

The compulsive gambler is an increasing problem everywhere. Gambler's Anonymous, patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous, demands total abstinence. It estimates there may be nine million problem gamblers in America.

In New York's Off Track Betting parlors, it is mandatory for the parlor manager to post the local telephone numbers of Gambler's Anonymous, and posters plead, "Gamble with your head, not over it."

Interestingly, government — as the gambling entrepreneur—have usually tried to protect its players. Government in the lottery business isn't a new idea.

In the 1700s, London sported lottery houses that made money for government and charitable groups. Those houses also instituted a numbers game to make money for themselves, and the idea came to America.

Some state lotteries are moving toward making their legal system competitive with illegal games, as an alternative to them. But it takes some major revisions.

The legal counterpart must pay better, and the winnings will have to be tax free, Ritchie says. Most states put lottery revenue into the general fund where it gets swallowed up. "But if they wanted to devise a strategy of success, they would give the money back to the community where people could perceive the benefit."

Bookmaking is another widespread illegal betting activity, and most people don't even think of it as illegal.

"If you take a scale of 100, betting on football in this country is at 100," Ritchie says. "Betting on horses, on the other hand, is about ten."

In between, basketball would rate 25, baseball 15.

The horses run every day, and so does football, in a sense. At least the middle-class bettor manages to enjoy it almost all week.

The betting line comes down on Tuesday. Bookmakers take bets until noon Saturday when they close the books on the college board.

A football bettor hits the college board first, and then takes his winnings and plays the Sunday professional games. If he loses, he tries to recoup on the Monday night pro game.

Because it is the catch-up game, it is, in Ritchie's words, "the biggest game in town, the largest single event in terms of money bet is Monday night football."

The popularity of football as a betting game is no mystery. There are now 26 franchises, and five to six games a week are televised.

"There is probably 10 times as much money wagered on televised football games as on those that are not televised," Ritchie says. "People like to watch a game and bet on it. It doesn't mean that more people bet on football than numbers. They are fewer and different — middle income to upper middle, even a smattering of the very affluent who bet huge sums. It's almost a subculture in itself.

"We allow TV sportscasters to talk about the line (point spreads) on virtually every newscast," Ritchie says. "We publish injury reports as early as possible so everyone knows who isn't going to play. And after we create a demand for this service, we say it's against the law to accept a bet. It's no wonder the system is fighting itself."

Parimutuel betting on horseracing exists in 32 states. Dog racing is popular and spreading as a blue collar activity. Jai Alai is just getting started.

New York's Off Track Betting is a going proposition. It handled $780 million in bets during its last fiscal year, and gave $124 million back to the city, state and industry.

Why do Americans gamble?

Excitement. Entertainment. The chance of beating the house. A way to escape the doldrums of our slow but secure lives.

"Gambling is not limited to the tables," notes sociologist Hess. "Investment, the stock market, things like that are often cited as gambling. Business, too, is a gamble in a sense, or offers the challenge of a gamble. Farming is one of the biggest gambles in business, and I suspect you will find few farmers at the gambling tables."

Dr. Craig Walton, a young philosophy professor on the Las Vegas campus, is less sanguine and charitable to this human enterprise. There are some, he says, who would think it a moral advance to drop strictures against many things like gambling.

"But there are others who say, 'I know in my gut that it's wrong, and don't give me any of your sociology. It's bad and I can't tell you why it's bad, but it is, so don't argue with me.'"

The argument that it is a victimless crime is probably wrong, Walton says. Where do you draw the line? Does the gambler hurt some loved one by indulging in his personal pleasure?

Big apple:

New York City still faces bleak future

EDITOR'S NOTE: One year ago this week, the federal government stepped in to save New York City from default. Much has been done to reduce expenditures since then, but default remains a strong possibility in the future.

By LEE MITGANG
AP Urban Affairs Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Abraham D. Beame, recently addressing a convention of magicians, asked them "to pull a few million dollars out of the air" to help the nation's largest city remain solvent.

The magicians laughed, drew some rubber $100 bills from their pockets, waved them at the mayor, and enjoyed the joke.

That's what it was, of course; the sort of gallows humor fitting for a mayor who knows that despite his budget-cutting, New York City still might default — as it almost did last fall.

One year ago this week, on Nov. 26, President Ford gave the city a reprieve by agreeing to lend up to $2.3 billion a year for nearly three years, until June 30, 1978. Before that reprieve, the city had come within a few minutes of default in September and October.

But there were strings attached to the federal loans. The mayor and his government were required to balance the city's $12.4 billion operating budget by cutting out $968 million annually in expenditures. So far, $300 million or more has been cut in jobs and services. The exact figure can't be known in the midst of the fiscal year, the city says.

The worst is still ahead. Under the three-year emergency plan, the mayor must announce by Jan. 1 how he will eliminate the rest of the $968 million deficit.

Not only must he make the unpopular announcement, but he must incorporate the savings into a balanced 1977-1978 budget, effective July 1. If he doesn't, the federal government stops lending money, or so it says, and the city could default.

"The 1977-78 budget is basically the moment of truth and we might as well face it now," says Felix Rohatyn, chairman of the Municipal Assistance Corp., dubbed "Big Mac," the original state agency created two summers ago to patch up the city's finances.

Some of the budget balancing the mayor proposes might be beyond his control. For example, the $400 or $500 million in cutbacks still needed to balance the budget assumes that the city will be able to sell $350 million worth of mortgages it now holds. Mayor Beame wants the federal government to buy the mortgages, but the feds aren't making any promises. If there's no buyer, then the deficit isn't $400 or $500 million, but $750 or $850 million.

The mayor is also counting on the state to take over a $113 million city subsidy to the City University system. If the state refuses, the deficit goes up.

The price the city and its citizens have already paid for survival has been high. In the first year of the emergency plan, these changes have occurred:

—$500 million in new taxes were imposed on the most taxed citizens in the nation. The income tax on city residents was increased an average of 25 per cent — to $91 for a family of four with a $10,000 income, and to $437 for the same size family with a $25,000 income. The property tax went up. So did the cigarette tax. Haircuts, once tax-free, are now taxed at 4 per cent.

—The city's workforce was reduced by 55,000 to 239,000, a 19 per cent decline and the lowest level in more than a decade.

—Wages of many remaining workers were frozen and raises previously promised were deferred for a year.

—A 129-year policy of free tuition at city colleges ended last summer, and with it a tradition of higher education for the poor, a tradition that produced some of America's best minds. An undergraduate now pays $750 a year for his first two years of study, $950 a year for the last two.

—The city has given notice that it is considering the withdrawal of its workforce from Social Security coverage. The decision would be made in January and withdrawal would be in March, 1978, at a saving of $200 million a year in contributions. The workers would still have their city pensions, usually more than 50 per cent of salary just before retirement.

—The transit fare rose from 35 cents to 50 cents a subway or bus ride.

—Seventy-seven day care centers were closed. About 5,000 children had used them.

—The number of city-run

Of girls, flowers

Japanese prefer English names for automobiles

TOKYO (AP) — In many places, the names Celeste, Silvia, Sunny, Gloria and Violet belong to girls or flowers. But in Japan, these are the names of some of the country's best-selling cars.

The choice is puzzling to visitors, yet automobile makers say they want names with an image, regardless of whether they can be pronounced.

There is no "L" sound Japanese, so car names like Lancer, Fair Lady, Bluebird and Corolla are pronounced Rancaa, Foo-air Rady, Buru Baado and Cororura.

Television commercials proclaim the worthiness of the "shibiku Shi-Bi-Shi-Shi (the Honda Civic CVCC). Nissan announces its new model "Shirubiya" (Silvia) and Mitsubishi puts its "Garan Shiguma" (Galant Sigma) on the market.

For export, though, the Bluebird becomes the 610, Violet is 710, Sunny is B210, Galant is Dodge Colt, and Celeste is Plymouth Arrow.

"You could never sell a car named Violet or Cherry in the United States," said Charles Folker, a director at Mitsubishi Motors Co. "Cars in the United States are named after animals or famous places and are more masculine."

He said one problem in finding names for Japanese cars was that companies have copyrighted whole lists of flowers and other names that they might someday like to call a vehicle, including bicycles, so that most of the obvious possibilities are already taken.

Mitsubishi discovered, for example, that it had registered the name "Lancer" 13 years ago and chose it for their new car.

"Japanese words are harsh sounding, so we use English or French names," said Tadasu Wake of Mitsubishi's product planning department.

"We need some kind of medallion for the car. English words are popular because Japanese students have been learning English since they were 11 or 12 years old," he said.

"The meanings of the words are considered carefully when the vehicle is named, but usually we don't think about it afterward. The feeling and sound are more important than the meaning," he added.

"Celeste," for example, won over "Challenger" and "Mirage" in a telephone survey of 300 customers. Although sometimes considered a girl's name, the company meant it to signify blue sky.

"Japanese cars have problems keeping up with the tough emission regulations, so Blue Sky is a good name for a car," Wake said.

With a couple of exceptions, all of Toyota's cars begin with the letter "C."

The company's first passenger car was called "Crown" to mean it was the king of cars, and the second was named "Corona" after the circle of light around a luminous body such as the sun or the moon.

The two cars sold exceedingly well and the company, out of superstition, decided to stick with the "C."

hospitals has shrunk from 19 to 17 and there are plans to close two more next year. The Health and Hospitals Corp., a semi-autonomous city agency, chopped 6,800 hospital workers from the payroll, leaving 36,000 workers.

—Thirty-two public schools have been shut and average class size has gone up to more than 30 pupils.

—Corporate executives now occupy top city posts, replacing bureaucrats often blamed for the budgetary gimmicks that helped to create the years of deficits and finally destroyed the city's credit.

During the year of changes, Big Mac and other watchdogs have been pouncing on New York each time the city fails to meet one of its budget-cutting goals. The watchdogs include Gov. Hugh Carey; the state Emergency Financial Control Board; a state deputy comptroller, Sidney Schwartz, who monitors the city's cost-cutting progress for the control board, and last but far from least the U.S. Treasury and Congress.

The feds lent the city $1.26 billion through last June 30. An additional $2.17 billion is to be borrowed through June 1977, and $2.1 billion through June 1978, the end of the three-year plan. The borrowing scheme requires the city to repay the loans, with roughly 7 per cent interest, in the same year the money is borrowed, and before any other city debts are paid off. So far the repayments have been made to the federal government, but thousands of people who invested in city notes over the years aren't able to redeem them now. They've been told to wait.

LaVerne changed by shifting population trends

New face, new center of business

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A shifting trend in population that is redefining the center of La Verne is changing the commercial face of that community.

The city will lose the Alpha Beta supermarket next month, a downtown landmark for the past 20 years.

But it will gain a large new shopping center, centered around a K-Mart store, on Foothill Boulevard, east of the Marshall Canyon wash.

The demise of the market will be a blow to downtown merchants who have been trying for the past several years to keep the area rejuvenated and attractive to foot traffic as well as to shoppers south of Foothill Boulevard.

Alpha Beta is, by far, the largest store downtown. Its closing will leave a large number of specialty shops, restaurants and service stores without a major tenant.

Fred Cantrell, a spokesman for Acme Markets, the parent organization for Alpha Beta, confirmed today that the huge Southland chain will not pick up the lease which expires Dec. 31.

He said the market has now outlived its usefulness to the community. He pointed out that Alpha Beta built a larger, more modern store last year on Foothill Boulevard, and contended that Alpha Beta shoppers are well served by that store as well as by another one on Garey Avenue in Pomona, a half mile from the market that is closing down.

The center of the city, at least as far as merchants are concerned, is now Foothill Boulevard, and that is where the K-Mart complex is going.

Building permits for $1,600,000 have been issued for the construction of the complex, which includes not only an 83,906 square-foot K-Mart store, but also 12 satellite shops with a combined floor space of 21,800 square feet.

The new shopping center is located east of the former Cattlemen's Wharf — now known as the Dock of the Bay — and west of the extension of Benton Avenue. The 10½-acre site will include parking spaces for 773 cars.

Steven L. Davis of San Diego, one of the partners in La Verne Properties, the company which is building the complex for K-Mart and the other tenants, said construction is expected to be finished by next March and occupancy is targeted for May.

He said one of the smaller tenants will probably be a Baskins-Robbins ice cream shop. Ten other possible tenants are negotiating for the sites, according to Davis.

Although the building permit calls for a $1.6 million valuation, Davis said the actual worth of the project, including the land is well in excess of $2 million.

Davis said he is one of three partners in the company that is building the shopping center. The others are Equity K-Mart and Development Systems.

The shopping center will be the home of another of a series of chains which opened outlets along Foothill Boulevard during the past three years. Some of the other chains include Alpha Beta, Von's and Stater Bros.

In confirming the Alpha Beta expiration of the lease, Cantrell contended that the choice to continue tenancy was that of the supermarket.

Meanwhile, La Verne college has disclosed that it has been approached by Coldwell-Banker, a Los Angeles Realtor, regarding the possibility of converting the market and the paved premises to the use of the college.

Steve Morgan, the college's director of development, said the college was considering the offer to lease — and possibly to buy — the property. He said the college could use the building for more dormitory and office space.

"It is possible the building can be remodeled," he said. "The proposal will be presented to the monthly meeting of the college's executive committee next month."

Morgan denied reports that the supermarket building would be converted into the college's proposed new law center. He said tentative plans now call for the construction of the center in an area which lies between the present confines of the college and the supermarket.

Joint meeting slated

A joint hearing of the Pomona City Council and the Pomona Redevelopment Commission will be held Monday night to consider the plan for the proposed Mountain Meadows Redevelopment Project area.

The public hearing, held in conjunction with the regular City Council meeting at 8 p.m., will be open to all interested persons.

Mountain Meadows Redevelopment Project area as proposed includes most of the undeveloped portions of the Ganesha Hills east of Ganesha Boulevard.

The bulk of the land within the proposed project area is envisioned by city officials as an "executive housing" district, with homes in the $70,000 and higher range.

Also included in the proposed district is land north of the San Bernardino Freeway, which is zoned for commercial development and already has such businesses operating as Denny's, Lemon Tree Motel, Castaway Restaurant, and two service stations with the Pomona Valley Mining Co. Restaurant presently under construction.

Monday's public hearing would be the first of two leading to formal adoption of the project area.

The second hearing before the City Council is scheduled for Dec. 13.

Other agenda items for Monday's meeting include council adoption of the Human Resources Element to the city's General Plan, and proposed pay raises for Ron Kranzer, director of Public Works, Fire Chief John Fowlkes and Police Chief Richard Slaght.

ALL HEALTHY NOW

Mrs. Mary Wilson of Pomona holds daughter, Windy, 19 months, who plants a kiss on her sister, Crystal, 5 months, held by the oldest of the sisters, Misty, 5 years. All three girls weighed less than two pounds each at birth but all are healthy now.

Bright babes:

Doctor, mother care aids trio of premature infants

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

A Pomona mother who has just brought home her third premature child in five years knows that babies are worth their weight in gold.

The three babies, all girls, were born in 1971, 1975 and in May of this year and each weighed under two pounds at birth.

Their hospital bills for delivery and subsequent care during the first months of life totaled $221,700.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wilson of Pomona. The father served 22 years in the Navy so some of the bills were covered by insurance. Others were paid by Medicare and by the Crippled Children's Society, according to the mother.

Mrs. Wilson, 30, also has had 10 miscarriages.

"Some doctors have said I'm hyperactive, but there is no Rh factor or other medical reason which appears to cause the premature deliveries," reports the attractive, 105-pound mother.

All three of the girls are bright, alert and, at present, healthy babies.

But, at birth, none of them was given much of a chance for survival.

The youngest, Crystal Eve, was the most seriously affected at birth and has had the highest medical costs to date.

She was born May 19 at Park Avenue Hospital, Pomona, weighing just 1 pound, 15 ounces. The next day, the baby was taken by ambulance to Loma Linda University Medical Center. There, her weight dropped to 1 pound, 7 ounces, and she was diagnosed as having a congenital heart defect.

When she was just 10 weeks old, Crystal underwent open heart surgery.

She came home recently and now weighs almost 7 pounds at over five months. She is alert and responsive, but has some breathing problems at times. Her hospital bills totaled $160,000.

Windy April, now 19 months old and weighing 21 pounds, was born April 10, 1975, in Hemet. She weighed 1 pound, 11 ounces at birth. Her weight dropped to 1 pound, 1 ounce and she, too, was a patient at Loma Linda Hospital for four months.

Windy's hospitalization cost $52,000.

Mrs. Wilson says that many of the same nurses cared for Crystal and Windy.

The oldest of the daughters, Misty June, is now five years old and weighs a very normal 42 pounds.

She was born Jan. 24, 1971, at Anaheim General Hospital weighing 1 pound, 12 ounces. Her weight dropped to 1 pound, 3 ounces.

Misty was transferred to Children's Hospital in Orange County where she was a patient three months. The bill was $9,700, Mrs. Wilson reports.

Misty attends kindergarten at Hamilton School. Her teacher told the family Misty is a bright and well-behaved youngster.

"Three girls are a handful," reports the mother.

Before the babies were released from the hospital, Mrs. Wilson was instructed in feeding and caring for them by the nurses in the neonatal departments.

"But by the time I was to bring the third one home, the staff at Loma Linda Hospital decided I was already experienced in the care of premature infants," Mrs. Wilson says.

All three girls came home in the same dress. It's a doll-size pink and blue plaid dress which Mrs. Wilson made so it would be small enough for Misty.

"I am already worried over the fact that all three of them will want the dress when they grow up."

Mrs. Wilson says that, after having three such tiny daughters, she's become used to the comments from strangers about the petite youngsters.

"Misty has caught up with other girls her age, so I'm sure the other two will."

Mrs. Wilson does add that the girls have been somewhat slower in such physical feats as walking and crawling.

"We do not plan to have any more children, but are so grateful that the girls are not impaired either mentally or physically as a result of their early births and extensive hospitalizations," concludes Mrs. Wilson.

Pomona employes consider salaries

After a half-year of discussions, negotiations and arbitration, Pomona's miscellaneous employes will decide Monday whether to accept a two-year salary agreement offered by the city.

The proposed agreement, worked out between city and union representatives last week, would give city workers a $350 cash bonus for this year and a five per cent salary increase for next year (beginning July 1).

Student achievement high

Claremont reading scores listed

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Claremont students again have scored high in state tests in reading, written expression, spelling and mathematics, the local school board has learned.

Assistant Supt. Margaret Hodder has reported that in tests given the past school year to Claremont High School seniors, the 12th graders scored in the 96th percentile in the state in mathematics, in the 95th percentile in both reading and written expression, and in the 85th percentile in spelling.

The board also learned that seniors also did well in Scholatic Aptitude tests. Last year 243 seniors took the tests and scored on an average of 477 in verbal aptitude compared to 430 for California students and 431 nationally.

On the math portion, Claremont students' average scores were 511, compared to 470 for California and 472 nationally.

Second-graders were placed in the 70th percentile in the reading test, and third-graders made the 67th percentile when compared with other districts in the state.

Sixth-graders last year took the Survey of Basic Skills test developed specifially for the California Assessment Program, and were ranked in the 72nd percentile in reading, the 75th percentile in written expression, the 67th percentile in spelling and 75th percentile in math.

Mrs. Hodder said that an analysis of the test scores revealed that the highest scores were achieved by those pupils who spoke English fluently and also spoke a second language, if the second language was Chinese or Japanese.

The next highest scoring pupils were those who spoke English only.

High test scores also were associated with students whose parents are employed in the professions and with schools having a small number

CHECKING THE PLANS

The partially completed San Bernardino County branch office building in Ontario looms in background of picture as Supervisors Joseph Kamansky of Upland, left, and Robert Townsend of Chino check over plans for the structure. Kamansky, a new supervisor, got the "low-down" recently from Townsend.

Carter faces confrontation

Jimmy Carter struck pay dirt by arguing he had no Washington entanglements.

But senators and representatives do — and up to their necks. And it is on these men President Carter must depend if he is to keep his campaign promises. To wit:

Government reorganization, tax and welfare reform, programs to get industry moving and meaningful jobs programs other than frauds like the Humphrey - Hawkins bill.

It will be relatively simple for Mr. Carter and his team to prepare model laws and send them to Congress. But as surely as each is submitted, at least 50 senators and 100 congressmen will start working on exceptions favoring constituents or backers, promoting their own ideas of equity and efficiency or providing material for self-serving handouts.

Congressmen react much more strongly, of course, to pressures from home than they do to pressures from the White House. For it is clear to every man in the Congress that it is his district or state which elects him, and assures his returning for another term or going down to defeat. Few presidents have been much help in this regard. There are very few of next year's Congress who feel indebted to Mr. Carter for their seats.

Presidents come and presidents go. In each man's time there was feuding with Congress. For all his charm and national popularity, President Franklin Roosevelt in the end had to depend on the veto, as did Presidents Johnson, Truman, Kennedy, Nixon and Ford. Yet Johnson knew the ins and out of the Senate and its sources of power as have few men. Kennedy, Truman, Nixon and Ford were not neophytes. Being expert in the ways of Congress thus did not seem to help. Nor popularity. Nor charm.

President Eisenhower did relatively well because he had a Lyndon Johnson in the Senate. Though the two men were of different parties, Johnson was superb when he chose, in disregarding party lines. But, as noted above, when he gained the White House, President Johnson had no Senator Johnson to give him the help he badly needed.

And, as of today, there is no Senator Johnson in sight to rescue President-elect Carter.

Carter's term as governor of Georgia does not signal a happy time with the Congress. He used the veto strongly, lost out on some of the measures he most prized, reportedly because of an unwillingness to comprise.

The governor's relationship with the legislature was stormy. By the end of his term he was at odds with a large portion of the state legislature. There was nearly total conflict during his entire term.

Hopefully, Mr. Carter has learned from this experience.

Entrust elections to popular will

It happens every presidential election — at least every election that turns out to be a squeaker, or when there is a strong independent candidate in the running:

We hear renewed calls to junk the antiquated Electoral College system, but no sooner has the tumult died than we forget about it for another four years.

It has happened again this year, and once again the angels who watch over drunkards, small children and the United States have pulled us through.

Jimmy Carter received a comfortable plurality of the popular vote — 51 per cent to President Ford's 48 per cent. But a shift of as few as 4,000 votes in Ohio and Hawaii would have given the Electoral College Majority to Ford, even though Carter would still have had a majority of popular votes.

There have been a number of defenses of the Electoral College system.

One is that since a candidate takes all of a state's electoral votes even though he may have carried that state by only one more popular vote than his opponent, it gives the appearance of a greater mandate for the winner than is actually the case. This is said to confer some sort of psychological benefit by consoling those who voted for the loser.

It also gives small states a greater voice in the election process in proportion to their populations since each state has as many electors as it has senators and representatives. Small-state opposition to abolishing the Electoral College has, in fact, been the major reason why any number of proposed constitutional amendments have never gotten anywhere.

Three times in our history, however, a president has been elected with fewer popular votes than his opponent, and the possibility remains that someday a third-party candidate will win enough electoral votes to deny a majority to any candidate, throwing the election into the House of Representatives.

Ford should've spent more

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — It's the little things men slip up on that lose elections.

Just two days after the voting, a friend — a Democrat who has worked on budgeting and spending in the Defense Department for a succession of administrations — stopped by to say that in his mind President Ford's aides had the key to victory in their hands and blew it.

Like most recent presidents and many seasoned political observers my friend assumes that an economy moving briskly upward in the months before election guarantees a boost in the popular vote for the party in the White House and its candidate for president.

The Defense Department accounts, as this economist read them shortly before election day, listed a carry-over of uncommitted obligational authority of around $34 billion. In the interest of good business and planning, a carry-over on that date of around $18 billion would make good sense. That means, in his mind, that an additional $16 billion could have and should have been put out to contractors in the summer and early fall of 1976, both in the interests of good defense management and political clout.

The ripple effect of that added $16 billion spreading out into the economy would have given the recovery a strong boost in September and October. For companies receiving these promises would have, in turn, put out bids to a variety of firms — and would have promised jobs to many men and women.

Voters then would have marched to the polls with optimism for the future. And, my friend says, Mr. Ford would have been elected Nov. 2.

This economist, in retrospect, cannot understand why the Ford administration and Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld did not order these obligations put out. They were authorized by Congress. The original Ford-Rumsfeld schedule, adopted around 12 to 15 months ago, called for these funds to have been obligated before Oct. 1, the beginning of the 1977 fiscal year. It was in the interest of national defense and of prudent project management that these obligations be placed on schedule so that the programs they represented could move ahead according to plan. These obligations were, my friend assumes, not inflationary, as they were part of the obligation spending pattern approved by the scrupulously careful James Lynn at the President's Office of Management and the Budget.

This financial specialist is in a very good position to know how these things are done, having been a part of the Pentagon's speed - up - the - obligating - and spending moves in previous presidential elections, both under Democratic and Republican administrations.

He recalls before one election that he was ordered by the defense secretary to go through every major Defense spending program in detail and discover what programs were behind target in their obligating and spending of funds and which could be speeded up — and by what means.

He and his associates were ordered on another occasion to search high and low for every extra dollar which Defense could obligate or spend in the months preceding November.

On still another occasion he was in the office of the Pentagon's liaison officer with the White House, an attorney whose name is now well known politically, when a call came from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue asking for ways in which spending could be quickly, temporarily speeded — the call led to a hastily devised program for putting out funds.

Note: This obligational authority which President Ford did not take advantage of will be a nest egg for President-elect Carter to use to boost the economy when he and his men take over Jan. 20.

War on crime falters

WASHINGTON — A confidential study by the General Accounting Office (GAO) charges tersely that "the war on organized crime is faltering." The rackets continue to flourish across America, according to the study, despite federal attempts to crack down on the mob.

The study lays most of the blame on the federal strike forces, which spearhead the national effort to disrupt organized crime. The strike forces, states the study, "are not getting the job done."

At the same time, the strike forces have come under intensive fire inside the Justice Dept. Critics have accused of subverting the judicial processes and abusing their powers. In their zeal, some task forces have hounded and harassed suspects who couldn't be convicted.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard Thornburgh, the conscientious chief of the Justice Dept.'s criminal division, has had misgivings about the strike forces. He recently shut down the strike forces in St. Louis and New Orleans. He also put the New Jersey strike force under U.S. Attorney Jonathan Goldstein's jurisdiction.

Finally, Thornburgh removed the respected William Lynch as head of the organized crime section, which oversees the strike forces. Lynch was compelled to trade places with Kurt Muellenberg, who had been running the narcotics section.

These developments have sent shock waves reverberating through the organized crime section. Inside sources have told us that morale on the strike forces is at an all-time low. There is concern that more strike forces may be disbanded.

Muellenberg has paid quiet calls on several strike forces to allay the apprehension. He told us he would never have taken the job if he had thought Thornburgh was trying to kill the strike forces.

Yet the malaise remains. We interviewed several strike force investigators. Most complained about a lack of communication between Washington and the field. Others suspected the motives of those who are trying to curb the strike forces.

Some strike force prosecutors are thinking about leaving the Justice Dept. to go into private practice. Others have simply adopted a "wait and see" attitude.

At the last meeting, Thornburgh was not responsive to their complaints. The confidential GAO study also claims the fight against organized crime lacks organization and direction.

In a lengthy discussion with our associate Marc Smolonsky, Thornburgh conceded that organized crime is proliferating and that federal opposition should be better organized. But he challenged the GAO's auditing methods as a reliable measure of the Justice Dept.'s effectiveness in combating the mob.

He also blamed the American people for the growth of organized crime. It will "continue to flourish," he warned, "until the American citizenry chooses to withdraw its patronage from these multimillion-dollar sources of income, influence and power."

As evidence that the Justice Dept. is not soft on organized crime, he pointed out that six of the most powerful Mafia bosses from Brooklyn, Los Angeles, Montreal, New York City and St. Louis are now behind federal bars.

Thornburgh agreed, nevertheless, that the strike forces aren't focusing on the important organized crime cases as they should.

The other way to go

If you pay a retail price for your vacation you feel like a jerk, when you realize that others may be making the same trip on the same plane and staying at the same hotel for (ital) less than half (unital) what it costs you!

Corporations are learning that the best way to keep their salesmen in high gear is with a "carrot" instead of a "stick." And the "carrot" is a trip to the Bahamas for the salesman's (ital) wife (unital).

Promise a reward they can both share and she'll see to it that he keeps humping.

"Incentive travel" is now a half-billion dollar business.

Corporations schedule their conventions in exotic resorts and eligibility for attendance is dependent on sales performance.

Where the outstanding salesman used to get a trophy or a cash bonus or a diamond in his company lapel pin — now he is more likely to get to take his wife on a five-day holiday in Jamaica.

The motivators have learned that most everybody loves to travel. Its appeal is more nearly universal than any other extrinsic award. When you offer a man and his wife Acapulco or Las Vegas or Honolulu, you are offering them a "dream come true."

And more and more corporations are recognizing the significance of family involvement, family togetherness.

And the factor which brings these elaborate dreams within reach is the reduced costs which specialists in incentive travel can negotiate.

As a for-instance, Chicago-based International Travel Associates, Inc., is one of the biggest in the business.

ITA Vice President Howard Harvey says his office can send a "group" out of the country — to some place like Jamaica — with five nights in a high-priced Jamaican hotel, plus side trips and cocktail parties and meals and guides, for less than it costs you just for a first-class round-trip plane ticket from Chicago to the West Coast.

Incentive travel is a carefully computerized "shopping service" or "bargaining service" in behalf of the client which often negotiates group rates for less than half what the trip would cost otherwise. Sometimes much less.

For you or me to fly to Spain and stay six nights at a first-class hotel with meals would cost $1,533.

Our employer can send us in a group — first class to Spain, six nights in the hotel with meals and sightseeing side trips and a cocktail reception, fiesta and flamenco show and home again — for $672.

And most industries are able to recapture the cost of the exotic outing — and then some — through the increased incentive-generated sales.

Employers who use travel to inspire greater sales productivity report related sales increase of approximately 25 percent each of the past three years.

It makes the family which tries to vacation "on its own" realize what a "markup margin" we pay — while others enjoy the same quality transportation and accommodations often for less than half.

Just in jest

Never underestimate the ability of youngsters for putting two and two together and coming up with some rather pertinent conclusions. There was this bright young ten year old lad, for instance, who after puzzling over an "Adults Only" heading in a condominium housing project advertisement, turned to his mother and remarked:

"That must be like adult movies and TV programs recommended for adult viewing only. The things that go on there shouldn't be watched by children."

Senate turmoil

By EARL G. WATERS

Gathering to organize for a new two year legislative session, California's state senators will face an unusually tumultuous opening next month. This because of the inordinate turnover in membership which stripped that house of a substantial segment of its leadership.

It started last spring when Sen. George Moscone left to become mayor of San Francisco. Then Senators Clare Berryhill, Donald Grunsky, Joseph Kennick, Robert Stevens, Howard Way and James Whetmore announced their retirements. Next Sen. Anthony Beilenson declared for Congress and finally three senators, Randolph Collier, James Wedworth and Jack Schrade failed to win their reelection bids.

Those events have left the Senate with three vacancies on the Rules Committee and five in chairmanships of important standing committees. This has opened the door to a lot of infighting among not only the surviving members but involves the newly elected ones.

In former days such a change in membership, which although it didn't often happen in so large numbers, would have created hardly a problem at all. For until recent years the selection process for committee chairmanships, and membership too, was almost totally based upon seniority. A retiring chairman was replaced almost automatically by the next ranking member and usually without regard to party affiliation.

Seniority selection was a good system for it avoided the bitterness which developes among the members as they engage in free for alls to secure desired committee assignments. It also usually resulted in the most knowledgeable, by reason of their legislative service, being given the responsibility for leadership.

The 1966 court ordered reapportionment, stemming from the one-man, one-vote decision, resulted in the first inroads against seniority. The new Senate was all but overwhelmed by former Assemblymen who had won seats in the upper house. Having already gained legislative experience they were unwilling to start over earning seniority. A compromise was made whereby credit was given for their Assembly service. Today, however, scant attention is given to seniority. Absent that Republicans now being in the minority, are also given short shrift in the choosing of committee chairmen.

The first order of business will be to elect a President Pro Tem, something which the Democrats with 26 votes out of the 40, will do by themselves. The office has been held for the past six years by James Mills of San Diego. His reelection will depend upon his ability to satisfy a sufficient number of members in their ambitions for key posts.

That will be a difficult task since the assignments are made by the Rules Committee composed of four other members in addition to the President Pro Tem. These are selected in party caucus, two by the Democrats and two by the Republicans. There will be three vacancies on the committee by reason of retirements, two being Republicans. Mills' job will be to make certain the Democrats elect someone supportive of him and that, if they retain holdover Senator Nick Petris on the committee he too will back Mills' choices for the other committees.

That may depend upon Mills' ability to deliver the chairmanship of the Senate Finance Committee to Petris. At the moment Senator Al Alquist is claiming that post as in the bag for himself. Other committee chairmanships at stake are those of Agriculture and Waters Resources, Business and Professions, Public Employment and Retirement, and Transportation.

Complicating the whole problem is the desire of some members to play musical chairs, trading off what they have for something else. The whole thing promises a jolly party when the 1977-78 roll is called.

Dr. Miller

Paunchy bird usually bored

DEAR DR. MILLER: My sister's parakeet did nothing while he was alive but sit in his fancy cage and feed his fat face. He finally got so fat all over that he got what the doctor said was a big, fatty tumor on his chest, and finally he died. He wasn't really old enough. What can she do with a new, young bird to keep him from getting so fat? You can't make a bird stop eating when there's food in front of it all the time, so what do you do? — T.F.

DEAR T.F.: You provide your parakeet with optional activities. The more bored the bird (or any other species, for that matter), the more likely it is to seek solace in food. Furniture, from a mirror to a ladder, provides diversion, as does a bell or a swing. But such items should be clustered in one corner of the cage. The cage itself should not be fancy primarily, but should be a flight cage, one large enough to provide plenty of space for the budgie to engage in that vital and ultimately satisfying activity, exercise. Flight time can be encourage by placing the bird's food cup at the far end of the cage from his furniture.

DEAR DR. MILLER: In looking over my kitten, I've observed the membranes under the eyes and in the mouth are not rosy pink as you'd expect, but are pretty pale, actually. I suspect it's no great cause for concern because Zipper doesn't act at all ill, but I'm wondering if he could have anemia? Do cats get an iron deficient anemia, as people do? — E.G.

DEAR E.G.: Felines frequently develop anemia. Iron deficiency anemia can occur, particularly in kittens. There are, however, many forms of non-nutritional anemia in cats, and anemia is a common finding in many insidious, deadly feline diseases. Even though your kitten appears otherwise healthy, it would be a mistake to assume this is a nutritional problem and try to treat it with a vitamin pill. A cat obviously anemic to an owner is usually showing advanced blood changes, and an early checkup is vital even though your cat appears healthy otherwise. Remember, cats and birds are particularly prone to adjust to, and thereby cover up, a slowly developing illness until it reaches an advanced state where treatment is more difficult or impossible.

Ann Landers

Dream could be nightmare

Dear Ann Landers: Jeff and I are in love. I've always dreamed of being married in a church with family and friends present. Jeff says it's a lot of garbage. He claims wedding ceremonies and marriage licenses are gimmicks somebody dreamed up to stimulate the economy. He says a priest is just another person and his words aren't any holier than a bus driver's.

Jeff wants us to drive out to the country, find a quiet spot, get on our knees and ask God to marry us. He says if we are married in our hearts that's enough.

It makes sense when I listen to him, but after he leaves I feel uneasy. What is wrong with his reasoning? Please help me think straight. — A Dreamer

Dear Dreamer: Whose last name are you going to use after you marry yourselves? And what does Jeff plan to do if there are children?

A man who says he doesn't need a marriage license or a priest or "any of that garbage" sounds like a swift character who wants the benefits of marriage without any of the responsibilities. Wake up, Little Dreamer, before your dream turns into a nightmare.

Dear Ann: The Citizens of Beloit and Janesville, Wis., decided to do something when it became known that nearly $8nillion worth of merchandise wa being shoplifted annually in thesewo cities.

They implemted a program called STEM hoplifters Take Everybody's Mey), purchased from the Metrolitan Milwaukee Association of ommerce, which holds statewide ghts.

The idea behinthe program is to hammer home e fact that the public has to payr stolen merchandise throughigher prices. Therefore, it is everybody's advantage to curb oplifting.

STEM relies ocooperation from local media to dever public service messages direed primarily at teenagers who e responsible for the majority of e thefts.

Local stores ill display STEM signs and decalsncrease security, and pledge t prosecute all shoplifters. Broures will be distributed to studen from elementary school through hh school. Parents will also receiverochures.

A poll reveal that shoplifting arrests declined per cent in communities enrolle in the program. These communes included Eau Claire, Fond dLac, La Crosse, Oshkosh, Stevenpoint and Wausau.

Thought you ight like to know what's happenin around your old stamping grou Ann. — R.B., Janesville Gazette

Dear R.B.: Thanks for the bulletin. It sounds very promising. If anyone is interested in learning more about STEM, DON'T write to me. Please contact the Metropolitan Milwaukee Association of Commerce, 828 N. Broadway, Milwaukee, Wis. 53202.

Dear Ann: My husband died five months ago. We had 24 years together — most of them bad. Joe had a violent temper and I bought more beefsteak for my eyes than for the table. Once he knocked out four front teeth.

A fine widower at work has asked me out to dinner. Joe's mother says I should accept no dates until the year of mourning is over. Is she right? — Undecided

Dear Un: She's wrong. Don't look at the calendar. Listen to your heart. For some a year isn't long enough — for others a few weeks is ample. Go — and order beefsteak. It'll be nice to eat one for a change.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Lander's booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Cars fail before payments end

I don't pretend to be any great shakes on the economy, but when I read that car loans are being extended to 48 months, a shiver went up and down my spine.

For years now, Americans have been running out of car before they ran out of payments. Back in the '40s you were pushing your luck to sustain four wheels through 24 months. Then in the '50s someone decided to extend the payments over a 36-month period. (We paid on our babies that long — but at least they ran.)

What we're dealing with here is Detroit's Law: "If God had meant for you to ride around in a car, He'd have recalled your feet!"

When a car comes off the assembly line, someone stamps an expiration date somewhere under the hood. It is no coincidence that the date is one day after the warranty on everything expires. The ca has no interest whatsoever inyour personal problems. It donot care if your three-year-old to in . . . that you became pregnar two days before your health insunce went into effect . . . that y have a sudsing problem in your ont yard just over your septic tank When it is time to go, the car simp coughs and dies.

For you Futurshock fans, the 48-month loan mearthat in another ten years you could nceivably be paying for a car tt you don't even remember.

"Hey what's ts bill for $73.94?"

"It's the car pment," I answer.

"What car?"

"You rememb. The brown station wagon with e wood on it. Don't you have the noton it in the budget book?"

"This one?" asks, plucking a piece of paper out of the drawer. "It says, 'See Transmission.' "

"Here's another reminder on that car. It says, 'See Battery.' "

"I sure wish I could remember the car," he mumbles.

"I know you'd remember if you saw it again. We had it when the kids were small and there was a big space in the back where we used to carry all kinds of junk — playpens, strollers, toys."

"Yeah . . . yeah . . . I think I've locked in a picture. It was a four-door and was a real engineering bow-wow."

Just then our son comes in to borrow the car keys for the current car. As we walk to the driveway with him, my husband gestures to the five clunkers parked there.

"Just think, son, someday all of this will be yours."

Uric acid is ause of gout

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have always thought that gout was caused by eating too much meat. Is it just as important to avoid other proteins? Should salicyclates such as aspirin be avoided while taking Colbenamide for control? Is baking soda of any value in reducing uric acid in the blood?

DEAR READER — Eating protein foods including meat does not cause gout. That is a common misconception. It is caused by an overproduction of uric acid by your own cells, not by what you eat. A high uric acid level in the blood may lead to acute attacks of gout or a slower more insidious change causing gouty arthritis.

Today we have three types of medicines used to treat gout. One of these is used to relieve the acute painful attack, colchicine — and we have used it for ages. Other medicines are used to increase the filtration of excess uric acid out of the body through the kidneys. The medicine you are taking is a combination of these two. The third medicine, allopurinol (Zyloprim) acts at the cellular level to prevent your own cells from producing too much uric acid.

The combinations of these medicines have made diets in the control of gout almost obsolete. They have also completely changed the outlook for patients with gout as long as they follow their doctor's treatment plan.

Because heartlisease is a common complicatn of gout I do believe that goupatients should be on a diet low int and cholesterol and limited suffiently in calories to eliminate or prent obesity. Avoid crash weight ling efforts. This often breaks dn body cells and releases excess aounts of uric acid and can cause acute painful attack of gout.

Salicyclates ha a variable effect on uric acid dending upon how much you take.t one time they were used to elinate uric acid but they are not us for that purpose anymore. If a son with gout is controlled by a sisfactory medical program taking pirin for ordinary aches or pains l not be harmful. Aspirin should be used with an acute painful attack of gout. Aspirin has often been implicated in causing acute attacks of gout but I don't think you need worry about that if you are taking medicine to control gout as in your case.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-3, Gout, Uric Acid, to give you more information on the problem. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Some doctors do try to keep the urine alkaline when they are giving medicines to flush out lots of uric acid. Sodium bicarbonate is sometimes used for this purpose. I do not think regular use of sodium bicarbonate for any purpose is advisable. You can avoid this problem by using medicines such as Zyloprim that prevents the overproduction of uric acid in the first place.

The medicine you are taking does enhance flushing uric acid out of the body through the kidneys. To help you protect your kidneys and avoid any increased chance of kidney stones I do think you should drink plenty of fluids. Drink enough to insure a generous flow of urine that appears light in color, meaning it is dilute. The amount of urine you pass is the proper indication of whether or not you are getting enough fluids.

Three top prescriptions

I have three prescriptions for handling irritability and tension that have really helped me:

First, a verse from Psalm 37: "Fret not thyself because of problem people. Trust in the Lord and do good."

Second, a wise parable: A crabby old woman was making a loud scene on a Chicago buAs she was getting off, a gentlema in the back said, "Oh, just a mine, madam, you left something bed." She asked, "What?" The kly fellow said, "A very bad impsion." Positively stated: Every itation is an opportunity to leave bind a good impression!

Third, a possiity thought: Every irritation is an invitation to an elevation. Which means when you're irritated, you are faced with an opportunity to rise higher and become a bigger person!

Irritated or tense? It's a chance to demonstrate real patience, tolerance and understanding in a world that seldom sees God's love in action.

Homework aid via telephone

That Lions Club in Richmond, Ind., has pulled off a nifty wrinkle. It's paying some junior high and high school teacher plus several Honor Society students to stand by the telephone in the evening. Thereabouts then other youngsters, who are having trouble with their homework, can call for help. This scholarly project is known as the "Hotline for Homework." And observers say it's expected to boost report card grades considerably.

Still, employment rolls show that Monday is the day when most cases of common cold and food poisoning are reported.

NUTS

Among the tree nuts — peanuts don't count here, no matter who's president — walnuts are the most popular nationwide. Then come almonds, pecans, filberts and macadamia nuts, in that order. Cashew nuts belong to the same plant family as poison ivy, but I doubt that's why they don't rank in the top five.

And about that poison ivy, note it stated in print that all infants are immune to it, that few children under 5 are susceptible to its rash, but that with repeated exposures, they become more and more likely to react as they age.

You've heard of the historical "message to Garcia" during the Spanish American War. But what do you know of the man who delivered it? Possibly more than did the officers who assigned him the job. Army Lt. Andres S. Rowan had written a book about Cuba. That's why he was picked to undertake the sticky task of taking that note behind the Spanish lines to the Cuban General Carcia. What his military bosses didn't realize until much later was that Rowan had never been to Cuba.

Glad you asked

Q: I heard that a former TV Mouseketeer recently posed for a nude photo layout in a magazine. Who was it? — Mrs. Estelle K., Pittsburgh.

A: She was Doreen Tracey. "We all seemed such good-goodies in the Mickey Mouse Club days," she told writer Jerry Bowles. Both she and Annette Funicello were forced to wear "figure supressors" as they got older.

"When Annette and I were about 14 they used to make us wear those bloody T-shirts under our mouse sweaters so that we would be flattened down," Doreen revealed. "We were both very big-chested, really topheavy for our age. We used to slash the T-shirts down the middle so more would stick through.

"Anyway, we were walking down the studio lot one day and we passed Disney and a couple of other guys. One of them said, 'Look, aren't the girls growing up?' And Walt said, 'Girls? They're more for the fathers than the kids in the audience!'"

(Footnote: Doreen Tracey married, had a son, got divorced and has been working in the record business in Los Angeles for the past several years. With the exposure her five-page nude layout is generating, the former "child" actress is developing a nightclub act and embarking on a college lecture tour.)

Thought for Today: It must be some solace to a man just elected President of the United States to realize he's working for a non-profit organization.

Q: Though my doctor assures me I've been cured of cancer, I now find people afraid to hire me. Are many other post-cancer patients running into the same problem? — R.G.T., Syracuse, N.Y.

A: Yes. According to a recent study (made for the California chapter of the American Cancer Society), 22 per cent had been denied jobs because they'd been treated for cancer. Another 19 per cent said their working conditions or salaries had been adversely affected. At least 39 per cent feared future discrimination; 25 per cent said they were the targets of negative attitudes or job discrimination; and 29 per cent were no longer working for their previous employers.

Q: Isn't Evel Knievel a women's lib champion? — Ms. Florence R., Richmond, Va.

A: If so, he'll have a time hurdling over this stack of words: "Women were put here for three reasons — to get into bed, to get up and fix something to eat and to get back into bed again!"

Q: Is Mickey Mantle a good story teller? — L. Victor, Phoenix, Ariz.

A: Yes. One of his favorites concerns an especially rough airplane trip the Yankees once took. "We flew through the worst storm," the Mick related. "The plane was jumping all around. Out came the air sickness bags and the prayer beads. Guys were crying and screaming. All of a sudden, catcher Jesse Gonder yells: 'Let me out, let me out. I want to get off this plane right now!' Another passenger says: 'You can't do that here, we're flying over Lake Michigan.' 'I don't give a damn,' Gonder replies, 'I can swim but I can't fly!'"

Murder mystery adds to loss

Jerry was only one of 20,510 persons murdered during 1975

By MIKE SULLIVAN
For the Associated Press

There were 20,510 persons murdered in the United States in 1975, according to "Crime in the United States," the FBI's annual report.

Three out of every four homicide victims were male and 51 per cent of the males were white. The age group with the largest number of victims was 20 to 24, with 2,934 killed.

If you search through the voluminous report, you will learn that there were six homicides in rural Mendocino County, California, in 1975.

These are all statistics, lacking flesh and blood.

All but one.

One of these 20,510 murder victims, one of these 2,934 between the ages of 20 and 24, one of the six killed in Mendocino County was Jerry Sullivan, 20.

Who was Jerry Sullivan?

Jerry Sullivan was my son.

Jerry was born and raised in Howard Beach, a community on the shores of Jamaica Bay, hard by Kennedy Airport in New York City.

He was the youngest of four brothers and, when still a toddler, he tagged along with me to watch his older brothers play baseball. Jerry caught on fast and later became a good ballplayer himself.

Jerry went to Our Lady of Grace School in Howard Beach and to Bishop Loughlin High School in Brooklyn. Growing up, he played on many Catholic Youth Organization baseball and basketball teams. He soon earned the reputation of being a team player

Jerry was extremely modest and was embarrassed by praise. A few nights before he graduated, he told me he had to go back to school for something. When he came home, the trophy he carried was a little too big to sneak up to his room unseen. A little plate on it read "MVP — 1973 Jerry Sullivan:"

One summer, Jerry and a few friends rode their bicycles from Howard Beach to Cooperstown, N.Y., on the western slope of the Catskills to visit the Baseball Hall of Fame. The trip over the mountains wasn't easy for boys accustomed to the flat, sea-level terrain of Long Island.

Jerry had the usual afterschool and summer jobs. He worked in a local drugstore; he was a busboy in a small Italian restaurant. He saved his money and wanted to ride his bicycle across the country the summer after he graduated from high school. Jerry couldn't get anyone to go with him, and I refused to let him make the 3,000 mile trip alone. I was afraid that something might happen to him on the road.

Jerry's disappointment was assuaged when I gave him permission to go to a small college, Dana, in Blair, Neb. He worked hard that summer and saved his money to help pay his college expenses.

But Jerry stayed in college only six weeks. He came home and told me he'd had enough of school and wanted to work with his hands.

He had several run-of-the-mill jobs and then, one day, in the spring of 1974, Jerry took off. He left us a note and told us not to worry ... "we were only a telephone call away." He promised to keep in touch with us and he did. A few days later we got a note from him from Hazleton, Pa., where he visited a college friend at Penn State. A few days after that a letter arrived from Blair, Neb., where he had stopped to see his Dana friends.

Hitchhiking and riding buses, Jerry made his way across the country and landed a job on the Dwyer ranch in Murrieta, 40 miles north of San Diego in southern California. Austin Dwyer, the owner of the ranch, breeds and boards thoroughbred racehorses.

Jerry took to the ranch work as if born to it. He worked hard six days a week and loved it. He learned to ride and acquired a dog and a horse of his own. Dwyer said Jerry never complained about the laborious, unglamorous parts of the job — moving irrigation pipes, lifting heavy bales, and the like. Both Dwyer and Tiofilo Lopez, the ranch foreman, were amazed at the speed with which Jerry, a city boy, picked up the work of the ranch and the affinity he had for the horses.

Jerry worked on the ranch for a year and came home on vacation in June 1975. Working in the southern California sun, he had lost weight but he had never looked better in his life. He was slim, tanned, strong. His friends were delighted to see him and I think they had a party for him every night. Jerry had a ball.

He returned to California on June 23, 1975. I last saw him at Kennedy Airport as he was about to board a flight for San Diego. We shook hands warmly and Jerry said, "Thanks a lot for everything, Dad."

Some time in August, 1975, Jerry broke his leg. It was put in a cast from his ankle to his hip and he had to use crutches to get around.

Jerry tired of hanging around the ranch, unable to work. A horse that he had taken care of in the spring was due to run on Sept. 10 at Bay Meadows, a race track near San Francisco 450 miles to the north.

The people at the ranch tried to dissuade him, but Jerry hitchhiked up to Bay Meadows to watch the horse run. The owner of the horse was surprised to see Jerry in the barn area, took him to dinner and offered to drive him back to the ranch.

Jerry told the man that people had been good to him on his trip up from Murrieta and, as long as he was unable to work, he'd continue hitchhiking to see what Oregon looked like. The trainer let Jerry sleep in the barn that night and Jerry told him he'd be back the following Wednesday to see the horse run again.

Jerry left the track alone early on Thursday, Sept. 11, 1975. Somewhere along the road, another hitchhiker, a man in his 20s with shoulder length hair, joined him. Four persons have been found who gave the two of them rides to Navarro, about 100 miles farther north.

Jerry was last seen alive in Navarro with the other hitchhiker about 7:30 p.m.

His body was found in a stand of redwoods near Navarro on Tuesday, Sept. 16 by an elderly man taking a shortcut through the woods.

Jerry had been shot through the head with a .38 caliber gun. His body was half-in, half-out of a sleeping bag. His wallet and meager possessions were missing. His crutches stood against a tree. He had been dead at least four days.

Jerry was identified the next day by the thumbprint on his California driver's license application on file in Sacramento. That evening, two New York policemen came to my house and told my wife and me that Jerry was the victim of a homicide in California.

Detective Sgt. Ralph Maize of the Mendocino Sheriff's Department in Ukiah, Calif., has been working on the case for more than a year. Lead after lead has taken him nowhere, but he remains hopeful that the murder will not go unsolved.

"We are still looking for Jerry's companion ... I think we'll be able to find the guy. I have to think that. Every day I go out, I think something will come up."

DILIGENT SEARCH — etective Sgt. Ralph Maize of the Mendocino, Calif., County Sheriff's Office goes through the fis on Jerry Sullivan, found dead on Sept. 16, 175, near Navarro. He has followed hundreds of ads in an attempt to find out who shot and ked the 20-year-old Sullivan.

Scientists seek reading lessons

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Scientists at Yale University are trying to teach a computer to read so that ultimately they may be able to produce computers that can read whatever people can.

The research is based on work done by Roger Schank, a computer scientist who has been a pioneer in producing computers that are able to deal with everyday language instead of special programming language.

"I'm basically working on the study of human thinking," says Schank, a Yale professor who heads the Artificial Intelligence computer project.

He hopes that by producing a computer that can read, he will be able to obtain a better understanding of the human reading process.

Shipwreck, gold coins a dreamfind for school boy

COPENHAGEN (AP) — It was every schoolboy's dream come true. A sandy beach and a wrecked ship — packed with gold coins.

A Danish schoolboy, Jesper Egersoe, 16, found the ship — not on some palm-fringed coral strand, but right at home in Denmark.

His find won the amateur archeologist local fame and a reward.

Jesper found the remains of a 14th-century trading vessel in the water near his family's summer cottage on the west coast of the island of Zealand while diving with a simple mask and snorkel. In the summer of 1975 he fished up an antique pewter plate, which he sent to the Danish National Museum. This summer he made the big catch — 94 gold coins.

To keep away vandals, Jesper kept his find a secret, except for telling his parents and the National Museum, which sent professional searchers to the spot. They found a further 16 coins, pewter plates, part of a bronze cooking pot, sailcloth and some textiles.

There were remains of animal bones, possibly from the last meal for the crew before the ship foundered on the Danish coast near the Skaggerak. It was probably on its way to the Baltic for trading.

Archeologists identified the coins as English nobles minted in the reign of Edward III (1327-77). There were 74 nobles, 30 halves and four quarters. None was from the time of Edward's successor, Richard II, making the wreck at least 600 years old. There was one gold gulden from Luebeck, Germany and a silver coin from Flanders, Belgium.

At the time they were minted the gold nobles would have bought 450 cows — a fortune for those times. Experts valued the coins at present day prices at about $100,000.

Claremont reading scores

of students who receive Aid to Families With Dependent Children.

Schools with less mobile pupil populations were likely to have higher scores than those with many transient pupils.

In the physical performance tests mandated by the state, fifth-grade girls excelled over the boys in standing long jump, knee bent sit-up, chair push-up, side step, pull-up and jog-walk.

In the seventh grade, the competition was more even, but in grade 10 at Claremont High, the girls outpointed the boys in all events.

Mrs. Hodder said that it is not possible to get individual student results because each student gets only a portion of the entire test — 25 questions out of a matrix of 235 questions.

Parent William Schertz told the board he is pleased to see that Claremont High students scored better than those in other parts of the state.

But Schertz stressed that some students with A averages are shocked when they find themselves in the 60th percentile.

"We should compare grade point average with SAT scores," Schertz said. "We should do more random sampling."

Schertz said that parents should be better informed about the testing.

"Tests are being more and more given nationally," he said. "Life is competition."

Pod house:

Sunken tub, furlined walls adorn opulent future home

PORT ARANSAS, Tex. (AP) — A showplace vacation retreat off the shore of Corpus Christi was built in 1966 but is still a tourist attraction.

The opulent house, two blocks from the Port Aransas beach, consists of three interlocking hexagons of concrete with steel framework. Each unit is supported entirely by a single column and raised from 15 to 30 feet above the ground.

Current owner John Hada calls it The Pod.

The design for The Pod came from Texas architect Joe L. Williams, who first used the "pod" concept in building construction in 1964. Williams says his pod houses are ideal for the beach because the problem of shifting earth is eliminated — the column that holds the pod erect extends 20 feet into the ground.

A number of other pod houses can be seen in the Texas Gulf Coast Padre Island-Port Aransas area near Corpus Christi but none is as elaborate as The Pod, according to Hada. It was decorated by Geneva Southern, president of an interior specialties store and a friend and associate of the original owner of The Pod, Louis L. Seiffert Jr.

Ceilings in the 4,394 square feet of living space offer a day-and-night spectacle. The "cave" ceiling is paved with fake stalactites and chunks of mica, and a canopy of lights illuminates the cave with eerie colors at night.

There is a cobalt blue bedroom with a round, king-size bed with a tufted velvet semicircular headboard.

Another bedroom has a hexagonal "floor" bed with a black fur coverlet. One entire wall serves as its headboard, carpeted in purple with a black Oriental tree sculpted in wool and reaching to the ceiling of black fur with "stars" that wink lazily through the night.

John and Patsy Hada bought The Pod four years ago and lived there for six months. John rode the ferry across the Gulf and drove into his Corpus Christi office every morning and Patsy did her homemaking chores.

"You don't worry about how to clean fur-covered walls and cabinets encrusted with gemstones — you just make a stab at it," says Mrs. Hada, who adds that owning the house has been "a ball." Now the couple visits The Pod only occasionally, but enjoys lending it to customers and friends for holiday retreats and parties.

Hada, a geologist and president of Peninsula Corp., an oil and gas exploration and production company, can name the different rocks used in building and decorating the beach house, from quartz to pink slag to natural river rocks.

The pool, which dominates the front view of The Pod, twists and curves and is banked with river rocks. In the eight-foot depths swimmers dart in and around a bridge and curving stairs that rise out of the water. Youngsters and sunbathers splash in the shallows, which contain a lighted fountain, or lounge on the broad terrace with a built-in bar and grill.

The backyard is terraced and planted with tropical plants and flowers around a reflection pool approximately 800 square feet. Clay pots in the shallow water contain miniature palms and other land plants. The reflection pool provides a Fourth of July show in the evenings, when a fountain with hundreds of spigots sprays water through lights of green, purple, red and gold in an ever-changing pattern.

Hexagon 1 of The Pod has a 20-foot potted palm at its front door and a circular bar-kitchen, and Hexagon 2 has a hexagonal marble tub on a pedestal and electrically operated drapes.

Take a tour of Hexagon 3:

Thirty feet up a winding staircase you enter through a door that is a sunburst of color (chips of mosaic tile embedded in lucite) onto a gold carpet sculpted with fantasy-size leaves of lime, red and forest green. Down two steps of river rock and you enter a cave of Tiki furnishings, carpeted walls, and a blue-violet floor covering, appliqued with multicolored hexagons.

Gray "stalactites" hang overhead amid artfully placed crystal rocks, which become colored with the flick of a switch.

A mantel of volcanic rock above a freestanding contemporary fireplace has a lily pond with running water instead of a conventional hearth.

A golden swag of 22 glass globes the size of bowling balls hangs above the heavy carved wooden Tiki dining table. Tall chair backs completely obscure the diners and a four-foot-tall Tiki god watches from a corner of purple-lighted mica.

Kitchen counter tops are in bronze mosaic tile.

Blind worker in IRS

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Roger Jeanfaivre can pick his way through Internal Revenue Service "red tape" so well that few people who do business with him by telephone know he is blind.

For a long time his dream had been to become a radio disc jockey.

Seven years ago he found it was difficult for a blind man to land a job spinning records. So, after graduating from college, he went to a Lions Club school and learned the tax trade.

"I thought I couldn't spend the rest of my life looking for employment, so I might as well give this a chance," he said.

Shortly after, he went to work for IRS. The tools of his trade are a telephone, a typewriter, a calculator and service manuals. They're the same as those of co-workers, with some differences. His books are in braille and he uses a braille typewriter.

Jeanfaivre's sight has diminished since birth and now he can only distinguish light variations. Outside his job Jeanfaivre, 29, also keeps busy. He enjoys records and using a ham radio.

Jeanfaivre is a popular figure at the IRS office. "He's a fantastic worker," said a colleague.

His future with the IRS seems assured, although he will probably have to go back to school to win a higher position. He has already achieved the top grade in his current slot.

"I guess I was destined to work for the IRS," notes Jeanfaivre, explaining his birthday falls on April 15 — tax filing day.

At the height of the tax filing season there are 32 service representatives answering queries that pour into the Hartford office. Jeanfaivre is one of 10 handicapped or disabled persons working there.

When Jeanfaivre started work in the office he was the youngest service representative and the only male.

The most exotic piece of equipment used by Jeanfaivre is a "talking" calculator. It sends out electronic impulses in a husky, human-like voice as he operates the machine.

"I understand they make them with female voices," said Jeanfaivre with a smile.

Alternative education

Center seeks to educate 'whole person

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — Under the guidance of professors who have abandoned traditional education methods and accepted massive salary cuts, a small experimental college here in northern Arizona is offering tailor-made education as an alternative to the conventional four-year college. The Prescott Center for Alternative Education espouses an active, innovative education based on experience instead of textbooks and lectures, according to James Stuckey, the center's president, who is also the fund raising director, communications coordinator, psychology professor and mountaineering coach.

"It's the education of the whole person — emotionally and intellectually," he explains. "There are no spoon-fed lectures, 'textbook answers' or perfunctory examinations. For the student without goals, the student who has learned only how to play test-passing games, the Prescott Center experience can be completely unnerving."

There are no institutionalized requirements, Stuckey explains, but rather individualized requirements giving students expertise in their fields. "Students actually sign a contract we call it a proposal drawn up by the student in collaboration with faculty and upperclassmen in that field. In the beginning, research projects, specific courses, reading assignments and working experiences are tailored to the student. Later, the student recommends his own projects, shouldering the responsibility for learning.

The center calls this "self-direction" and, beyond an intellectual education, it is a primary goal, Stuckey says.

To meet the center's mandatory graduation requirements of "self-direction" and "professional competence," upperclassmen increasingly use the professional world as a classroom. Students can be found working in veterinary hospitals, at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, organizing wilderness programs for juvenile delinquents and conducting wildlife surveys under contracts from the Bureau of Land Management.

As the student develops emotionally and professionally — a judgment made by the faculty — tuition decreases on the theory that "self-directed" students demand less of the center.

Prescott Center is a college without time requirements, Stuckey explains. "If after six years a student cannot give proof of professional competence with resumes, portfolios, working experiences, outside activities of job offers, for example, the center will not graduate him. If it can be done in less than four years, that's fine."

Orientation here is a three-week wilderness immersion, including a three-day "solo" without a supply of food, "designed to prepare students emotionally for the higher education experience," says Stuckey. "Using the wilderness as a classroom, students develop the same techniques for survival and self-reliance they will need to survive in the professional world."

And in the field of survival techniques, the center can justifiably claim expertise: as a direct extension of the now defunct Prescott College, it survived a financial disaster.

The center's predecessor had been described as everything from "a wild West dude ranch" to a first-rate academic institution. Students from around the country were attracted by innovations that had established the 10-year-old liberal arts college among academia's upper echelons. But as the recession accelerated, declining endowments spelled disaster for the overbuilt college.

"Within 24 hours of Prescott College's demise, a handful of students and professors began the task of rebuilding a college using the techniques for survival and self-reliance the school had taught," Stuckey recalls. "Professors agreed to massive salary cuts and a curriculum was devised so the institution could function on the basis of student fees."

Operating in the cramped basement of a 48-year-old hotel, the school began its first semester as scheduled while the $6-million campus lay abandoned. Through a grant from the Max C. Fleischmann Foundation, the center recently made a down payment on a new campus: the somewhat dilapidated former Mercy Hospital, currently being renovated by students and faculty. Ironically, the Prescott College campus is still deserted, held in limbo by the bankruptcy courts.

Recruiting with a nickel-and-dime budget, the center has an enrollment this semester of 100, nearly 25 per cent of its predecessor's maximum enrollment. And beginning its second year offering courses like White Water Rafting, Ecology of Diets, Psychology and Personal Growth and Religious Experience and the Environment, the center is operating in the black.

"The innovations for which Prescott College was famous," Stuckey says, "were purified and strengthened through the closing of the college and the center's opening."

To underscore his claim, Stuckey points to last year's graduates — 100 per cent were employed in their respective fields at graduation.

Though the center itself does not offer a degree, it offers students a recognized under-graduate degree through an affiliation with Johnston College, an experimental branch of the University of Redlands.

Opening lead — K ♦

South ducks the first two diamond leads, but wins the third one. East discards a low spade.

South can count to seven top tricks. He has to look to the club suit to bring home the game.

If he starts on the clubs by playing ace and then a low one West will play the queen on that second lead and South's contract will have gone to that place from which there is no return.

A smart South realizes this possibility and starts the club suit by leading a small one.

At this point in time if West simply plays low South plays dummy's 10 and four notrump will wheel in.

A very smart West can counter South's play by putting his queen of clubs on that first club. South can't afford to let it hold since West will promptly cash two diamonds.

His only real hope to make his game will be to rise with dummy's king, lead back to his ace and hope against hope that West has been dealt the doubleton queen-jack of clubs. This play effectively kills any entry South has to dummy.

Irrigation makes gardens, revives 'Dead Sea' area

By JOEL EPSTEIN

THE DEAD SEA, Israel (AP) — In the searing salt earth of a land cursed by God, Israelis are growing a garden of dates, mangoes and vegetables.

They are doing it with the help of an Israeli-developed system of trickle irrigation that conserves recious water supplies.

"When we came to settle the Dead Sea area 20 years ago, government officials didn't believe anyone could live here," says Dany Afik, secretary of Kibbutz Ein Gedi. "It was so desolate even the Bedouin desert nomads didn't pitch their tents here."

Today Ein Gedi is a thriving community of about 520 people living in two-story houses surrounded by grass and flowers. Most of them work in kibbutz-owned tourist industries, but 25 per cent of the kibbutz income comes from a 95-acre farm.

Beyond the borders of their cultivated enclave lies the forbidding wilderness of the Dead Sea, at 1,300 feet below sea level the lowest point on earth. Yellow cliffs, devoid of vegetation, drop to the salt-encrusted basin of the sea, whose water is so salty no fish can live in it.

Nearby lie the ruins of ancient Sodom, the sin city which the Bible says God destroyed with a rain of fire in the time of Abraham.

Trickle irrigation, developed at the kibbutz over the past 15 years, keeps Ein Gedi's fields constantly moist with a steady drip of water. The system has become a leading method of watering arid areas around the world.

Thin plastic irrigation pipes drip about two quarts of water every hour through pinholes placed 20 inches apart. The drippers work day and night.

"Our system is fully automated," said Afik. "We deliver insecticides, fertilizer and water through the same pipe."

The kibbutz draws its water from nearby springs that feed rich desert oasis in mountain clefts. When the kibbutz was founded the springs supplied more than enough water, but now increased settlement in the region has forced everyone to cut down.

"With an ordinary sprinkler irrigation system in this heat, we lost up to 6,400 gallons a day in evaporation on every acre of land," said Afik. "We also watered large areas between plants that don't need irrigating."

"With drip irrigation, we lose almost nothing to evaporation, and we water only the ground around the plant."

Thanksgiving:

Many traditions changed, but harvest spirit same

EDITOR'S NOTE: It was Sarah Hale, a magazine editor, who agitated for a national Thanksgiving Day holiday, and got it in 1863.

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

A lot of old traditions have died out. Even Thanksgiving has changed. It used to be that the people of the New World beheaded a young girl to mark the occasion. You just don't see that sort of sacrifice anymore.

Of course that particular custom was peculiar to the Indians, not the Pilgrims. Mexican Aztecs offered a damsel to the corn goddess Xilonen. A similar practice was common among the Pawnee, while other North American Indians used a corn dance to celebrate the harvest.

It just goes to show that the modern picture of Thanksgiving — religious refugees in somber costumes offering thanks for a skin-of-the-teeth existence — is a little out of focus.

The Pilgrims weren't even the first English settlers on this side of the Atlantic to have a Thanksgiving.

As harvest festivals, Thanksgivings stretch back to the ancients of Egypt, Syria, Mesopotamia and Rome. Such celebrations survived in medieval Germany, France, Holland and England as the Roman Catholic Feast of St. Martin. It was observed each Nov. 11 — coincidentally the day in 1620 when the Pilgrims set sail.

By that time a band of Englishmen in Virginia held a thanksgiving, on a plantation about 30 miles west of Jamestown. The day was Dec. 5, 1619. An order of the Virginia Company of London decreed:

"We ordain that the day of our ships' arrival at the place assigned for planting in the land of Virginia shall be yearly and perpetually kept holy as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God."

Before that, English fishermen at Newfoundland had observed a day of thanksgiving in 1578, and in 1607 the people of the Popham Colony on the Maine coast set aside such a day.

Nevertheless, it's the Pilgrim version of the event that captured the American imagination.

Vienna drinkers accident prone

VIENNA (AP) — Some Austrians say that "Wine, Women and Song" could be the unofficial national anthem of this happy-go-lucky alpine country. But apparently the wine plays the dominant part.

Doctors of the Public Accident Insurance Institute (which does not deal with traffic accidents) stated that one-fifth of all persons injured in accidents were under the influence of alcohol.

During 1975, according to their statistics, at least 20,000 of the 104,000 persons who were injured at work or during their leisure time had been drinking. The number alarmed officials.

"We had no idea the number was so high," an official of the Accident Insurance Institute said.

Wine is the favorite drink. In 1975 wine growers produced 65 million gallons of wine. A large part of the wine is exported, but a considerable amount is left to the Austrians.

Although up-to-date statistics on alcoholism are unavailable, Austria's 1971 health report said 47.2 out of every 100,000 males died of cirrhosis of the liver. France is the only European country with a higher percentage of cirrhosis-caused deaths.

Doctors say such liver ailments are caused to a large extent by drinking too much alcohol.

According to the institute's statistics, persons between the ages of 21 and 40 make up the majority of those injured while under the influence of alcohol. They make up 55 per cent.

Most accidents — 34 per cent — occurred mid-week and 30 per cent happened between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Thanksgiving

Venison, duck, goose, fish, eels, white bread, corn, leeks, watercress, greens, plums and berries were on the first menu, but turkey and and pumpkin pie weren't listed in records of the event.

Indians killed five deer for the feast and staged military prowess with a bow-and-arrow demonstration.

Not until July 8, 1630, when a supply ship arrived, was a thanksgiving again celebrated. The Pilgrims felt such festivals ought to be spontaneous rather than matters of form, but Connecticut had an annual harvest festival by 1649 and Plymouth by 1668.

During the Revolution, the Continental Congress proclaimed occasional thanksgiving observances. George Washington issued the first presidential thanksgiving day proclamation, for Nov. 26, 1789.

Thomas Jefferson, apparently more sensitive to conflicts of church and state, didn't care for the idea of a federal thanksgiving holiday and none was decreed again until 1815.

Observances were left thereafter to the states. By 1859 many states were proclaiming the fourth Thursday in November as thanksgiving.

That, perhaps, is attributable inlarge measure to Sarah Hale. As editor of the Ladies Magazine in Boston and later of Godey's Lady's Book of Philadelphia, she pushed for a standard observance.

She lobbied in letters to presidents, governors and other men of influence.

Mrs. Hale wrote her crowning thanksgiving editorial in September 1863. On Oct. 3, a national proclamation, echoing much the same sentiment as her editorial, was issued by Abraham Lincoln.

Almost every president and governor has since followed Lincoln's lead, proclaiming the fourth Thursday of November as Thanksgiving.

Political training brutal

Many Viet prisoners might not survive re-education

HO CHI MINH CITY — (LENS) — Eighteen months after the fall of Saigon, information about what happened, and is happening, to the 1 million members of South Vietnam's army is beginning to reach the outside world.

Immediately after the surrender, all military men were ordered to report for "reeducation." Most of them did, and most of the ordinary soldiers completed their course in no more than a week. Noncommissioned officers were worked on longer: between one month and a year. All of these have now been released except for a few "special cases."
few "special cases."

The 40,000 former officers, including doctors, are in for three years; "incorrigible" cases will stay longer.

The officers are held in two types of camps. Most are living under conditions that can be survived by those in good physical condition, but which have proved fatal to others. The routine is dawn-to-dark: about half hard labor and half "political education."

The worst feature is the diet. The prisoners get about 200 grams of rice a day, whereas 800 grams is considered the minimum for someone doing manual labor. Some prisoners are allowed to grow their own vegetables, which helps a bit.

Medical services are almost non-existent. Some weeks ago, inmates were told they must learn a trade; they are now allowed occasional visits from relatives.

A smaller number of officers are held in tough "security camps" where conditions are apparently designed to break them. Few have escaped, and no mail is allowed in or out. But one Vietnamese who had a brief glimpse inside reported that the inmates were "no longer recognizable because of the brutal treatment they are receiving."

If or when they are eventually released, most of the officers will probably be treated much as the lower ranks were: if they have relatives in the country, they can go and live with them.

If not, they will probably be assigned to one of the new "economic zones" being created in the countryside whose main purpose is to relieve unemployment in Ho Chi Minh City (Saigon) and, at the same time, increase agricultural production. The target is to cut in half the city's population from last year's total of nearly 3 million.

Life in the economic zones seems to be better than in the re-education camps, but not very much. Apart from the breaking of new land, settlers have to put up their own shelters. Only a few rudimentary tools are available, and medical services are about as inadequate as for the prisoners. Food is very scarce. But this also affects the towns, where many people are said to be living at starvation level.

Apart from the former officers, an unknown number of ex-civil servants and local officials are being "re-educated" for the basic three-year period. Nobody knows whether all the prisoners will have to serve the entire three years. There has as yet been no trickle of releases to indicate otherwise.

Leaders 'eying' fiscal controls on slumping peso

MEXICO CITY — (LENS) — A year ago, most Mexicans thought that devaluation of the long-stable peso was unnecessary and unlikely. But it came. Today, officials are saying that exchange controls are unnecessary and impractical. But domestic confidence in the peso is now so low that only exchange controls can prevent further devaluation.

After recent new slumps in the currency even finance ministry officials and aides to the president-elect, Jose Lopez Portillo, who takes office on Dec.1, are coming around to controls.

The biggest objection to exchange controls is that they would be hard to police because of Mexico's 2,000-mile border with the United States and the influx of more than 2.5 million American tourists each year. But anything may be better than smashing confidence by another run on the peso.

The latest outflow of capital, which on Oct. 27 obliged the government to unpeg the peso again and allow it to float down more than 20 per cent (it is 26-50 to the dollar now) was provoked by a crisis of confidence.

The private sector was worried that recent wage and price increases had blotted out much of the effect of the first large devaluation of Aug. 31; conservatives were angered by President Luis Echeverria's new verbal onslaughts on them; and funds left the country simply because a new devaluation was feared.

With the country's reserves seriously depleted — the exact amount of money to have left Mexico in recent months is a secret, but it is well over $1 billion — a new wave of speculation, perhaps around the time of the change of administrations, could push the currency's value down further. Free convertibility is not worth such a price.

Not only will a new president be in office within four weeks, but the finance minister, Mario Ramon Beteta, and the Bank of Mexico's director-general, Ernesto Fernandez Hurtado, seem certain to be replaced, if only because of their unimpressive handling of the aftermath of the first devaluation.

Economic policy decisions are being taken erratically. From its long-fixed rate of 12.50 to the dollar, the peso was on Aug. 31, first floated in a regulated manner, then pegged, then floated freely; export taxes were also first imposed and then removed, export incentives were eliminated then reinstated and handsome wage increases were encouraged then rejected.

Frog, he went a courtin'

CHICAGO (AP) — The frog he went a courtin', and he was caught in the act by sculptor David Gilhooly.

This witty artist has created a series of humanized ceramic frogs — some of them, as in the folk song, courting — which was recently on exhibit at the Museum of Contemporary Art.

Gilhooly until recently taught at the University of California at Davis and now lives in Aurora, Ont. With Claes Oldenburg, he is among the wittiest of the present generation of artists.

The son of a veterinarian, Gilhooly was trained initially as a marine biologist, so his interest in amphibians and other animals comes naturally. Before frogs entered, Gilhooly's ceramic menagerie was occupied by warthogs, dogs, cats and sloths.

The sculptures, many larger than human-size, are fanciful, whimsical, satirical, humorous. They sometimes parody historical figures and spoof the Bicentennial celebration and "fine art."

Gilhooly's courting frogs include two on "The First Date at Plymouth Rock Memorial," another pair playing hide-and-seek at the Washington Monument and two other lover-frogs posing on the steps of the Jefferson Memorial, with a Jefferson frog inside.

The sculptor devastates a revered monarch with his "Bust of Victoria, Her 101st Year as Queen," and is just as irreverent with his "Mao Tse Toad" and "Frog Benjamin Franklin and his Pet Wild Turkey."

Gilhooly has likewise peopled — or animaled — the Tablet of the Ten Commandments with frog figures and has done the same with the Liberty Bell.

TV shows said soft on reality

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Cleveland State University poll suggests television situation comedies featuring minority characters may be doing racial relations more harm than good, the survey's director says.

Dr. Jess Yoder, who directed the poll taken among 280 families of varied income levels by student and Urban League interviewers, said findings agreed among high and low-income families.

Yoder said television has made progress in featuring blacks in lead roles and dealing with racial issues.

But he added that "if the shows are not portraying the black lifestyle and blacks cannot identify with them, they may be more of a hindrance than a help in racial relations."

The participants favored "Good Times" as most true to life, followed by "That's My Mama," Yoder said. "Chico and the Man" was last. They disagree both with Archie Bunker of "All in the Family" and George Jefferson of "The Jeffersons."

Those with lower incomes identified more often with "Sanford and Son" than did those with higher incomes, Yoder said.

Dani tribe:

Primitives step into modern civilization

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — It's been a tough year for the Dani tribe out there in New Guinea. First an earthquake devastated their home in the Grand Valley of the Baliem and then their sex life was exposed in the name of science.

The Dani, one of several highland tribes, numbered about 80,000 before the earthquake on June 26. Scientists rank them among the world's most primitive people.

The same geographic isolation that hindered rescue operations after the quake made them an anthropologist's dream by keeping their Stone Age culture relatively intact.

There are few roads and the country is so rugged that distance is often calculated by how many days it takes to walk from one point to another. A river and steep ridges help isolate the valley, which is 40 miles long and about 10 miles across at its widest point.

Diplomats from countries which contributed to relief efforts say an exact casualty list cannot be compiled. One U.S. official in Jakarta estimated that more than 400 died and more than 1,000 were missing four months after the earth shifted, triggering landslides.

Indonesia is the world's largest archipelago with 13,677 islands, of which about 6,000 are inhabited. Jayapura, capital of the province of Irian Jaya in western New Guinea, is 2,400 miles east of Jakarta. As a Dutch possession, Irian Jaya was called West Irian.

Official records say the Grand Valley of the Baliem was not discovered by Westerners until 1938. In it they found a tribe of ancestor worshippers who habitually hacked off the top finger joints of young girls as a mark of respect to the deceased.

Yams are their staple food. Dani men raise pigs for dowries and as symbols of wealth, but pork is rarely eaten except on ceremonial occasions.

Women wear bark skirts and not much else. The male wardrobe consists of little more than a penis sheath, or "koteka" in Indonesian.

In 1954 Dutch colonial authorities established a presence in the area at the hamlet of Wamena, which they reached at first by landing amphibious planes on the river. Airstrips on land were cleared later. Administrators and police were followed by missionaries, scientists and other visitors.

In 1967 a United Nations consultant advised Jakarta that "there can be no question of isolating or bypassing the area. Its innocence has already been lost and its induction into the big world well begun."

The government launched Operation Koteka in 1970 to better the social and economic conditions of the highland peoples. At first this crash program stressed putting clothes on the near-naked Dani. Officials now acknowledge that some refused to wear what they were given while others did so reluctantly, without discarding the sheath. This aspect of Operation Koteka was later soft-pedaled and efforts switched to encouraging the tribes to improve their villages.

A new report describes the Dani as "low energy" people who are seemingly indifferent to sex, among other things.

Karl Heider, an anthropologist from the University of South Carolina, published his findings recently in "Man," the journal of Britain's Royal Anthropological Society.

The Dani do not make love during the first two years of marriage, Heider wrote. They abstain from sex for four to six years after the birth of a child. Premarital sex and adultery are virtually unknown. There seems to be no homosexuality or other sexual outlet, the article said.

Heider uncovered no tribal sanctions against sex and "no one shows signs of unhappiness or stress."

They appear reasonably healthy and happy and have a low infant mortality rate. Heider said their low-key view of sex is also reflected in their attitude toward clan warfare.

Ritual battles with plenty of timeouts and few casualties are the rule. There is a "marked absence of aggression or hatred for the enemy."

The Dani, it seems, just couldn't care less.

Social changes add new words

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Stonewall is there. So is Chandler's wobble, smart bomb, fat city, megadeath, and schlockmeister. You'll find hydrocracker, and Baltimore chop.

This is not a menu for disaster, but words from the "new English" — the thousands of new words and meanings that have become firmly established in the language over the past 15 years and have added a whole new dimension to the way we speak.

"The vocabulary of English, like that of every other living language, is constantly growing," says James Lowe, associate editor of "6,000 Words," a dictionary of new English just published by G. & C. Merriam Co. "However, the past 15 years has probably seen more changes than at any time in our history.

"We have lived through a time of great social change and of world-shattering events, and it follows that we needed new words and new meanings to express these events," he adds. "These range from Vietnam and the moon landings to the new sexual permissiveness and the search for personal identity. We made the word 'establishment' pejorative, and new words and phrases — ego trip, counterculture, sexism, funky — were developed to describe our new ways of living, new ideas, new philosophies."

The most prolific sources of new words were science and technology, Lowe points out, including space flight (moonwalk, earthrise), astronomy (quasar, black hole), genetics (messenger RNA) and mathematics (Fourier transform), to name a few.

But the book also shows that over the past 15 years Americans were talking about the Peter Principle, veganism (extreme vegetarianism), vexillology (the study of flags) and ufology (the study of UFOs). We looked into cloning (growing identical things from a single cell), bionics (solving engineering problems with biological information), and cryonics (freezing the dead).

We used "in" words like flaky and ticky-tacky. We discussed rapid eye movement, synectics and aversion therapy. From Watergate we learned to stonewall it, although the word itself is not new. And the word watergate is still only a synonym for floodgate.

It was a time of unisex, when straight not only meant heterosexuality but an entire catalog of conventional attitudes and mores. The interest in sexual identity gave us Ms., chairperson, macho and many others.

"There were, of course, many influences on the language in those years," Lowe says.

"Surfing gave us almost a whole new vocabulary, including head dip, hang ten, goofy foot, hotdog and hodad. You are a hodad if you hang around but don't surf."

Chandler's wobble, according to "6,000 Words," refers to an "elliptical oscillation of the earth's axis." A smart bomb is a bomb that can be guided to its target; "fat city" means being well off; megadeath is one million deaths; schlockmeister is one who deals in schlock; hydrocracker is an apparatus for cracking hydrocarbons.

Trojans have too much for Bruins

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — USC had a little too much of everything including good luck Saturday.

The Trojans (9-1) simply overpowered UCLA (9-1-1), 24-14, in a game that was not as close as the score would indicate. The game meant everything to both teams. It gave USC the city championship, the Pac 8 title, the trip to the Rose Bowl and, possibly, the momentum and road to another national championship.

Troy will now face mighty Michigan (10-1) in the Rose Bowl January 1 although there is still Notre Dame to play (here Saturday).

By failing to make the game closer, UCLA not only lost out on the Rose Bowl, the one-sided defeat also knocked the Bruins out of an Orange Bowl berth.

The Orange Bowl people were on hand and had agreed that UCLA would get the bid if the game was close. But the Bruins were held scoreless for the first 56 minutes. Their two touchdowns in the last 3:49 were not enough.

Instead, they will journey to Memphis, Tenn. December 20 for a date with Alabama (7-3) in the Liberty Bowl.

The turning point came with 10:45 left in the second quarter. Up until that time, the two giants had battled evenly. UCLA quarterback Jeff Dankworth had just ripped off a 20-yard gain around left end, longest run of the game to that time.

On a first-and-10 at the Bruin 40, running back Theotis Brown ran into the line at left guard. As he hit the opening (no one touched him), he attempted to change hands and the ball popped into the air in front of him and into the waiting arms of safety Dennis Thurman who had come up close to meet the run.

Thurman latched on to the ball in midair and sprinted down the south sideline for a USC touchdown.

The Trojans added a 42-yard field goal by Glen Walker in the third quarter and two more touchdowns in the fourth before UCLA got on the scoreboard.

''I want to thank every player and every coach on the staff,'' said coach John Robinson. ''They were in charge of stopping the Veer-T (formation). The Veer-T is supposed to be unstoppable, but they stopped it.

''UCLA is a great team. But we didn't give them a smell of the ball until well into the second half.''

The powerful UCLA ground game had been mainly responsible for the Bruins scoring average of 37.1 points a game, second in the nation going into the game. On the ground they had averaged 361.5 yards per contest, also second in the country.

USC allowed them 14 points and a paltry 140 yards rushing. Instead of their average total offense of 446 yards a game, the Bruins got just 230.

''Offensively, we wore them down,'' Robinson commented. ''They didn't overplay and gamble. So we ran at them. Ricky Bell still is not well but did a heck of a job (170 yards on 36 carries). Vince Evans was brilliant and has been all season.''

USC, had averaged 459.9 yards a game, tops in the nation. Against UCLA, the Trojans got 345, 266 rushing and 79 passing (to UCLA's 90). The 24 points was, again, more than twice as many as UCLA had allowed on an average (11.3). Troy had given up an average of 11.8 points per game, so the Bruins scored 2.2 points more than the Trojans' average allowance.

''I think we dominated the second half,'' Robinson commented. ''Eventually they lost confidence in their running game. I don't think they got a first down until late in the fourth quarter.''

''They'' didn't. Only 6:17 was left in the game when Wendell Tyler ran for six yards and UCLA's first first down in the second half.

However, there were three questionable calls that hurt the Bruins.

In the second quarter, Evans, on a 16-yard scramble, was hit hard and fumbled at his own 44. UCLA recovered, but the officials had blown the play dead although Evans was not yet down when the Bruins had the ball.

With 7:26 left in the game, Bell fumbled and the Bruins thought they had the ball at their own 33. But again the officials insisted the ball was dead before the fumble.

A key call came just after the start of the fourth quarter. The Bruins were behind only 10-0. On a first-and-10 at the UCLA 13, a UCLA defender used both hands to knock down Evans' pass in the end zone in front of Randy Simmrin. Yet the officials ruled defensive pass interference, and gave Troy the ball with a first down on the

Owls clinch title

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE — Citrus College clinched the Mission Conference football title in impressive fashion Saturday night, trouncing host Riverside City College, 42-8.

If anything, the Owls' should have won by an even bigger margin. They amassed a huge 553 yards in total offense, 501 of those yards on the ground, and out-first-downed RCC 26-12 to completely outclass the Tigers.

However, by any score the Owls will take the win, as it means they will be hosting the winner of the Western States Conference in the Mission Bowl, to be played Saturday.

A win in that post-season affair and a couple losses by top-ranked California JC teams and the Owls just might sneak into the Junior Rose Bowl, slated for Dec. 11.

Halfback Obie Graves led the way Saturday night over RCC, as the sophomore flash rang up a total of 244 yards rushing in three quarters of action and scored the first four Owl touchdowns.

Graves also caught two Dale Bunn passes for an additional 38 yards. The 244 yards pushed Graves well over the 1,000 mark for the year, as he now has 1,186 in ten games.

Graves' backfield mates, Raymond Butler and Bunn, added 122 and 73 yards respectively on the ground as Citrus ran its season mark to an impressive 8-1-1 and finished Mission play with a spotless 7-0 ledger, their seventh conference title in the past 10 years.

The host Tigers were in the contest only briefly, as they managed to rally for a second-quarter score and two-point PAT to make it 14-8 Citrus midway through the second quarter.

However, Graves promptly got loose for two TDs in the remainder of the period to give Citrus a 26-8 halftime edge.

When Riverside quarterback Robbin Jones was sacked for a safety on the Tigers' very first play of the second half, it ended any hopes of a miracle comeback by the hosts.

Other Citrus scores in the final 30 minutes came on a 12-yard TD run by Butler and a four-yard sweep by Bunn.

While Citrus was running up 553 yards on offense, the Owl defense stopped the Tiger running game cold. RCC could manage only 22 net yards on 31 rushes, and did not get a first down rushing in the second half.

RCC quarterbacks' Jones and Ron Harvey did manage to scramble about long enough to complete 14 of 37 passes for 173 yards, but the aggressive Citrus defense picked off two RCC aerials and recovered two fumbles to subdue the hosts.

Riverside finished the season with a 3-6 ledger.

Puget Sound downs Broncs

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

The most exciting happening at Cal Poly's Kellogg Field Saturday night was getting actor James Garner's autograph.

At least Garner had a good time.

The actor attended the game with his daughter, a student at the University of Puget Sound, and they enjoyed the results.

Puget Sound defeated Poly, 26-10, in the season finale for both teams as it was obvious from the start Poly's heart really wasn't in it after last week's tough 26-22 loss to Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

The visitors from Tacoma, Wash. completed their season with a 7-3 record while Poly's final mark will only be 3-6-1. Ironically, the two teams meet again in Tacoma on Sept. 10 to open the 1977 campaign.

Poly coach Andy Vinci, frustrated by the season, plans to take a week off to evaluate his situation and future at the university.

''I am going to take a couple of days off and decide what to do,'' he said after the loss. ''I just can't keep worrying about raising money as well as coaching.''

In discussing his team's lackluster performance Saturday, Vinci said, ''We just couldn't stop them. We lost this game last week in the SLO defeat. Our players were down all week.''

Puget Sound rolled up a 20-7 halftime lead and held off and Bronco comeback tries in the second half.

The Loggers also won the battle of statistics with 328 total yards on offense compared to Poly's 246. UPS rushed for 260 yards as Greg Baker ran for 109 on 28 carries and Casey Sander picked up 85 on 12 plays.

Tailback Ron Jones was Poly's big man with 109 rushing yards on 13 carries with his 50-yard touchdown run late in the first quarter being the highlight of the night for the home fans.

Sophomore quarterback Sammy Ross, who was forced to start the final two games because of Leo Costa's injury, had a rough night with only 11 completions in 30 attempts with four interceptions. The Broncs also lost two fumbles.

Puget Sound opened the scoring on an 80-yard drive in the first period with Baker crossing the end zone from the seven.

But Poly caught up at 7-7 on Jones' long run after freshman Beno Lee intercepted a Logger pass.

UPS scored 13 points in the second quarter to take a permanent lead.

Sander climaxed a 78-yard drive with an 11-yard run for the first TD and quarterback Clay Angle completed a 13-yard pass to Randy Moon in the end zone for the second.

A 27-yard field goal by Armando Herrera cut the deficit to 20-10 in the third quarter but Puget Sound iced the victory with 2:11 left in the game on a two-yard TD run by Joe Yeager after Brent Heath intercepted a Ross pass.

Top stockers to run at OMS

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Eight of the top NASCAR drivers will be vie with 32 other drivers for the Los Angeles Times 500 stock car championship today at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Richard Brooks, Chuck Brown, James Hylton, Richard Childress and Janet Guthrie will be darkhorse candidates trying to upset the top field of David Pearson, Dave Marcis, Cale Yarborough, Buddy Baker, Bobby Allison, Darrell Waltrip, Richard Petty and Donnie Allison.

The Times 500, in existence for five years, is a prize that many drivers are hoping to capture. The race which begins at 11 a.m. is one of the few events Petty is still trying to win for the first time. Also, it is the only major speedway where Pearson hasn't notched a victory.

Yarborough, who only needs the green flag to win the driving crown, is also hungry for a win at Ontario. Bobby Allison has one last shot of avoiding his first winless season on the NASCAR circuit since his rookie year of 1966.

Petty, who has racked up six NASCAR Winston Cup Grand National Championships, would like to cap off a lean year for himself by capturing the Times 500.

However, Petty was just edged out in the point standings for the driving title by Yarborough despite only picking up three victories on the NASCAR Grand National circuit.

Petty, asked about the '76 season, said, ''You can go into a slump just like a baseball player. It hasn't been any single factor that has kept us from winning. It seems like something different has gone wrong each time we haven't won.

''We have the same crew as in past years but we just haven't had any luck. It's just a deal we'll have to work out. When we get everything straightened out we'll start winning again.

In 1975, Petty won 13 of 30 Grand National championships. Even though he's having an off year according to his standards he realizes that Yarbourgh has earned the driving championship.

''The deal is that if you win races you'll win money,'' noted Petty. ''If you pile up enough money and wins then you're going to win the championship.

''This year we just didn't win enough. Yarbourgh just beat us out for the championship but he ran hard all year and honestly deserved it.''

Dave Pearson has the pole position but Petty intends to make a strong bid for his first Times 500 triumph.

Petty commented, ''Ontario hasn't been one of our luckier tracks. I don't know about tomorrow's race but we usually run pretty good here. If everything works out we'll be right in there at the finish.''

Brooks from Porterville, Ca. has the best shot of upsetting the field of favorites. He qualified with a speed of 151.285 for the 12th position in the starting field of 40. Brooks stood on his speed set in Friday's qualifying round.

Childress improved his position in the starting lineup by moving up from 27th to the 22nd spot Saturday. Guthrie, 25th Friday, improved her status to 23rd with a speed of 148.522.

Arlene Hiss, hoping to qualify for the Times 500, failed to do so Saturday. Her car never got back out to the track after being involved in a practice accident Friday afternoon. But Mike Hiss, the estranged husband of Arlene, qualified with a speed of 148.084 for the 28th spot.

Skip Manning, battling Terry Bivins for rookie of the year honors, captured the 26th spot with a speed of 148.502. Bivins nailed down the 15 position with his speed of 150.145.

Brown has virtually locked up the Winston West driving title. Ray Elder, who was battling Brown for the crown, failed to qualify. His speed of 145.987 wasn't good enough to get into the starting field of 40.

Bowls pick their partners

By The Associated Press

Michigan and Southern California both beat their hated rivals Saturday and earned trips to the 63rd Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day. Michigan blanked Big-Ten foe Ohio State 22-0 and Southern Cal defeated Pacific-8 opponent UCLA 24-14.

Both teams finished with Big Ten records of 7-1, but Michigan gets the nod because it won the head-to-head confrontation. After the game, Ohio State accepted a bid to the Orange Bowl.

The Rose Bowl wasn't the only game to fill its holiday stocking Saturday, the first day the bowls are allowed to officially line up their teams.

—The Sugar Bowl announced No. 1-ranked Pitt has accepted an invitation to New Orleans New Year's Day. The Panthers will play Georgia, the Southeastern Conference champion. Both Pitt and Georgia were idle Saturday.

—The Cotton Bowl selected undefeated Maryland for its New Year's Day classic in Dallas after the Terps whipped Virginia 28-0 for their 11th victory of the season, the most in the school's history. Maryland, co-ranked with Georgia as No. 6, will meet the Southwest Conference champion, probably Houston.

Houston, eligible for the SWC crown for the first time, ambushed previously undefeated and fifth-ranked Texas Tech 27-19. The ninth-ranked Cougars can storm into the Cotton Bowl as the host team against Maryland by defeating Rice next Saturday.

The Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston was on hand to extend an invitation to losing Texas Tech to play in its New Year's eve classic. The Red Raiders voted to go to the Bluebonnet Bowl if they don't make it to the Cotton Bowl. They could win the SWC title by beating Arkansas and Baylor, provided Rice beats Houston.

(Please turn to Page 30, Col. 8)

Damien gets home game

Damien High was named the home team for its second-round playoff game and San Dimas and Walnut were designated visitors as a result of CIF coin flips Saturday.

The Spartans will host Riverside Poly on their own field.

San Dimas will meet Northview at Covina District Stadium and Walnut will play Kennedy at Barstow High.

All three games will begin at 8 p.m. Friday.

Saban quits at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — Lou Saban, former coach of the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League, quit Friday as the athletic director of the University of Cincinnati, just 19 days after taking the job.

Cincinnati vice president Cristos Demakes, who made the announcement, said Saban cited ''personal reasons'' for stepping down. Demakes said Saban had never actually signed a contract, although he verbally announced Nov.1 that he had accepted the job.

Demakes said Saban and the university parted company ''on friendly terms.''

Saban was in Buffalo at the time of the announcement.

Saban, who quit the Bills in midseason and was succeeded by Jim Ringo, replaced Hindman Wall, who left Cincinnati to become athletic director at Tulane University.

Michigan blanks Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Well, the Rose Bowl won't have Woody Hayes to kick around anymore. Not this year, anyway.

The fourth-ranked Michigan Wolverines saw to that Saturday when they ended four years of frustration at the hands of Ohio State by humiliating Hayes and his eighth-ranked Buckeyes 22-0.

The triumph lifted Michigan into a share of the Big Ten championship with Ohio State, but although both finished with 7-1 conference records, the Wolverines earned their first trip to Pasadena in five seasons by taking the showdown battle they had to win.

During his visits to the Rose Bowl the last four years, Hayes not only came out on the short end three times but also had several run-ins with the West Coast media. Meanwhile, Michigan stayed home each winter except for an Orange Bowl loss last year.

''This doesn't totally erase the frustration of the past four years, but it does erase a lot of the bad feelings we had,'' said linebacker Jerry Zuver, who ran for a two-point conversion following Michigan's second touchdown and intercepted a pass to set up the third.

The Wolverines' dressing room was an emotional place with cheers and tears alike.

''I've never felt happier,'' said a tearful Jim Smith, whose 16-yard wingback reverse set up Michigan's second score and who ran the Wolverines out of several holes with shifty punt returns.

''There's no way I could anticipate this kind of feeling because we'd never beaten them since I've been at Michigan, so all I had was heartbreak.''

The first half was scoreless as Ohio State held the nation's No. 1 running team to 107 yards. But Michigan, which didn't complete any of its six passes, erupted for 259 rushing yards in the second half. Rob Lytle had 113 of those 259 and finished with 165 on the cool, sunny afternoon.

A downcast Hayes said his Buckeyes' defense ''was just as excellent as it could be in the first half.'' But Michigan turned in a near-perfect second half, including a pair of three-yard touchdown runs by Russell Davis in the third period.

''Our execution was better in the second half,'' said Coach Bo Schembechler. ''It wasn't any brilliant strategy, just good execution. This has to rank with the great victories we've had, but we won't get the real impact of it until we get home because we weren't allowed to bring anyone down here.''

He was referring to Michigan's allotment of only 4,000 seats in an arena that holds almost 90,000.

A record Ohio Stadium of 88,250—the 50th consecutive sellout—plus a national television audience saw the Buckeyes suffer their worst defeat at home since a 41-6 loss to Purdue early in the 1967 campaign.

And the embarrassing shutout ended Ohio State's near-record string of scoring 122 consecutive games, just one short of the record set by Oklahoma from 1946-57. The last team to blank the Buckeyes was Michigan by a 10-0 count in the 1964 finale.

Rob Lytle put the icing on Michigan's cake with a three-yard scoring plunge at 6:47 of the final period, three plays after Jerry Zuver intercepted a pass from Jim Pacenta at the Ohio State 28, and returned it to the 15.

Although Michigan shared the Big Ten title with Ohio State in 1972, 1973 and 1974, the Buckeyes went to the Rose Bowl each time, twice by a vote of conference athletic directors and once by winning the head-to-head meeting.

Michigan finished the regular season with a 10-1 record, the only blot a 16-14 loss to Purdue two weeks ago.

Ohio State wound up 8-2-1. The Buckeyes, however, did manage at least a piece of the Big Ten crown for a record fifth year in a row.

The Wolverines marched 80 and 52 yards on their first two possessions of the third quarter after a scoreless and frustrating first half to give Coach Bo Schembechler, a one-time Ohio State assistant, his first victory in four tries at Columbus.

Although Michigan leads the series 40-28-5, it was the Wolverines' first success since 1971. It also was the most one-sided victory for either team since Ohio State romped 50-14 eight years ago.

Kings lose another one

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gil Perreault fired in a 35-footer with 32 seconds left to play to give Buffalo a 4-3 National Hockey League victory over Los Angeles Saturday night.

The Sabres, who are now unbeaten in their last seven games and undefeated in their last four road games, had a two-goal performance from Andre Savard, who twice helped his club come from behind to even the score.

Los Angeles, winless in their last eight games with an 0-4-4 record, were led by defenseman Gary Sargent, who drilled his fourth and fifth goals of the season on a pair of 45-foot slap shots. Sargent lifted the Kings into a 3-3 tie with 12:09 left to play when his drive hit the glove hand of goalie Jerry Desjardins and bounced into the net.

The Kings' defenseman shot his club into a 1-0 lead on a power play at 6:24 of the opening period on his first 45-footer. Savard beat Kings goalie Rogie Vachon from 20 feet to tie it at 1-1.

USC outplays UCLA

Bruins' one.

Bell simply trotted into the end zone unmolested on the next play for a TD that put USC ahead, 17-0. But Bruin coach Terry Donahue would not criticize it.

"SC won today because they outplayed us," he commented. "On this particular day, they were far superior to our team after the second-quarter fumble by Theotis Brown that set up the touchdown. That was the break that put the Trojans in charge until the fourth quarter."

"USC is by far the strongest team we have met this year," said UCLA quarterback Jeff Dankworth. "They shut off our inside and our passing was inconsistent."

Dankworth netted 54 yards on 15 carries. Brown had 63 on 16 and Tyler 55 on 15. The Bruin signal caller completed eight of 16 passes for 90 yards but had one intercepted (by Rod Martin that set up the TD that put USC ahead, 17-0. Ricky Odom nearly picked off another Dankworth aerial in the first quarter that would have given the Trojans another TD.

There were a couple of other "interesting" plays both of which turned out to USC's advantage. On Martin's interception, he tipped the ball which bounced off Wendell Tyler's chest and back into his arms.

On the other hand, an Evans' pass was tipped high in the air and fell into the arms of Trojan tight end Bill Gay.

Evans finished the day with seven completions in 13 attempts and gained 63 yards on 14 rushes. But the husky signal caller was not pleased.

"I'm my own worst critic," he said. "I haven't played to the best of my ability yet. This was not one of my best games. I made some bad calls and I missed a couple of open receivers. But we're going to the Rose Bowl. Pasadena, that's where it's at.

"We thought we could run at them and wear them down and I think we did. We weren't going for the long bomb. We wanted to keep everything medium range. It was good to have the real Ricky Bell back."

Bell, who said he was only about 80 percent admitted he started to come around in the second half.

"I sort of got the feel of the flow of the game in the second half," he said. "We got a better idea of UCLA's slants. I got hit a couple of times and my ankle hurt. When I went out and sat down, it would tighten up and I'd have to get up and walk around to loosen it up.

"We're a slow starting team anyway. I think it takes us until the second half to get started."

After the 7-0 first half, Evans engineered a 12-play, 60-yard drive that ended in Walkers' 42-yard field goal. That was all the scoring in the third quarter although SC was on a TD drive when the period ended.

The march took eight plays and 61 yards plus the pass interference penalty and ended 13 seconds into the fourth quarter.

Martin's interception set up a four-play plus penalty, 35-yard drive ending in Evans' beautiful 36-yard touchdown run.

With a second-and-22 at the 36, Evans ran over the middle, slanted right then cut left by two Bruin defenders and ran right by Levi Armstrong for the TD.

Now can Troy get "up" again for Notre Dame? Certainly.

Mounties lose wild finale

SAN DIEGO — Mt. San Antonio College scored a touchdown with 50 seconds left in the game pulling within one point and after the two-point conversion failed dropped a 34-33 squeaker to South Coast Conference foe San Diego Mesa on the winner's field Saturday afternoon.

Mesa had driven to the Mountie one-foot line with 2:30 left to play and on third down, Alonso Blackwell recovered a fumble.

Steve Taylor, former Pomona High QB, took over the quarterback duties for Brian Bethke and drove the Mounties to their final score.

During the drive, Taylor hit on four-of-seven passes for 76 yards with Dana Hutchinson (the former Garey High star) picking up the rest of the yardage on the ground and scored from a yard out with under a minute to go.

On the conversion Taylor led an option left and was pressured into pitching too soon and tossed the pigskin behind Hutchinson to shatter MSAC's hopes.

Bethke on the evening hit on 10-of-17 aerials for 152 yards and threw two interceptions. Bethke scored two TDs on one-yard sneaks and also threw for another and kicked an extra point. Hutchinson carried 19 times for 126.

Mt SAC finishes the year at 5-3-2 overall and 2-3-1 in SCC play.

Oxy tops Sagehens

EAGLE ROCK — Occidental defeated Pomona-Pitzer, 23-0, at Oxy Saturday night and clinched a tie for second place in the SCIAC. The Tigers wound up 3-2 in the SCIAC and 5-3 overall.

The victory in the traditional battle between the two teams which dates back to 1895 cuts Pomona's lead in the series to 35 victories to Oxy's 34. There have been three ties.

The Tigers scored all the points, 10, they needed in the first quarter..

On their third possession, the Tigers drove 80 yards in six plays. The first was a 52-yard "bomb" from quarterback Tom Hamilton to wide receiver Rick Fry. Three rushes including a 13-yard run by James Overton put the ball at the Sagehens' nine from where Hamilton again connected with Fry for the TD. Willie Jefferson intercepted a Lyle Lansdell pass at Oxy's 38 and five plays later, Roger Sels booted a 28-yard field goal.

Oxy outgained the 'Hens, 413 yards to 258. Hamilton completed 15 of 28 passes for 247 yards with no interceptions. Pomona finishes with an 0-6 mark in the SCIAC and 2-7 overall.

Leopards run past C-M

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

La Verne college wrapped up its 1976 football season in a rather impressive fashion Saturday afternoon at Claremont-Mudd, as the Leopards thrashed an undermanned Claremont-Mudd squad, 51-24.

What makes the season-ending SCIAC victory all the more impressive is the fact that Roland Ortmayer will welcome a lot, not a few, but a lot of his very talented athletes to his spring training in 1977.

Two of Ortmayer's top underclassmen were simply brutal Saturday, proving to the poor Stags just why La Verne was the proud owner of the top pair of running backs this year in the SCIAC.

Ben Morrow, a 5-11, 220 pound junior, rambled for 204 yards on 23 carries, his big gainer being a 56 yard gallop in the fourth quarter for his second touchdown of the day. Ben winds up the year with 711 yards rushing on 149 totes (4.7 avg.).

But the big news of the day for Leo fans came late in the final period when SOPHOMORE Brad Frick surpassed the coveted 1,000 yard barrier. Frick, who enjoyed two 1,000 yard seasons as a prep at Bonita High, racked up 177 ground yards (22 attempts), pushing his season totals to 1,013 yards on 185 carries (5.4 avg.). Second only in the SCIAC to Redlands David D'Arcangelo, the bruising soph also showed a little speed when he raced through the Stags secondary on a 51 yard score in the second quarter.

"I thought that I'd passed it (1,000) already", grinned a tired Bradley. "But then they told me in the huddle that I still needed four yards! But I've got it now, and it feels good."

Outstanding individual performances by members of La Verne seemed to dominate the day. Offensively, Randy Brown and Ted Pedvin each had their most productive games, respectively. On the defensive side of the line of scrimmage, John Rome, Mike Bustos and Bruce Hines led a ferouicious charge.

Brown completed 12 of 22 passing attempts for 180 yards, including two touchdown tosses to Pedvin, who six aerials for 71 yards. Rome, a junior tackle, and Bustos, a sophomore end, combined for 10 sacks on hapless Mudd runners. Hines, a freshman defensive back, led the team by being involved in 14 tackles.

"Yes, this is a fun way to end the year", offered skipper Ortmayer. "I just hope that this doesn't create any hard feelings . . . you don't want to pour it on, but you can't stop the kids from being aggressive and enthusiastic."

"One thing about this young these men," continued Ort, "Is that everything they've done this year they've done on their own. We as coaches haven't done a thing . . . we're not on any level higher than the players, we're no more important than they are. Everybody is just, well, everybody! The most important thing here is not winning, but having a little friendship and fun."

La Verne wound up with 647 yards in total offense, along with 32 first downs (19 in the first half!). Claremont-Mudd picked up a not-too-shabby total of 393 yards and 18 first downs, thanks largely to the work of freshman quarterback Robert Nielson.

In his first start of the year, Nielson completed 19 of 33 passes, good for 230 yards. Junior running back Jim Reed (129 yards) of the Stags also contributed to the lost cause with a school-record 91 yard TD run. If nothing else, Stag coach John Zinda has to be very pleased with these two performances.

La Verne finishes with a 3-2 SCIAC mark and a 5-4 record overall, while the Stags end their year at 2-3 and 2-6, respectively.

College football roundup

Notre Dame explodes

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Second-string quarterback Rusty Lisch threw for one touchdown and ran for two more Saturday as 13th-ranked Notre Dame exploded for 24 points in a six-minute span in the first half, then held on to defeat Miami, Fla., 40-27.

The victory, Notre Dame's eighth in 10 games, earned the Fighting Irish an invitation to the Gator Bowl,

Miami's record dropped to 36.

The Hurricanes, trailing 30-0 early in the third period, charged back behind the passing of quarterback E.J. Baker, who threw for two touchdowns to culminate two long scoring drives. But the outcome was never really in doubt after the intermission.

Along the way, halfback Al Hunter became Notre Dame's all-time single season rushing leader after picking up 128 yards on 27 carries, including one 13-yard touchdown. That gave him 943 yards for the year, 16 better than Marchy Schwartz's 927 yards set in 1930.

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Brash sophomore quarterback Danny Davis ignited Houston with two second quarter touchdowns Saturday and the ninth-ranked Cougars ambushed previously undefeated and fifth-ranked Texas Tech 27-19 to climb into a Southwest Conference tie with the Red Raiders.

Houston, picked to finish sixth in the preseason polls, can storm into the Cotton Bowl as the host team against Maryland by defeating Rice next Saturday.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Mark Vicendese threw for one touchdown and ran for another Saturday as the Kansas Jayhawks broke loose for 24 points in the second quarter to shock 19th-ranked Missouri 41-14 in Big Eight football action.

The victory was Kansas' fifth in six games in the oldest football rivalry west of the Mississippi

The Jayhawks, nationally ranked until losing quarterback Nolan Cromwell at mid-season, dominated the contest from the second period as Vicendese brought their wishbone to life with a variety of option runs and pitches.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Undefeated and untied Maryland, paced by freshman George Scott's two touchdowns, rolled over Virginia 28-0 Saturday and became the first team in the school's 84-year history to win 11 games in a season.

The triumph extended the Terps' record Atlantic Coast Conference winning streak to 20 games and gave them their third consecutive ACC championship.

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Colorado converted two Kansas State fumbles and a 67-yard drive into three second-half touchdowns for a 35-28 Big Eight victory Saturday, enhancing its hopes for an Orange Bowl appearance New Years's night.

The Buffaloes, completing their regular season with an 8-3 record and a guaranteed share of the conference championship for the first time in 15 years, need a victory by Oklahoma over Nebraska Friday to win the Orange Bowl bid.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Burly George Woodard staked 11th-ranked Texas A&M to an early lead with three first-half touchdowns as the Aggies romped over winless Texas Christian 59-10 Saturday and then accepted a berth in the Sun Bowl Jan. 2 at El Paso.

Woodard, who became the second Aggie runner to surpass 1,000 yards rushing in a season, ran three, 13, and one yard as the Aggies rolled up a 35-3 halftime lead over the Frogs, who lost for the 30th time in 31 games.

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Quarterback Mark Jackson scored one touchdown and passed for another Saturday, and the Baylor defense strangled once-proud Texas as the Bears claimed a 20-10 Southwest Conference football victory.

Jackson escaped Texas defenders all afternoon to keep Baylor in control of the game. The once-fearsome Texas running game was rendered impotent by a swarming Baylor defense.

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Quarterback Charlie Weatherbie ran for two touchdowns and passed for another and setback Terry Miller rambled for 199 yards and two touchdowns as Oklahoma State pounded Iowa State 42-21 to insure the Cowboys a share of the Big Eight Conference title.

Both teams came into the game with 4-2 league records and hopes of getting a piece of the Big Eight crown. But an aggressive Cowboy defense, which forced five Cyclone turnovers, Weatherbie's pinpoint passing and Miller's running proved too much for the Cyclones, who last week stunned Nebraska 37-28.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Derrick Ramsey completed a short pass to Greg Woods that ended up as a 62-yard touchdown play and plowed his way over Tennessee defenders for 77 yards to give Kentucky a 7-0 victory Saturday in a Southeastern Conference football game.

It was the Wildcats' first victory over Tennessee in the last 12 games as Kentucky ended the season with a 7-4 overall record and 4-2 SEC mark.

Stanford wins 79th 'Big Game'

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Defensive end Duncan McColl recovered a fumble at California's two-yard line, setting up Ron Inge's touchdown run which came with 1:31 remaining, and Stanford edged the Bears 27-24 Saturday in their 79th "Big Game."

Inge, a senior tailback, scored from the one on a third-down play to make up for a fumble he lost at Cal's goalline in the opening minutes of the error-filled but thrilling Pacific-8 football battle.

The late score sent Jack Christiansen out of the Stanford coaching job as a winner. The Cardinals claimed third place in the Pac-8 with a 5-2 record and were 6-5 over-all, but Christiansen was notified Friday he would be fired.

Sophomore running back Markey Crane, whose 13-yard touchdown run with five minutes left went Cal into a 24-19 lead, dropped a pitchout from quarterback Joe Roth, allowing McColl to make the key fumble recovery with 2:20 remaining.

After Inge's touchdown run sent Stanford ahead 25-24, quarterback Mike Cordova ran for a two-point conversion.

Cal, which finished the season 5-6 over-all and 3-4 in the Pac-8, twice trailed by nine points. The Bears were down 19-10 entering the final period, but drove 66 yards for a touchdown before cornerback Mike O'Brien intercepted a Cordova pass to set up Crane's go-ahead touchdown run.

Huskies romp

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Robin Earl and Ron Rowland each ran for two touchdowns and quarterback Warren Moon passed for two more scores to lead Washington to a 51-32 victory over Washington State in their traditional season-ending college football game Saturday.

The Huskies, who now lead the series 43-20-6, exploded for three touchdowns each in the second and third quarters for a 49-14 lead.

Rowland, who surpassed 1,000 yard rushing on the last play of the game, bolted 59 yards to cap the game-opening drive.

He added a 26-yard touchdown run in the third period following a fumble recovery by Washington.

Earl scored on runs of four and nine yards.

Moon passed 45 yards to Scott Phillips and 39 yards to Robert Gaines for touchdowns. His first TD pass gave the Huskies a 27-14 halftime lead.

WSU sophomore quarterback Jack Thompson tied a Pacific-8 conference record with his five touchdown passes, three of them to Mike Levenseller on throws of 28 yards in the second period and two 12-yard tosses in the final period.

Thompson also set conference season marks for most plays, most completions and most passing yards and tied the Pac-8 record of 20 touchdown passes. He threw scoring strikes of 22 yards to Bob Bratkowski and nine yards to Brian Kelly.

The victory left the Huskies, under second-year coach Don James, 5-6 overall and 3-4 in the conference. WSU finished 38 and 2-5 in Coach Jackie Sherrill's first season.

Ducks' rally tops Beavers

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Quarterback Jack Henderson ran for two touchdowns and passed for another Saturday as Oregon overcame a 14-0 halftime deficit to defeat Oregon State 23-14 in a traditional Pacific-8 Conference football encounter.

It was the first Pac-8 victory of the season for Oregon and its coach, Don Read, whose job was rumored to be in jeopardy. Oregon finished the season with a 4-7 record.

Henderson, a junior from Menlo Park, Calif., scored the go-ahead touchdown on a one-yard sweep around right end with 8:04 left in the game then, after a pass interference penalty on a two-point conversion try, Henderson swept left end for the two points to make it 17-14.

Oregon iced the game on Henderson's one-yard plunge with 2:35 remaining in the period.

Oregon State had taken its two-touchdown lead on a pair of scoring passes by tailback Rich Dodge in the first half.

Henderson revived the sluggish Oregon offense with a wide-open aerial attack in the second half.

Riverside tournament slated

RIVERSIDE — The 29-game schedule for the 11th UC Riverside National Intercollegiate Baseball Tournament is set.

Host UC Riverside will welcome Missouri, California and Oral Roberts to the tournament for the first time while UCLA, Washington State, BYU, and Pitt are making return appearances for the tournament, March 28-April 2, 1977.

"I would have to say that any one of three teams could win the championship," tournament director Don Edwards said. "Certainly UCLA has to be considered, following a fine season last year" which saw the Bruins post a 35-25 game record enroute to the league title.

"Washington State was 42-13 last year. With most of the players back following their trip to the College World Series, they will want to show Southern California fans that they are a championship team.

"Even though I have not seen them play, Missouri's Tigers have a strong nucleus from all reports and (coach) Gene McArtor will bring a fine team here." The Tigers were 46-22 last year, winning the Big 8 title.

Oral oberts, 27-18 last year, is under new coach Larry Cochell. BYU, 26-21 last season, has a new mentor in Gary Pullins and BYU is making its seventh appearance in the UC Riverside tourney.

Pitt, 10-4 last year, makes its second appearance at the tournament while Jackie Jensen brings his Cal Bears to Riverside for the first time, following a 33-20 year.

UCR, 26-23 last year, is the only NCAA Division II team in the tournament. The Highlanders, winners two years ago, hope to return to that form.

UCR, UCLA and BYU will be featured in the Evans Park night games. UCR and BYU play three night games apiece while UCLA is slated for two night contests.

The host Highlanders are coupled with Missouri, Cal and Pit in the Blue Division while UCLA, BYU, Washington State and Oral Roberts comprise the Gold Division.

Each team plays seven games in the round robin tourney. The team with the best won-loss record in the Blue event will meet the Gold Division counterpart for the championship Sat., April 2 at Evans Park at 7 p.m.

Record for WS shares

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds will receive individual record shares of $26,366.68 for winning the 1976 World Series, the Baseball Commissioner's office announced.

How to get up to 58 miles on a dollar's worth of fuel.*

Only a few cars in America can do it. And only one of them is a good-sized luxury car: The Peugeot 504 Diesel.

It runs on fuel that generally costs several cents a gallon less than gasoline (although exactly what it costs depends on exactly where you buy it).

And because diesel fuel produces more usable energy per gallon than gasoline, you get much better mileage. According to 1976 EPA estimates, the Peugeot Diesel gets 35 mpg on the highway and 27 mpg in the city — far better than any car in its weight class.

So if you do a lot of driving, the Peugeot 504 Diesel — sedan or wagon — may be just the car for you.

Poly's height, depth improved

TALL AND SHORT OF IT — Cal Poly's two new tall centers — Carl Jones (7-0) at left and Don Johnson (6-11) at right — tower over playmaking guard Tom Ispas, who says he is 5-8. Poly opens basketball season Monday night by entertaining the Athletes in Action Monday night at Kellogg Gym.

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Cal Poly has high hopes this basketball season because of more height and added depth.

But the won-loss record may not reflect much improvement because coach Don Hogan's cagers will be tackling their toughest schedule yet.

For instance, Poly will open the campaign next Saturday at the University of Dayton followed by games at South Carolina, Notre Dame and Kansas State. Later on, Poly will also meet major college foes San Francisco, Nevada Reno and Loyola.

But Poly will get a good idea of rugged opponents Monday night when it offers a preview by hosting a talented Athletes in Action team Monday night at Kellogg Gym in an 8 p.m. tipoff.

Hogan clearly understands how difficult it will be to get a sensational record because of the schedule but it isn't a concern. The big thing is to develop the team for the California Collegiate Athletic Association race beginning in January.

It worked for Poly last year.

After a slow start on the won-loss ledger because of games against the likes of Houston, Louisville, Texas and Stanford, Poly placed second in the CCAA race and earned a berth in the NCAA Division II West regionals. National champion Puget Sound eliminated the Broncs.

"We know we're playing some of the top teams in the nation but we're looking at the games realistically," Hogan said. "We are making plans and we'll be ready. Playing against that level of competition isn't going to hurt us. I expect us to learn from the experience.

"It's a positive type of experience. The players will have fun, and of course should be better able to compete at the conference (CCAA) level," he said.

Hogan definitely feels he has the talent and depth this season to make a strong run at the CCAA title despite losing two key starters — guard Joe Sills and forward Paul Newton — from last year's 16-13 club.

"We have a better squad with more depth," Hogan admits. "Our players have been improving every day."

The lack of size and depth were problems last year but a good recruiting year by Hogan and his assistant, Allen Van Winkle, have helped correct those deficiencies.

Returning starters are forward Jack Gamulin (6-6), center Mark Bernhard (6-8) and guard Tom Ispas (5-8). Gamulin was second to Sills in scoring with 17.7 points a game and second to Newton in rebounding with 6.9. Ispas, the playmaker, was the leader in assists with 4.2.

The big newcomers are junior college transfers Carl Jones (7-0) and Don Johnson (6-11). Jones, who didn't play high school ball, came to Poly from Malcolm X College in Chicago. Johnson, a product of Chicago's prep leagues at Austin High, played one season at Kishwaukee College in Illinois.

Other JC transfers are forwards Henry Randolph (6-4) from Oakland and Lyonel Hardin (6-7) from State Fair JC (Mo.) plus guards Charles Johnson (6-2) from State Fair and Paten Calloway (6-3) from Riverside City College.

Redshirts include Dennis Weisse (6-5), who sat out last year because of an injury, and James Webb (6-3), a transfer from the University of Cincinnati and former Indiana All-State prep star at South Bend Adams High. Hogan will also get some help in January when two local products — Broderick Hunter (6-6) of Ganesha and Kenny Clark (6-3) of Garey — are eligible. Hunter spent a year at Arizona State and Clark sat out last season.

Two freshmen — David Fitzgerald (6-4) of Redlands and Coart Owens (6-4) of Oakland — will get their opportunities in reserve roles.

As of now, Hogan intends to start a lineup of forwards Gamulin and Randolph, center Don Johnson and guards Ispas and Charles Johnson.

"The only reason I can name that five is because we have to start somebody," Hogan said. "It's always subject to change. It's hard to tell very much until we play a game. The jury is still out on us until we meet some other people."

Sunkist track meet set

The 18th annual Sunkist Invitational indoor track meet will be held Saturday, Jan. 15, at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, Chairman Al Franken announced.

Expectations are high that the majority of the stars of the 1976 Montreal Olympics will compete in the Sunkist, according to the chairman.

Bids have been extended to foreign standouts John Walker and Rod Dixon of New Zealand, Lasse Viren and Antti Kalliomarki of Finland, Filbert Bayi of Tanzania, Jamaica's Don Quarrie and Anders Garderud of Sweden.

On the domestic front, invitations have gone to Steven Williams, Houston McTear, Mac Wilkins, Dave Roberts, Dan Ripley, Dwight Stones, Earl Bell, Arnie Robinson, Randy Williams, Francie Larrieu, Rosalyn Bryant, Frank Shorter, Marty Liquori, Mike Durkin, Duncan McDonald, James Owens, Benny Brown, Maxie Parks, Mark Enyeart and Herman Frazier.

Competition will be over the nation's newest — and possibly fastest — indoor board surface.

CHINESE TEAM — Here is the National Team from the Republic of China that will play La Verne College. The team was not allowed to compete in the 1976 Olympics at Montreal.

From Republic of China

Leos host National Team

La Verne College's basketball team, which opens the 1976-77 season Friday night (at Chapman), will play its first home game of the season Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. against the National Team from the Republic of China.

The contest will be played in the Supertent and is sponsored by the People-to-People Sports Committee, Inc. The Chinese team (from Taiwan) was not allowed to compete in the last Olympics as the result of a protest by Red China.

La Verne, under coach Art Bias, has been to Scandanavia twice and Mexico several times.

"We're excited about this cultural exchange," said Bias. "It gives us the opportunity to learn their style of basketball. This adds a new dimension to our exchange program."

Admission for the event will be $3.00 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. For more information call the La Verne athletic office at 593-3511, ext. 215.

The Chinese National team is on a tour of the United States and among the opponents played so far are Stanford and Denver University.

Leading scorers for the Chinese have been Hung Chun-cheng, Chung Chih-ming and Yeh cheng all of whom have topped the 20-point mark.

La Verne plays its first two games on the road before the Sunday home opener with the Chinese National team. The Leos are at the University of San Diego Saturday night after playing Chapman Friday night.

"I'm very pleased with the way we've been practicing," said Bias. "We're in good shape. We're small again this year and we'll have to rely on speed and an aggresive defense."

La Verne will have three new players in its starting lineup this year. Center Ulysses Ruffin, a 6-6 junior, is a transfer from L.A. Southwest. Forward Mike Sharp (6-5) transferred from Barstow JC and guard Anthony Vasquez.

Vasquez (6-3) is from Alta Loma High where he was Player of the Year in the Hacienda League and earned All-CIF second-team honors.

Wolfpack cagers to challenge faculty

A pair of basketball games offer an evening's entertainment Wednesday night at Claremont High.

In the opening (6:30 p.m.) contest, faculty team "B" will play the freshman team for one quarter, the sophomore team for one quarter and the jayvees for two quarters.

The second game of the evening will pit the Claremont varsity against faculty team "A." All proceeds will go toward the basketball program. Tickets are $1.00 for adults, 50 cents for students with ASD cards and 75 cents for those without.

Players on the faculty teams include Steve Lambert, Curtis Frick (frosh football coach), Randy Brown (student teacher), Mike Huk and Cliff Hoover.

MSAC wrestlers look good

Eight returnees and six outstanding freshmen recruits highlight this year's Mt. San Antonio College wrestling roster.

The Mountie grapplers, under the guidance of head coach Fred Burri (back from a year's sabbatical leave), figure to have another successful campaign.

Two of this season's returning lettermen qualified for the State Finals last year. John Rudolph (a 177-pounder from San Dimas) and Joe Barragan (167 pounds) were those Mounties.

"This is the finest group of wrestlers we've had at MSAC," Burri claims. "If we stay healthy, we are sure to be one of the conference's top contenders.

"This looks like another tough year in the South Coast Conference," Burri said. "Four or five of our seven teams should be in contention for the state title."

Top newcomers are Don LeMelle from Bishop Amat, a 115-pounder, Greg Stegner from Arcadia High, a 141-pounder, Jose Godoy, a 126-pounder from Ontario, Bruce Flemming, a 142-pounder from Ganesha and Tommy Larry, a 142-pounder from Garey.

Burri starts the season with an impressive 183-50-7 mark. He assumed the helm of the MSAC wrestling program in 1960.

22-year-olds take over golf

Mr. Jerry Pate
U.S. Open champion,
PHA Tour,
Everywhere, U.S.A.
Dear Jerry,

I feel it's my duty to warn you. Ever since you shoved that dandy 5-iron to the pin on the 18th in the U.S. Open last summer, you've been the No. 1 22-year-old golfer in just about every part of the globe. But be careful, Jerry, because we've got a 22-year-old here fresh out of college who goes around beating the old pros in Southern California.

His name is Roger Calvin, and he just picked up a $3,000 check in the Southern Cal Open hardly ever using his woods. You see, Jerry, he takes his 1-iron out on the tee, hits the darn thing right down the middle, then he takes another iron out and puts the next shot on the green.

And when he gets in trouble, it's fun to watch him. Friday he got in trouble on the first hole at Via Verde out here. It's the doggondest narrowest hole you ever saw. Well, this time he knocks his drive behind a tree. He pulls out a 6-iron and hits it around and under the tree, and his ole ball rolls right up to the pin, 15 feet away, and he naturally drops it in for a birdie. He does this a couple of times, and everyone out here is shaking his head.

But almost always, Jerry, he's right down the middle of that freeway. He's kind of funny though, Roger doesn't act like a good golfer, you know what I mean, cold and steely, aloof and moody. He's more like the kind of guy you'd like to play 9 holes with for the fun of it. And you know what he was waiting around for after he picked up his three bills Friday? He was trying to find a course official so he could ask him if he could play another nine.

You know how a lot of pros don't like to play golf? Well, Calvin says he likes to play. He played Saturday morning with his pals at Fairmont, a 9-hole course in Riverside. Said he's got to get his game ready for those guys in his foursome.

Well, anyway, Jerry, if you see a blondhaired fellow on the big tour one of these days just having a heap of fun, it could be Calvin. If you're not sure, Jerry, take a good look at his eyes. If they're twinkling and the guy's got a wide smile, you'd better be a little wary because it's probably Roger Calvin from Canyon Lake, down Riverside County way. See you soon.

Your pal,
Phil

Here's an item of interest for all the good amateurs in the Pomona Valley, and there are plenty of them. Amateur qualifying for the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open is set for Monday, Dec. 27 at Hillcrest C.C. Only five spots are open in the L.A. Open, which will be played Feb. 17-20 at Riviera C.C.

Entry fee is $40 and that includes green fees and a season pass to the L.A.Open. The field is open to the first 150 entries with a 2 or less handicap. Registration forms are available at the Los Angeles Junior Chamber, 404 S. Bixel St., L.A. or by calling 482-1311. Deadline is Dec. 17, but that's usually too late for a spot.

Bonnie Goolsby of Walnut won the Western Hills President's Cup recently, and Irene MacIntosh, also of Walnut, was runnerup. Quarter finalists were Lenore Welborn, Pico Rivera; and Ardith Van Der Linden, Corona.

NOTES FROM THE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA OPEN: Most interesting golfers for me to watch were Charlie Sifford, 53, and Jerry Barber, 60, two older pros who make the game look especially easy. Barber talks easily with everyone, practices with gracefulness, and is the epitome of the older pro golfer. Sifford is as cool as ever. He fired a 68, then a 76, but on the final day he came in with a two under 70 to earn almost a full grand. Sifford and Barber are the pros at the Griffith Park courses . . . Two youngsters from Glendora High did well in the tournament. Mark Pailthorpe and Don DuBois, both 17, said they really enjoyed playing with the pros. DuBois is the CIF champ in these part . . . .I was glad to see Dave Brownlee do well. He was disappointed Friday after his 40-35 — 75 at Via Verde, but I reminded him of his 68 Thursday at Glendora. He's definitely a first-class player . . . Another player who continually amazes me is Gerry Simoni from Upland. The former Upland High ace shot 72-75-71 — 218 in the tournament to finish high among the pros and won second place among amateurs . . . Happy to see Tim Berry, the former South Hills C.C. assistant pro, playing again.

The death of Lyle Tripp, a tournament official, shocked everyone at Via Verde Thursday. Tripp, 63, worked with the tournament all day Thursday. Then he and three others decided to play nine holes while Lyle set the pin placements.

The foursome reached the fourth green, which is the culmination of a 427-yard par 4. Lyle chipped in his third shot, making a birdie. As he started to the green, he collapsed from an apparent heart attack. A short time later he was pronounced dead by doctors.

A resident of Yorba Linda, he was a well-known PGA official who loved golf.

Informed of the death of Tripp, Jerry Barber said that "When I die, I'd like to be playing golf. I'd just like to be on a golf course for all eternity."

One of the hardest working pros at the Open was Bob Risch of Diamond Bar who finished second. I caught Risch on the practice tee late Wednesday after he had shot a 73 at Glendora C.C. He talked about how important confidence in golf is. "You've got to feel confident about yourself," Risch said. "That's a big factor in the success of any golfer."

Risch was feeling good about his shotmaking when he decided to putt for awhile despite the growing darkness. "I'd sure like to play well tomorrow (Thursday)" he said. "Last time out here I shot a 66." Well, when all the shooting was completed Thursday night, there was the tall, good-looking pro in at 34-32, a neat 66, the best round of the tournament. PASSING NOTE ON THE OPEN: I for one think the Southern California Open can be one of the top tournaments on the coast. Some of the finest players around annually show up for it, and the tournament can be an outstanding attraction for Pomona and San Gabriel Valley golf fans.

Claim Angels may lose Rudi

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Neil Papiano, attorney for Oakland A's owner Charles Finley, says although the California Angels have signed Joe Rudi the outfielder could be forced to play for the Boston Red Sox in 1977.

Rudi, who played out his option with the A's, signed a reported $2 million, five-year contract Wednesday with the Angels.

But Papiano said Thursday if Finley wins his multi-million dollar suit against baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, Rudi may be forced to report to Boston.

Finley sold Rudi and relief pitcher Rollie Fingers to Boston for $1 million each and pitcher Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million in June but Kuhn voided the deal, saying baseball's integrity was at stake.

Rams will fight for their lives today

By Associated Press

Before the season began, the forecasters figured this game would be a highly emotional but relatively unimportant one. After all, they reasoned, Los Angeles would have the National Conference title virtually locked up while San Francisco would be battling for a little more than a .500 season.

How wrong they were. The Rams, the odds-on choice by many to cruise through the National Football League season and likely candidates to represent the NFC in the Super Bowl, are fighting for their lives today — and in San Francisco, no less.

The 49ers, under Monte Clark, their new head coach, and new quarterback Jim Plunkett, have turned what was once an annual foregone conclusion into one of the league's tightest races.

It could remain just as tight if the 49ers do what they did once before this year, namely beat the Rams. San Francisco did it six weeks ago in Los Angeles, blitzing the Rams to pieces and scoring an impressive 16-0 Monday night victory.

Going into today's Bay Area brawl, Los Angeles holds a slender half-game edge over the 49ers. A victory by the Rams, favored by just three points, would open things up a bit—but another San Francisco triumph would swap the teams' positions in the standings and keep them half a game apart with three weeks of regular-season play left.

In today's other games it's Minnesota vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Oakland at Philadelphia, Dallas at Atlanta, Washington at St. Louis, Cincinnati at Kansas City, Houston at Pittsburgh, Cleveland at Tampa Bay, New England at the New York Jets, San Diego at Buffalo, Chicago at Detroit, New Orleans at Seattle and the New York Giants at Denver. Monday night's game is Baltimore at Miami.

In the past few weeks, it seems neither the Rams nor the 49ers have been trying to win the division. Los Angeles has dropped its last two games while San Francisco has lost three in a row—so something's got to give.

In the teams' first meeting, Jim Plunkett passed for two 49er touchdowns. James Harris of the Rams had trouble passing for anything that night. He was sacked 10 times by the furious San Francisco rush with defensive end Tommy Hart racking up six of them. If the 49ers take todays game, it'll be their first season sweep over their southern rivals since 1965.

Both Minnesota and Oakland can win divisional titles today. The Vikings of the NFC Central are 8-1-1 and poised to lock up their eighth crown in nine years. The Raiders, 9-1, are shooting for their fifth straight title in the American Conference West.

Should both teams win, it doesn't take the pressure off them. They'll still be trying to guarantee themselves homefield openers when the playoffs begin Dec. 18-19.

With Dallas at 9-1 in the NFC East, Minnesota has its work cut out. The Raiders are being pursued for the AFC's winningest records by Baltimore in the East and Cincinnati in the Central, each at 8-2.

The Cowboys have spent most of the season shooting it out with St. Louis and Washington. They can retain their one-game lead—if the Cardinals, 8-2, shoot the Redskins, 6-4, out of the race. If the 'Skins pull off a mild upset (St. Louis is a one-touchdown favorite) and the Cowboys handle the Eagles, Dallas will be able to widen its edge to two games with three to play.

The Bengals already have a two-game edge. But neither Pittsburgh nor Cleveland can be counted out as a divisional or wild-card contender.

GLENN CARLSON

RON MESSENGER

Business news in the valley

Security Pacific Bank has named Glenn R. Carlson to head its new Menlo Park office which opens Monday.

Carlson is former manager of the bank's Oakmead Village office and former assistant vice president of operations at the San Francisco office.

A native of Ontario, he is a graduate of Claremont Men's College and started with Security Pacific in 1966 as a management trainee.

He and his wife, Roberta, reside in El Granada with their two children.

Ron J. Messenger, administrator of Doctors Hospital at Montclair, has been promoted to corporate vice president of National Enterprises, Inc., effective immediately.

He will now be responsible for the coordination of a variety of high priority programs in the business phase of the national medical organization.

Messenger has been the administrator of the Montclair hospital since 1973. Prior to that, he was assistant administrator at Doctors Hospital of Lakewood.

Messenger was feted by the hospital staff prior to assuming his new post. His replacement will be announced in the near future.

For unemployment

State needs more job data

By SUSAN SWARD
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California could do a better job of attacking its high unemployment rate if it had a better idea of who the unemployed are, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s employment director says.

Martin Glick, director of the Employment Development Department, told The Associated Press in an interview last week he would like more data on California's unemployed.

"It seems we could spend money better and do a lot more with it if we had better data," Glick said in reference to the state's 9.8 per cent October unemployment rate.

For unemployment benefits, California will pay out $2.1 billion in fiscal 1976-77.

And with 832,600 Californians unemployed in October, the state is spending about $5 billion total on job training and economic development programs funded by state and federal money, Glick said.

"If we could spend that money better by targeting more accurately, that's an attack on our unemployment problem," Glick said.

So why doesn't the state have the sort of household survey that would enable it to get a better fix on its unemployed and a better idea of which job programs are needed?

Glick, who oversees the state's $2.1 billion unemployment benefits program, said such a survey probably would cost $10 million or more a year, according to a three-year-old study for the legislature.

Glick, a former California Rural Legal Assistance attorney, declined to say whether he would press the Democratic governor to include the money for the survey in Brown's proposed 1977-78 budget.

Carter's friendly; market rebounding

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rebounded from its post-election slump this past week, responding to what it saw as some friendly words from President-elect Jimmy Carter.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, down more than 37 points in the two previous weeks, recovered 21.11 to 948.80.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index jumped 2.68 to 101.92, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index of all its listed common stocks rose 1.51 to 54.61.

Big Board volume set its fastest pace since late September, averaging 21.24 million shares a day, up from 16.68 million the week before.

The rally began Monday as Carter told reporters he expected Arthur Burns to continue as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

The President-to-be said he believed he could work harmoniously with Burns, whose hard line on inflation is widely supported on Wall Street.

Carter additionally downplayed the possibility of wage and price controls — and that, too, was something the investment community wanted to hear.

The Dow rose nearly 8 points on Monday. After a pause for a .08 decline on Tuesday, it moved ahead nearly 3 points Wednesday and another 12 on Thursday. Then it closed out the week with a 1.33 loss.

Some added impetus was supplied at midweek by talk that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, under diplomatic pressure, might delay action or soften its position on an oil price increase.

Late in the week, however, officials in Washington cautioned that they had no hard evidence of such an impending development.

With that question still open, the market showed little response Friday to some cheerful economic news.

Government reports showed consumer prices rising at their slowest rate in seven months, and durable goods orders turning upward.

And New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust, the sixth biggest commercial bank in the country, lowered its prime lending rate from 6½ to 6¼ per cent.

No other banks moved immediately to join in cutting the basic rate on blue chip loans.

After the market closed Friday, there came two major developments for investors to ponder over the weekend.

Women artists exhibit set

"Women Artists: 1550-1950," the first international exhibit of work created by women artists, will be presented at the county Museum of Art, Los Angeles, Dec. 23-March 13.

Made possible by grants from Alcoa Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts, the exhibition will illustrate the contribution that women artists have made to Western culture during the past four centuries. It will include approximately 150 works of art, concentrating primarily on European and American painting, although a few prints and drawings will be included.

Two women specialists have been chosen by the museum as guest curators. They are Ann Sutherland Harris, Renaissance and Baroque scholar and professor of art history at the State University of New York, Albany, who will be curator for the 1550-1800 period, and Linda Nochlin, professor of art history at Vassar College, who will cover 1800-1950, a period she has studied and written about extensively.

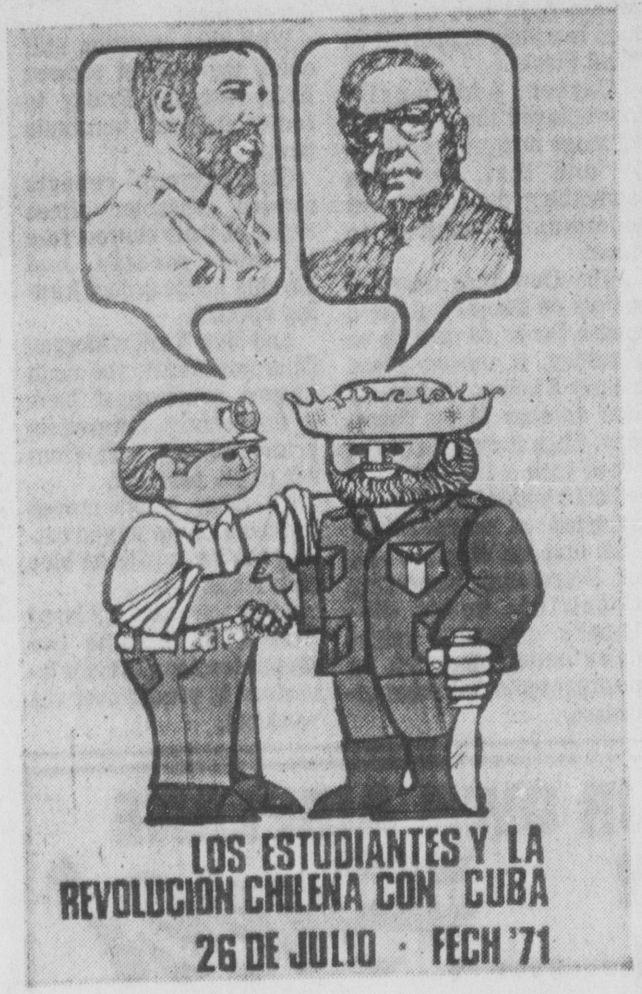
Although some of the artists included will be familiar to the general public, the majority will be recognized only by students and scholars. This is due to the fact that as women artists they have been underrated or ignored in art historical surveys, a distortion that the exhibition will attempt to correct.

Among the artists represented in the first period are: Sofonisba Anguissola, Caterina van Hemessen, Lavinia Fontana, Rachel Ruysch, Rosalba Carriera, Anne Vallayer-Coster, Artemisia Gentileschi, Judith Leyster and Marguerite Gerard.

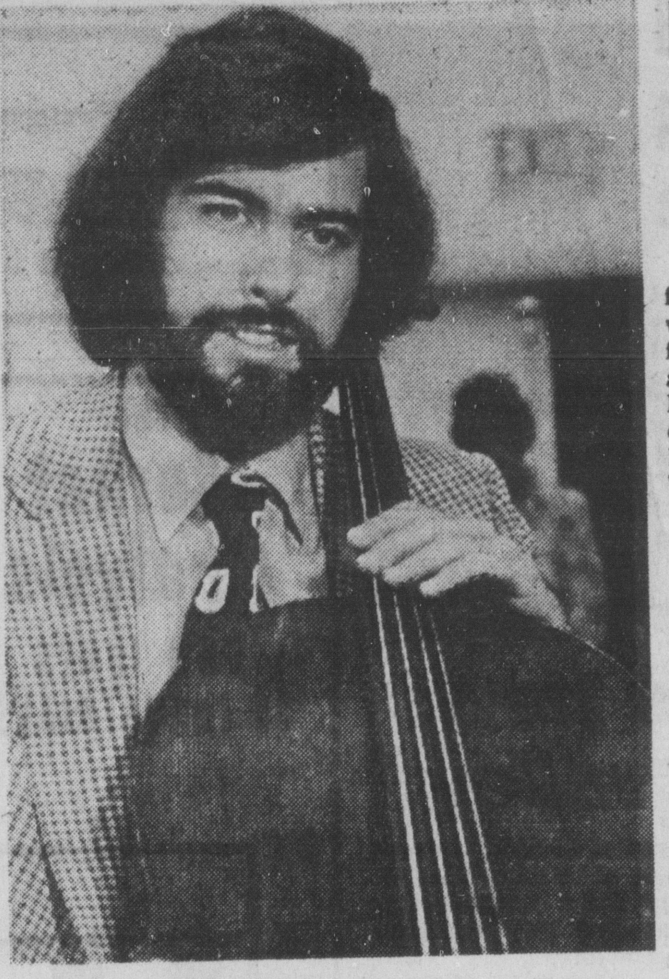
The later period will include some well-known names such as Angelica Kauffman, Mary Cassatt, Berthe Morisot, Marie Laurencin, Rosa Bonheur, Kathe Kollwitz, Sonia Delauny and Georgia O'Keeffe, as well as lesser-known artists including Pauline Auzou, Eva Gonzales, Paula Modersohn-Becker, Gabriele Munter, Vanessa Bell, Gwen John, Florine Stettheimer and Romaine Brooks.

According to Jeanne D'Andrea, the museum's coordinator of exhibitions and publications, the variety and quality of paintings in the exhibition should both surprise and delight the general public. "Paintings by women are generally seen as a minority phenomenon both numerically and in terms of historical significance," she states. "This exhibition should make clear that in terms of style, subject matter and technique there are no perceptible distinctions between the approaches of the male and female artist."

The works in the exhibition are being lent by private collectors as well as major national and international museums.



POSTER OF REVOLUTION — This is one of the works in the exhibit, "Posters of Protest and Revolution" on view through Dec. 6 at the art gallery of Mt. San Antonio College. Gallery hours are noon to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday.



PIATIGORSKY PUPIL — Daniel Smith, former cello pupil of Griegor Piatigorsky, will join violinist Barbara Nord, one-time student of Jasha Heifetz, in a performance of Brahms' Double Concerto with the Claremont Symphony Orchestra in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Admission is free.

Ballet program slated

Ballet Odyssey, a newly formed dance company, will present premiere performances of "Spectrum" and "Nutcracker in a Nutshell" at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Dec. 19 in the Municipal Art Gallery Theater, Barnsdall Park, Los Angeles. Admission is free.

The company of six will dance to the music of Vivaldi, Dvorak, Shostakovitch, Tchaikovsky and Glazunov.

Carol Lynn Bennett, director of Ballet Odyssey, in describing the group states "We live to dance, not for ourselves, but for our audiences. We want them to come with us on a journey, an odyssey, to a magic place that for a moment leaves time and place behind and becomes a dream come true a place where imagination is real."

Much of the choreography, costumes and designs are done by the dancers themselves, who are, in addition to Miss Bennett, Urs no Del Valle, Michele Hart, Tom Ray, Bert Schoenen and Manny Wong.

The sponsoring Bureau of Music George Milan coordinator, is a division of the Municipal Arts Department of the City of Los Angeles.

DARWIN DUNCAN

Artist to talk at Chino

Artist and teacher Darwin Duncan will conduct a workshop for the Chino Art Association at the Wooden Shoe, Chino, at 9:30 a.m. Monday. Reservations can be made with Billy Lee Mathis at 985-7310.

Duncan began painting many years ago when he met a young artist named Karl Albert in the desert near Victorville. Albert was painting and urged Duncan to join him. Duncan later attended art school and studied with Sam Hyde Harris. He was a draftsman for Richfield Oil Corporation for many years before becoming fine arts instructor in the adult program at Orange Coast College. After 17 years at the college he retired in 1973 to devote his time to traveling, teaching and painting.

He is a member of many art associations and keeps busy giving demonstrations, conducting workshops and judging art shows.

The Captain & Tennille

Share and share alike

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — "Love Will Keep Us Together" sang The Captain and Tenille. On the strength of that one hit record, they got themselves a TV show.

CLOSE RELATIONSHIP — Daryl Dragon and Tony Tennille say they haven't been apart for more than 11 hours since they began living together four years ago. They share everything.

But the song did more than make them rich and famous. It could be considered their national anthem. Because they claim that love will, in deed, keep them together.

They share everything, at this loving moment in their lives. They share philosophy, fortune and fads. They share a way of life, they share work, they share play. In fact, they are somewhat old-fashioned in their outlook on sharing.

Toni Tennille is a beauty, and it's easy to imagine her as a leading lady in motion pictures. But she says no, she won't do it, at least not if the film would include a love scene with her leading man.

"I'd never act in a movie," Toni says, "if there was a love scene with somebody else. I just have a feeling that that wouldn't be right, because Daryl is the only man for me."

Unlike some couples, they don't seem to feel the urge for privacy. They say that they haven't been apart for more than 11 hours since they began living together, four years ago.

They even have the same attitude toward the question of children.

"We have no plans to have any children," says Daryl Dragon, then turning the floor over to Toni, as usual, for a more detailed explanation.

"We feel strongly," she says, "that the only reason to bring children into the world would be if you thought they might make a contribution to humanity. And you just can't be sure if your own children would make such a contribution."

So they are childless, but not children-less. Toni has three sisters and Daryl has two brothers and two sisters. Among their seven siblings, they have a flock of nieces and nephews.

Uncle Daryl and Aunt Toni dote on their nieces and nephews. Tony says the kids love Daryl.

"He's wonderful with kids," she says. "He's a very funny man and he does little pantomime routines for them. He used to do them for me and that's one reason I fell in love with him. He does one in which he eats a bunch of bananas while he's hiding behind a post."

Toni and Daryl met in San Francisco. There is some similarity to their paths which brought them there.

Daryl Dragon is the son of Carmen Dragon, a famous conductor of symphonic music. He started Daryl out on the piano when he was three.

"That was too young," he says. "I had no interest in it then. But I came back to it later."

He worked with several groups, until he found his niche as the keyboard player with The Beach Boys. He was with that noted group for several years.

Meanwhile, down in Montgomery, Ala., Toni Tennille was growing up. Her father, Frank Tennille, had been a singer — with Ben Pollock and Bob Crosby — until he left the music business to take over the family furniture business in Montgomery.

She studied classical piano and voice (later dancing, too) and she did some acting. Then she, too, joined a group. They were in San Francisco when they needed a new keyboard player.

Dragon, then at loose ends, went up to San Francisco and fit right in.

"I knew right away," says Toni, "that he was going to mean something to me. I get strong feelings about people and they're usually accurate."

They began living together in 1972, and the union was legalized in 1974. By that time, they had decided to form their own group, The Captain and Tennille.

His nickname — The Captain — was given to him by one of The Beach Boys. It was a natural nickname, because he had long worn yachting caps.

Now he has 17 caps, including a tweed one he wears on special occasions. He says for a long time, when they had not yet made it, he only had two.

The hats and the nickname really have nothing to do with the sea. Daryl says he's always liked boats but has never had one. Now, when he could easily afford one, he doesn't have the time to indulge a hobby.

In fact, in common with most of those who find fame virtually overnight, they haven't the time for any luxuries. Daryl did buy a 4-wheel drive Toyota "because I've always wanted one." Toni laughs it off; she considers it a toy and says he hasn't the time now to play with it.

Her indulgence was a house. They bought one with a lot of land around it. She says she had such a house as a child and wanted one again.

"But I still drive my old Pacer," she says. "I just like it. My friends keep telling me I should buy a Rolls. But I'd feel silly driving a Rolls-Royce to the supermarket."

Toni was always tall as a child and now is a statuesque 5'11". She says that, as an adolescent, her height bothered her. She used to stoop a little, to try and minimize her stature.

"And then a memorable thing happened," she says. "When I was 13, I was confirmed and the bishop was present. He commented on my being very tall and then he said, 'Someday, you'll love being tall. You should stand up straight and be proud of your height.' Since then, I have."

Daryl is an inch taller than his wife. They even have tallness in common.

Harrison to star in 'Caesar'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rex Harrison returns to Broadway in February to star with Elizabeth Ashley in George Bernard Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra."

Prior to the Broadway opening, the show will be at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington.

Nancy Mehta to guest

Nancy Mehta will be guest commentator at the Christmas concerts of the Los Angeles Master Chorale and Sinfonia Orchestra in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 18 and at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 19.

Roger Wagner conducts.

The California Boys' Choir and the Women's Handbell Choir of the Neighborhood Church of Palos Verdes will join the 125-voice chorale for this event.

The program will include familiar carols as well as those from other countries and other times, Wagner said, and will conclude with the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah" in which the audience will be invited to participate. Several high school choirs will entertain during intermission.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling the Music Center, (213) 972-7282.

'Sister George' at Riverside

"The Killing of Sister George," a hit on Broadway and the London stage and in the movies, will be presented in the Studio Theater of UC Riverside at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and Dec. 1-4.

The poignant comedy by Frank Marcus was voted best play of its year by the London Theater Critics Circle.

It takes place in London where June Buckridge, played by Rosie John, is worried about her job as the well-known radio serial character Sister George. Her ratings are slipping, and her world, consisting entirely of her role as Sister George and her living arrangement with Alice McNaught, begins to disintegrate.

Entering June's life is BBC executive Mrs. Mercy Croft, played by Marte Boyle Slout, who as bearer of evil tidings tells June that Sister George, the radio character, will have to be killed.

A triangle of relationships develop between the women. As a counterpoint to this, there is a fortune teller — Madame Xenia, played by Carol Kubiak — who acts as a sort of counsel to June and Alice.

Director Richard Brown says, " 'Sister George' is the kind of tragic-comedy which lets us see life from the reverse side of the tapestry. It shows us the funny side of our painful moments and the dark side of our foolishness." Brown directed last year's successful UCR production of "The Holt 1 Baltimore."

Women banned

At one time women were not allowed inside a mushroom-growing house, according to National Geographic, because their presence was believed to endanger the crop.

Jazz violinist to play at UCLA's Royce Hall

Jean-Luc Ponty, French jazz violinist, will present a recital in Royce Hall, UCLA, at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 4.

Ponty has shifted musical gears several times since winning highest classical honors as a teenager. The bearded 33-year-old switched first to popular music, then to progressive jazz idioms, and finally to electronically amplified improvisational jazz-rock. He is now moving toward the free music explorations projected for the late '70s.

Ponty has performed with such outstanding talents as Frank Zappa and John McLaughlin's Mahavishnu Orchestra, winning praise from the jazz world.

Born in the Normandy region, Ponty began classical music studies at the age of five with his parents, both noted music teachers. By 13 he had left regular school to practice the violin six hours a day.

After winning first prize at the Paris Conservatory, Ponty played with a symphony orchestra for three years before launching his jazz career.

Reserved seats for Ponty's appearance may be obtained now at the UCLA central ticket office, 650 Westwood Plaza, and all Mutual and Liberty agencies.

Annual home tour slated by auxiliary

The Women's Auxiliary of the Pomona Valley Community Hospital will present its annual Holiday Homes Tour Dec. 8, from 1 to 8 p.m.

Three lovely homes in the Claraboya area of Claremont will be opened for the inspiration and pleasure of all who come to view the homes.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Carr will be formally decorated in gold and white tones. Tiny white lights will twinkle at the entry. This is the "Sugar and Spice House," and the decorative theme will be changed in the kitchen area. Here red elves will dominate along with homemade goodies for holiday festivities. Karrina Pevarnik is decorating the Carr home. Mrs. Carr will provide music at her piano during the tour.

The Boutique House is the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Whitham. This is a Mediterranean style house and Casa Flores of Claremont will follow this theme in the Christmas decorations. Colors in the formal areas will be gold, green and blue with candles to enhance. In the family room, traditional reds and greens will predominate.

Tea will be served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Clark. Decorations have been planned by Pat Mayeda and Ruth Lemaster of Claremont. In the living room adjoining the dining room will be a formal tree bedecked with pastel colored ornaments which complement the colors in the rooms. Through glass doors opening onto the terrace guests will see a living tree decorated with twinkling lights. The family room will have a small tree and casual and playful decorations.

Mrs. Edith Frances Eells is president of the auxiliary and Mrs. Lawrence Smith is the general chairman for this special event. Mrs. G.J. McGuire is coordinator of the Whitham house; Mrs. Nelson Bell of the Carr house and Mrs. B.P. Jacobs of the Clark house.

Mrs. Vincent Aylward is chairman of awards. Other chairmen include: Miss Dorothy Grant, Mrs. Herbert Hall, Mrs. Robert Bolinger, and Mrs. William Kayer, Mrs. Charles Gildersleeve, Mrs. John Richardson, Mrs. Donald Hamilton and Mrs. Jay Palmer. Treasurer is Mrs. George Mickel.

Proceeds from the tour support the Sick Baby Fund of Pomona Valley Community Hospital, offering financial assistance to needy parents faced with unusually high costs. The auxiliary also provided items needed to equip the intensive care neonatal nursery, new born nursery, and the pediatric unit.

In addition to financial contributions, the auxiliary contributes many thousand hours of service for the comfort of patients and families.

The 18 services include the surgical waiting room, aiding in dismissals, assisting the Blood Donor program, the recovery room, and the critical care unit. The Auxiliary also offers scholarships to junior volunteers entering medical fields.

Wednesday, December 8 is the date to remember. Tickets may be obtained from Auxiliary members or by telephoning the volunteer office, 623-8715 ext. 1121. Tickets are $4.

Get set fo holiday with table decor

At Thanksgiving more than at any other time, the table becomes the foca point of the celebration
It's where family and friends gather not only fo the holiday feast, but als for warm welcomes, fond reunions and good conver sation.

Age and custom have made turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie the basics of a festive Thanksgiving menu. If one is entertaining for the holi day, she will want to make her table setting as inviting and seasonal as the dinner

"Thanksgiving i traditionally a harves festival," says Anne Win field, home adviser fo
F.W. Woolworth, "s fruits, vegetables an flowers are naturals fo
table decor."

She suggests using cluster of inexpensive
baskets, each filled with different autumnal fruit. Fresh apples, oranges, pears, bananas and bunches of grapes make a colorful display and do double duty as snacks or a light dessert. Vegetables, such as brightly-hued gourds, Indian corn, dark green acorn squash and pumpkins could be used in a similar arrangement. Artificial versions of these are available if you prefer.

Another edible centerpiece can be made using various kinds of breads and muffins. "Loaves of French or Italian bread, cornmeal muffins, herbed loaves, banana or cranberry nut bread and some decorative holiday breads set on a big carving board make an interesting, off-beat centerpiece and a practical one, too," says the Woolworth adviser.

For a more traditional look, try a mixture of candles or flowers in glorious fall colors, white, gold and russet. "Don't worry about using candlesticks of different types and heights or combining several kinds of vases," Mrs. Winfield suggests, "the variety will add a touch of distinction."

If it is desired to reserve the center of the table for Tom Turkey, one might decorate each place setting individually. Small votive candles, napkins swirled attractively in colorful rings or fanned out to resemble the gobbler's tail, and tiny vases with a single flower, one for each guest, look pretty and special.

"You can add small baskets of nuts mixed with raisins for the adults, and perhaps little candy turkeys for the children," suggests the Woolworth adviser.

THE RIDGES—VIEW ORIENTED COMMUNITY IN WALNUT

The Ridges

Single family view featured

The Ridges, a new single family, view oriented community in Walnut, announces its grand opening reports William N. Kennicott, President of Southern Development Company, builders and developers.

"Four beautifully decorated models by Robert Minnex Associates of Los Angeles, are available for viewing," stated Kennicott. "The homebuyer has a chance to see the furnished and decorated floorplan of his choice, instead of selecting from blueprints and renderings."

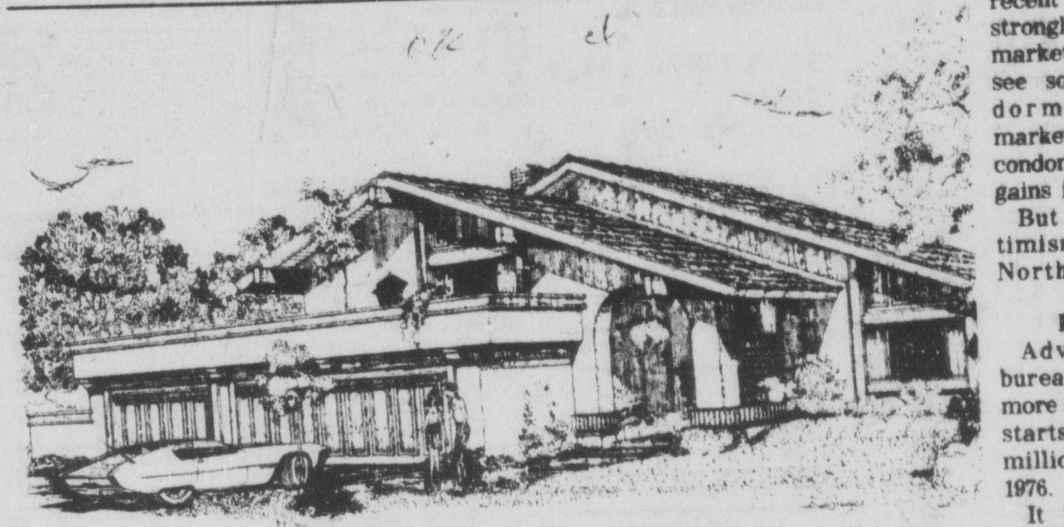
There are 158 homes, valued at over $8 million, scheduled for completion by the fall of 1977. Single and two-story homes designed by Hales-Langston of Orange feature three and four bedrooms, and are priced from $52,000 to $68,000. Homes contain 1,413 to 1,981 square feet.

"Due to pre-opening buyer interest, phase one, containing 46 homes has been sold out. Phase two, containing 66 homes, due for completion in the Spring of 1977, has also met with excellent buyer interest. Over half the homes have been sold, but there is still a wide selection of homes available." Kennicott stated. "We feel this exceptional response is due in part to the large view lots, exciting floorplans and architecture, and the obvious value these spacious homes offer."

Custom quality features include 100 per cent nylon carpeting throughout, custom fireplaces, vaulted ceilings, wet bars, double door entries, tile or cedar shake roofs, open-garden kitchens with pantries, luminous ceilings, ceramic tile counter tops, breakfast bars, eye-level continuous-clean oven, range and dishwasher. Vaulted ceilings grace the master bedroom suites. Large master baths, some featuring luminous ceilings and double pullmans, have roman tubs, most accentuated by glass enclosed planters.

Landscape architects were Becknell-Villa of Costa Mesa.

The Ridges sales office is at 19885 E. Calle Granada, located just east of Nogales Street and north of La Puente Road. It may be reached by exiting Pomona Freeway at Nogales Street turnoff and driving north to La Puente Road. Turn right and follow signs to furnished models.



LEWIS EUCLID SERIES

Located in Upland

Elegance in Euclid homes

Reservations for ownership are being taken by Lewis Homes for its new Euclid Series development of single-family homes, described by building company vice-president Roger G. Lewis as marking a "return to elegance both in palatial decor and huge lot sites."

The development centers on the west side of Euclid Avenue, one-half block south of 19th Street, Upland.

Lewis noted that reservations were started just 11 days ago and already account for 11 of the 19 homes.

Euclid Series homes are designed in single-story and split level models, set on 20,000-square-foot lots. Floor plans are arranged with four bedrooms and 2½ baths, and measure up to 2,719 square feet of actual living area.

Purchase price, including refrigerated air-conditioning, is from $85,500 to $89,000, with financing on conventional terms.

Shake roofs, three-car garages and tiled entry foyers are features quickly noted in an inspection of the homes. Wet bars and roof decks are style appeals noted in various models.

Stating that "we have designed the Euclid Series to win the approval of the most demanding home buyers," pointed out that kitchens number microwave ovens among their appliances and feature tiled cooking counters.

The development may be reached from the San Bernardino Freeway or Foothill Boulevard by turning north on Euclid Avenue to models, which are located just below 19th Street.

Sales information at the models is available today 10 a.m. to dusk. On weekdays, information may be obtained at another Lewis Homes development, The Prestige Series, at 22nd Street and San Antonio Avenue.

Median home price up

The median price of an existing home in California jumped to $50,298 in September, which represents a 2.8 per cent increase over the previous month.

This is particularly noteworthy in light of the fact that the median price fell one half of one per cent during the preceding month of August. These statistics were announced today by the Research Department of the 88,000-member California Association of Realtors. CAR conducts a monthly survey in order to keep track of current housing trends.

The September increase means that the average price of an existing home was $1,380 more than in August.

Business opportunity

Realty seminar set in Anaheim

Something new has been added by the state Realtors' organization just before the old year ends.

An entirely new two-day course, Business Opportunities Seminar, is being offered by the Investment Division of the 88,000-member California Association of Realtors. Sessions will be held Dec. 1 and 2, at the Inn at the Park, 1855 South Harbor Blvd., Anaheim, near Disneyland.

The purpose of the course, according to Marvin Cohen of Van Nuys, Investment Division chairman, is many fold.

For example, he said, it's to answer such questions as what is a business opportunity? How does it differ from a real estate venture? What are the benefits and rewards of owning a business? How does a person find or start a good business?

The seminar will be taught by two Realtor experts, David T. Schumacher of Hermosa Beach and Mrs. Evelyn Walsh of Hawthorne.

Building trends:

Prospects cary by area

Whether 1976 has been a sensational, a dismal or a comfortable housing year depends on where you live.

On the West Coast and in Texas, this has been the best year ever for single-family building and the third best for total starts.

In the Northeast, new housing is at the lowest ebb — except for last year — since immediately after World War II, and in Florida it is half the average rate of the past decade.

In the remaining 34 states, this has been an above-average housing year, especially for single-family, but far from a record

And the market will continue lopsided into 1977.

These are findings of Advance Mortgage Corporation's Economic Research Bureau which reported this week on housing activity through the third quarter of this year.

The outlook for housing gains in 1977, says Advance Mortgage president Robert J. Mylod, has brightened in recent weeks because of a strongly easing mortgage market. Next year should see some revival in the dormant apartment market, a resurgence in condominiums and further gains in single-family.

But none of this optimism applies to the Northeast or Florida.

PROJECTIONS

Advance's research bureau projects slightly more than 1.5 million total starts and close to 1.2 million single-family in 1976.

It looks for about 1.8 million total starts in 1977, of which about 1.3 million should be single-family.

Because the Northeast and Florida will remain depressed housing markets, those numbers should make 1977 close to a record year in both single-family and total production in the remaining 40 states.

Even 1976 has been a very good year — much better than generally recognized — for the country outside the Northeast and Florida. In the remaining 40 states, it will be the third best year for single-family starts, next only to 1955 and 1950. It will have been the best year for total starts except for the booms in 1971-73 and 1950.

REASONS FOR OPTIMISM

Mylod cites three factors for the upturn he expects in 1977.

The single-family market in many areas is even stronger than the statistics show, and increases in production are needed to overtake the demand.

In Chicago, for example, a number of large builders are sold out a year and a half ahead of production. In Southern California, waiting lists are so long that buyers camp out to be the first in line when a new tract goes on sale; other tracts are sold by lotteries and some by bidding contests.

The recovery in the apartment market, so often heralded, is at last breaking through. It will be a modest recovery in 1977 — to only about half the levels reached in the 1971-73 boom. And it will still be stronger in California than elsewhere.

Mortgage rates, for both homes and apartments, are under strong downward pressure, as a result of unexpectedly sustained high savings flows and increased competition among lenders.

By spring the conventional home mortgage rate should be down to 8½ per cent, perhaps 8¼ per cent (for prime risks) compared to the present 8¾ percent (9 per cent in California). FHA-VA mortgage yields are already in the 8-8¼ per cent range.

Conventional rates have already dropped ¼ per cent since the summer. FHA-VA yields have dropped ½ per cent.

RIPE FOR RECOVERY

Mylod cites several harbingers of apartment upturn.

Rental vacancies in the U.S. outside the Northeast are the lowest in at least 20 years, according to Census Bureau figures. They are especially low by historical standards in the West and Southwest.

Many local markets have vacancy rates in modern apartments in the 2-3 per cent range — too low to allow for normal turnover. Even markets which are softer overall, like Atlanta, have sectors with high occupancy.

Dancers scheduled on float

In previous years, seven was the maximum number of persons permitted to ride a float in the Rose Parade.

This year there will be a deviation from that rule for the float entered by the Square Dancers of America, Inc. There will be a "square" of live dancers dancing on the float, and it takes eight persons to form the square.

A contest was open to all square dancers between the ages of 18 and 40 to ride the float. The deadline for applications passed and recently the names of the persons who will be dancing on the float were drawn at a "Float the Float" benefit dance, held to raise funds to help pay for the float, at Palomares Community Center in Pomona.

Approximately 300 persons attended the dance, and watched as Christine Henderson, drew the winners.

There will be three couples from outside the State of California and one couple from California. The out-of-state couples whose names were drawn are: Dale and Carol Keirns, Columbus, Ohio; Phil and Barbara Sabin, Bryans Road, Md.; and Steven Chavin and Sue Pawlan, Champaign, Ill. The California winners are Howie and Dale Korman of Torrance.

Claremont Travel film slated Friday

The second presentation of the Claremont Travel Film Series for the 23rd season is scheduled in Grrison Theater Friday at 2 p.m. and at 8 p.m.

Jonathan Hagar, a favorite of the Claremont audiences, will narrate an outstanding and exciting picture, "Immortal Poland."

Mr. Hagar brings to the film-lecture platform a long background in newspaper work. Drawing on experience gained as a reporter, feature writer and photo editor, he uses his camera and in-person narration to tell absorbing stories of the lands and peoples he visits. He is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism and is a member of honorary, professional and photo-journalism fraternities. He makes his home in St. Louis, where for 10 years he was photo editor of the Globe-Democrat.

The film highlights include Warsaw, Cracow, Baltic Coast, Tatra Mountains, Upper Silesia, Lower Silesia and Wroclaw. Emphasis will be on the way the Poles live today in both their major industrial centers and their most scenic and historic regions.

The Claremont Travel Film Series is a benefit project for the development fund of Pomona College.

Chairman of the series is Mrs. Milo Tigner. She is assisted by Mrs. Wesley eighton, Mrs. Roy Miller, Miss Esther Ballew, Mrs. Charles Gill, Mrs. Earle Jones, Mrs. Jackson Niebrugge and Mrs. Stuart Wheeler.

Single tickets for the presentation may be purchased at the box office for each performance. Season tickets are available for the afternoon series only. Courtesy coffee will again be served in the foyer during intermission at the evening performance. Members of the Travel Film Committee will be hostesses at the door of the theater.

THE RIDGES—VIEW ORIENTED COMMUNITY IN WALNUT

The Ridges

Single family view featured

The Ridges, a new single family, view oriented community in Walnut, announces its grand opening reports William N. Kennicott, President of Southern Development Company, builders and developers.

"Four beautifully decorated models by Robert Minnex Associates of Los Angeles, are available for viewing," stated Kennicott. "The homebuyer has a chance to see the furnished and decorated floorplan of his choice, instead of selecting from blueprints and renderings."

There are 158 homes, valued at over $8 million, scheduled for completion by the fall of 1977. Single and two-story homes designed by Hales-Langston of Orange feature three and four bedrooms, and are priced from $52,000 to $68,000. Homes contain 1,413 to 1,981 square feet.

"Due to pre-opening buyer interest, phase one, containing 46 homes has been sold out. Phase two, containing 66 homes, due for completion in the Spring of 1977, has also met with excellent buyer interest. Over half the homes have been sold, but there is still a wide selection of homes available." Kennicott stated. "We feel this exceptional response is due in part to the large view lots, exciting floorplans and architecture, and the obvious value these spacious homes offer."

Custom quality features include 100 per cent nylon carpeting throughout, custom fireplaces, vaulted ceilings, wet bars, double door entries, tile or cedar shake roofs, open-garden kitchens with pantries, luminous ceilings, ceramic tile counter tops, breakfast bars, eye-level continuous-clean oven, range and dishwasher. Vaulted ceilings grace the master bedroom suites. Large master baths, some featuring luminous ceilings and double pullmans, have roman tubs, most accentuated by glass enclosed planters.

Landscape architects were Becknell-Villa of Costa Mesa.

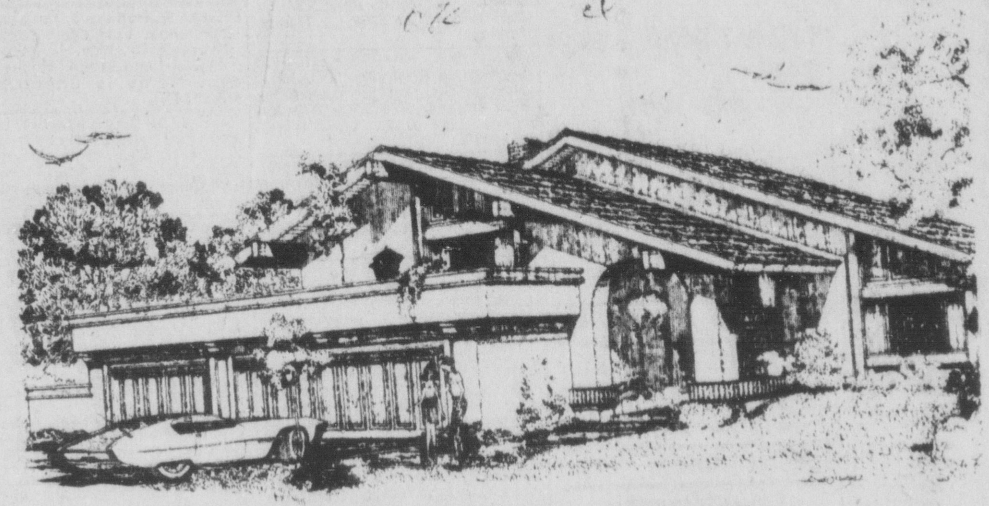
The Ridges sales office is at 19885 E. Calle Granada, located just east of Nogales Street and north of La Puente Road. It may be reached by exiting Pomona Freeway at Nogales Street turnoff and driving north to La Puente Road. Turn right and follow signs to furnished models.

Median home price up

The median price of an existing home in California jumped to $50,298 in September, which represents a 2.8 per cent increase over the previous month.

This is particularly noteworthy in light of the fact that the median price fell one half of one per cent during the preceding month of August. These statistics were announced today by the Research Department of the 88,000-member California Association of Realtors. CAR conducts a monthly survey in order to keep track of current housing trends.

The September increase means that the average price of an existing home was $1,380 more than in August.



LEWIS EUCLID SERIES

Located in Upland

Elegance in Euclid homes

Reservations for ownership are being taken by Lewis Homes for its new Euclid Series development of single-family homes, described by building company vice-president Roger G. Lewis as marking a "return to elegance both in palatial decor and huge lot sites."

The development centers on the west side of Euclid Avenue, one-half block south of 19th Street, Upland.

Lewis noted that reservations were started just 11 days ago and already account for 11 of the 19 homes.

Euclid Series homes are designed in single-story and split level models, set on 20,000-square-foot lots. Floor plans are arranged with four bedrooms and 2½ baths, and measure up to 2,719 square feet of actual living area.

Purchase price, including refrigerated air-conditioning, is from $85,500 to $89,000, with financing on conventional terms.

Shake roofs, three-car garages and tiled entry foyers are features quickly noted in an inspection of the homes. Wet bars and roof decks are style appeals noted in various models.

Stating that "we have designed the Euclid Series to win the approval of the most demanding home buyers," pointed out that kitchens number microwave ovens among their appliances and feature tiled cooking counters.

The development may be reached from the San Bernardino Freeway or Foothill Boulevard by turning north on Euclid Avenue to models, which are located just below 19th Street.

Sales information at the models is available today 10 a.m. to dusk. On weekdays, information may be obtained at another Lewis Homes development, The Prestige Series, at 22nd Street and San Antonio Avenue.

Business opportunity

Realty seminar set in Anaheim

Something new has been added by the state Realtors' organization just before the old year ends.

An entirely new two-day course, Business Opportunities Seminar, is being offered by the Investment Division of the 86,000-member California Association of Realtors. Sessions will be held Dec. 1 and 2, at the Inn at the Park, 1855 South Harbor Blvd., Anaheim, near Disneyland.

The purpose of the course, according to Marvin Cohen of Van Nuys, Investment Division chairman, is many fold.

For example, he said, it's to answer such questions as what is a business opportunity? How does it differ from a real estate venture? What are the benefits and rewards of owning a business? How does a person find or start a good business?

The seminar will be taught by two Realtor experts, David T. Schumacher of Hermosa Beach and Mrs. Evelyn Walsh of Hawthorne.

Building trends:

Prospects cary by area

Whether 1976 has been a sensational, a dismal or a comfortable housing year depends on where you live.

On the West Coast and in Texas, this has been the best year ever for single-family building and the third best for total starts.

In the Northeast, new housing is at the lowest ebb — except for last year — since immediately after World War II, and in Florida it is half the average rate of the past decade.

In the remaining 34 states, this has been an above-average housing year, especially for single-family, but far from a record

And the market will continue lopsided into 1977.

These are findings of Advance Mortgage Corporation's Economic Research Bureau which reported this week on housing activity through the third quarter of this year.

The outlook for housing gains in 1977, says Advance Mortgage president Robert J. Mylod, has brightened in recent weeks because of a strongly easing mortgage market. Next year should see some revival in the dormant apartment market, a resurgence in condominiums and further gains in single-family.

But none of this optimism applies to the Northeast or Florida.

PROJECTIONS

Advance's research bureau projects slightly more than 1.5 million total starts and close to 1.2 million single-family in 1976.

It looks for about 1.8 million total starts in 1977, of which about 1.3 million should be single-family.

Because the Northeast and Florida will remain depressed housing markets, those numbers should make 1977 close to a record year in both single-family and total production in the remaining 40 states.

Even 1976 has been a very good year — much better than generally recognized — for the country outside the Northeast and Florida. In the remaining 40 states, it will be the third best year for single-family starts, next only to 1955 and 1950. It will have been the best year for total starts except for the booms in 1971-73 and 1950.

REASONS FOR OPTIMISM

Mylod cites three factors for the upturn he expects in 1977.

The single-family market in many areas is even stronger than the statistics show, and increases in production are needed to overtake the demand.

In Chicago, for example, a number of large builders are sold out a year and a half ahead of production. In Southern California, waiting lists are so long that buyers camp out to be the first in line when a new tract goes on sale; other tracts are sold by lotteries and some by bidding contests.

The recovery in the apartment market, so often heralded, is at last breaking through. It will be a modest recovery in 1977 — to only about half the levels reached in the 1971-73 boom. And it will still be stronger in California than elsewhere.

Mortgage rates, for both homes and apartments, are under strong downward pressure, as a result of unexpectedly sustained high savings flows and increased competition among lenders.

By spring the conventional home mortgage rate should be down to 8½ per cent, perhaps 8¼ per cent (for prime risks) compared to the present 8¾ percent (9 per cent in California). FHA-VA mortgage yields are already in the 8-8¼ per cent range.

Conventional rates have already dropped ¼ per cent since the summer. FHA-VA yields have dropped ½ per cent.

RIPE FOR RECOVERY

Mylod cites several harbingers of apartment upturn.

Rental vacancies in the U.S. outside the Northeast are the lowest in at least 20 years, according to Census Bureau figures. They are especially low by historical standards in the West and Southwest.

Many local markets have vacancy rates in modern apartments in the 2-3 per cent range — too low to allow for normal turnover. Even markets which are softer overall, like Atlanta, have sectors with high occupancy.

DO YOU HAVE THE 8 HOUR HUM DRUM BLUES?

When was the last time you had an opportunity to manage your own small business without a $20,000 to $30,000 investment? When was the last day you were able to go to work without having to face the same boring 8 hour routine! When was the last time that your career offered you a challenge worthy of your ability? If you can't remember when then perhaps its time we discuss it.

I'm with the Nation's 4th largest Food Retailer and I am searching for career minded sales people in the West San Gabriel Valley area only, interested in not only selling to 350 of my established fine customers on a regular basis but, also handling the administrative portion of our business.

You'll have the freedom of a small business owner but without the investment. The only thing that I ask you to invest in is your time. You'll have the responsibility and challenge of managing a small business but you'll have the security in fringe benefits of a large corporation, such as hospitalization, profit sharing, vacation, company vehicles, etc. Average earnings usually in excess of $12,000 per year. What I am offering is not too good to be true it requires long hours and hard work, but if it sounds of interest to you . . .

FUN FACTS® from WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT GUM

CAMELS ARE RARELY OBSERVED SWEATING. AS THE TEMPERATURE GOES UP, SO DOES A CAMEL'S BODY TEMPERATURE, SOMETIMES AS MUCH AS ELEVEN DEGREES.

THE PEARL IS THE ONLY GEM WHICH DOES NOT HAVE TO BE POLISHED; IT HAS ITS OWN NATURAL IRIDESCENT LUSTER.

IN EARLY ENGLAND, A WHIPPING BOY WAS AN UNFORTUNATE YOUNGSTER APPOINTED TO RECEIVE ANY CHASTISEMENT EARNED BY THE SON OF A ROYAL FAMILY.

DEEP IN THE TUFT AT THE END OF A LION'S TAIL THERE IS A HORN-LIKE SPUR, WHICH HAS NO APPARENT USEFUL FUNCTION.

You'll like the big, long-lasting flavor.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

LIONEL LONGSON OF PROVO, UT, ASKS: "HOW ARE CLOTHES DRY-CLEANED?"

SOME FABRICS, SUCH AS WOOL AND SILK, MAY FADE OR SHRINK IF WASHED IN SOAP AND WATER. SO THESE FABRICS ARE DRY-CLEANED INSTEAD. THE CLOTHES ARE PUT INTO A WASHER FILLED WITH A CLEANING SOLVENT. THE CLOTHES TUMBLE IN THE SOLVENT UNTIL THE DIRT IS WASHED OUT. ANOTHER MACHINE WILL SPIN THE SOLVENT OUT OF THEM. THE CLOTHES ARE DRIED IN A TUMBLER THAT TUMBLES THEM AROUND, WHILE WARM AIR IS BLOWN THROUGH THEM. FINALLY, THE CLOTHES WILL BE PRESSED FOR WEARING.

DEAR POLLY — Don't discard that empty roll-on deodorant or perfume bottle. Save it to use for sealing envelopes, applying stamps or pasting stamps you may be saving in a book. The roll-on top is easily removed, making it a cinch to clean and fill with water. —MRS.W.C.P.

DEAR POLLY — A quick and easy way to clean lettuce or other greens is to put them in a large open mesh bag, and give it a few shakes in a big bowl of clear water. They come out clean and fresh. — MIN.

Send your helpful hints to Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — An 87-year-old friend gave me this Pointer. I promised I would send it to you: Take a very small paintbrush and dip it in water to use for wiping off the leaves on your house plants. — ANNA.

DEAR POLLY — When hemming the legs of men's trousers with iron-on tape, I place the wrong side of the tape and the pants (with narrow hem turned up) and machine-baste through tape and pants. Press, not iron, with a hot iron, remove the long stitches and have a perfect hem. — MRS. R.D.H. (Polly's note — The sample included with this hint was about the neatest job I have ever seen.)

DEAR POLLY — Those who cannot bend down to wash out the bathtub because of back trouble could use a sponge mop with a long handle. Put liquid cleaner on the damp mop and clean the tub while standing up. This is ideal. —J.D.H.

DEAR POLLY — I have a quick way to trim frosted cakes. Place a cookie cutter on the frosting, and then sprinkle inside it with multicolored decorettes. Use several designs on one cake or repeat the same one all around the top. —BESSIE.

DEAR POLLY — One of my beautiful glass pitchers became wedged inside another pitcher as I was soaking them. Nothing would get them apart until, in desperation, I put a drop of machine oil on the wedged places, filled the top pitcher with crushed ice and let them stand for four or five minutes. The top one lifted out without any stress. — H.M.C.

DEAR POLLY — Lids from potato chip canister cans can be put between records on a spindle. Cut away the rim until only a small portion extends, put a hole in the center and the records will not get scratched. — MRS. H.H.

Flip Wilson and Nadia Comaneci

'THE LITTLE GIRL WHO COULD'

They arrive in a flurry of pigtails, ponytails, ribbons, books and school uniforms. Nadia Comaneci is suddenly a quiet 14-year-old school girl instead of a world-famous Olympic gymnast. She stands there, surrounded by her girlfriends, in her school in Onesi, Romania.

Nadia and her classmates all want to go to the local movie theater to see "The Count of Monte Cristo," starring Richard Chamberlain, but first they must participate in the filming of a television entertainment special, "Nadia—From Romania With Love," airing Tuesday at 8PM on CBS.

"At first I was anxious to have the filming over with," Nadia said, "because it disrupted my school work and gym practice. But when I understood that so many people came so far to do this, it became a challenge and fun to do."

No stranger to challenges, Nadia spoke of her gymnastic practice sessions. "I must do over and over again, the precise movements which are a part of the gymnastic routine. When I concentrate on this work I say to myself, 'I must do better, I must do better!'"

In 1969, Nadia competed in the junior national championships of Romania, finishing in 13th place. The next year, she won. She hasn't lost a competition since. "Nadia is the best gymnast in the world," says her coach, Bela Karolyi. "My wife Marta, who is also a gym coach, and I, discovered Nadia in the playground of a school when she was only six years old. She was running and doing things, pretending to be a gymnast. She showed promise, then. Now we continue working to develop perfection so she will get nothing but a perfect score in every event in a single competition."

In between the constant exercise sessions, which she pursues two hours in the morning and two hours in the afternoon, she goes to school, like any girl her age.

Nadia eats a minumum of sweets, however, and is kept on a nutritious diet, prepared by her mother. She lives with her family in a new building near her school, and studies in the school dormitory. By and large, her daily activity is that of an average 14-year-old school girl, with a very strong dose of discipline, however. "It is part of the training," she says in a no-nonsense way. "I am a gymnast and I must concentrate on that."

NBC, which pioneered network broadcasting in this country starting Nov. 15, 1926, celebrates its 50th year of broadcasting service to the nation with an unprecedented four-and-a-half-hour, prime-time Special, "The First Fifty Years," on NBC, Sunday from 7 to 11:30PM. Orson Welles, actor/writer/producer, and possessor of many more talents, acts as narrator of the Big Event Special. Stars, hosting different segments, include Johnny Carson, Dean Martin, Gene Kelly, Angie Dickinson, George C. Scott, Gregory Peck, Jack Albertson and Freddie Prinze. David Brinkley, who has been with NBC for more than 30 years, will host the news segment. Joe Garagiola hosts the World Series section of sports, and Don Meredith, the pro football sports segment.

PERFORMERS GALORE

Carol Burnett and Beverly Sills, each an outstanding artist in the entertainment world, appear together for the first time when they star in "Sills and Burnett at the Met," a CBS Special on Thursday at 10PM. The hour-long production was taped before an audience at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City. For Miss Burnett, this will be her third musical special performed in one of New York City's cultural centers. The two prior specials, in which she performed with Julie Andrews, were the award-winning "Julie and Carol at Carnegie Hall," and "Julie and Carol at Lincoln Center." As were Miss Burnett's two previous specials with Miss Andrews, "Sills and Burnett at the Met," will be a two-woman show.

Variety Clubs International hosts "An All-Star Party for John Wayne," a one-hour Special on ABC, Friday at 8PM. Wayne is pictured here with Variety Club's Monty Hall and Frank Sinatra—who will act as host for the Special. Wayne has outgrown about all the adjectives used to describe star performers...he is, quite simply, an institution in the entertainment world, and his friends and fans are legion. Variety Clubs International started 50 years ago and since that time has raised more than 300 million dollars for underprivileged and handicapped children. Proceeds from ABC's coverage of this Special will go to Variety Clubs to further the charitable work of the organization which now has "Tents" (chapters) in 25 major U.S. cities and a number in other countries.

Starting tonight David Sheehan explores the current obsession with the supernatural. He'll talk to the stars and directors who created the cult… Gregory Peck, Richard Burton, Linda Blair, Louise Fletcher, and others. And he'll show you scenes from their spine-chilling films. CLOSE-UP

'VULNERABLE COP'

On CBS Sunday nights at 9PM nowadays, you'll find the screen filled with Kojak—a police detective who speaks with a nasally-reverberating New York accent. Stay tuned from 10 to 11PM, and your screen is filled with Delvecchio, a second police detective with a nasally reverberating New York acccent.

Too much of a good thing—like chocolate cake? Well, not if you're a nasal reverberation buff. Besides, the similiarity between the first cop (Telly Savalas) and the second one (Judd Hirsch), ends with the accent. The pair provide an appealing contrast.

Kojak is a tough tamale who gives the impression that he always has the situation well in hand, even when he may not. He isn't given to making mistakes by acting emotionally and impulsively—and if he did, it would be hard to envision him agonizing over them. On the other hand, that's precisely the kind of guy Delvecchio is. He has a definite vulnerability. He can be had—and sometimes is—because he is capable of doing or saying things he may well regret later.

Then there's the matter of his relationship with his partner, Shonski, played by Charles Haid. Whereas Delvecchio has a tendency to become emotionally involved, Shonski is a rather bovine type who feels his job is just that...a job, not a crusade. Because this difference opens up ground for disagreement, the two partners frequently argue...they even shout. But this is strictly play-acting on Hirsch's part. Off camera he is mostly unflappable, deliberate and analytical—something like the real-life Kojak.

And this probably explains why his first serious ambition was to be an engineer. He studied engineering and, later, architecture in college and ended up with a degree in physics from CCNY. Hirsch is still strongly attracted to the field of physics and is sure except that for the accident that lured him into acting he would today be working in aerospace science.

While native New Yorker Hirsch was attending CCNY, he enrolled in an acting class out of desperation because classes in the elective subjects he really wanted to take were full. To his surprise he was captivated by the class and later, with his physics degree in hand, he wasted no time enrolling in dramatic school.

Haid's course to acting was laid unwittingly by his grandfather, the late Roy S. Folger, a noted raconteur who was president of San Francisco's prestigious Bohemian Club. Folger felt he was a natural for acting and yearned to go south to Hollywood and try his hand but never did. Nevertheless, his yearning influenced his grandson, Charlie, who entered Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh to study theatrical directing after serving three years in the Navy submarine service. To date Haid has spent most of his career in directing, producing and acting in stage productions on the East Coast.

Number three in the regular cast of Delvecchio is Michael Conrad, who appears as the irrascible boss of Delvecchio and Shonski, Det. Lt. Macavan. Conrad is a New Yorker who has been acting in Hollywood since 1963 and lives in Malibu, where he spends some of his spare time doing recreational long distance running.

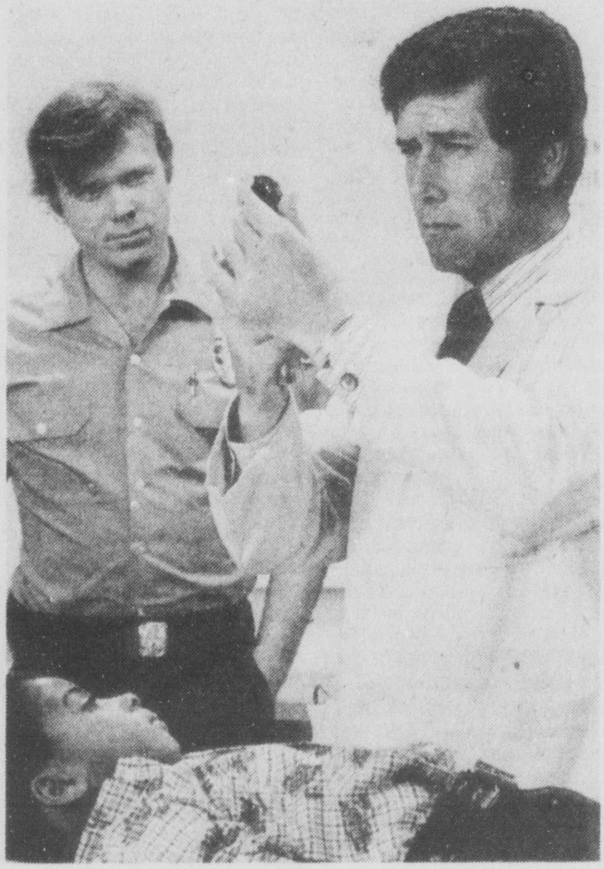
'PARAMEDIC GROUPS PAY ATTENTION'



Paramedic organizations throughout the United States are lauding NBC's Emergency series for its practical demonstrations of innovative equipment as well as for its authentic dramatizations of paramedics' real-life exploits in emergency medical care. Good examples of the attention given the top-rated series by emergency crews around the country are the recent responses to "The Game," the episodes that launched the sixth season of the popular series seen Saturdays at 8PM on NBC.

A reporter for the Fort Myers News-Press in Naples, Fla., called the Emergency production office to inquire about a new ambulance used in the segment. Apparently, the community was in the process of buying one just like it and wanted some information about it. The reporter, Donna Jablonski, said: "We understand that ours is the 'sister' of the one used on the show—that is, ours is the second one off the assembly line and the one on Emergency was the first."

Series executive producer Robert A. Cinader confirmed that Emergency does have the first such model produced by a custom ambulance manufacturer in Texas. "I was happy to recommend it," said Cinader. "It has all the latest modern emergency equipment. What we particularly like about it is the size. It is larger than any others we've had and enables us to film scenes inside the vehicle more easily."

Gary Griessinger, a paramedic with the Mundelein Fire Department in a Chicago, Illinois suburb, called to ask about a belt pouch worn by Emergency stars Kevin Tighe and Randy Mantooth. "We've been looking for something just like that," said Griessinger, "and since we were just in the process of ordering new equipment for our unit, I thought I'd check to see if it was really on the market. It's something we'd never seen before."

The belt provides a simple means for carrying small but key items such as a flashlight, shears, knife, etc. It was custom-designed for Tighe and Mantooth for use on the show and is now being produced by Bob McCullough, a paramedic with the Santa Clarita Valley, Calif., fire-rescue squad—and an occasional technical adviser on Emergency.

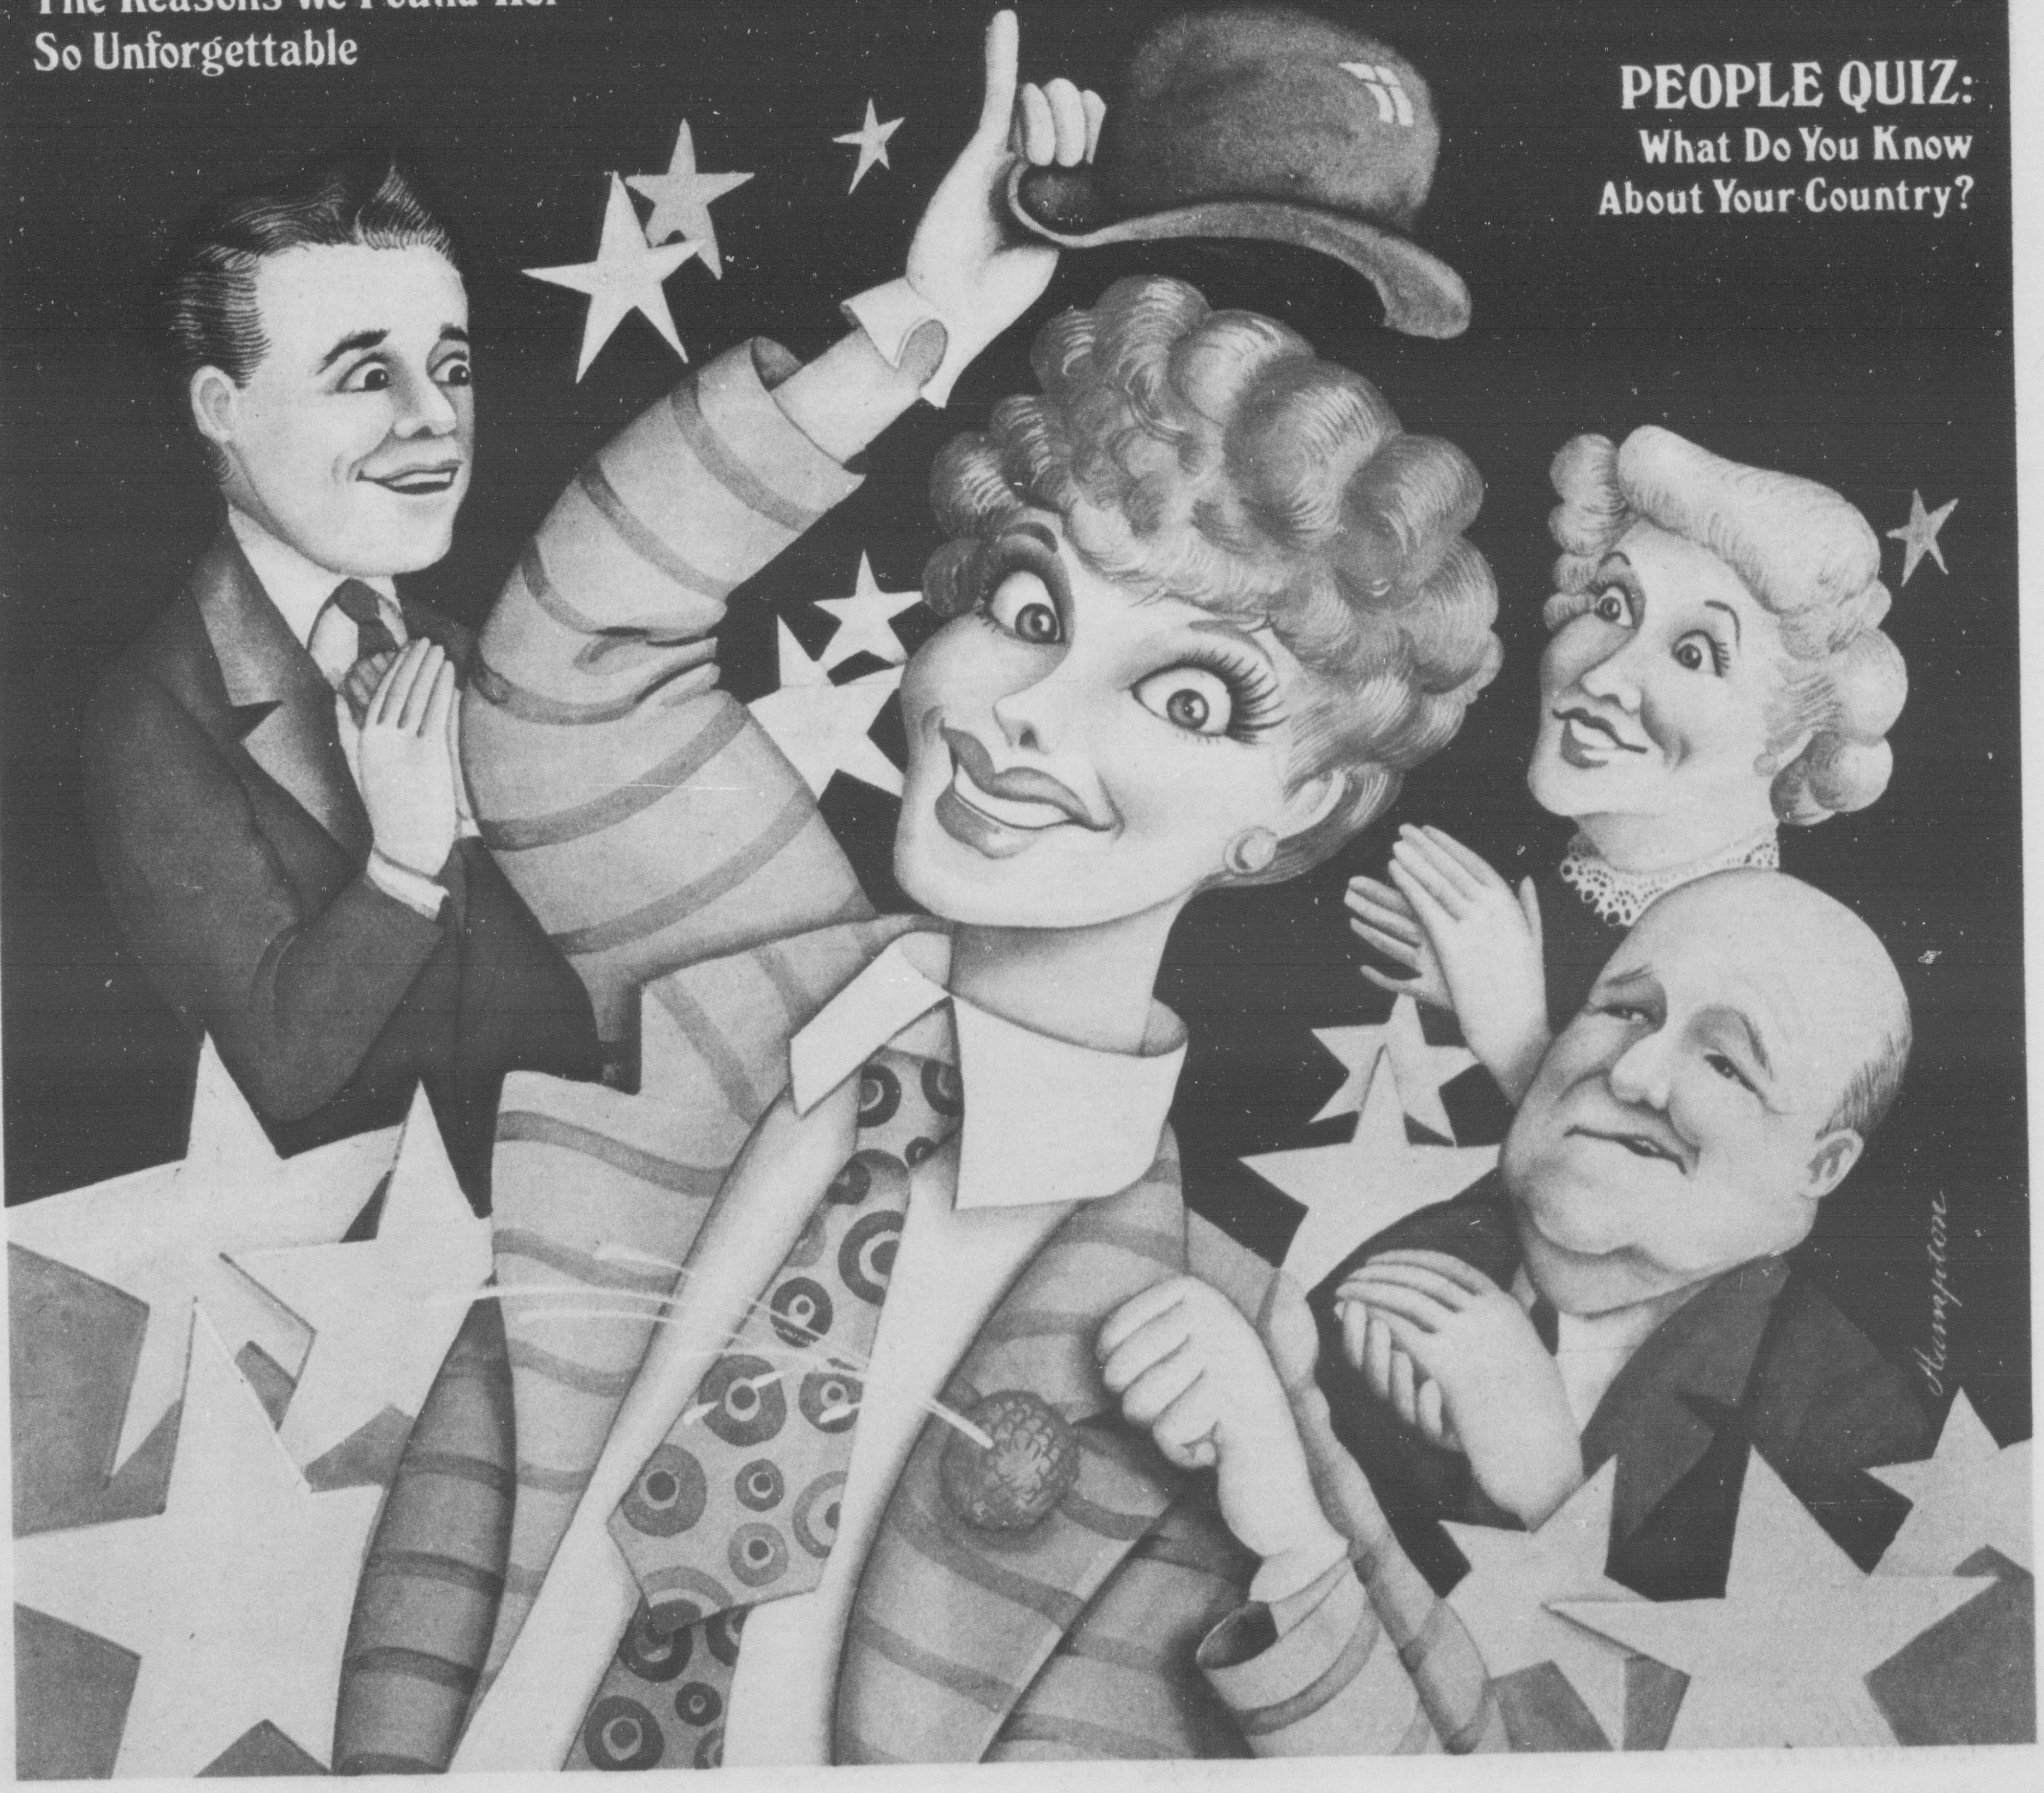
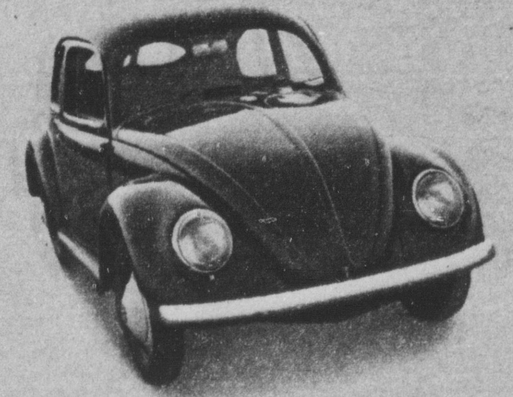
LUCILLE BALL:
The Reasons We Found Her So Unforgettable

WHY I GIVE THANKS:
Dr. Norman Vincent Peale

PEOPLE QUIZ:
What Do You Know About Your Country?





A whole generation grew up with it. And now...

27 years and 33 million cars later, there's a whole new generation of Volkswagens.

The 1977 Rabbit, Dasher, and Scirocco.

Three of the most remarkable cars ever built, these Volkswagens feature highly advanced engineering. Such as fuel-injection. Front-wheel drive. Front-disc brakes. And precise rack-and-pinion steering.

And all three get 24 MPG in the city. Rabbit and Scirocco get 37 MPG on the highway, Dasher gets 36. (EPA estimates with standard transmission. Actual mileage depends on how and where you drive, optional equipment and the car's condition.)

Rabbit. Hailed by automotive experts as the specific kind of car Detroit will be building in the 1980's. Six years in the making, that car is ready now, when America needs it. Small outside. Big inside. With the rear seat folded down, it has more trunk space than some American cars twice its size. And from 0 to 60, it will outaccelerate a Jaguar XJ6-L.* Room. Performance. Economy. It's more Volkswagen than you've ever had before.

A new generation of Volkswagens for a new generation of Americans.

Dasher. It's the first elegant automobile with all the virtues of a Volkswagen. In appointments, it has a luxurious interior, with reclining bucket seats and rich carpeting. It even comes with a quartz-crystal clock. In performance, it can travel from 0 to 50 in 8.0 seconds and still keep its road manners. Extravagant, yet not opulent. We call it "the sensible luxury car."

Scirocco. It's the Volkswagen that people can't believe is a Volkswagen. It looks like an Italian sportscar because Giugiaro designed it. And it performs like a powerful German sportscar because it has a powerful fuel-injected overhead cam engine. In fact, Scirocco, our racing Volkswagen, just won the 1976 Trans Am Championship for cars under two liters.

The Rabbit, Dasher and Scirocco. Times have changed, America. And so have Volkswagens.

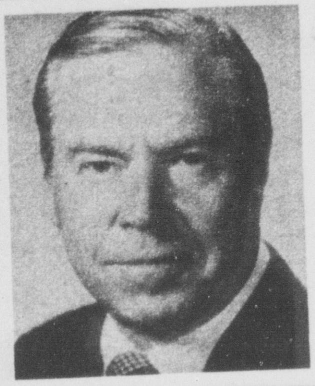
ASK THEM YOURSELF

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.



FOR REP. JOHN J. RHODES (R.-Ariz.)

Why won't you accept the military pension you legally deserve?—Mrs. Lela Owens, Hobart, Ind.

● As long as I'm on the Government payroll and being paid an adequate salary, it would be wrong for me to accept supplementary income from the Government. I don't need my pension while I'm working full time. Since one of my major concerns has been the alarming increase in the Federal budget, accompanied by a staggering increase in the national debt, I decided to return my pension funds to the Treasury. My $500 monthly pension won't do much to reduce that debt, but I have the satisfaction of having made a personal contribution to alleviate a situation that greatly concerns me. Since I'm a member of Congress, my decision has received media publicity. Perhaps other Federal employees will follow my lead.

FOR KATHY CROSBY, TV hostess

Will you be serving anything unusual for Thanksgiving dinner?—B.G., Pottstown, Pa.

● I don't know if this is unusual, but this is what we'll be having: roast turkey with cornbread stuffing, sweet potato balls, peas with artichoke hearts and cranberry salad mold. For dessert, we usually serve the traditional pumpkin and mince pies, but we also have a tray of assorted cheese with fruit for those who can't tackle the heavy desserts. I also make a light dessert cake, Orange Delight.

FOR O. J. SIMPSON, football star

You went back to the Buffalo Bills after saying early last summer that you would never return. What changed your mind?—David Moran, Waco, Texas

● When it became clear that the Bills were not going to get the trade they wanted and thus I had to play for them or for nobody, I asked myself if I were emotionally and financially set to stay out of football. The answer was yes. The next question was, "Did I want to quit playing?" The answer was no.

FOR CORRIE TEN BOOM, author of The Hiding Place

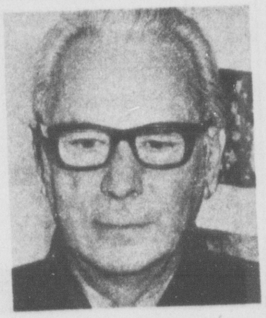
Have you been in touch with any of the people whose lives you saved in World War II?—Mrs. Gordon Oberg, Cheyenne, Wyo.

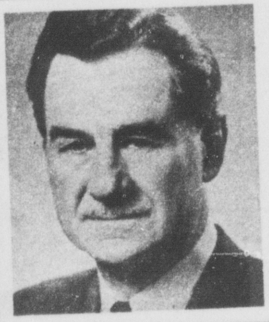
● Yes, many of them. About 15 years ago, I met a teenage Jewish boy I had saved (along with more than 100 other Jewish babies marked for death in an orphanage). What a joy that was! I have even talked with one of the guards who was so very cruel to my sister, Betsie. The Lord has been good by showing me the fruits of my years of work.



FOR J. B. WEST, former chief usher of the White House

How have former First Ladies reacted to your book, "Upstairs at the White House?"—Jack Montgomery, Waco, Texas

● I sent an inscribed copy of Upstairs at the White House to each of the First Ladies and received a nice thank-you note from each. If any of them were unhappy about the book, they would probably not have mentioned it since Presidential families become immune to criticism.



FOR LOWELL THOMAS, veteran broadcaster

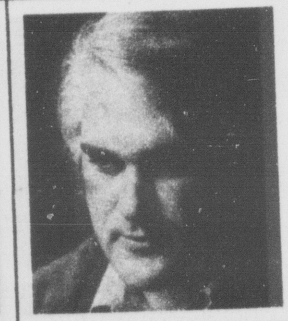
Is there any part of the world you regret not having visited?—R. Olsen, Idaho Falls, Idaho

● Even though I've been moving about the globe almost nonstop for the past six decades, there still remain a few thousand areas I haven't seen. I've been to Outer Mongolia, but not to the Inner part. I regret having missed a mountain range named for me in the Antarctic. And although I've visited Eastern, Western and Central Siberia, I'd like to take a peek at the Arctic part of that enormous land.

FOR RAQUEL WELCH

If you have a squabble with your boyfriend, how do you make up with him?—H.H., Hackensack, N.J.

● Get into a good mood and a new dress at the same time and plan the kind of evening we both enjoy. We ignore the cause of the argument (pretend it never happened) because what's past is dead. We usually go to a dinner, then a show. But before we meet, we both think over what happened and analyze it. Nine times out of 10, the cause of the tiff was unimportant, magnified by tension or work pressures.



FOR CHARLIE RICH, country-western singer

Were you once a farmer?—F.S., San Pedro, Calif.

● Yes. When I got my 1955 Air Force discharge, I wanted security for my family. We had two kids and one on the way. The idea of making money from music seemed remote. My uncle in West Memphis, Ark. set me up as a farmer. The first year was fine; the second was so-so. All we got in the third year was rain. I couldn't get the crops in, so I decided to quit. My uncle said he'd keep helping me, but by then I'd had enough. I turned to singing and playing in Memphis on a regular basis.

FOR ROBERTA PETERS, Metropolitan Opera star

As an opera star, how do you feel about movies?—S.A., Charlottesville, Va.

● I love tearjerkers. Wild horses can't hold me back if I hear of one playing nearby. I don't like horror films and usually give them a wide berth. I'm squeamish and can't stand the sight of blood. When Elizabeth Taylor got a face lift in Ash Wednesday, I became violently ill. Films I enjoy most are musicals and comedies. They have happy endings.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I know handwriting reveals one's personality, but can you tell what people are like by the way they dress?—B.S., Ann Arbor, Mich.

● We checked with noted designer Jacques Bellini, who dresses the famous as well as the obscure. He said you can, and analyzed some of his clients: "It's easy to see that Liza Minnelli is busy and confused because she's not coordinated. She can't mix and match clothes. Same with James Caan, a fine man and actor, but he's a sloppy, mixed-up dresser. You can tell Sylvia Miles is outgoing and eccentric. Her outfits are startling and exposing. With one glance it's obvious Monique Van Vooren is organized. Her things are orderly and neat. Also Margaux Hemingway, who's chic, neat and tailored. She's always in control. Ben Vereen, a marvelous human being, treats his clothes with consideration; he's very compassionate."

WHY WE LOVED LUCY SO MUCH

Lucy gives out a snappy rendition of "Glow Worm."

Television shows come and go, but Americans have clung to Lucy with fierce fidelity. Turns out there are some interesting reasons why.

By Bart Andrews

Martian chronicles: Lucy and Ethel in outer-space drag.

A harebrained scheme in the making: Golf widows Lucy and Ethel decide on a new plan of retaliation.

Lucy "vamps" Tennessee Ernie Ford.

Lucy demonstrates her good manners for Edward Everett Horton.

It was crazy, exciting, and it involved millions of us every week for a quarter of a century. How did it all begin?

Twenty-five years ago at a New York dinner party, a public-relations man was overheard saying, "We've just bought a little thing made out in Hollywood . . . a situation comedy with Lucille Ball and her husband whatsizname. I don't know if it will amount to anything."

That "little thing" turned out to be the most successful television program of the 1950's: "I Love Lucy." And "whatsizname"—Desi Arnaz—soon became TV's top entrepreneur, the brains not only behind Miss Ball's million-dollar laugh machine but also king over enough TV film to stretch from Hollywood to Nigeria, where, incidentally, "I Love Lucy" is still running.

This week marks the show's 25th anniversary. For nine years, Lucy and Desi romped through prime time television, and even if you didn't write one of the 10,000 letters they received each month or didn't send one of the 500 gifts they opened the day after Desi Jr.'s birth or were not among the 60,000 fans (over the years) who watched "I Love Lucy" being filmed in Hollywood, you'll remember something special from those 25 great years. Maybe Lucy and Ethel working at Kramer's Kandy Kitchen or Lucy being caught up in a wine vat in Italy or just the Ricardos and the Mertzes loose in Hollywood.

Come back with us and remember. We promise this rerun will not be interrupted by commercials.

The Desilu empire began as an inauspicious comedy which, just prior to its debut in October, 1951, TV Guide described as a show "revolving around problems arising in a household where the wife is stage-struck and the orchestra-leader husband thinks she should stay home."

It hardly sounded like something to rush right out and buy a new 12-inch TV for, but in a short six months, America was all but coming to a grinding halt every Monday night. Telephone companies reported a substantial reduction in calls during the half-hour period. Chicago's Marshall Field switched its evening shopping hours to Thursdays when it became clear that the biggest clearance sale in the store's history was no match for "I Love Lucy." Management put up a sign in the window declaring: "We love Lucy, too, so we're closing on Monday nights."

When Presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson cut in on "I Love Lucy" for a five-minute campaign pitch in the fall of 1952, his office was flooded with hate mail. One woman wrote: "I love Lucy. I like Ike. Drop dead."

George J. Van Dorp, water commissioner of Toledo, Ohio, had his own rating system in 1953. Van Dorp contended: "There's an amazing correlation between the degree of attention that people pay to a television show and the amount of water they use. While "I Love Lucy" is being shown, pressure in the main is consistently high. As soon as the commercial comes on, the pressure drops because people are using the water again. That lasts only one minute: I don't need a watch; all I do is look at the water-pressure gauge. When the show is over and people again avail themselves of water services, the pressure sometimes drops as much as 30 percent."

Whatever rating system you subscribed to, "I Love Lucy" came out ahead. The series won more than 200 awards, including five Emmys (it was nominated 23 times). At the Fourth Annual Emmy Awards dinner, in 1952, after accepting the second of two Emmys for excellence in comedy, Red Skelton remarked: "Ladies and gentlemen, you've given it to the wrong redhead. I don't deserve this. It should go to Lucille Ball." The overflowing audience of industry bigwigs cheered loudly. The Arnazes could not contain their elation and broke down and wept.

All in all, there were 192 so-called "I Love Lucy" escapades. If reviewed in succession, they would consume four days, seven hours and 15 minutes. They are also available dubbed in Japanese, Portuguese, Italian, French and Spanish.

What made "I Love Lucy" one of TV's all-time hits? TV writer Jack Sher put it this way: "The captivating thing about Lucy and Ricky is the fact that they hold a mirror up to every married couple in America. Not a regular mirror that reflects the truth nor a magic mirror that portrays fantasy. But a Coney Island kind of mirror that distorts, exaggerates and makes vastly amusing every little incident, foible and idiosyncrasy of married life."

Jess Oppenheimer, one of the show's three creators, harbors the same opinion: "The funniest single line ever uttered on "I Love Lucy" came when Lucy summed up smartly what happens to a lot of marriages: 'Since we said, "I do," there are so many things we don't.' "

In Jess's opinion, the line was not particularly funny in itself, but it gave viewers a sudden, deep insight into themselves—a shock relieved by laughter.

After the first season of "I Love Lucy" was over, journalist Jack Gould made this statement: "If there is one universal theme that knows no age limitations and is recognizable to young and old, it is the institution of marriage—and more particularly the day-to-day trials of husband and wife. It is this single story line above all others, with which the audience can most readily identify itself."

However, no real-life situation could have matched the circumstances surrounding Lucille Ball's pregnancy in 1952 when it was decided that Lucy Ricardo also would have a baby on "I Love Lucy."

"We decided that although it had never been done before, we could tackle the job of a pregnancy on TV," producer Jess Oppenheimer recalls. "We felt certain we could extract all the inherent humor from the situation while staying within the bounds of good taste. To further insure that we offended no one, we arranged for a priest, a minister and a rabbi to approve the scripts and see the shows being filmed."

When Lucy gave birth to a big baby boy, headlines all over the world carried the news. Seven minutes after the baby's birth, it was

Don't let your fingers be bare just because you don't want to spend $1,000 a carat (or more) for a diamond ring. Our Gemfires are so elegant only a diamond expert, or someone with a powerful magnifier can be really sure they aren't natural diamonds.

Gemfires are polished and precision-faceted by master diamond cutters to bring out their full fire and brilliance. They are then set by master craftsmen, by hand, in expensive-looking, open-back mountings so the base of the stone is exposed for maximum reflection of light.

You don't have to be afraid that Gemfires will be phony-looking plastic or paste jewelry. They gleam like diamonds formed deep within tne earth by tremendous heat and pressure. Yet they are free of the imperfections found in most natural diamonds. There are no cracks, no flaws, no spots of impurities to marr their sparkling beauty. We invite you to wear a Gemfire. If you,your family or your friends can tell the difference between it and a natural diamond return it to us within 30 days and we'll gladly send you your money back.

You're in good company when you wear Gemfires. Today, even millionaires wear simulated diamonds and keep their precious jewels hidden away in bank vaults to prevent them from being lost or stolen.

Gemfires make a lifetime gift — — and the gift of a lifetime.

Judy & Jerry Ervin

broadcast in Japan. Los Angeles school officials went around to classrooms to announce the blessed event to the students. A spokesman for the Associated Press claimed, "We covered the birth on a wartime basis, with hourly bulletins."

The day following the baby's birth, General Dwight D. Eisenhower was inaugurated President, and on his ABC broadcast, Walter Winchell reported, "This was a banner week—the nation got a man and Lucy got a boy."

But while 29 million people witnessed Ike's swearing-in ceremony on American television, 44 million tuned in to watch Little Ricky's arrival.

Desi Arnaz Jr., now 23, remembers: "I can still recall watching the show when I was about 3 and wondering who was the baby with Mommy and Daddy. When my parents said it was me, I was confused because I knew it wasn't. So I had this identity problem, and it wasn't helped any by people calling me Little Ricky, a name I learned to despise. I remember wanting desperately to be better at something—anything—than the boy who played Little Ricky (actor Keith Thibodeaux). Although he was two years older than I, we became close friends. One of the things he did was play the drums, and that's what really got me interested in music. I studied percussion because I wanted to drum better than Keith did—and I'll always be grateful to him for that."

Young Desi knew all too well that there wasn't much relationship between what he saw on TV and what was really going on at home. "I learned pretty early," he says, "to relate to 'I Love Lucy' as a TV show and to my parents as actors in it. Those were difficult years—all those funny things happening each week on television to people who looked like my parents, then the same people agonizing through unhappy times at home."

The Arnaz's shaky marriage, which ended in divorce in 1960, was not the only cause of tension behind the scenes. While the Desilu press department fostered the image of a happy foursome on the "I Love Lucy" set, it wasn't the case. After "Lucy" went off prime time, William Frawley (who played neighbor Fred Mertz) said of Vivian Vance, his TV wife, his so-called "honeybunch": "She's said to be one of the finest gals to come out of Kansas, and I often wish she'd go back there. I don't know where she is now, and she doesn't know where I am, and that's exactly the way I like it."

Searching for the reasons behind "Lucy mania" turns out to be a journey that leads us back to ourselves.

Most of the credit for the show's superiority goes to Lucy's incredible drive for perfection.

Very rarely did Lucille Ball goof. However, one crew member recalls an occasion when she hopelessly stumbled over a speech eight or nine times in succession, until she broke the tension by yelling out into the audience to her mother De-De (who missed nary a one "I Love Lucy" filming), "Don't worry, Mom, I'll get it!"

At about the time "I Love Lucy" went off prime time schedules in 1960, Columbia University conducted a survey of TV-viewing habits. One of the questions was, "Are there any programs that you'd like to see put back on the air? I don't mean reruns; I mean new versions. If 'yes,' which one(s)?" The overwhelming favorite—"I Love Lucy."

No format appeared so unlikely to succeed as the adventures of a carrot-top clown and a Cuban bandleader with an accent so thick you could cut it with a cleaver; yet for nine happy years, the lives of millions of Americans, and countless more worldwide, ran on one tether with the Ricardos. They and the Mertzes became America's favorite foursome; and the laughs have gone on, uninterrupted, for 25 years.

Jack Gould of The New York Times summed up his feeling about the success of "I Love Lucy" by saying, " 'I Love Lucy' is very human—and so are we." FW

The Real-Life Waltons' Favorite Thanksgiving Recipes

GRANDPA WALTON

"The best Thanksgiving pie I ever had anywhere!"

Born in Frankfort, Indiana, Will Geer began his colorful career nearly 50 years ago, performing in tent shows and on riverboats. In 1924, he started his own repertory company, and that's where he often finds himself on the big holidays.

Once they served a Thanksgiving pie that was so incredibly good, Will demanded the recipe: "You take a 9-inch unbaked piecrust, 3 eggs, a cup of dark corn syrup, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup melted margarine, a cup of canned pumpkin, a teaspoon of vanilla, and a cup of pecan halves. Preheat your oven to 350°F, and prepare piecrust. Then, with a hand beater or wire whisk, beat the eggs well. Beat in the next 5 ingredients until well blended. Now arrange the pecans in the bottom of the piecrust. Slowly pour the egg mixture over them. Bake for 1 hour, or until a knife inserted 1 inch from edge comes out clean. Let it cool, then serve it with good old whipped cream!"

JOHN WALTON

"My super turkey sandwich will knock you out!"

Ralph Waite is totally, helplessly in love with the theater. He has appeared in 8 Broadway plays, several films, and is founder and artistic director of the Los Angeles Actors Theater, a drama company which he established in the spring of 1975. But more and more his interest has turned to directing. He's even directed several episodes of "The Waltons."

Though Ralph doesn't direct in the kitchen often, there is one recipe he loves for left-over Thanksgiving turkey. "First, you make some Russian dressing. In a small bowl, combine mayonnaise and a good dash of pepper. Mix this with relish, catsup and Worcestershire. Then you take two slices of rye bread and spread generously with the Russian dressing. Top one slice of bread with three slices of turkey, two slices of Swiss cheese and one slice of ham, folded in half. Top all this with two heaping tablespoons of sauerkraut and the remaining slice of rye. Cut it in half and serve it with dill pickles. Man, it's delicious!"

OLIVIA WALTON

"I'm something of an expert on vegetables."

When Michael Learned remembers Thanksgiving, she immediately thinks of the 21-acre Connecticut farm she grew up on—especially the kitchen. How many kitchens do you know that have a sitting room and fireplace inside? Michael's mother did most of the holiday cooking, including roast turkey, baked ham, traditional vegetables, and a big salad.

Today, Michael's Thanksgiving dinner usually includes some very special vegetable dishes, because that's what her family loves! Now married to Glen Chadwick, Michael has a lively household of 5 teenagers. Since the children are all fond of vegetable-type diets, she is an expert on the subject. One of her favorite ways to do peas is "the French way," with lettuce, chopped onion, and a little slivered ham. She also works magic with zucchini, either steaming it to a tender turn with sliced onion and dill; or mixing it with onion, fresh diced tomatoes and a touch of salt and fresh ground pepper.

GRANDMA WALTON

"Can you believe my mother once owned a restaurant?"

Ellen Corby was born in Wisconsin and grew up in Philadelphia, Pa., during the 1930's. "I've worked my whole life," says Ellen. "It's important to be doing what you like to the best of your ability." On the subject of Women's Lib, she says, "Women have always been capable. L-I-B means life is beautiful!"

And for Ellen, Thanksgiving brings back beautiful memories. She recalls going to her mother's restaurant and getting her dinner right from the steamtable. They served all the traditional things: roast turkey, ham, gravy, sweet potatoes, carrots, peas, and cauliflower. Often her Danish-born mother would make "special" dishes from her home country: Danish cucumber salad, the cucumbers sliced "paper thin," and cranberry sauce with "Danish spices."

Being on "The Waltons" has strengthened her, Ellen feels. "The character you play rubs off on you. 'The Waltons' proves that a good family can survive on love without much money."

Grandpa Walton skillfully carves a Walton Mountain turkey while the other family members help and supervise.

PEOPLE QUIZ/ By John E. Gibson

A Look at You and the U.S.A.

Are the happiest people those who live in our small towns and rural areas?

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Most Americans consider George Washington to be our greatest President.
2. How Americans characterize a person is likely to depend on the mode of transportation that person prefers.
3. Americans live longest in the regions that have the best climate.
4. U.S. Senators tend to fall into four distinct personality types.
5. People who live in the small towns and rural areas of America are the happiest.

ANSWERS

1. False. A recent nationwide survey showed that, in the public's view, the greatest Presidents were John F. Kennedy, Abraham Lincoln and Franklin Roosevelt. Harry Truman ranked next in popularity, with George Washington barely nosing out Dwight Eisenhower for fifth place.

2. True. In a University of Pittsburgh study, it was found that modes of travel—buses, automobiles, bicycles, motorcycles and walking—tended to be directly associated with specific values. The investigation showed that people tended to characterize others as follows: Bus riders were seen to value equality above all. Automobile use was associated with comfort, family security and social recognition. Bicycles were associated with pleasure; motorcycles with excitement and freedom; and walking with inner harmony and a desire for a world of beauty and peace.

3. False. A study of longevity patterns in the U.S., conducted by the statistical bureau of a leading life insurance company, shows that the opposite is true, that states in the West North Central region—led by North Dakota—had the best longevity record. This general area is noted for its rigorous climate, with severe winters and broiling-hot summers. And previous research has shown that frequent storms and dramatic weather changes tend to have a stimulating effect on our mental and physical processes, and that the excitement of weather in-the-making also has a direct effect on morale and general sense of well-being.

4. True—as evidenced by a Columbia University study which "psyched out" representative Senators' personalities and careers and found they tended to fall into four distinct categories: the Active-Positive subjects (Lawmakers) "who tended to concern themselves with substantive achievements"; the Active-Negative (Advertisers), with an accent on achieving personal ambitions; the Passive-Positive (Spectators), largely concerned with "winning others' affection"; and the Passive-Negative (Reluctants), bent on "escaping from 'politics' while still satisfying their consciences' demand that they serve the public."

5. True—according to the findings of university studies which show that small-town and rural lifestyles tend to go hand in hand with closer ties with fellow human beings, more meaningful relationships, more lasting friendships and a feeling of belonging. Behavior specialists point out that most people who live in rural areas do so because they prefer country living, while many of those who make up the population of the crowded metropolitan areas live there not by preference but because of economic necessity. Observations™

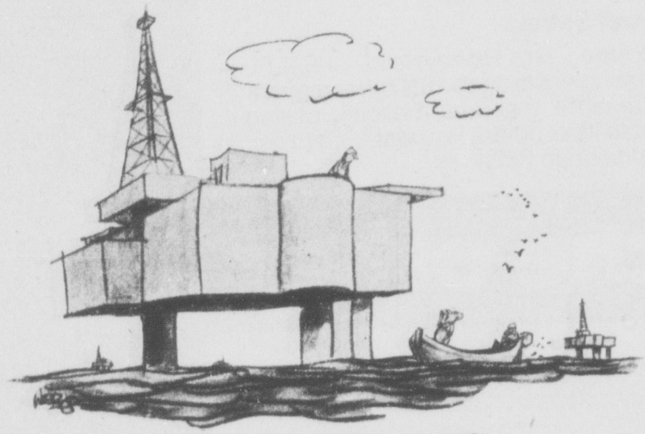
Drilling up. As everyone knows, oil people really do drill downward. But drilling activity is up. During the first half of this year, 13,065 oil and gas wells were completed in the United States and offshore—an increase of 24.6 percent over the same period last year. In fact, overall drilling activity has risen sharply since the fourth quarter of 1973, and the number of wells drilled in 1975 was the highest in a decade. Keep that in mind the next time someone says the oil industry isn't going all out to find more oil and gas.

Underground endowment. The University of California may soon have one answer to the college financial squeeze. The University will shortly solicit bids from producing companies for leasing 11 sites on its 3,000-acre Davis campus, near Sacramento, where natural gas has been discovered. Revenues from gas production would help defray university operating costs, even as classes continue. The 11 drilling sites are scattered through the rural areas used for agricultural experimentation.



"DO YOU HAVE ANY CRANBERRY SAUCE?"

Building better mousetraps. Energy-saving inventions are eligible for government grants, under a program initiated by the Office of Energy-Related Inventions, which is part of the National Bureau of Standards. The idea is to stimulate the creative tinkering of individuals and small research groups. Every idea is first screened for technical feasibility by New England Industrial Resource Development Inc., a consulting firm in Durham, N.H. working with the government. Inventions that are being considered for grants include a microwave device to make car engines more efficient, a rubber-recycling machine for used tires, and a system for saving energy in making maple syrup.

Bottom of the barrel. The State of Maryland turned down a $60,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for a consumer education program. Reason: About 75 percent of the money would have gone for paper work required under terms of the grant.

A quote we like . . . John Locke said it in his Second Treatise. "The end of the law is, not to abolish or restrain, but to preserve and enlarge freedom."

MARY AND SAM WEIR: THEY BUY AND SELL MANSIONS

Photograph by Elizabeth Gee

The Weirs have renovated 22 houses in the past 10½ years.

They devote all their talent and energy to "recycling" old houses to their original elegance.

What could a former chemist and a fine artist have in common? In the case of Sam and Mary Weir, the chemist and artist formed a marriage and business partnership that required shedding old lifestyles and adjusting to a great deal of house-hopping.

In the past 10½ years, the Weirs have bought, renovated and then sold 22 houses on or near the New Jersey shore. During this time, they've lived in eight of the houses—all mansions—and their current home is a palatial 35-room residence, which they're restoring to its original elegance. As soon as the work is completed, they will sell or rent, and move on.

House-hopping for the Weirs began at the tender age of 22, when they purchased a two-story fisherman's row house in Sea Bright. The house was a shambles and dirt-cheap. Even so, the couple had to borrow money and talk the owner into an extended mortgage to finance the deal. But they felt just having a home of their own made it all worthwhile.

It took them about a year and a half of trial and error to renovate that first house. By the time they had converted it into apartments, the Weirs were sold on the idea of continuing such projects. So they bought another run-down relic, improved it, rented the apartments and moved on—and they've been moving on ever since.

For the first five years of their venture, Sam continued to work as a research chemist to provide the money for mortgage payments and material costs. Now he devotes all his talent and energy to "recycling" old houses.

When asked how they managed to get up the courage to tackle dilapidated 30-and-40-room mansions, Mary said, "We've always felt that if we looked at anything long enough, we'd know what to do with it. I guess we just have a lot of faith in ourselves. We may not always know exactly what we want, but we do know what we don't want."

The Weirs have learned a lot since their first undertaking. One thing they've learned is when to call for help—they sometimes get freelancers to assist on larger projects. Now referring to themselves as home recyclers, they offer guidance to others who want to renovate. Their basic plan of action, which applies to cottages, mansions and anything in between, begins with an attic-to-basement cleaning job. This usually means clearing cobwebs, broken furniture and junk from rooms that have not been opened for years. Once this is done, it's possible to see what raw material (paneling, floors, etc.) there is to work with. One of the great bonuses in larger houses is an abundance of beautiful hardwood, exquisite floors and wall paneling, which withstands neglect far better than paint or plaster. Paneling rarely requires any work, and floors are easily restored to their original beauty. "Right now," says Mary "we're building a new house with a chestnut interior that we rescued from another mansion. Somehow, old wood in a new house helps make it seem like a home a lot sooner."

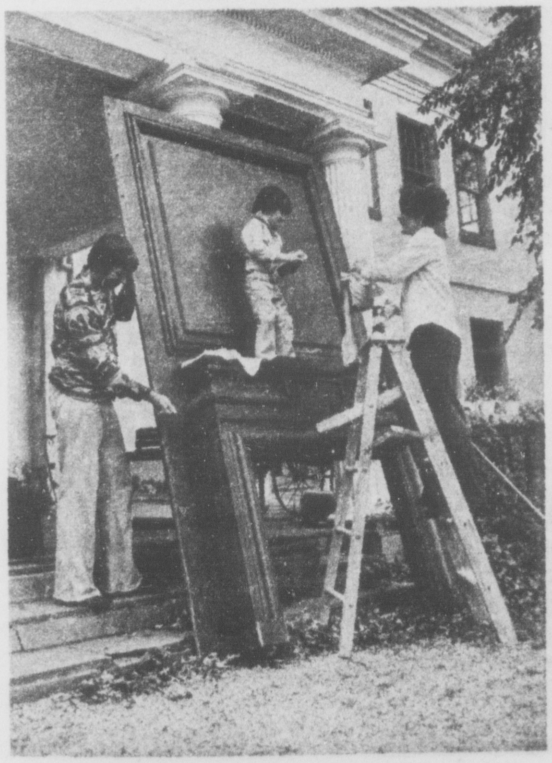
The next step in the Weirs' plan is to design a traffic pattern. This is particularly important in smaller houses where too much space is often taken up by halls. These house recyclers often eliminate a hall entirely and knock down walls to enlarge a kitchen or living room. In larger houses the traffic pattern usually indicates a need to relocate the kitchen. Servants might have been content to have the kitchen in the back of the house, but today's homemaker wants the kitchen to be a family-centered room, a place where the chief-cook-and-bottle-washer can be in the middle of the action.

Closet space, a real shortcoming in older homes, is another major consideration. A good rule of thumb, say the Weirs, is to create half-again as much closet space as you think you'll need.

Another essential of the Weirs' plan is to make the entire structure air-tight. First Sam fills all cracks in the foundation and elsewhere with polyurethane, which hardens quickly. Next, for insulation, he uses urea-formaldehyde foam, a substance that looks like shaving cream. It is pumped into small holes drilled into the outside wall of the house and spreads and fills the entire space between the interior and exterior walls. When he's through, the old house is as solid as many new houses, and usually better insulated.

Mansions are great places for parties, and the Weirs always plan celebrations before and after renovations. The before party, however, just has never materialized. "We're too anxious to get down to work," says Mary. "But we make up for it with our after parties. At the last one we had a band, and we even put on a skit that included all the funny things that happened while we were transforming the house."

The Weirs have two sons, Chris, aged 5, and Charlie, 11. The boys work with their parents, cleaning, painting and carting. And so far, they've been more of a help than a hindrance. Sam remarks, "They know what not to do. They've been up on the roof with me ever since they could walk, and they know what's safe and what's not."



Photograph by Elizabeth Gee

Work is a family affair for the Weirs. Since their two sons could walk, they have helped with painting, cleaning and carting.

Mansion-living is a youngster's paradise. Charlie and Chris ride their bikes in the living room and skate-board in the halls—until the rooms are finished. In addition, they have their father around the house all day. Their parents feel this is one of the joys of their work together. Sam always has time for the boys, and he never has a need to unwind at the end of the day because he's been doing just what he enjoys most. There's never a problem deciding what to do in the evenings, which are usually spent mapping out the next-day's work.

The prospect of renovating a huge mansion seems overwhelming and, yet, the relaxed, easygoing manner of the Weirs makes it all seem possible. The secret of their successs is that they love what they're doing and make a profit in the bargain. fw

MONEY

Is Joint Ownership Double Trouble?

Soon after Jack and Alice Robbins were married, Jack opened a savings account in both their names. He put much more money into it than she did, but he insisted that it remain a joint account. "I don't want Alice to have to go through any complicated inheritance procedures if anything happens to me," he said. "And besides, I want her to know that any money either of us earns is ours." Two years later Jack was killed in a plane crash. The bank froze the Robbins' joint account until the state tax authorities examined it. To Alice's dismay, she learned that she had to pay an inheritance tax on the entire amount. "But some of that is my own money," she protested. Yet because she could not prove how much she had deposited, she was taxed on the total sum. Many couples make the mistake of letting their feelings override financial good judgment. They think of joint ownership—of savings, a house, stocks—as a gesture of love and trust. But they do not foresee the problems it can create. "Joint ownership," says one bank president, "is a complex device with many built-in booby traps. The theoretical advantages can turn out to be liabilities." For example, joint ownership can become a weapon in times of domestic conflict. Since neither partner has sole control of the property, an angry spouse (perhaps one who is about to seek a divorce or about to be divorced) can simply withdraw all the savings or sell jointly owned stock and place the proceeds in his or her own name. One husband used a jointly owned home as a bargaining weapon in a divorce settlement. The wife wanted to sell their house and move to an apartment, but her husband refused to sign a contract of sale until she agreed to lower alimony payments. Since the house couldn't be sold without his signature, the wife was faced with a case of legal blackmail. There are several kinds of joint ownership, each with its own legal requirements and complicated rules. One should always consult an attorney before putting property into joint ownership. Even though joint ownership may create a sense of family unity and signify love and trust, there are far better and simpler ways to achieve those goals.

WHY I GIVE THANKS

As Thanksgiving nears, Dr. Peale remembers a good friend's advice: live by "the attitude of gratitude."

By Dr. Norman Vincent Peale

Especially for Family Weekly

A phrase, "The attitude of gratitude" was first introduced to me by a man I had known for some years. He used to be a disgruntled person, but, at some point, a profound change took place. He became optimistic and joyful. I probed for the secret of this change, and I was astonished to learn it was due to his application of one magic word: "Thanks."

"One day, inadvertently," he said, "I sincerely thanked a person for doing something for me that was a little more than expected. And I noticed a pleasurable glow in myself and a similar reaction in the other person."

From that simple beginning came his habit of thanking everyone for everything. Then, in his reading, he chanced upon a statement by the psychologist William James, who said that the most fundamental desire of human nature is the desire to be appreciated. "Therefore, if you give appreciation to people, you win their love," said my friend. "But, more important than that, the practice of this philosophy has made a different person of me."

It was then that he coined the phrase, "The attitude of gratitude." "The attitude of gratitude will do wonders for you," he said. Then he told me that every day he repeats the opening sentence of the 107th Psalm: "O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good: for His mercy endureth for ever." And he added, "I believe from my experience that anyone who says that passage every day will be a happier person."

I agree that it will certainly help one feel better and have a better philosophy. Every morning when you get up, instead of fretting and complaining, instead of turning on the news to find out how bad everything is, look out the window, take a deep breath and say, "I give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good: for His mercy endureth for ever." It will help you feel great.

I read in a newspaper once the complaint of a minister that the right of national self-criticism was being interfered with. I would be the last person to approve such interference. But it may be possible that Americans have overcriticized themselves. We seem to have developed a national inferiority complex.

Elizabeth Gee

Dr. Peale, with wife Ruth, appealing for more positive thinking: "We seem to have developed a national inferiority complex."

Personally, I get a tremendous thrill out of this country. And I have visited almost every part of it. The more one travels around the nation, the more one gives thanks for this goodly land that the Lord has given as part of our heritage.

Remember the story of William Bradford? We have no picture of him. We do not know the color of his eyes and hair, but we know the "color" of his mind and soul. We can see him standing in the meadow at Plymouth, praying for rain. And when the rain came, he ascribed it to God and thanked Him. For three decades he was Governor of Plymouth Colony and put his stamp on it; and for more than 200 years he has put his stamp on the American people.

Neither starvation nor hostile attack could overwhelm that body of settlers, who had faith in God and their leaders. They were an indomitable breed. They say of Daniel Boone that when he wanted to cross a ravine he didn't walk down into it; he would grab a grapevine and swing across.

One day he came home to his cabin in the wilderness and said to his wife, "Ma, we're moving." Ma did not show any enthusiasm because she had just gotten herself nicely settled from the last move, and she asked, "Why are we moving, Dan?" "I just noticed a cabin 40 miles from here," he explained. "People are crowding us; we have to move." I wonder what Daniel would do in this teeming America of today?

Those early Americans wanted amplitude, scope, greatness, vastness because they had those same qualities in their souls. "O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good." He gave us a great land like this. He gave us magnificent ancestors. A great people made us, and we should feel gratitude for the high principles handed down to us.

Norman Vincent Peale has been minister of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York for the past 44 years. He is the author of The Power of Positive Thinking as well as 24 other books, including The Positive Principle Today (Prentice-Hall, 1976). Copies of Dr. Peale's weekly sermons for radio and TV may be obtained from the Foundation for Christian Living, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

"We can see the Governor of Plymouth Colony in the meadow, praying for rain. When it came, he ascribed it to God . . ."

You will find these principles in the Declaration of Independence, in the Constitution of the United States, in the Bill of Rights and in the body of literature produced by our founding fathers. Our future depends on preserving those basic principles not because those people were everlastingly right—no one can be that—but because these principles were taken out of an ancient body of jurisprudence and law, out of the Holy Scriptures, out of the philosophy of liberal thinkers of the past. Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln all warned us that it is dangerous to tamper with principles which have proven themselves.

> "In a hotel once, I dreamt my wife had died....I awoke to dial home...and could only say, 'Ruth, it's you...'"

One of these principles, for example, is a firm reliance on Divine Providence. Washington said, "The event is in the hands of God." Lincoln said, "No mortal council hath devised, no human hand hath wrought these wonders." Franklin said, "No sparrow falleth from heaven without the Almighty taking notice of it. Is it likely that an empire can rise without His aid?" Faith in Divine Providence is one of our basic principles.

Returning to my friend who said, "The attitude of gratitude will do wonders for you," I wonder whether there is any disgruntled, unhappy, dissatisfied person reading this article. I suppose so, for we are all that way at times, ignoring blessings and causes for happiness. For our own mental health we need to emphasize the many reasons for thankfulness.

One night in a West Coast hotel I dreamt that my wife had died, and I experienced all the agony as though it had been real. When I awoke, I said with relief, "It was only a dream!" But I wondered whether it were so, and I went to a telephone to dial our home in New York.

When my wife answered, I could only say, "Ruth, it's you, isn't it? I'm so glad." "Of course," she said in surprise, "Why are you so excited?" I said, "You have the sweetest voice I ever heard." "Did you call just to tell me that?" she demanded. And, being a frugal soul, she added, "I'll venture this call will cost you ten dollars." "I wouldn't care if it cost me a hundred dollars," I said "just to hear your voice."

How grateful we should be for our blessings. There is an old hymn which goes, "Count your many blessings—name them one by one." At home at your Thanksgiving table, take a few minutes to enumerate your blessings; count them, one by one. You will have a well-filled table; you can eat that turkey; you can talk; you can sleep; you can walk—simple blessings, perhaps, but very real ones. The "attitude of gratitude" lifts us up and makes us people of faith and hope and joy.

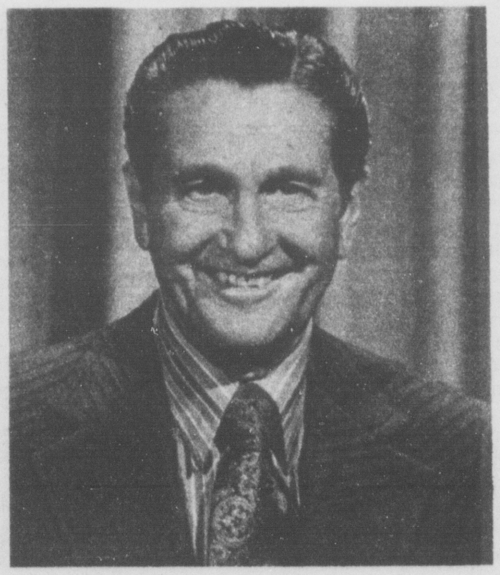
CHRYSTIE AND BRUCE JENNER
Competing in generosity

She dropped out of college and worked as an airline stewardess to support her husband while he trained for the 1976 Olympics. He went to Montreal and won the Decathlon. Now he's a star, and she's sitting pretty. Bruce Jenner is currently being wooed by television, movie and print people alike. He tested for the starring role in a soon-to-be-made re-make of "Superman" (he didn't get the part because he looked too young), and now they're asking him to play Errol Flynn in an upcoming film. The TV networks want him to do sports announcing. Sports-equipment manufacturers are competing for the honor of having his handsome face on their packaging. Says Jenner: "I don't know about acting. It makes me nervous because I've never done it before. Right now, I want to take Chrystie on a vacation to Hawaii." Says Chrystie: "It sounds corny, but he's the same old guy. I think we'd both like to kick back and have a really good time for about a year." Right now, there are just a couple of promises: an assurance that he will look carefully at all offers and a commitment to sending Chrystie back to school. She'll pick up the 50 credits she needs for a B.A., then it's on to law school. Says Chrystie: "Sacrifices? No, I'm very uncomfortable being any kind of martyr. It was a priority structure. His needs had to come first for a while. The rewards came almost instantly." Says Jenner: "She has sacrificed a lot for me. I hope I can do a lot for her."



LAWRENCE WELK
Knowing when to leave

A tough lesson for the Champagne Music Maker: "I was about 19 and on my way to play at a dance in Zeeland, N.D., about two hours away by train from my home. There were a couple of salesmen in our coach who knew me from some of the dances I'd played in the area, and they asked me if I'd favor them with a few accordion tunes. Would I! I didn't have to be asked twice. I happily played—with all stops out—waltzes, polkas, old-country folk tunes, wedding dances—I even threw in a couple of marches. After a good while, the salesmen told me they'd decided to get up a card game, and they pressed me to join them. 'Oh, that's all right,' I said, not getting their point at all. 'I like to play the accordion!' As I burst into my favorite waltz, suddenly one of the fellows threw down his cards, grabbed great hunks of his hair in both hands and shouted, 'Please! I can't stand any more!' Crushed and humiliated beyond belief, I put my accordion away immediately and sat all by myself for the rest of the trip. It was a harsh lesson, but a good one, and I never forgot it. It's the reason we try to keep our show moving as fast as possible today." From My America, Your America, by Lawrence Welk with Bernice McGeehan (Prentice-Hall, $7.95).

AND SMILE WHEN YOU SAY THAT, TURKEY!
Gobbling the Thanksgiving bird

Smile when people call you a turkey—that's a compliment. Because, as Ben Franklin, proponent of the turkey as national bird, foresaw, the gobbler is a great bird. In fact, if we are what we eat, we're all going to be turkeys soon because the poultry industry has begun marketing turkey ham, turkey hot dogs, turkey pastrami, turkey salami and turkey bologna. The stuff is purported to look and taste like regular ham, hot dogs, etc. It's all part of the trend away from beef to poultry and seafood. Of all animals raised and sold for meat, the turkey has the most protein, with the lowest calorie count. He (or she) also produces more meat than any other market animal—65 percent white, 35 percent dark. And come this Bicentennial Thanksgiving, it's estimated we Americans will gobble 37,080,000 turkeys—and not a single eagle.

Laughter fills Hearst home--at last

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For the first time in nearly three years there was laughter of a happy family celebration in the Randolph Hearst household.

Patty had come home at last.

"Before no time, almost instantly, the house was filled with laughter," Miss Hearst's attorney, Al Johnson, said Saturday.

"The police officers who had guarded the house for a year said it was great to hear that laughter in a house where there hadn't been any for so long."

Johnson, who became the young heiress' close friend and confidant during her trial and imprisonment, spoke of the gathering of family and friends which followed Miss Hearst's release on $1.5 million bail Friday.

He said her first request when she got home was for a mai tai, then she consumed a large plate of shrimp and later joined the family for a big roast beef dinner.

She stayed awake for some 24 hours and pitched in in the kitchen making guacamole for the guests.

The attorney said he personally drove Miss Hearst home and in the car "we were laughing and joking just about the fact we didn't believe this day was happening."

He said the 22-year-old Miss Hearst noted that she had been awake since 1 a.m. Friday when she left on her trip from the Metropolitan Correction Center at San Diego. "She said, 'I've been up since 1 o'clock in the morning on the road. But this is great,'" Johnson recalled.

She was taken to the Nob Hill apartment where her parents moved after her kidnaping, a refuge they sought to escape the unhappy memories of Miss Hearst's childhood home at nearby Hillsborough.

"I pointed the apartment house out to her," Johnson said. "I said, 'Pat, there it is.' She looked up at the top of the building and said, 'Yes, Al, that's a beautiful smokestack.'"

As she walked into the apartment, past the platoons, of armed security guards, Miss Hearst was greeted by her younger sister Anne.

"They embraced and hugged and kissed and giggled," Johnson said.

Then, he said, the newly released prisoner walked through every room of the apartment "picking up and touching a lot of things — touching the art objects that her mother had."

"I said, 'Pat, Is it like I told you it was?'" Johnson said. "She said, 'Oh, it's much nicer.'"

Although the Hearsts provided a separate bedroom for Miss Hearst, Johnson said she choose to spend her first night at home sharing a room with her sister, Anne.

After Miss Hearst had her mai tai and "a whole big plate of shrimp," Johnson said she began answering telephone calls from old friends and members of the family. "She was just overjoyed to talk to them. She was just bubbling over," he said.

Hearst told a reporter for her father's newspaper Saturday that her homecoming was easy — "It was like I never left. It's nice to be home."

Carter, Kissinger confer

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger briefed President-elect Jimmy Carter on foreign affairs for 5½ hours Saturday and promised to do all he can to smooth Carter's transition to the presidency.

Kissinger talked with Carter and Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale in the book-lined study of Carter's ranch-style home on the edge of this tiny southwest Georgia town.

Then Carter and Kissinger mingled with hundreds of tourists as they went on a tour of Plains. They visited Carter's peanut warehouse and the railroad depot before Carter saw the secretary of state to his car saying, "Have a nice trip."

In their public appearances both men were extremely cordial despite an election campaign in which Kissinger himself was frequently an issue.

"I have always believed that foreign policy is a nonpartisan affair and all Americans should support the foreign policy of the United States," Kissinger said during a break in the meeting.

"For this reason we will do our utmost to share all information we possess, and to cooperate in a smooth transition so that the new administration can be successful for the peace and progress of all Americans," Kissinger said.

The secretary of state was a favorite target for Carter's barbs during the campaign but when they met reporters on the patio of Carter's home they were all smiles and compliments and courtesy.

Carter called the man he had accused of running an "amoral" foreign policy "my good friend.

"There is no incompatibility among us," on transition matters, Carter said at one point.

He did not refer to the suggestions of some Democrats that Kissinger be retained as a special envoy to continue efforts to negotiate peace in the Middle East.

But he did say he looks forward to "a long relationship" with the secretary.

"I'm very grateful for a chance to renew our friendship and look forward to a long relationship with him as good and as fruitful as this meeting has been today."

Radioactive air mass drifts in over Pacific from China explosion

SEATTLE (AP) — An air mass containing radioactive debris from a Chinese nuclear explosion drifted over the Pacific Northwest on Saturday, but federal officials said there was little reason for alarm.

Preliminary checks in the Seattle area indicated no increase in radiation levels, according to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The air mass "passed over the Northwest without incident," added Bob Jacobson, a spokesman at the Environmental Protection Agency's regional headquarters in Seattle.

An NOAA spokesman in Washington, D.C., said the air mass was moving southeasterly and was expected to be over the Atlantic Ocean by Sunday night. The projected path of the air mass would take it over the Midwest and the Southeast.

Federal officials said they anticipated no problems. But they said rain could wash some radioactive material out of the air mass. In case of rain, foodstuffs on the ground could be contaminated, but a normal washing would eliminate any danger, according to an EPA spokesman.

"The radioactive debris is expected to remain at high altitude level and have little effect on ground level, except for possibly two areas of the United States," an EPA spokesman in Washington said.

The two areas he listed:

—Four southeastern states: Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina. A potential storm system could bring rain, which might pick up some radioactive material.

—Four Great Lakes states: Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois and Indiana. Predicted snow flurries have "some possibility of interacting with the radioactive material and bringing it to earth."

The Federal Aviation Administration, which would issue warnings to airlines if the cloud were considered too dangerous for airplanes to fly through, said no such warnings were needed.

However, two organizations of consumer advocate Ralph Nader urged the government to divert all civil aircraft away from the cloud.

"In light of the serious potential hazards involved, it is essential that you move at once to protect the health and safety of airline passengers, crew members, ground personnel and others," the Nader groups said in a telegram to government officials.

An FAA spokeswoman in Washington said the EPA and the FAA, along with the Air Force and the Energy Research and Development Administration, had concluded that airplanes did not need to be rerouted around the cloud.

Passengers inside airplanes would not be contaminated, and the airplanes would require no special cleaning upon landing, she added.

In the Seattle area, telephone lines at the Puget Sound Air Pollution Control Agency were busy Saturday with calls from people concerned about any possible fallout from the cloud, but state and federal agencies said there was little cause to worry.

EPA officials in Seattle had said their main concern was rain — but there was no rain.

Carter's wait, see attitude gains praise

Holds off on tax cut, spending plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the economy gives off mixed signals, President-elect Jimmy Carter's wait-and-see attitude toward tax cuts and spending programs is winning him bipartisan praise.

Carter's aides say he will not adopt any economic policies that would commit his Cabinet to a course of action it didn't have a hand in shaping.

But equally important, in the minds of many, is that the economy is in such an uncertain state that it would be a mistake to decide on any new policy at this point.

Carter and his aides will look closely at December statistics on unemployment, industrial output and business indicators — all of which were unfavorable in October and November — for clues on what direction the economy may take.

Carter has said he will consider recommending a tax cut and other measures to stimulate the economy if the slowdown continues. Although some of his advisers have stated publicly what they want him to do, Carter has refused to be pinned down.

Carter's cautious approach drew praise this past week from Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board and Chairman Alan Greenspan of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Although Greenspan didn't mention Carter by name, he obviously had him in mind when he said "quite correctly, everybody is saying it will be at least two months" before decisions are made on new economic policies.

Billionaire's desire to talk revealed in secret memos

Aides feared testimony by Howard Hughes

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Reclusive billionaire Howard Hughes wanted to meet with members of the Senate Watergate Committee in 1974, but his advisers were afraid of what he might say because he was under daily sedation, the Las Vegas Sun reported Saturday.

The copyrighted story from Vancouver, B.C., said Hughes' wishes were revealed in secret documents which are now in the possession of a former Hughes aide, John Meier.

Meier, a fugitive from American authorities, claims to have obtained the memos legally from Mexican authorities, who allegedly confiscated the documents following Hughes' death last spring.

The Sun did not say who wrote the memos.

A federal grand jury indicted Meier on a multimillion dollar tax charge in 1973. Additionally, the Summa Corp., the umbrella organization overseeing Hughes' financial empire, has filed a $9.5 million suit against Meier in connection with alleged mishandling of Hughes' money for the purchase of mining properties.

The questions of how Meier got the documents and whether they are authentic remain in doubt.

Meier has made some of the documents available to newsmen.

According to the Sun, the documents purportedly show that the Hughes' organization was tipped off about pending Internal Revenue Service investigations.

A memo apparently sent to Hughes in January 1974 advised him that he was in no condition, either physically or mentally, to stand up to the rigors of testifying before the Watergate Committee.

"You are your own biggest danger at this moment," the memo reads in part. "Suppose you had the tablets that I know you obtained and started muttering about the political deals we, or rather you, have had. This could be trouble and I want no part of this. Neither do you.

Elsewhere, the memos said, "When I told you that we had so far resisted the efforts of the IRS, SEC and the Senate Watergate Committee from seeing you, it was for your own good. These people would love the opportunity to get to grips with you personally, and they would not be easy to shake. They are all after publicity for themselves and giving you a bad time is one way to get it."

"Also, you are aware that I do not want to let you meet with these people because you are in no fit state to stand up to them either mentally or physically."

Chino council, planners meet to air problems

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

In an effort to increase the level of coordination and communication between the Chino City Council and its planning commission, a joint study session was held Saturday to discuss some of the problems facing the city and what can be done about them.

Members of both the City Council and the planning commission attended the informal meeting to discuss school overcrowding, sewage treatment needs, and the general quality of life that residents of Chino can expect.

The purpose of the meeting, according to Planning Commission Chairman Jim Johns, was to "give planning commissioners a direction to follow in implementing City Council policy."

On the issue of school overcrowding, a serious issue facing Chino residents, the consensus opinion was that there was of little the city could legally do to help alleviate the problem.

School overcrowding in Chino has become a problem recently due to the flurry of residential building activity that has been taking place in the Chino area during the last few years.

It was pointed out Saturday, that the problem will definitely persist until at least January of 1978, when a new elementary school is scheduled to open. After that time, members were informed, school overcrowding in Chino could take on even more serious dimensions, due to a lack of funds for the construction of new schools.

A question was raised by one planning commissioner, whether the city might possibly have the power to stop construction in the area if there was not enough room for children in the schools.

Generally it was felt that the city did not at this time have a legal basis to stop residential construction for that reason.

"The problem is that much of this construction taking place in the Chino area is being controlled by the county," said Chino Mayor Bob McLeod.

"The children who live in those houses will be going to Chino schools," he said, " and we will have no power to control that rate of growth."

"What we need is a total coordination between the school district, the city, the county and the citizens in order to solve this problem."

In the area of sewage treatment, the rapid growth rate in the Chino area has also caused long range problems.

On this issue, however, it was felt the city through its planning commission could have significant control. At present, it is estimated that the Chino Basin Municipal Water District will be able to handle projected growth needs until at least the year 1980.

After that time there are a number of options the city can take to insure citizens adequate sewage service. These include, adding facilities, tying into a statewide industrial sewage line, and forcing developers to provide water and sewage saving features on plumbing fixtures they put in new houses.

On the issue of the quality of life that should be guaranteed to all residents in Chino, the council and commission members seemed to agree that the city has a significant role in that area through the use of zoning laws and building codes.

Drivers fail to show up; race canceled

A 600-lap, 24-hour marathon race to benefit the Help Them Walk Again Foundation was canceled Friday and Saturday at the Grand Prix Driving Course in Pomona due to a lack of drivers.

The racing teams were scheduled to drive the course 600 times at a cost of $1.50 per lap, per team. The sponsors of the marathon up until Friday were seeking team supporters from the community. Only one team arrived for the marathon when six teams were scheduled for the event, according to a spokesman at the Grand Prix Driving Course Saturday night.

The spokesman said it was the second time the marathon event had been canceled for lack of driving teams.

It was unknown Saturday if the event would be rescheduled for a later date.

Arson suspected in La Verne house fire

Arsonists are suspected of touching off a fire that destroyed an abandoned wood and stucco home owned by the City of La Verne Saturday afternoon bringing La Verne and Los Angeles County firemen to 240 E. Amherst St.

The fire reported at 3:09 p.m. completely destroyed the old home that stood abandoned for several years. The loss, according to the Los Angeles County Fire Department, was "nil."

Several residents in the area reported seeing two men in a small sports car in the area just prior to the fire. Several other persons were also seen running through an orange grove just north of the burning home just as firemen arrived.

The Los Angeles County Sheriff's office was also investigating another small fire that was set in a palm tree about a block from the home. A resident in the area was able to put out the palm tree fire with a garden hose before firemen arrived.

Thousand job applications a day pour into Carter's office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Job applications are pouring into President-elect Jimmy Carter's office here at the rate of more than a thousand a day, but most of the applicants are going to be disappointed.

Matthew B. Coffey, 35, director of Carter's personnel office here, said in an interview Thursday that his office is overwhelmed by mail and a "steady stream of walk-ins, modestly and immodestly offering their services" to the new administration.

Many other Carter staffers report receiving dozens of phone calls a day from friends and friends-of-friends wanting to find out how to find work with the Carter administration.

Those who show up at one of the reception desks outside transition headquarters in Washington are given a standard government application form and a questionnaire asking for name, date of birth, race, education and political affilition, if any.

Most hopefuls who turn in their resumes will eventually get politely worded letters saying, in effect, thanks but no thanks.

"People in this country still believe there's a great patronage system," Coffey said, "but there just aren't that many jobs filled by presidential appointment."

Coffey and his staff of 38, with the help of Carter's political advisers, are concentrating now on the 32 key jobs the president-elect must fill, such as the Cabinet secretaries, undersecretaries, heads of independent agencies and a few regulatory commisson posts. They have identified a total of 300 jobs they expect Carter to fill in time.

In addition, there are about 3,000 part-time posts on presidential commissions and the boards of quasi-governmental units like ConRail, the U.S. Postal Service and the National Endowment for the Arts.

About 1,800 policy-making slots in the various government agencies are expected to be filled by the agency heads.

Richard C.D. Fleming, 31, who headed the Carter personnel program before the election and recruited Coffey, now his boss, said the office received more than 10,000 job applications even before the election.

When people phone or come in asking how to apply for jobs, they are told to send their resumes to P.O. Box 2600, Washington, D.C., 20013.

Asked what will become of the thousands of applications that don't make the cut, Coffey said they'll be put in the "inactive file" and eventually shipped to the "Jimmy Carter presidential library."

Coffey suggested that the route most job seekers should follow is to do what he did: take the competitive Civil Service examination.

"I'm proof that the Civil Service works," Coffey said. "I spent a year at the Civil Service Commission, four years at the White House (handling personnel for the late President Lyndon B. Johnson) and eight years in broadcasting. There's a lot of paper in the (Civil) Service, but there are a lot of dedicated people, too."

Coffey is on leave from his post as president of the National Association of Public Radio Stations.

Spotlight on crime

Man jailed in revenge attack

A 19-year-old Chino man has been booked into West End Jail on a charge of attack with a deadly weapon.

Bail was set at $5,000 for Billy Joe Day who was arrested by West End sheriff's deputies at the Smith store in Los Serranos early Saturday morning.

According to sheriff's deputies, Day went to to 4275 Descanso St., Los Serranos, about 4 a.m. and confronted Richard Daniel Solwick with a loaded shotgun.

Deputies said that Day wanted to get revenge for a fight between Solwick and Day's father Friday night.

Deputies said that Solwick's wife Charlene grabbed Day from behind, and that Day dropped the shotgun.

They said that Day lunged for Solwick who hit him on the head with the butt of a .22.

Day left the areas, but returned on arrival of the deputies who arrested him.

Search on for gunman

Pomona police were searching for a man with a small handgun who fired at least four shots at another man at Towne Avenue and Arrow Highway Saturday afternoon following an argument over a woman.

The victim, Lowry Marks, 22, of Pomona, according to police was not hit in the incident. Marks, police said, got into an argument with the gunman in the parking lot outside of the Chocolate City bar about 1 p.m. The gunman began chasing the victim across Towne Avenue and fired two shots into the ground. The gunman continued chasing the victim through the Exxon Service Station on Towne Avenue and fired at least two more shots.

Police said Marks managed to stop a motorist who drove him out of the area. The gunman fled.

The gunman was described as a black, 20, 6 feet 1, 155 pounds with black hair and brown eyes.

Memorial services mark Kennedys' tragic passing

John F.—prayer vigil set

DALLAS (AP) — A hastily organized prayer vigil will mark the anniversary Monday of the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas.

Mayor Robert Folsom had canceled the traditional commemoration, but Dallas County Demoratic Chairman Ron Kessler said Saturday he received "about 500 phone calls" protesting the lack of a memorial service.

Kennedy was shot to death near Dealey Plaza in downtown Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. The Warren Commission concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in killing Kennedy.

The observance will be held at noon Monday at the Kennedy Memorial, not far from the assassination site, Kessler said. The services will consist of a short prayer and a moment of silence.

"There will be no speeches," Kessler said.

Dr. Paul A. Stauffer, executive director of the Greater Dallas Community of Churches, and the Rev. Zan Holmes, a former state legislator, will preside at the service.

Folsom reportedly called for cancellation of the formal observation because of "declining public interest."

Robert—heirs grieved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two children of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy collapsed during services Saturday at Kennedy's grave in Arlington National Cemetery.

Ethel Kennedy and four of the couple's 11 children marked what would have been the senator's 51st birthday with prayers, a traditional family observance on the senator's birthday.

The youngest child, Rory, 7, and her 11-year-old brother, Max, fell forward as they knelt to pray. They were helped to the family's automobile by a Kennedy friend, David Hackett.

Ethel Kennedy was pregnant with Rory when the Democratic senator was shot on June 5, 1968, moments after winning the California presidential primary. He died 25 hours later.

A pot of daisies rested beside the plain white cross that marks the senator's grave. Mrs. Kennedy, Rory, Max, Douglas, 10, Christopher, 13, and a family employe, Ena Bernard, placed yellow roses on the grave before the services began.

After the two children were helped back to the car, the Rev. Jerry Creedon conducted a brief mass for the widow and other children.

Gilmore could get freedom if pardon board fails to act

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Convicted murderer Gary Mark Gilmore could be set free if the Utah Board of Pardons fails to take action soon on his request for immediate execution by firing squad, according to the prosecutor in the case.

Gilmore, who has said he wants to die rather than spend the rest of his life in prison, could be released if he is not executed or sentenced to a jail term before Dec. 7, Utah County Attorney Noall T. Wootton said in a letter to the pardons board.

Under state law, Wootton said, an execution must be carried out no sooner than 30 days and no later than 60 days from sentencing.

"The requirements of this statute are, of course, waived if the defendant initiates some action requiring a delay beyond the maximum time," Wootton wrote to board chairman George W. Latimer. "This, however, Mr. Gilmore has not done.

"It may well be argued, therefore, that the time limit established by the statute cited ... continues to run and that upon its expiration, the State of Utah and all its various agencies of government, including its courts, the governor and the Board of Pardons, lose jurisdiction to do anything."

Deputy Atty. Gen. Robert B. Hansen, Utah's attorney general-elect, said Saturday that Wootton's interpretation of the law, which would free Gilmore if the execution or resentencing does not take place by Dec. 7, is "well-founded" but that he would argue against it. He did not say what interpretation he placed on the law.

No condemned prisoner has been released on the basis of the law since it was passed in 1973. And even if Wooton's interpretation is accepted, Gilmore would be unlikely to walk away from prison a free man because he faces another murder charge.

He was sentenced to die for the murder of a Provo motel clerk during a robbery last July. He is also charged with murder in connection with another Provo-area robbery the night before the clerk was slain.

The pardons board planned to review the matter last Wednesday, but Gilmore and his girl friend, Nicole Barrett, attempted to carry out an apparent suicide pact on Tuesday. Both were found unconscious — Gilmore in his cell and Mrs. Barrett in her Springville apartment.

Both were hospitalized for treatment of drug overdoses, and both recovered. Gilmore was returned to Utah State Prison, and Mrs. Barrett was admitted to Utah State Hospital on Friday.

Doctors said Mrs. Barrett, 20, was in a state of depression and that she still planned to carry out her pact with Gilmore, 35.

Prison officials, on orders from doctors and from Mrs. Barrett's family, refused to allow Gilmore to telephone Mrs. Barrett on Friday, and the prisoner began a hunger strike which continued on Saturday.

The next scheduled meeting of the pardons board is Dec. 6, but in light of the Dec. 7 execution date cited by Wootton, Gilmore's attorney, Tom Jones, said he would ask for an earlier hearing, preferrably on Wednesday.

Cabinet appointment list readied

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Jimmy Carter's talent scouts are expected to present him this week with their first recommendations of people to fill Cabinet posts and other key jobs in the Carter administration.

If he likes the selections he receives while in Washington, Carter could begin interviewing some of them as early as the end of the week or the beginning of the following week.

Matthew B. Coffey, director of the transition team's Talent Inventory Program, said in a recent interview that his staff will offer Carter about 15 potential candidates for each of the 32 top government jobs to be filled.

Carter and Vice Presidentelect Walter Mondale also have been soliciting suggestions on their own, and they may come up with some people the talent scouts haven't found.

But, Coffey said, "we hope we will have the widest-ranging, most checked-out list" of anyone dropping names in the hat.

On Carter's instructions, he said, "for every position there are going to be qualified women, blacks and other minorities recommended to him."

Coffey reports to former campaign manager Hamilton Jordan, whose political coordination team is working with the talent hunters to screen potential appointees.

As a result of preliminary work done during the campaign, Coffey said, Carter's staff is months ahead of the late President John F. Kennedy, whose transition work didn't begin until two days after the election. Kennedy nonetheless named his cabinet in eight days.

Before the election this year, Richard C. D. Fleming headed a team effort to identify the most important jobs Carter must fill and to describe in detail each job.

A 31-year-old city planner working for a community development firm in Atlanta, Fleming had been a volunteer member of the "peanut brigade" that flew into the primary states to campaign for Carter. In July, he joined the fledgling transition team and put together a 3½-inch briefing book outlining the qualifications needed for the 32 top jobs in government.

Those posts include the Cabinet secretaries, undersecretaries, independent agency heads at the National Security Agency, Central Intelligence Agency, the Office of Management and Budget and the regulatory commissions where vacancies will occur.

Fleming also recruited Coffey, 35, who had handled personnel in the White House under the late President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Coffey, now Fleming's boss, took over after the election to begin putting names next to the jobs Fleming had identified.

"We developed a system to collect, organize and do a rough screening of the people whose names were sent to us," Coffey sai "Now, we're in the second stage, and outreach program to find and evaluate individuals who are qualified but who weren't on anybody's list."

Jordan had said earlier that some of the jobs are being taken in clusters. That is, a group of names will be submitted of people who might be qualified for any of several jobs, such as secretary of state, secretary of defense, CIA or NSA chief in one cluster and treasury secretary, commerce secretary, OMB director and chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers in another.

When Carter gets a list of names for a job or a cluster of jobs, Coffey said, each person on the list will have been put through at least three "quality checks," which he defined as "talking to references of our choice rather than those submitted by the candidate."

Carter may ask for more information, more names or designate somone to talk to certain of the candidates.

If Carter decides he's interested in one or more of the candidates after he has interviewed them, then — with the candidates' permission — the FBI will be asked to begin a full-field investigation. It involves checking various records regarding the candidate and interviewing co-workers, neighbors, friends and other associates.

The FBI probes serve two purposes. They determine whether a person can gain a top-secret security clearance, and they sometimes uncover derogatory information that might otherwise be discovered by the media or in Senate confirmation proceedings.

It is expected that some people will take themselves out of the running before the FBI checks start. Coffey noted that many people with the management skills to run a government department wouldn't be willing to take the kind of pay cut necessary to accept a Cabinet post that pays $63,000 a year.

After the FBI reports are in, it will be up to Carter and his advisers to narrow the field.

Meatcutters vote to accept new contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — About 1,000 members of a wholesale meatcutters union voted overwhelmingly Saturday to accept a new three-year agreement with employers represented by the Associated Meat & Food Suppliers of Southern California.

A spokesman said the agreement covers Local 274, Provision House Workers Union, and involves some 50 companies which supply hotels, restaurants and institutional service.

He said the economic package will total about $2.50 an hour over the term of the contract.

However, he said a strike is continuing by another 1,000 members of Local 274 against the Vernon Meat Dealers Association.

He said the strike began Tuesday and picket lines have been expanded to all wholesale plants in the association.

He said an unfair labor practice charge has been filed against the dealers.

Russian visitors to U.S. exhibit inquire about Carter, detente

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian visitors to a U.S. Bicentennial exhibit now attracting capacity crowds in the Soviet capital often have questions about President-elect Jimmy Carter and the future of U.S.-Soviet detente.

"Some appear to be quite worried about him (Carter) because of things he said about detente during the campaign," said David Monk, 27, of Cambridge, Mass., one of the 30 Russian-speaking exhibit guides.

He said he tells Soviet questioners, "In my personal opinion, attitudes toward the Soviet Union won't be terribly different than they are under the Ford administration. They seem to be reassured by that."

Despite a bomb scare this week and waiting in a queue that could run to five hours in near freezing temperatures, Russians flock to the exhibit in numbers that surprise its American organizers.

"We expected a good turnout, but nothing like this," said director Frank Ursino as he surveyed a line of some 10,000 outside the sprawling exhibit hall in Sokolniki Park northeast of central Moscow.

The Russian public is usually most attracted by gadgetry and high quality objects in Western displays. But this show has little material attraction and instead is a sight-and-sound celebration of America on the country's 200th birthday — heavy on films and pictures of places, history and people rather than things.

An important factor in the high interest is the Soviet practice of constantly measuring the Communist system against America, thereby whetting the public appetite for an American version of things.

A comment book, which visitors are encouraged to sign at the end of the exhibit, offers insights on public thinking:

"You've achieved a lot in 200 years. But we're only 60."—unsigned.

"... monotonous and tiring. Our exhibit is more interesting and visual." — unsigned.

"Very, very, very fascinating." — unsigned.

"I love an American student from Brooklyn, and I hope there will never be an atomic war." — Natasha.

The reference to "our exhibit" is unclear because the Soviet companion show, celebrating the 60th anniversary of the Soviet state, is not scheduled to open until 1977 in Los Angeles.

As is usual with U.S. exhibits here, the American guides are among the top attractions.

"This is one of the few chances these people get to talk to Americans under approved circumstances," said Joe Repka, 32, of Jersey City, N.J., who like most of the guides is a veteran of at least one other exhibit in Russia.

"Most of the questions I get are about unemployment, the cost of education and the like, but they seem genuinely interested, not provocative. The things they hear are so contradictory it makes them think more about Americans.

Woman shot in argument; husband held

A 42-year-old Chino woman has been reported in good condition at Ontario Community Hospital after being shot in the face.

Her common-law husband has been arrested in connection with the shooting.

Della Mae Hicks of 13034 Carrillo St. was taken to the hospital in a private car after the shooting Saturday shortly after 7:15 p.m. in the front room at her home.

Arrested in a field near the house about half an hour after the shooting was David Huntley. Chino police had called upon Ontario police for help, and the Ontario police helicopter aided in finding Huntley in the field.

Police investigating the matter said that the shooting resulted from a family dispute.

Huntley reportedly pulled a .22 revolver and shot Miss Hicks in the face.

The bullet entered the head in the nose area and lodged near an eye.

Huntley has been booked into the West End Jail on a charge of attempted murder.

Republicans' 'ideological' differences still exist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller and Ronald Reagan have made it clear that the ideological schism which wracked the Republican party this year still exists.

The vice president, a symbol of moderate, eastern Republicanism, predicted in a magazine interview released today that a "moderate, progressive Republican party will emerge" from coming internal struggles.

Reagan, in a companion copyright interview with U.S. News & World Report, repeated his conservative campaign call for "a banner ... of bold colors — no pastel shades."

The two men agreed that the party should aim its appeal at independent voters. Reagan said they won't be attracted without a strong statement of common philosophy, while Rockefeller called for able candidates backed by a good organization.

Reagan, who lost the GOP presidential nomination to President Ford, said that his blueprint for the GOP would be the party's 1976 platform adopted at the Kansas City convention. Rockefeller disagreed.

"It was the rank and file that wrote that platform in what was literally a revolution against the document handed down by the party hierarchy. It deals in specifics, in conservative principles — no hedging on where we stand," Reagan said.

Rockefeller put it differently, "Conservative forces pushed through a platform ... that took positions that were far more conservative in certain areas than the majority of the party would have reflected."

The party "is going to continue to be a vibrant force in this country" despite its loss of the White House after eight years and its failure to gain seats in Congress, Rockefeller said.

Teacher honors slated

Pomona Schools Supt. Charles Carpenter will present a plaque to those who served on Fremont Junior High School's reading demonstration last year during a PTA program Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria.

Staff members are being recognized for their "outstanding performances" from 1972 to 1975.

Principal Rafael Estupinian will introduce the new PTA officers. They are:

Audrey Manigo, president; Mary Ann Funk, first vice president; Lucille Sampson, second vice president; Esther Schan, third vice president; Irene Todd, fourth vice president; Rita A. Corle, secretary; Delores Lopez, assistant secretary; Cheri Manning, treasurer; Betty Norman, publicity; Yvonne Briceno, hospitality and telephone; Claudette Bridgford, founder's day and life membership; and Jeanette Mulligan, parliamentarian.

Thanksgiving themes will be read by students Alma Lopez, Lorena Martinez, Silvano Jimenez, Sergio Selva and Steve Solis. Other students will sing and recite poems. Refreshments will be served.

Gambling nation's pastime: Two-thirds of American people indulge...criminal prospering

EDITOR'S NOTE: There are some who think it would be a moral advance to drop strictures against gambling. And there are others who know in their gut that it is wrong, although they can't tell you why. Meanwhile, gambling becomes more and more an American way.

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeatures Writer

From Las Vegas East to Las Vegas West, gambling is sweeping the country.

When Atlantic City, N.J., won the right to be the nation's second casino city this month, it only underscored a trend startling to behold.

More and more it is legal to try to get something for next to nothing. Four of five Americans approve of gambling as a pastime and two of three freely admit they gamble within the law, or without it.

Thirteen states, all in the East and Midwest, sell lottery tickets, thereby putting the aegis of government on betmaking. In New York, bettors can wager on the horses and never leave home. And while New Jersey was authorizing its decaying resort area to spin the wheel of fortune, New York City and Long Island voters authorized "Las Vegas Night" with roulette, blackjack and craps for charitable institutions "and other worthy causes."

From the public Horseshoe Club in Gardena, Calif., where people line up to play poker, to the private Mayfair Club in Manhattan, where consenting adults wager discreetly on bridge and backgammon, the name of the game is betting.

Even on daytime television, game shows sport the Las Vegas accoutrements of crap table dice and oversize playing cards for "21". The audiences shriek and grown with the winners and the losers.

All over America, people bet on anything that moves — a whopping $60 billion a year on sports alone, illegally at that, and no one knows how much on other forms of gambling. Something not too subtle is happening to the Protestant Work Ethic, which brands gambling as frivolous and sinful.

It has been an abiding contradiction of American life that millions bet every day, while often supporting legislation that makes that activity illegal.

And it has produced strange ironies. When New Jersey, a repurted stronghold of the Mafia since Prohibition days, turned down statewide casino gambling in 1974, one of the arguments against the tables and the slots was that it would attract the wrong elements to the state.

Even while Atlantic City interests spent more than a million dollars to convince New Jersey voters that casino gambling was okay, a federal commission issued the results of a three-year study. It said that gambling is "a pastime indulged in by two-thirds of the American people, and approved of by perhaps 80 per cent ... contributes more than any other single enterprise to police corruption ... and to the well-being of the nation's criminals."

Enforcing laws against gambling is impossible, the commission said flatly. It recommends the legalization of gambling, making it competitive with illegal gambling.

Gambling—

Not that all the nation embraces legalization. On the same day Atlantic City won, Detroit voters turned down an advisory referendum to permit casino gambling in the Motor City. Nor are there other casino cities on the horizon, although moves persist in Florida and New York state.

Anti-gambling sentiment is alive even in the lottery states, but gets stronger toward the Midwest and especially stronger in the South and Southwest. "There, people thoroughly believe, as their church tells them, that one works to produce products for other men," said James Ritchie, executive director of the National Gambling Commission. "And that you're rewarded by God's grace in money for your efforts. And to waste God's grace is a sin. The work ethic is reflected in attitudes that permeate all our laws."

Legal gambling winnings are heavily taxed. Since taxes are rarely paid on illegal winnings, the legal games suffer the disadvantage. For that reason, among others, state lotteries have barely put a crimp into illegal numbers games, Ritchie says.

"The gambling spirit is part of the American spirit," says sociologist Frederick Preston of the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. "It is a sort of plunging ahead and conquering, a kind of boldness, aggressiveness."

In the glitter of Las Vegas, one man from Los Angeles sipped a glass of water at a casino bar and wondered how to tell his wife that he had blown the whole vacation kitty of $800 in his first hour at the crap table. They had not even gone up to their room yet.

In the breakfast hours of the morning, another man fidgeted nervously, his hands trembling, at the wildly ringing quarter slot machine where he had just hit the $650 jackpot. He was waiting for a casino aide to arrive with the rest of the payoff.

In Gardena, Calif., the Horseshoe Club and other poker clubs are an aberration of California law. When legislators long ago banned most gambling, they could not bring themselves to rule out a friendly game of draw. So poker and an oriental game called Pan survived.

The club rents seats to players at up to $8 an hour, depending on the betting limit. The players are mostly older. Most seem to know each other. The games are serious, quiet and conservative. There is no liquor and the only holiday on which the club closes is Christmas.

"Some of them you can set your watches by," explains Tom Parks, one of the partners.

The staff of 475 manages the games, runs the dining room and keeps order. Above every table, hidden in the ceiling, is a TV camera. All play can be monitored to catch cheats, mechanics, card manipulators.

The Gardena clubs hire former casino employes as managers. When a cheat is discovered, his chips are divided among the other players, and in some cases he is prosecuted.

A man called Acey Ducey, keeps coming back to the Horseshoe — in disguise — and keeps getting caught.

The club also bans people who let their gambling get out of control. Occasionally a spouse will complain that a husband or wife is gambling away the grocery money, and occasionally a player will write and ask to be barred for his own good.

The compulsive gambler is an increasing problem everywhere. Gambler's Anonymous, patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous, demands total abstinence. It estimates there may be nine million problem gamblers in America.

In New York's Off Track Betting parlors, it is mandatory for the parlor manager to post the local telephone numbers of Gambler's Anonymous, and posters plead, "Gamble with your head, not over it."

Interestingly, government — as the gambling entrepreneur—have usually tried to protect its players. Government in the lottery business isn't a new idea.

In the 1700s, London sported lottery houses that made money for government and charitable groups. Those houses also instituted a numbers game to make money for themselves, and the idea came to America.

Some state lotteries are moving toward making their legal system competitive with illegal games, as an alternative to them. But it takes some major revisions.

The legal counterpart must pay better, and the winnings will have to be tax free, Ritchie says. Most states put lottery revenue into the general fund where it gets swallowed up. "But if they wanted to devise a strategy of success, they would give the money back to the community where people could perceive the benefit."

Bookmaking is another widespread illegal betting activity, and most people don't even think of it as illegal.

"If you take a scale of 100, betting on football in this country is at 100," Ritchie says. "Betting on horses, on the other hand, is about ten."

In between, basketball would rate 25, baseball 15.

The horses run every day, and so does football, in a sense. At least the middle-class bettor manages to enjoy it almost all week.

The betting line comes down on Tuesday. Bookmakers take bets until noon Saturday when they close the books on the college board.

A football bettor hits the college board first, and then takes his winnings and plays the Sunday professional games. If he loses, he tries to recoup on the Monday night pro game.

Because it is the catch-up game, it is, in Ritchie's words, "the biggest game in town, the largest single event in terms of money bet is Monday night football."

The popularity of football as a betting game is no mystery. There are now 26 franchises, and five to six games a week are televised.

"There is probably 10 times as much money wagered on televised football games as on those that are not televised," Ritchie says. "People like to watch a game and bet on it. It doesn't mean that more people bet on football than numbers. They are fewer and different — middle income to upper middle, even a smattering of the very affluent who bet huge sums. It's almost a subculture in itself.

"We allow TV sportscasters to talk about the line (point spreads) on virtually every newscast," Ritchie says. "We publish injury reports as early as possible so everyone knows who isn't going to play. And after we create a demand for this service, we say it's against the law to accept a bet. It's no wonder the system is fighting itself."

Parimutuel betting on horseracing exists in 32 states. Dog racing is popular and spreading as a blue collar activity. Jai Alai is just getting started.

New York's Off Track Betting is a going proposition. It handled $780 million in bets during its last fiscal year, and gave $124 million back to the city, state and industry.

Why do Americans gamble?

Excitement. Entertainment. The chance of beating the house. A way to escape the doldrums of our slow but secure lives.

"Gambling is not limited to the tables," notes sociologist Hess. "Investment, the stock market, things like that are often cited as gambling. Business, too, is a gamble in a sense, or offers the challenge of a gamble. Farming is one of the biggest gambles in business, and I suspect you will find few farmers at the gambling tables."

Dr. Craig Walton, a young philosophy professor on the Las Vegas campus, is less sanguine and charitable to this human enterprise. There are some, he says, who would think it a moral advance to drop strictures against many things like gambling.

"But there are others who say, 'I know in my gut that it's wrong, and don't give me any of your sociology. It's bad and I can't tell you why it's bad, but it is, so don't argue with me."

The argument that it is a victimless crime is probably wrong, Walton says. Where do you draw the line? Does the gambler hurt some loved one by indulging in his personal pleasure?

Big apple:

New York City still faces bleak future

EDITOR'S NOTE: One year ago this week, the federal government stepped in to save New York City from default. Much has been done to reduce expenditures since then, but default remains a strong possibility in the future.

By LEE MITGANG
AP Urban Affairs Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Abraham D. Beame, recently addressing a convention of magicians, asked them "to pull a few million dollars out of the air" to help the nation's largest city remain solvent.

The magicians laughed, drew some rubber $100 bills from their pockets, waved them at the mayor, and enjoyed the joke.

That's what it was, of course; the sort of gallows humor fitting for a mayor who knows that despite his budget-cutting, New York City still might default — as it almost did last fall.

One year ago this week, on Nov. 26, President Ford gave the city a reprieve by agreeing to lend up to $2.3 billion a year for nearly three years, until June 30, 1978. Before that reprieve, the city had come within a few minutes of default in September and October.

But there were strings attached to the federal loans. The mayor and his government were required to balance the city's $12.4 billion operating budget by cutting out $968 million annually in expenditures. So far, $300 million or more has been cut in jobs and services. The exact figure can't be known in the midst of the fiscal year, the city says.

The worst is still ahead. Under the three-year emergency plan, the mayor must announce by Jan. 1 how he will eliminate the rest of the $968 million deficit.

Not only must he make the unpopular announcement, but he must incorporate the savings into a balanced 1977-1978 budget, effective July 1. If he doesn't, the federal government stops lending money, or so it says, and the city could default.

"The 1977-78 budget is basically the moment of truth and we might as well face it now," says Felix Rohatyn, chairman of the Municipal Assistance Corp., dubbed "Big Mac," the original state agency created two summers ago to patch up the city's finances.

Some of the budget balancing the mayor proposes might be beyond his control. For example, the $400 or $500 million in cutbacks still needed to balance the budget assumes that the city will be able to sell $350 million worth of mortgages it now holds. Mayor Beame wants the federal government to buy the mortgages, but the feds aren't making any promises. If there's no buyer, then the deficit isn't $400 or $500 million, but $750 or $850 million.

The mayor is also counting on the state to take over a $113 million city subsidy to the City University system. If the state refuses, the deficit goes up.

The price the city and its citizens have already paid for survival has been high. In the first year of the emergency plan, these changes have occurred:

—$500 million in new taxes were imposed on the most taxed citizens in the nation. The income tax on city residents was increased an average of 25 per cent — to $91 for a family of four with a $10,000 income, and to $437 for the same size family with a $25,000 income. The property tax went up. So did the cigarette tax. Haircuts, once tax-free, are now taxed at 4 per cent.

—The city's workforce was reduced by 55,000 to 239,000, a 19 per cent decline and the lowest level in more than a decade.

—Wages of many remaining workers were frozen and raises previously promised were deferred for a year.

—A 129-year policy of free tuition at city colleges ended last summer, and with it a tradition of higher education for the poor, a tradition that produced some of America's best minds. An undergraduate now pays $750 a year for his first two years of study, $950 a year for the last two.

—The city has given notice that it is considering the withdrawal of its workforce from Social Security coverage. The decision would be made in January and withdrawal would be in March, 1978, at a saving of $200 million a year in contributions. The workers would still have their city pensions, usually more than 50 per cent of salary just before retirement.

—The transit fare rose from 35 cents to 50 cents a subway or bus ride.

—Seventy-seven day care centers were closed. About 5,000 children had used them.

—The number of city-run

hospitals has shrunk from 19 to 17 and there are plans to close two more next year. The Health and Hospitals Corp., a semi-autonomous city agency, chopped 6,800 hospital workers from the payroll, leaving 36,000 workers.

—Thirty-two public schools have been shut and average class size has gone up to more than 30 pupils.

—Corporate executives now occupy top city posts, replacing bureaucrats often blamed for the budgetary gimmicks that helped to create the years of deficits and finally destroyed the city's credit.

During the year of changes, Big Mac and other watchdogs have been pouncing on New York each time the city fails to meet one of its budget-cutting goals. The watchdogs include Gov. Hugh Carey; the state Emergency Financial Control Board; a state deputy comptroller, Sidney Schwartz, who monitors the city's cost-cutting progress for the control board, and last but far from least the U.S. Treasury and Congress.

The feds lent the city $1.26 billion through last June 30. An additional $2.17 billion is to be borrowed through June 1977, and $2.1 billion through June 1978, the end of the three-year plan. The borrowing scheme requires the city to repay the loans, with roughly 7 per cent interest, in the same year the money is borrowed, and before any other city debts are paid off. So far the repayments have been made to the federal government, but thousands of people who invested in city notes over the years aren't able to redeem them now. They've been told to wait.

Of girls, flowers

Japanese prefer English names for automobiles

TOKYO (AP) — In many places, the names Celeste, Silvia, Sunny, Gloria and Violet belong to girls or flowers. But in Japan, these are the names of some of the country's best-selling cars.

The choice is puzzling to visitors, yet automobile makers say they want names with an image, regardless of whether they can be pronounced.

There is no "L" sound Japanese, so car names like Lancer, Fair Lady, Bluebird and Corolla are pronounced Rancaa, Foo-air Rady, Buru Baado and Cororura.

Television commercials proclaim the worthiness of the "shibiku Shi-Bi-Shi-Shi (the Honda Civic CVCC). Nissan announces its new model "Shirubiya" (Silvia) and Mitsubishi puts its "Garan Shiguma" (Galant Sigma) on the market.

For export, though, the Bluebird becomes the 610, Violet is 710, Sunny is B210, Galant is Dodge Colt, and Celeste is Plymouth Arrow.

"You could never sell a car named Violet or Cherry in the United States," said Charles Folker, a director at Mitsubishi Motors Co. "Cars in the United States are named after animals or famous places and are more masculine."

He said one problem in finding names for Japanese cars was that companies have copyrighted whole lists of flowers and other names that they might someday like to call a vehicle, including bicycles, so that most of the obvious possibilities are already taken.

Mitsubishi discovered, for example, that it had registered the name "Lancer" 13 years ago and chose it for their new car.

"Japanese words are harsh sounding, so we use English or French names," said Tadasu Wake of Mitsubishi's product planning department.

"We need some kind of medallion for the car. English words are popular because Japanese students have been learning English since they were 11 or 12 years old," he said.

"The meanings of the words are considered carefully when the vehicle is named, but usually we don't think about it afterward. The feeling and sound are more important than the meaning," he added.

"Celeste," for example, won over "Challenger" and "Mirage" in a telephone survey of 300 customers. Although sometimes considered a girl's name, the company meant it to signify blue sky.

"Japanese cars have problems keeping up with the tough emission regulations, so Blue Sky is a good name for a car," Wake said.

With a couple of exceptions, all of Toyota's cars begin with the letter "C."

The company's first passenger car was called "Crown" to mean it was the king of cars, and the second was named "Corona" after the circle of light around a luminous body such as the sun or the moon.

The two cars sold exceedingly well and the company, out of superstition, decided to stick with the "C."

LaVerne changed by shifting population trends

New face, new center of business

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A shifting trend in population that is redefining the center of La Verne is changing the commercial face of that community.

The city will lose the Alpha Beta supermarket next month, a downtown landmark for the past 20 years.

But it will gain a large new shopping center, centered around a K-Mart store, on Foothill Boulevard, east of the Marshall Canyon wash.

The demise of the market will be a blow to downtown merchants who have been trying for the past several years to keep the area rejuvenated and attractive to foot traffic as well as to shoppers south of Foothill Boulevard.

Alpha Beta is, by far, the largest store downtown. Its closing will leave a large number of specialty shops, restaurants and service stores without a major tenant.

Fred Cantrell, a spokesman for Acme Markets, the parent organization for Alpha Beta, confirmed today that the huge Southland chain will not pick up the lease which expires Dec. 31.

He said the market has now outlived its usefulness to the community. He pointed out that Alpha Beta built a larger, more modern store last year on Foothill Boulevard, and contended that Alpha Beta shoppers are well served by that store as well as by another one on Garey Avenue in Pomona, a half mile from the market that is closing down.

The center of the city, at least as far as merchants are concerned, is now Foothill Boulevard, and that is where the K-Mart complex is going.

Building permits for $1,600,000 have been issued for the construction of the complex, which includes not only an 83,906 square-foot K-Mart store, but also 12 satellite shops with a combined floor space of 21,800 square feet.

The new shopping center is located east of the former Cattlemen's Wharf — now known as the Dock of the Bay — and west of the extension of Benton Avenue. The 10½-acre site will include parking spaces for 773 cars.

Steven L. Davis of San Diego, one of the partners in La Verne Properties, the company which is building the complex for K-Mart and the other tenants, said construction is expected to be finished by next March and occupancy is targeted for May.

He said one of the smaller tenants will probably be a Baskins-Robbins ice cream shop. Ten other possible tenants are negotiating for the sites, according to Davis.

Although the building permit calls for a $1.6 million valuation, Davis said the actual worth of the project, including the land is well in excess of $2 million.

Davis said he is one of three partners in the company that is building the shopping center. The others are Equity K-Mart and Development Systems.

The shopping center will be the home of another of a series of chains which opened outlets along Foothill Boulevard during the past three years. Some of the other chains include Alpha Beta, Von's and Stater Bros.

In confirming the Alpha Beta expiration of the lease, Cantrell contended that the choice to continue tenancy was that of the supermarket.

Meanwhile, La Verne college has disclosed that it has been approached by Coldwell-Banker, a Los Angeles Realtor, regarding the possibility of converting the market and the paved premises to the use of the college.

Steve Morgan, the college's director of development, said the college was considering the offer to lease — and possibly to buy — the property. He said the college could use the building for more dormitory and office space.

"It is possible the building can be remodeled," he said. "The proposal will be presented to the monthly meeting of the college's executive committee next month."

Morgan denied reports that the supermarket building would be converted into the college's proposed new law center. He said tentative plans now call for the construction of the center in an area which lies between the present confines of the college and the supermarket.

Joint meeting slated

A joint hearing of the Pomona City Council and the Pomona Redevelopment Commission will be held Monday night to consider the plan for the proposed Mountain Meadows Redevelopment Project area.

The public hearing, held in conjunction with the regular City Council meeting at 8 p.m., will be open to all interested persons.

Mountain Meadows Redevelopment Project area as proposed includes most of the undeveloped portions of the Ganesha Hills east of Ganesha Boulevard.

The bulk of the land within the proposed project area is envisioned by city officials as an "executive housing" district, with homes in the $70,000 and higher range.

Also included in the proposed district is land north of the San Bernardino Freeway, which is zoned for commercial development and already has such businesses operating as Denny's, Lemon Tree Motel, Castaway Restaurant, and two service stations with the Pomona Valley Mining Co. Restaurant presently under construction.

Monday's public hearing would be the first of two leading to formal adoption of the project area.

The second hearing before the City Council is scheduled for Dec. 13.

Other agenda items for Monday's meeting include council adoption of the Human Resources Element to the city's General Plan, and proposed pay raises for Ron Kranzer, director of Public Works, Fire Chief John Fowlkes and Police Chief Richard Slaght.

Student achievement high

Claremont reading scores listed

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Claremont students again have scored high in state tests in reading, written expression, spelling and mathematics, the local school board has learned.

Assistant Supt. Margaret Hodder has reported that in tests given the past school year to Claremont High School seniors, the 12th graders scored in the 96th percentile in the state in mathematics, in the 95th percentile in both reading and written expression, and in the 85th percentile in spelling.

The board also learned that seniors also did well in Scholatic Aptitude tests. Last year 243 seniors took the tests and scored on an average of 477 in verbal aptitude compared to 430 for California students and 431 nationally.

On the math portion, Claremont students' average scores were 511, compared to 470 for California and 472 nationally.

Second-graders were placed in the 70th percentile in the reading test, and third-graders made the 67th percentile when compared with other districts in the state.

Sixth-graders last year took the Survey of Basic Skills test developed specifially for the California Assessment Program, and were ranked in the 72nd percentile in reading, the 75th percentile in written expression, the 67th percentile in spelling and 75th percentile in math.

Mrs. Hodder said that an analysis of the test scores revealed that the highest scores were achieved by those pupils who spoke English fluently and also spoke a second language, if the second language was Chinese or Japanese.

The next highest scoring pupils were those who spoke English only.

High test scores also were associated with students whose parents are employed in the professions and with schools having a small number

CHECKING THE PLANS

The partially completed San Bernardino County branch office building in Ontario looms in background of picture as Supervisors Joseph Kamansky of Upland, left, and Robert Townsend of Chino check over plans for the structure. Construction is underway at C Street and Cherry Avenue, as part of new city-county complex. Facility is being built by Berry Construction Co., of Upland at a cost of $1,696,062. Kamansky, a new supervisor, got the "lowdown" recently from Townsend.

Bright babes:

Doctor, mother care aids trio of premature infants

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

A Pomona mother who has just brought home her third premature child in five years knows that babies are worth their weight in gold.

The three babies, all girls, were born in 1971, 1975 and in May of this year and each weighed under two pounds at birth.

Their hospital bills for delivery and subsequent care during the first months of life totaled $221,700.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wilson of Pomona. The father served 22 years in the Navy so some of the bills were covered by insurance. Others were paid by Medicare and by the Crippled Children's Society, according to the mother.

Mrs. Wilson, 30, also has had 10 miscarriages.

"Some doctors have said I'm hyperactive, but there is no Rh factor or other medical reason which appears to cause the premature deliveries," reports the attractive, 105-pound mother.

All three of the girls are bright, alert and, at present, healthy babies.

But, at birth, none of them was given much of a chance for survival.

The youngest, Crystal Eve, was the most seriously affected at birth and has had the highest medical costs to date.

She was born May 19 at Park Avenue Hospital, Pomona, weighing just 1 pound, 15 ounces. The next day, the baby was taken by ambulance to Loma Linda University Medical Center. There, her weight dropped to 1 pound, 7 ounces, and she was diagnosed as having a congenital heart defect.

When she was just 10 weeks old, Crystal underwent open heart surgery.

She came home recently and now weighs almost 7 pounds at over five months. She is alert and responsive, but has some breathing problems at times. Her hospital bills totaled $160,000.

Windy April, now 19 months old and weighing 21 pounds, was born April 10, 1975, in Hemet. She weighed 1 pound, 11 ounces at birth. Her weight dropped to 1 pound, 1 ounce and she, too, was a patient at Loma Linda Hospital for four months.

Windy's hospitalization cost $52,000.

Mrs. Wilson says that many of the same nurses cared for Crystal and Windy.

The oldest of the daughters, Misty June, is now five years old and weighs a very normal 42 pounds.

She was born Jan. 24, 1971, at Anaheim General Hospital weighing 1 pound, 12 ounces. Her weight dropped to 1 pound, 3 ounces.

Misty was transferred to Children's Hospital in Orange County where she was a patient three months. The bill was $9,700, Mrs. Wilson reports.

Misty attends kindergarten at Hamilton School. Her teacher told the family Misty is a bright and well-behaved youngster.

"Three girls are a handful," reports the mother.

Before the babies were released from the hospital, Mrs. Wilson was instructed in feeding and caring for them by the nurses in the neonatal departments.

"But by the time I was to bring the third one home, the staff at Loma Linda Hospital decided I was already experienced in the care of premature infants," Mrs. Wilson says.

All three girls came home in the same dress. It's a doll-size pink and blue plaid dress which Mrs. Wilson made so it would be small enough for Misty.

"I am already worried over the fact that all three of them will want the dress when they grow up."

Mrs. Wilson says that, after having three such tiny daughters, she's become used to the comments from strangers about the petite youngsters.

"Misty has caught up with other girls her age, so I'm sure the other two will."

Mrs. Wilson does add that the girls have been somewhat slower in such physical feats as walking and crawling.

"We do not plan to have any more children, but are so grateful that the girls are not impaired either mentally or physically as a result of their early births and extensive hospitalizations," concludes Mrs. Wilson.

Pomona employes consider salaries

After a half-year of discussions, negotiations and arbitration, Pomona's miscellaneous employes will decide Monday whether to accept a two-year salary agreement offered by the city.

The proposed agreement, worked out between city and union representatives last week, would give city workers a $350 cash bonus for this year and a five per cent salary increase for next year (beginning July 1).

Carter faces confrontation

Jimmy Carter struck pay dirt by arguing he had no Washington entanglements.

But senators and representatives do — and up to their necks. And it is on these men President Carter must depend if he is to keep his campaign promises. To wit:

Government reorganization, tax and welfare reform, programs to get industry moving and meaningful jobs programs other than frauds like the Humphrey - Hawkins bill.

It will be relatively simple for Mr. Carter and his team to prepare model laws and send them to Congress. But as surely as each is submitted, at least 50 senators and 100 congressmen will start working on exceptions favoring constituents or backers, promoting their own ideas of equity and efficiency or providing material for self-serving handouts.

Congressmen react much more strongly, of course, to pressures from home than they do to pressures from the White House. For it is clear to every man in the Congress that it is his district or state which elects him, and assures his returning for another term or going down to defeat. Few presidents have been much help in this regard. There are very few of next year's Congress who feel indebted to Mr. Carter for their seats.

Presidents come and presidents go. In each man's time there was feuding with Congress. For all his charm and national popularity, President Franklin Roosevelt in the end had to depend on the veto, as did Presidents Johnson, Truman, Kennedy, Nixon and Ford. Yet Johnson knew the ins and out of the Senate and its sources of power as have few men. Kennedy, Truman, Nixon and Ford were not neophytes. Being expert in the ways of Congress thus did not seem to help. Nor popularity. Nor charm.

President Eisenhower did relatively well because he had a Lyndon Johnson in the Senate. Though the two men were of different parties, Johnson was superb when he chose, in disregarding party lines. But, as noted above, when he gained the White House, President Johnson had no Senator Johnson to give him the help he badly needed.

And, as of today, there is no Senator Johnson in sight to rescue President-elect Carter.

Carter's term as governor of Georgia does not signal a happy time with the Congress. He used the veto strongly, lost out on some of the measures he most prized, reportedly because of an unwillingness to comprise.

The governor's relationship with the legislature was stormy. By the end of his term he was at odds with a large portion of the state legislature. There was nearly total conflict during his entire term.

Hopefully, Mr. Carter has learned from this experience.

Entrust elections to popular will

It happens every presidential election — at least every election that turns out to be a squeaker, or when there is a strong independent candidate in the running:

We hear renewed calls to junk the antiquated Electoral College system, but no sooner has the tumult died than we forget about it for another four years.

It has happened again this year, and once again the angels who watch over drunkards, small children and the United States have pulled us through.

Jimmy Carter received a comfortable plurality of the popular vote — 51 per cent to President Ford's 48 per cent. But a shift of as few as 4,000 votes in Ohio and Hawaii would have given the Electoral College Majority to Ford, even though Carter would still have had a majority of popular votes.

There have been a number of defenses of the Electoral College system.

One is that since a candidate takes all of a state's electoral votes even though he may have carried that state by only one more popular vote than his opponent, it gives the appearance of a greater mandate for the winner than is actually the case. This is said to confer some sort of psychological benefit by consoling those who voted for the loser.

It also gives small states a greater voice in the election process in proportion to their populations since each state has as many electors as it has senators and representatives. Small-state opposition to abolishing the Electoral College has, in fact, been the major reason why any number of proposed constitutional amendments have never gotten anywhere.

Three times in our history, however, a president has been elected with fewer popular votes than his opponent, and the possibility remains that someday a third-party candidate will win enough electoral votes to deny a majority to any candidate, throwing the election into the House of Representatives.

Ford should've spent more

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — It's the little things men slip up on that lose elections.

Just two days after the voting, a friend — a Democrat who has worked on budgeting and spending in the Defense Department for a succession of administrations — stopped by to say that in his mind President Ford's aides had the key to victory in their hands and blew it.

Like most recent presidents and many seasoned political observers my friend assumes that an economy moving briskly upward in the months before election guarantees a boost in the popular vote for the party in the White House and its candidate for president.

The Defense Department accounts, as this economist read them shortly before election day, listed a carry-over of uncommitted obligational authority of around $34 billion. In the interest of good business and planning, a carry-over on that date of around $18 billion would make good sense. That means, in his mind, that an additional $16 billion could have and should have been put out to contractors in the summer and early fall of 1976, both in the interests of good defense management and political clout.

The ripple effect of that added $16 billion spreading out into the economy would have given the recovery a strong boost in September and October. For companies receiving these promises would have, in turn, put out bids to a variety of firms — and would have promised jobs to many men and women.

Voters then would have marched to the polls with optimism for the future. And, my friend says, Mr. Ford would have been elected Nov. 2.

This economist, in retrospect, cannot understand why the Ford administration and Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld did not order these obligations put out. They were authorized by Congress. The original Ford-Rumsfeld schedule, adopted around 12 to 15 months ago, called for these funds to have been obligated before Oct. 1, the beginning of the 1977 fiscal year. It was in the interest of national defense and of prudent project management that these obligations be placed on schedule so that the programs they represented could move ahead according to plan. These obligations were, my friend assumes, not inflationary, as they were part of the obligation spending pattern approved by the scrupulously careful James Lynn at the President's Office of Management and the Budget.

This financial specialist is in a very good position to know how these things are done, having been a part of the Pentagon's speed - up - the - obligating - and spending moves in previous presidential elections, both under Democratic and Republican administrations.

He recalls before one election that he was ordered by the defense secretary to go through every major Defense spending program in detail and discover what programs were behind target in their obligating and spending of funds and which could be speeded up — and by what means.

He and his associates were ordered on another occasion to search high and low for every extra dollar which Defense could obligate or spend in the months preceding November.

On still another occasion he was in the office of the Pentagon's liaison officer with the White House, an attorney whose name is now well known politically, when a call came from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue asking for ways in which spending could be quickly, temporarily speeded — the call led to a hastily devised program for putting out funds.

Note: This obligational authority which President Ford did not take advantage of will be a nest egg for President-elect Carter to use to boost the economy when he and his men take over Jan. 20.

War on crime falters

WASHINGTON — A confidential study by the General Accounting Office (GAO) charges tersely that "the war on organized crime is faltering." The rackets continue to flourish across America, according to the study, despite federal attempts to crack down on the mob.

The study lays most of the blame on the federal strike forces, which spearhead the national effort to disrupt organized crime. The strike forces, states the study, "are not getting the job done."

At the same time, the strike forces have come under intensive fire inside the Justice Dept. Critics have accused of subverting the judicial processes and abusing their powers. In their zeal, some task forces have hounded and harassed suspects who couldn't be convicted.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard Thornburgh, the conscientious chief of the Justice Dept.'s criminal division, has had misgivings about the strike forces. He recently shut down the strike forces in St. Louis and New Orleans. He also put the New Jersey strike force under U.S. Attorney Jonathan Goldstein's jurisdiction.

Finally, Thornburgh removed the respected William Lynch as head of the organized crime section, which oversees the strike forces. Lynch was compelled to trade places with Kurt Muellenberg, who had been running the narcotics section.

These developments have sent shock waves reverberating through the organized crime section. Inside sources have told us that morale on the strike forces is at an all-time low. There is concern that more strike forces may be disbanded.

Muellenberg has paid quiet calls on several strike forces to allay the apprehension. He told us he would never have taken the job if he had thought Thornburgh was trying to kill the strike forces.

Yet the malaise remains. We interviewed several strike force investigators. Most complained about a lack of communication between Washington and the field. Others suspected the motives of those who are trying to curb the strike forces.

Some strike force prosecutors are thinking about leaving the Justice Dept. to go into private practice. Others have simply adopted a "wait and see" attitude.

At the last meeting, Thornburgh was not responsive to their complaints. The confidential GAO study also claims the fight against organized crime lacks organization and direction.

In a lengthy discussion with our associate Marc Smolonsky, Thornburgh conceded that organized crime is proliferating and that federal opposition should be better organized. But he challenged the GAO's auditing methods as a reliable measure of the Justice Dept.'s effectiveness in combating the mob.

He also blamed the American people for the growth of organized crime. It will "continue to flourish," he warned, "until the American citizenry chooses to withdraw its patronage from these multimillion-dollar sources of income, influence and power."

As evidence that the Justice Dept. is not soft on organized crime, he pointed out that six of the most powerful Mafia bosses from Brooklyn, Los Angeles, Montreal, New York City and St. Louis are now behind federal bars.

Thornburgh agreed, nevertheless, that the strike forces aren't focusing on the important organized crime cases as they should.

The other way to go

If you pay a retail price for your vacation you feel like a jerk, when you realize that others may be making the same trip on the same plane and staying at the same hotel for (ital) less than half (unital) what it costs you!

Corporations are learning that the best way to keep their salesmen in high gear is with a "carrot" instead of a "stick." And the "carrot" is a trip to the Bahamas for the salesman's (ital) wife (unital).

Promise a reward they can both share and she'll see to it that he keeps humping.

"Incentive travel" is now a half-billion dollar business.

Corporations schedule their conventions in exotic resorts and eligibility for attendance is dependent on sales performance.

Where the outstanding salesman used to get a trophy or a cash bonus or a diamond in his company lapel pin — now he is more likely to get to take his wife on a five-day holiday in Jamaica.

The motivators have learned that most everybody loves to travel. Its appeal is more nearly universal than any other extrinsic award. When you offer a man and his wife Acapulco or Las Vegas or Honolulu, you are offering them a "dream come true."

And more and more corporations are recognizing the significance of family involvement, family togetherness.

And the factor which brings these elaborate dreams within reach is the reduced costs which specialists in incentive travel can negotiate.

As a for-instance, Chicago-based International Travel Associates, Inc., is one of the biggest in the business.

ITA Vice President Howard Harvey says his office can send a "group" out of the country — to some place like Jamaica — with five nights in a high-priced Jamaican hotel, plus side trips and cocktail parties and meals and guides, for less than it costs you just for a first-class round-trip plane ticket from Chicago to the West Coast.

Incentive travel is a carefully computerized "shopping service" or "bargaining service" in behalf of the client which often negotiates group rates for less than half what the trip would cost otherwise. Sometimes much less.

For you or me to fly to Spain and stay six nights at a first-class hotel with meals would cost $1,533.

Our employer can send us in a group — first class to Spain, six nights in the hotel with meals and sightseeing side trips and a cocktail reception, fiesta and flamenco show and home again — for $672.

And most industries are able to recapture the cost of the exotic outing — and then some — through the increased incentive-generated sales.

Employers who use travel to inspire greater sales productivity report related sales increase of approximately 25 percent each of the past three years.

It makes the family which tries to vacation "on its own" realize what a "markup margin" we pay — while others enjoy the same quality transportation and accommodations often for less than half.

Just in jest

Never underestimate the ability of youngsters for putting two and two together and coming up with some rather pertinent conclusions. There was this bright young ten year old lad, for instance, who after puzzling over an "Adults Only" heading in a condominium housing project advertisement, turned to his mother and remarked:

"That must be like adult movies and TV programs recommended for adult viewing only. The things that go on there shouldn't be watched by children."

Senate turmoil

By EARL G. WATERS

Gathering to organize for a new two year legislative session, California's state senators will face an unusually tumultuous opening next month. This because of the inordinate turnover in membership which stripped that house of a substantial segment of its leadership.

It started last spring when Sen. George Moscone left to become mayor of San Francisco. Then Senators Clare Berryhill, Donald Grunsky, Joseph Kennick, Robert Stevens, Howard Way and James Whetmore announced their retirements. Next Sen. Anthony Beilenson declared for Congress and finally three senators, Randolph Collier, James Wedworth and Jack Schrade failed to win their reelection bids.

Those events have left the Senate with three vacancies on the Rules Committee and five in chairmanships of important standing committees. This has opened the door to a lot of infighting among not only the surviving members but involves the newly elected ones.

In former days such a change in membership, which although it didn't often happen in so large numbers, would have created hardly a problem at all. For until recent years the selection process for committee chairmanships, and membership too, was almost totally based upon seniority. A retiring chairman was replaced almost automatically by the next ranking member and usually without regard to party affiliation.

Seniority selection was a good system for it avoided the bitterness which developes among the members as they engage in free for alls to secure desired committee assignments. It also usually resulted in the most knowledgeable, by reason of their legislative service, being given the responsibility for leadership.

The 1966 court ordered reapportionment, stemming from the one-man, one-vote decision, resulted in the first inroads against seniority. The new Senate was all but overwhelmed by former Assemblymen who had won seats in the upper house. Having already gained legislative experience they were unwilling to start over earning seniority. A compromise was made whereby credit was given for their Assembly service. Today, however, scant attention is given to seniority. Absent that Republicans now being in the minority, are also given short shrift in the choosing of committee chairmen.

The first order of business will be to elect a President Pro Tem, something which the Democrats with 26 votes out of the 40, will do by themselves. The office has been held for the past six years by James Mills of San Diego. His reelection will depend upon his ability to satisfy a sufficient number of members in their ambitions for key posts.

That will be a difficult task since the assignments are made by the Rules Committee composed of four other members in addition to the President Pro Tem. These are selected in party caucus, two by the Democrats and two by the Republicans. There will be three vacancies on the committee by reason of retirements, two being Republicans. Mills' job will be to make certain the Democrats elect someone supportive of him and that, if they retain holdover Senator Nick Petris on the committee he too will back Mills' choices for the other committees.

That may depend upon Mills' ability to deliver the chairmanship of the Senate Finance Committee to Petris. At the moment Senator Al Alquist is claiming that post as in the bag for himself. Other committee chairmanships at stake are those of Agriculture and Waters Resources, Business and Professions, Public Employment and Retirement, and Transportation.

Complicating the whole problem is the desire of some members to play musical chairs, trading off what they have for something else. The whole thing promises a jolly party when the 1977-78 roll is called.

Dr. Miller

Paunchy bird usually bored

DEAR DR. MILLER: My sister's parakeet did nothing while he was alive but sit in his fancy cage and feed his fat face. He finally got so fat all over that he got what the doctor said was a big, fatty tumor on his chest, and finally he died. He wasn't really old enough. What can she do with a new, young bird to keep him from getting so fat? You can't make a bird stop eating when there's food in front of it all the time, so what do you do? — T.F.

DEAR T.F.: You provide your parakeet with optional activities. The more bored the bird (or any other species, for that matter), the more likely it is to seek solace in food. Furniture, from a mirror to a ladder, provides diversion, as does a bell or a swing. But such items should be clustered in one corner of the cage. The cage itself should not be fancy primarily, but should be a flight cage, one large enough to provide plenty of space for the budgie to engage in that vital and ultimately satisfying activity, exercise. Flight time can be encourage by placing the bird's food cup at the far end of the cage from his furniture.

DEAR DR. MILLER: In looking over my kitten, I've observed the membranes under the eyes and in the mouth are not rosy pink as you'd expect, but are pretty pale, actually. I suspect it's no great cause for concern because Zipper doesn't act at all ill, but I'm wondering if he could have anemia? Do cats get an iron deficient anemia, as people do? — E.G.

DEAR E.G.: Felines frequently develop anemia. Iron deficiency anemia can occur, particularly in kittens. There are, however, many forms of non-nutritional anemia in cats, and anemia is a common finding in many insidious, deadly feline diseases. Even though your kitten appears otherwise healthy, it would be a mistake to assume this is a nutritional problem and try to treat it with a vitamin pill. A cat obviously anemic to an owner is usually showing advanced blood changes, and an early checkup is vital even though your cat appears healthy otherwise. Remember, cats and birds are particularly prone to adjust to, and thereby cover up, a slowly developing illness until it reaches an advanced state where treatment is more difficult or impossible.

Ann Landers

Dream could be nightmare

Dear Ann Landers: Jeff and I are in love. I've always dreamed of being married in a church with family and friends present. Jeff says it's a lot of garbage. He claims wedding ceremonies and marriage licenses are gimmicks somebody dreamed up to stimulate the economy. He says a priest is just another person and his words aren't any holier than a bus driver's.

Jeff wants us to drive out to the country, find a quiet spot, get on our knees and ask God to marry us. He says if we are married in our hearts that's enough.

It makes sense when I listen to him, but after he leaves I feel uneasy. What is wrong with his reasoning? Please help me think straight. — A Dreamer

Dear Dreamer: Whose last name are you going to use after you marry yourselves? And what does Jeff plan to do if there are children?

A man who says he doesn't need a marriage license or a priest or "any of that garbage" sounds like a swift character who wants the benefits of marriage without any of the responsibilities. Wake up, Little Dreamer, before your dream turns into a nightmare.

Dear Ann: The Citizens of Beloit and Janesville, Wis., decided to do something when it became known that nearly $8nillion worth of merchandise wa being shoplifted annually in thesewo cities.

They implemnted a program called STEM hoplifters Take Everybody's Mney), purchased from the Metrolitan Milwaukee Association of ommerce, which holds statewide ghts.

The idea behinthe program is to hammer home e fact that the public has to payr stolen merchandise throughhigher prices. Therefore, it is everybody's advantage to curb oplifting.

STEM relies ocooperation from local media to dever public service messages direed primarily at teenagers who e responsible for the majority of e thefts.

Local stores ill display STEM signs and decalsncrease security, and pledge t prosecute all shoplifters. Broures will be distributed to studen from elementary school through hh school. Parents will also receiverochures.

A poll reveal that shoplifting arrests declined per cent in communities enrolle in the program. These communes included Eau Claire, Fond dLac, La Crosse, Oshkosh, StevenPoint and Wausau.

Thought you ght like to know what's happenin around your old stamping grou Ann. — R.B., Janesville Gazette

Dear R.B.: Thanks for the bulletin. It sounds very promising. If anyone is interested in learning more about STEM, DON'T write to me. Please contact the Metropolitan Milwaukee Association of Commerce, 828 N. Broadway, Milwaukee, Wis. 53202.

Dear Ann: My husband died five months ago. We had 24 years together — most of them bad. Joe had a violent temper and I bought more beefsteak for my eyes than for the table. Once he knocked out four front teeth.

A fine widower at work has asked me out to dinner. Joe's mother says I should accept no dates until the year of mourning is over. Is she right? — Undecided

Dear Un: She's wrong. Don't look at the calendar. Listen to your heart. For some a year isn't long enough — for others a few weeks is ample. Go — and order beefsteak. It'll be nice to eat one for a change.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Lander's booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Cars fail before payments end

I don't pretend to be any great shakes on the economy, but when I read that car loans are being extended to 48 months, a shiver went up and down my spine.

For years now, Americans have been running out of car before they ran out of payments. Back in the '40s you were pushing your luck to sustain four wheels through 24 months. Then in the '50s someone decided to extend the payments over a 36-month period. (We paid on our babies that long — but at least they ran.)

What we're dealing with here is Detroit's Law: "If God had meant for you to ride around in a car, He'd have recalled your feet!"

When a car comes off the assembly line, someone stamps an expiration date somewhere under the hood. It is no coincidence that the date is one day after the warranty on everything expires. The ca has no interest whatsoever iyour personal problems. It donot care if your three-year-old to in . . . that you became pregnar two days before your health insunce went into effect . . . that y have a sudsing problem in your ont yard just over your septic tankWhen it is time to go, the car simp coughs and dies.

For you Futurshock fans, the 48-month loan meanthat in another ten years you could nceivably be paying for a car tt you don't even remember.

"Hey what's ts bill for $73.94?"

"It's the car pment," I answer.

"What car?"

"You rememb. The brown station wagon with e wood on it. Don't you have the noton it in the budget book?"

"This one?" l asks, plucking a piece of paper out of the drawer. "It says, 'See Transmission.' "

"Here's another reminder on that car. It says, 'See Battery.' "

"I sure wish I could remember the car," he mumbles.

"I know you'd remember if you saw it again. We had it when the kids were small and there was a big space in the back where we used to carry all kinds of junk — playpens, strollers, toys."

"Yeah . . . yeah . . . I think I've locked in a picture. It was a four-door and was a real engineering bow-wow."

Just then our son comes in to borrow the car keys for the current car. As we walk to the driveway with him, my husband gestures to the five clunkers parked there.

"Just think, son, someday all of this will be yours."

Uric acid is cause of gout

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have always thought that gout was caused by eating too much meat. Is it just as important to avoid other proteins? Should salicyclates such as aspirin be avoided while taking Colbenamide for control? Is baking soda of any value in reducing uric acid in the blood?

DEAR READER — Eating protein foods including meat does not cause gout. That is a common misconception. It is caused by an overproduction of uric acid by your own cells, not by what you eat. A high uric acid level in the blood may lead to acute attacks of gout or a slower more insidious change causing gouty arthritis.

Today we have three types of medicines used to treat gout. One of these is used to relieve the acute painful attack, colchicine — and we have used it for ages. Other medicines are used to increase the filtration of excess uric acid out of the body through the kidneys. The medicine you are taking is a combination of these two. The third medicine, allopurinol (Zyloprim) acts at the cellular level to prevent your own cells from producing too much uric acid.

The combinations of these medicines have made diets in the control of gout almost obsolete. They have also completely changed the outlook for patients with gout as long as they follow their doctor's treatment plan.

Because heartlisease is a common complicatn of gout I do believe that goupatients should be on a diet low init and cholesterol and limited suffiently in calories to eliminate or prent obesity. Avoid crash weight ling efforts. This often breaks dn body cells and releases excess aounts of uric acid and can cause acute painful attack of gout.

Salicyclates he a variable effect on uric acid dending upon how much you take.t one time they were used to elinate uric acid but they are not use for that purpose anymore. If a rson with gout is controlled by a sisfactory medical program taking pirin for ordinary aches or pains l not be harmful. Aspirin should n be used with an acute painful attack of gout. Aspirin has often been implicated in causing acute attacks of gout but I don't think you need worry about that if you are taking medicine to control gout as in your case.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-3, Gout, Uric Acid, to give you more information on the problem. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Some doctors do try to keep the urine alkaline when they are giving medicines to flush out lots of uric acid. Sodium bicarbonate is sometimes used for this purpose. I do not think regular use of sodium bicarbonate for any purpose is advisable. You can avoid this problem by using medicines such as Zyloprim that prevents the overproduction of uric acid in the first place.

The medicine you are taking does enhance flushing uric acid out of the body through the kidneys. To help you protect your kidneys and avoid any increased chance of kidney stones I do think you should drink plenty of fluids. Drink enough to insure a generous flow of urine that appears light in color, meaning it is dilute. The amount of urine you pass is the proper indication of whether or not you are getting enough fluids.

Three top prescriptions

I have three prescriptions for handling irritability and tension that have really helped me:

First, a verse from Psalm 37: "Fret not thyself because of problem people. Trust in the Lord and do good."

Second, a wise parable: A crabby old woman was making a loud scene on a Chicago buAs she was getting off, a gentlema in the back said, "Oh, just a mine, madam, you left something bed." She asked, "What?" The klly fellow said, "A very bad impsion." Positively stated: Every iation is an opportunity to leave bind a good impression!

Third, a possity thought: Every irritation is an invitation to an elevation. Which means when you're irritated, you are faced with an opportunity to rise higher and become a bigger person!

Irritated or tense? It's a chance to demonstrate real patience, tolerance and understanding in a world that seldom sees God's love in action.

Homework aid via telephone

That Lions Club in Richmond, Ind., has pulled off a nifty wrinkle. It's paying some junior high and high school teacher plus several Honor Society students to stand by the telephone in the evening. Thereabouts then other youngsters, who are having trouble with their homework, can call for help. This scholarly project is known as the "Hotline for Homework." And observers say it's expected to boost report card grades considerably.

The office building of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration recently was cited by U.S. Labor Department inspectors for more than 300 safety violations, please note.

HALIBUT

Q. "How long does a halibut live?"

A. About 50 years, if all goes well. That's about how long a queen termite lives, too.

Apes, too, can be identified by their fingerprints, don't forget.

The records are wrong, I'd guess, when they show the common cold to be the No. 1 cause of absenteeism with food poisoning the No. 2 cause. Rarely does a working citizen, who stays home Monday, put down for explanation the word "hangover." Still, employment rolls show that Monday is the day when most cases of common cold and food poisoning are reported.

NUTS

Among the tree nuts — peanuts don't count here, no matter who's president — walnuts are the most popular nationwide. Then come almonds, pecans, filberts and macadamia nuts, in that order. Cashew nuts belong to the same plant family as poison ivy, but I doubt that's why they don't rank in the top five.

And about that poison ivy, note it stated in print that all infants are immune to it, that few children under 5 are susceptible to its rash, but that with repeated exposures, they become more and more likely to react as they age.

You've heard of the historical "message to Garcia" during the Spanish American War. But what do you know of the man who delivered it? Possibly more than did the officers who assigned him the job. Army Lt. Andres S. Rowan had written a book about Cuba. That's why he was picked to undertake the sticky task of taking that note behind the Spanish lines to the Cuban General Carcia. What his military bosses didn't realize until much later was that Rowan had never been to Cuba.

Glad you asked

Q: I heard that a former TV Mouseketeer recently posed for a nude photo layout in a magazine. Who was it? — Mrs. Estelle K., Pittsburgh.

A: She was Doreen Tracey. "We all seemed such goodgoodies in the Mickey Mouse Club days," she told writer Jerry Bowles. Both she and Annette Funicello were forced to wear "figure supressors" as they got older.

"When Annette and I were about 14 they used to make us wear those bloody T-shirts under our mouse sweaters so that we would be flattened down," Doreen revealed. "We were both very big-chested, really topheavy for our age. We used to slash the T-shirts down the middle so more would stick through.

"Anyway, we were walking down the studio lot one day and we passed Disney and a couple of other guys. One of them said, 'Look, aren't the girls growing up?' And Walt said, 'Girls? They're more for the fathers than the kids in the audience!'"

(Footnote: Doreen Tracey married, had a son, got divorced and has been working in the record business in Los Angeles for the past several years. With the exposure her five-page nude layout is generating, the former "child" actress is developing a nightclub act and embarking on a college lecture tour.)

Q: Though my doctor assures me I've been cured of cancer, I now find people afraid to hire me. Are many other post-cancer patients running into the same problem? — R.G.T., Syracuse, N.Y.

A: Yes. According to a recent study (made for the California chapter of the American Cancer Society), 22 per cent had been denied jobs because they'd been treated for cancer. Another 19 per cent said their working conditions or salaries had been adversely affected. At least 39 per cent feared future discrimination; 25 per cent said they were the targets of negative attitudes or job discrimination; and 29 per cent were no longer working for their previous employers.

Q: Isn't Evel Knievel a women's lib champion? — Ms. Florence R., Richmond, Va.

A: If so, he'll have a time hurdling over this stack of words: "Women were put here for three reasons — to get into bed, to get up and fix something to eat and to get back into bed again!"

Q: Is Mickey Mantle a good story teller? — L. Victor, Phoenix, Ariz.

A: Yes. One of his favorites concerns an especially rough airplane trip the Yankees once took. "We flew through the worst storm," the Mick related. "The plane was jumping all around. Out came the air sickness bags and the prayer beads. Guys were crying and screaming. All of a sudden, catcher Jesse Gonder yells: 'Let me out, let me out. I want to get off this plane right now!' Another passenger says: 'You can't do that here, we're flying over Lake Michigan.' 'I don't give a damn,' Gonder replies, 'I can swim but I can't fly!'"

Murder mystery adds to loss

Jerry was only one of 20,510 persons murdered during 1975

By MIKE SULLIVAN
For the Associated Press

There were 20,510 persons murdered in the United States in 1975, according to "Crime in the United States," the FBI's annual report.

Three out of every four homicide victims were male and 51 per cent of the males were white. The age group with the largest number of victims was 20 to 24, with 2,934 killed.

If you search through the voluminous report, you will learn that there were six homicides in rural Mendocino County, California, in 1975.

These are all statistics, lacking flesh and blood.

All but one.

One of these 20,510 murder victims, one of these 2,934 between the ages of 20 and 24, one of the six killed in Mendocino County was Jerry Sullivan, 20.

Who was Jerry Sullivan?

Jerry Sullivan was my son.

Jerry was born and raised in Howard Beach, a community on the shores of Jamaica Bay, hard by Kennedy Airport in New York City.

He was the youngest of four brothers and, when still a toddler, he tagged along with me to watch his older brothers play baseball. Jerry caught on fast and later became a good ballplayer himself.

Jerry went to Our Lady of Grace School in Howard Beach and to Bishop Loughlin High School in Brooklyn. Growing up, he played on many Catholic Youth Organization baseball and basketball teams. He soon earned the reputation of being a team player

Jerry was extremely modest and was embarrassed by praise. A few nights before he graduated, he told me he had to go back to school for something. When he came home, the trophy he carried was a little too big to sneak up to his room unseen. A little plate on it read "MVP — 1973 Jerry Sullivan:"

One summer, Jerry and a few friends rode their bicycles from Howard Beach to Cooperstown, N.Y., on the western slope of the Catskills to visit the Baseball Hall of Fame. The trip over the mountains wasn't easy for boys accustomed to the flat, sea-level terrain of Long Island.

Jerry had the usual afterschool and summer jobs. He worked in a local drugstore; he was a busboy in a small Italian restaurant. He saved his money and wanted to ride his bicycle across the country the summer after he graduated from high school. Jerry couldn't get anyone to go with him, and I refused to let him make the 3,000 mile trip alone. I was afraid that something might happen to him on the road.

Jerry's disappointment was assuaged when I gave him permission to go to a small college, Dana, in Blair, Neb. He worked hard that summer and saved his money to help pay his college expenses.

But Jerry stayed in college only six weeks. He came home and told me he'd had enough of school and wanted to work with his hands.

He had several run-of-the-mill jobs and then, one day, in the spring of 1974, Jerry took off. He left us a note and told us not to worry ... "we were only a telephone call away." He promised to keep in touch with us and he did. A few days later we got a note from him from Hazleton, Pa., where he visited a college friend at Penn State. A few days after that a letter arrived from Blair, Neb., where he had stopped to see his Dana friends.

Hitchhiking and riding buses, Jerry made his way across the country and landed a job on the Dwyer ranch in Murrieta, 40 miles north of San Diego in southern California. Austin Dwyer, the owner of the ranch, breeds and boards thoroughbred racehorses.

Jerry took to the ranch work as if born to it. He worked hard six days a week and loved it. He learned to ride and acquired a dog and a horse of his own. Dwyer said Jerry never complained about the laborious, unglamorous parts of the job — moving irrigation pipes, lifting heavy bales, and the like. Both Dwyer and Tiofilo Lopez, the ranch foreman, were amazed at the speed with which Jerry, a city boy, picked up the work of the ranch and the affinity he had for the horses.

Jerry worked on the ranch for a year and came home on vacation in June 1975. Working in the southern California sun, he had lost weight but he had never looked better in his life. He was slim, tanned, strong. His friends were delighted to see him and I think they had a party for him every night. Jerry had a ball.

He returned to California on June 23, 1975. I last saw him at Kennedy Airport as he was about to board a flight for San Diego. We shook hands warmly and Jerry said, "Thanks a lot for everything, Dad."

Some time in August, 1975, Jerry broke his leg. It was put in a cast from his ankle to his hip and he had to use crutches to get around.

Jerry tired of hanging around the ranch, unable to work. A horse that he had taken care of in the spring was due to run on Sept. 10 at Bay Meadows, a race track near San Francisco 450 miles to the north.

The people at the ranch tried to dissuade him, but Jerry hitchhiked up to Bay Meadows to watch the horse run. The owner of the horse was surprised to see Jerry in the barn area, took him to dinner and offered to drive him back to the ranch.

Jerry told the man that people had been good to him on his trip up from Murrieta and, as long as he was unable to work, he'd continue hitchhiking to see what Oregon looked like. The trainer let Jerry sleep in the barn that night and Jerry told him he'd be back the following Wednesday to see the horse run again.

Jerry left the track alone early on Thursday, Sept. 11, 1975. Somewhere along the road, another hitchhiker, a man in his 20s with shoulder length hair, joined him. Four persons have been found who gave the two of them rides to Navarro, about 100 miles farther north.

Jerry was last seen alive in Navarro with the other hitchhiker about 7:30 p.m.

His body was found in a stand of redwoods near Navarro on Tuesday, Sept. 16 by an elderly man taking a shortcut through the woods.

Jerry had been shot through the head with a .38 caliber gun. His body was half-in, half-out of a sleeping bag. His wallet and meager possessions were missing. His crutches stood against a tree. He had been dead at least four days.

Jerry was identified the next day by the thumbprint on his California driver's license application on file in Sacramento. That evening, two New York policemen came to my house and told my wife and me that Jerry was the victim of a homicide in California.

Detective Sgt. Ralph Maize of the Mendocino Sheriff's Department in Ukiah, Calif., has been working on the case for more than a year. Lead after lead has taken him nowhere, but he remains hopeful that the murder will not go unsolved.

"We are still looking for Jerry's companion ... I think we'll be able to find the guy. I have to think that. Every day I go out, I think something will come up."

DILIGENT SEARCH — etective Sgt. Ralph Maize of the Mendocino, lif., County Sheriff's Office goes through the fis on Jerry Sullivan, found dead on Sept. 16, 1 5, near Navarro. He has followed hundreds of ads in an attempt to find out who shot and ked the 20-year-old Sullivan.

Scientists seek reading lessons

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Scientists at Yale University are trying to teach a computer to read so that ultimately they may be able to produce computers that can read whatever people can.

The research is based on work done by Roger Schank, a computer scientist who has been a pioneer in producing computers everyday language instead of special programming language.

"I'm basically working on the study of human thinking," says Schank, a Yale professor who heads the Artificial Intelligence computer project.

He hopes that by producing a computer that can read, he will be able to obtain a better understanding of the human

Shipwreck, gold coins a dreamfind for school boy

COPENHAGEN (AP) — It was every schoolboy's dream come true. A sandy beach and a wrecked ship — packed with gold coins.

A Danish schoolboy, Jesper Egersoe, 16, found the ship — not on some palm-fringed coral strand, but right at home in Denmark.

His find won the amateur archeologist local fame and a reward.

Jesper found the remains of a 14th-century trading vessel in the water near his family's summer cottage on the west coast of the island of Zealand while diving with a simple mask and snorkel. In the summer of 1975 he fished up an antique pewter plate, which he sent to the Danish National Museum. This summer he made the big catch — 94 gold coins.

To keep away vandals, Jesper kept his find a secret, except for telling his parents and the National Museum, which sent professional searchers to the spot. They found a further 16 coins, pewter plates, part of a bronze cooking pot, sailcloth and some textiles.

There were remains of animal bones, possibly from the last meal for the crew before the ship foundered on the Danish coast near the Skaggerak. It was probably on its way to the Baltic for trading.

Archeologists identified the coins as English nobles minted in the reign of Edward III (1327-77). There were 74 nobles, 30 halves and four quarters. None was from the time of Edward's successor, Richard II, making the wreck at least 600 years old. There was one gold gulden from Luebeck, Germany and a silver coin from Flanders, Belgium.

At the time they were minted the gold nobles would have bought 450 cows — a fortune for those times. Experts valued the coins at present day prices at about $100,000.

Claremont reading scores

of students who receive Aid to Families With Dependent Children.

Schools with less mobile pupil populations were likely to have higher scores than those with many transient pupils.

In the physical performance tests mandated by the state, fifth-grade girls excelled over the boys in standing long jump, knee bent sit-up, chair push-up, side step, pull-up and jog-walk.

In the seventh grade, the competition was more even, but in grade 10 at Claremont High, the girls outpointed the boys in all events.

Mrs. Hodder said that it is not possible to get individual student results because each student gets only a portion of the entire test — 25 questions out of a matrix of 235 questions.

Parent William Schertz told the board he is pleased to see that Claremont High students scored better than those in other parts of the state.

But Schertz stressed that some students with A averages are shocked when they find themselves in the 60th percentile.

"We should compare grade point average with SAT scores," Schertz said. "We should do more random sampling."

Schertz said that parents should be better informed about the testing.

"Tests are being more and more given nationally," he said. "Life is competition."

Pod house:

Sunken tub, furlined walls adorn opulent future home

PORT ARANSAS, Tex. (AP) — A showplace vacation retreat off the shore of Corpus Christi was built in 1966 but is still a tourist attraction.

The opulent house, two blocks from the Port Aransas beach, consists of three interlocking hexagons of concrete with steel framework. Each unit is supported entirely by a single column and raised from 15 to 30 feet above the ground.

Current owner John Hada calls it The Pod.

The design for The Pod came from Texas architect Joe L. Williams, who first used the "pod" concept in building construction in 1964. Williams says his pod houses are ideal for the beach because the problem of shifting earth is eliminated — the column that holds the pod erect extends 20 feet into the ground.

A number of other pod houses can be seen in the Texas Gulf Coast Padre Island-Port Aransas area near Corpus Christi but none is as elaborate as The Pod, according to Hada. It was decorated by Geneva Southern, president of an interior specialties store and a friend and associate of the original owner of The Pod, Louis L. Seiffert Jr.

Ceilings in the 4,394 square feet of living space offer a day-and-night spectacle. The "cave" ceiling is paved with fake stalactites and chunks of mica, and a canopy of lights illuminates the cave with eerie colors at night.

There is a cobalt blue bedroom with a round, king-size bed with a tufted velvet semicircular headboard.

Another bedroom has a hexagonal "floor" bed with a black fur coverlet. One entire wall serves as its headboard, carpeted in purple with a black Oriental tree sculpted in wool and reaching to the ceiling of black fur with "stars" that wink lazily through the night.

John and Patsy Hada bought The Pod four years ago and lived there for six months. John rode the ferry across the Gulf and drove into his Corpus Christi office every morning and Patsy did her homemaking chores.

"You don't worry about how to clean fur-covered walls and cabinets encrusted with gemstones — you just make a stab at it," says Mrs. Hada, who adds that owning the house has been "a ball." Now the couple visits The Pod only occasionally, but enjoys lending it to customers and friends for holiday retreats and parties.

Hada, a geologist and president of Peninsula Corp., an oil and gas exploration and production company, can name the different rocks used in building and decorating the beach house, from quartz to pink slag to natural river rocks.

The pool, which dominates the front view of The Pod, twists and curves and is banked with river rocks. In the eight-foot depths swimmers dart in and around a bridge and curving stairs that rise out of the water. Youngsters and sunbathers splash in the shallows, which contain a lighted fountain, or lounge on the broad terrace with a built-in bar and grill.

The backyard is terraced and planted with tropical plants and flowers around a reflection pool approximately 800 square feet. Clay pots in the shallow water contain miniature palms and other land plants. The reflection pool provides a Fourth of July show in the evenings, when a fountain with hundreds of spigots sprays water through lights of green, purple, red and gold in an ever-changing pattern.

Hexagon 1 of The Pod has a 20-foot potted palm at its front door and a circular bar-kitchen, and Hexagon 2 has a hexagonal marble tub on a pedestal and electrically operated drapes.

Take a tour of Hexagon 3:

Thirty feet up a winding staircase you enter through a door that is a sunburst of color (chips of mosaic tile embedded in lucite) onto a gold carpet sculpted with fantasy-size leaves of lime, red and forest green. Down two steps of river rock and you enter a cave of Tiki furnishings, carpeted walls, and a blue-violet floor covering, appliqued with multicolored hexagons.

Gray "stalactites" hang overhead amid artfully placed crystal rocks, which become colored with the flick of a switch.

A mantel of volcanic rock above a freestanding contemporary fireplace has a lily pond with running water instead of a conventional hearth.

A golden swag of 22 glass globes the size of bowling balls hangs above the heavy carved wooden Tiki dining table. Tall chair backs completely obscure the diners and a four-foot-tall Tiki god watches from a corner of purple-lighted mica.

Kitchen counter tops are in bronze mosaic tile.

Blind worker in IRS

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Roger Jeanfaivre can pick his way through Internal Revenue Service "red tape" so well that few people who do business with him by telephone know he is blind.

For a long time his dream had been to become a radio disc jockey.

Seven years ago he found it was difficult for a blind man to land a job spinning records. So, after graduating from college, he went to a Lions Club school and learned the tax trade.

"I thought I couldn't spend the rest of my life looking for employment, so I might as well give this a chance," he said.

Shortly after, he went to work for IRS. The tools of his trade are a telephone, a typewriter, a calculator and service manuals. They're the same as those of co-workers, with some differences. His books are in braille and he uses a braille typewriter.

Jeanfaivre's sight has diminished since birth and now he can only distinguish light variations. Outside his job Jeanfaivre, 29, also keeps busy. He enjoys records and using a ham radio.

Jeanfaivre is a popular figure at the IRS office. "He's a fantastic worker," said a colleague.

His future with the IRS seems assured, although he will probably have to go back to school to win a higher position. He has already achieved the top grade in his current slot.

"I guess I was destined to work for the IRS," notes Jeanfaivre, explaining his birthday falls on April 15 — tax filing day.

At the height of the tax filing season there are 32 service representatives answering queries that pour into the Hartford office. Jeanfaivre is one of 10 handicapped or disabled persons working there.

When Jeanfaivre started work in the office he was the youngest service representative and the only male.

The most exotic piece of equipment used by Jeanfaivre is a "talking" calculator. It sends out electronic impulses in a husky, human-like voice as he operates the machine.

"I understand they make them with female voices," said Jeanfaivre with a smile.

Alternative education

Center seeks to educate 'whole person

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — Under the guidance of professors who have abandoned traditional education methods and accepted massive salary cuts, a small experimental college here in northern Arizona is offering tailor-made education as an alternative to the conventional four-year college. The Prescott Center for Alternative Education espouses an active, innovative education based on experience instead of textbooks and lectures, according to James Stuckey, the center's president, who is also the fund raising director, communications coordinator, psychology professor and mountaineering coach.

"It's the education of the whole person — emotionally and intellectually," he explains. "There are no spoon-fed lectures, 'textbook answers' or perfunctory examinations. For the student without goals, the student who has learned only how to play test-passing games, the Prescott Center experience can be completely unnerving."

There are no institutionalized requirements, Stuckey explains, but rather individualized requirements giving students expertise in their fields. "Students actually sign a contract we call it a proposal drawn up by the student in collaboration with faculty and upperclassmen in that field. In the beginning, research projects, specific courses, reading assignments and working experiences are tailored to the student. Later, the student recommends his own projects, shouldering the responsibility for learning.

The center calls this "self-direction" and, beyond an intellectual education, it is a primary goal, Stuckey says.

To meet the center's mandatory graduation requirements of "self-direction" and "professional competence," upperclassmen increasingly use the professional world as a classroom. Students can be found working in veterinary hospitals, at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography, organizing wilderness programs for juvenile delinquents and conducting wildlife surveys under contracts from the Bureau of Land Management.

As the student develops emotionally and professionally — a judgment made by the faculty — tuition decreases on the theory that "self-directed" students demand less of the center.

Prescott Center is a college without time requirements, Stuckey explains. "If after six years a student cannot give proof of professional competence with resumes, portfolios, working experiences, outside activities of job offers, for example, the center will not graduate him. If it can be done in less than four years, that's fine."

Orientation here is a three-week wilderness immersion, including a three-day "solo" without a supply of food, "designed to prepare students emotionally for the higher education experience," says Stuckey. "Using the wilderness as a classroom, students develop the same techniques for survival and self-reliance they will need to survive in the professional world."

And in the field of survival techniques, the center can justifiably claim expertise: as a direct extension of the now defunct Prescott College, it survived a financial disaster.

The center's predecessor had been described as everything from "a wild West dude ranch" to a first-rate academic institution. Students from around the country were attracted by innovations that had established the 10-year-old liberal arts college among academia's upper echelons. But as the recession accelerated, declining endowments spelled disaster for the overbuilt college.

"Within 24 hours of Prescott College's demise, a handful of students and professors began the task of rebuilding a college using the techniques for survival and self-reliance the school had taught," Stuckey recalls. "Professors agreed to massive salary cuts and a curriculum was devised so the institution could function on the basis of student fees."

Operating in the cramped basement of a 48-year-old hotel, the school began its first semester as scheduled while the $6-million campus lay abandoned. Through a grant from the Max C. Fleischmann Foundation, the center recently made a down payment on a new campus: the somewhat dilapidated former Mercy Hospital, currently being renovated by students and faculty. Ironically, the Prescott College campus is still deserted, held in limbo by the bankruptcy courts.

Recruiting with a nickel-and-dime budget, the center has an enrollment this semester of 100, nearly 25 per cent of its predecessor's maximum enrollment. And beginning its second year offering courses like White Water Rafting, Ecology of Diets, Psychology and Personal Growth and Religious Experience and the Environment, the center is operating in the black.

"The innovations for which Prescott College was famous," Stuckey says, "were purified and strengthened through the closing of the college and the center's opening."

To underscore his claim, Stuckey points to last year's graduates — 100 per cent were employed in their respective fields at graduation.

Though the center itself does not offer a degree, it offers students a recognized under-graduate degree through an affiliation with Johnston College, an experimental branch of the University of Redlands.

Opening lead — K ♦

South ducks the first two diamond leads, but wins the third one. East discards a low spade.

South can count to seven top tricks. He has to look to the club suit to bring home the game.

If he starts on the clubs by playing ace and then a low one West will play the queen on that second lead and South's contract will have gone to that place from which there is no return.

A smart South realizes this possibility and starts the club suit by leading a small one.

At this point in time if West simply plays low South plays dummy's 10 and four notrump will wheel in.

A very smart West can counter South's play by putting his queen of clubs on that first club. South can't afford to let it hold since West will promptly cash two diamonds.

His only real hope to make his game will be to rise with dummy's king, lead back to his ace and hope against hope that West has been dealt the doubleton queen-jack of clubs. This play effectively kills any entry South has to dummy.

Irrigation makes gardens, revives 'Dead Sea' area

By JOEL EPSTEIN

THE DEAD SEA, Israel (AP) — In the searing salt earth of a land cursed by God, Israelis are growing a garden of dates, mangoes and vegetables.

They are doing it with the help of an Israeli-developed system of trickle irrigation that conserves recious water supplies.

"When we came to settle the Dead Sea area 20 years ago, government officials didn't believe anyone could live here," says Dany Afik, secretary of Kibbutz Ein Gedi. "It was so desolate even the Bedouin desert nomads didn't pitch their tents here."

Today Ein Gedi is a thriving community of about 520 people living in two-story houses surrounded by grass and flowers. Most of them work in kibbutz-owned tourist industries, but 25 per cent of the kibbutz income comes from a 95-acre farm.

Beyond the borders of their cultivated enclave lies the forbidding wilderness of the Dead Sea, at 1,300 feet below sea level the lowest point on earth. Yellow cliffs, devoid of vegetation, drop to the salt-encrusted basin of the sea, whose water is so salty no fish can live in it.

Nearby lie the ruins of ancient Sodom, the sin city which the Bible says God destroyed with a rain of fire in the time of Abraham.

Trickle irrigation, developed at the kibbutz over the past 15 years, keeps Ein Gedi's fields constantly moist with a steady drip of water. The system has become a leading method of watering arid areas around the world.

Thin plastic irrigation pipes drip about two quarts of water every hour through pinholes placed 20 inches apart. The drippers work day and night.

"Our system is fully automated," said Afik. "We deliver insecticides, fertilizer and water through the same pipe."

The kibbutz draws its water from nearby springs that feed rich desert oasis in mountain clefts. When the kibbutz was founded the springs supplied more than enough water, but now increased settlement in the region has forced everyone to cut down.

"With an ordinary sprinkler irrigation system in this heat, we lost up to 6,400 gallons a day in evaporation on every acre of land," said Afik. "We also watered large areas between plants that don't need irrigating."

"With drip irrigation, we lose almost nothing to evaporation, and we water only the ground around the plant."

Thanksgiving:

Many traditions changed, but harvest spirit same

EDITOR'S NOTE: It was Sarah Hale, a magazine editor, who agitated for a national Thanksgiving Day holiday, and got it in 1863.

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

A lot of old traditions have died out. Even Thanksgiving has changed. It used to be that the people of the New World beheaded a young girl to mark the occasion. You just don't see that sort of sacrifice anymore.

Of course that particular custom was peculiar to the Indians, not the Pilgrims. Mexican Aztecs offered a damsel to the corn goddess Xilonen. A similar practice was common among the Pawnee, while other North American Indians used a corn dance to celebrate the harvest.

It just goes to show that the modern picture of Thanksgiving — religious refugees in somber costumes offering thanks for a skin-of-the-teeth existence — is a little out of focus.

The Pilgrims weren't even the first English settlers on this side of the Atlantic to have a Thanksgiving.

As harvest festivals, Thanksgivings stretch back to the ancients of Egypt, Syria, Mesopotamia and Rome. Such celebrations survived in medieval Germany, France, Holland and England as the Roman Catholic Feast of St. Martin. It was observed each Nov. 11 — coincidentally the day in 1620 when the Pilgrims set sail.

By that time a band of Englishmen in Virginia held a thanksgiving, on a plantation about 30 miles west of Jamestown. The day was Dec. 5, 1619. An order of the Virginia Company of London decreed:

"We ordain that the day of our ships' arrival at the place assigned for planting in the land of Virginia shall be yearly and perpetually kept holy as a day of thanksgiving to Almighty God."

Before that, English fishermen at Newfoundland had observed a day of thanksgiving in 1578, and in 1607 the people of the Popham Colony on the Maine coast set aside such a day.

Nevertheless, it's the Pilgrim version of the event that captured the American imagination.

Vienna drinkers accident prone

VIENNA (AP) — Some Austrians say that "Wine, Women and Song" could be the unofficial national anthem of this happy-go-lucky alpine country. But apparently the wine plays the dominant part.

Doctors of the Public Accident Insurance Institute (which does not deal with traffic accidents) stated that one-fifth of all persons injured in accidents were under the influence of alcohol.

During 1975, according to their statistics, at least 20,000 of the 104,000 persons who were injured at work or during their leisure time had been drinking. The number alarmed officials.

"We had no idea the number was so high," an official of the Accident Insurance Institute said.

Wine is the favorite drink. In 1975 wine growers produced 65 million gallons of wine. A large part of the wine is exported, but a considerable amount is left to the Austrians.

Although up-to-date statistics on alcoholism are unavailable, Austria's 1971 health report said 47.2 out of every 100,000 males died of cirrhosis of the liver. France is the only European country with a higher percentage of cirrhosis-caused deaths.

Doctors say such liver ailments are caused to a large extent by drinking too much alcohol.

According to the institute's statistics, persons between the ages of 21 and 40 make up the majority of those injured while under the influence of alcohol. They make up 55 per cent.

Most accidents — 34 per cent — occurred mid-week and 30 per cent happened between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Thanksgiving

Venison, duck, goose, fish, eels, white bread, corn, leeks, watercress, greens, plums and berries were on the first menu, but turkey and and pumpkin pie weren't listed in records of the event.

Indians killed five deer for the feast and staged military prowess with a bow-and-arrow demonstration.

Not until July 8, 1630, when a supply ship arrived, was a thanksgiving again celebrated. The Pilgrims felt such festivals ought to be spontaneous rather than matters of form, but Connecticut had an annual harvest festival by 1649 and Plymouth by 1668.

During the Revolution, the Continental Congress proclaimed occasional thanksgiving observances. George Washington issued the first presidential thanksgiving day proclamation, for Nov. 26, 1789.

Thomas Jefferson, apparently more sensitive to conflicts of church and state, didn't care for the idea of a federal thanksgiving holiday and none was decreed again until 1815.

Observances were left thereafter to the states. By 1859 many states were proclaiming the fourth Thursday in November as thanksgiving.

That, perhaps, is attributable inlarge measure to Sarah Hale. As editor of the Ladies Magazine in Boston and later of Godey's Lady's Book of Philadelphia, she pushed for a standard observance.

She lobbied in letters to presidents, governors and other men of influence.

Mrs. Hale wrote her crowning thanksgiving editorial in September 1863. On Oct. 3, a national proclamation, echoing much the same sentiment as her editorial, was issued by Abraham Lincoln.

Almost every president and governor has since followed Lincoln's lead, proclaiming the fourth Thursday of November as Thanksgiving.

Political training brutal

Many Viet prisoners might not survive re-education

HO CHI MINH CITY — (LENS) — Eighteen months after the fall of Saigon, information about what happened, and is happening, to the 1 million members of South Vietnam's army is beginning to reach the outside world.

Immediately after the surrender, all military men were ordered to report for "reeducation." Most of them did, and most of the ordinary soldiers completed their course in no more than a week. Noncommissioned officers were worked on longer: between one month and a year. All of these have now been released except for a few "special cases."
few "special cases."

The 40,000 former officers, including doctors, are in for three years; "incorrigible" cases will stay longer.

The officers are held in two types of camps. Most are living under conditions that can be survived by those in good physical condition, but which have proved fatal to others. The routine is dawn-to-dark: about half hard labor and half "political education."

The worst feature is the diet. The prisoners get about 200 grams of rice a day, whereas 800 grams is considered the minimum for someone doing manual labor. Some prisoners are allowed to grow their own vegetables, which helps a bit.

Medical services are almost non-existent. Some weeks ago, inmates were told they must learn a trade; they are now allowed occasional visits from relatives.

A smaller number of officers are held in tough "security camps" where conditions are apparently designed to break them. Few have escaped, and no mail is allowed in or out. But one Vietnamese who had a brief glimpse inside reported that the inmates were "no longer recognizable because of the brutal treatment they are receiving."

If or when they are eventually released, most of the officers will probably be treated much as the lower ranks were: if they have relatives in the country, they can go and live with them.

If not, they will probably be assigned to one of the new "economic zones" being created in the countryside whose main purpose is to relieve unemployment in Ho Chi Minh City (Saigon) and, at the same time, increase agricultural production. The target is to cut in half the city's population from last year's total of nearly 3 million.

Life in the economic zones seems to be better than in the re-education camps, but not very much. Apart from the breaking of new land, settlers have to put up their own shelters. Only a few rudimentary tools are available, and medical services are about as inadequate as for the prisoners. Food is very scarce. But this also affects the towns, where many people are said to be living at starvation level.

Apart from the former officers, an unknown number of ex-civil servants and local officials are being "re-educated" for the basic three-year period. Nobody knows whether all the prisoners will have to serve the entire three years. There has as yet been no trickle of releases to indicate otherwise.

Leaders 'eying' fiscal controls on slumping peso

MEXICO CITY — (LENS) — A year ago, most Mexicans thought that devaluation of the long-stable peso was unnecessary and unlikely. But it came. Today, officials are saying that exchange controls are unnecessary and impractical. But domestic confidence in the peso is now so low that only exchange controls can prevent further devaluation.

After recent new slumps in the currency even finance ministry officials and aides to the president-elect, Jose Lopez Portillo, who takes office on Dec.1, are coming around to controls.

The biggest objection to exchange controls is that they would be hard to police because of Mexico's 2,000-mile border with the United States and the influx of more than 2.5 million American tourists each year. But anything may be better than smashing confidence by another run on the peso.

The latest outflow of capital, which on Oct. 27 obliged the government to unpeg the peso again and allow it to float down more than 20 per cent (it is 26-50 to the dollar now) was provoked by a crisis of confidence.

The private sector was worried that recent wage and price increases had blotted out much of the effect of the first large devaluation of Aug. 31; conservatives were angered by President Luis Echeverria's new verbal onslaughts on them; and funds left the country simply because a new devaluation was feared.

With the country's reserves seriously depleted — the exact amount of money to have left Mexico in recent months is a secret, but it is well over $1 billion — a new wave of speculation, perhaps around the time of the change of administrations, could push the currency's value down further. Free convertibility is not worth such a price.

Not only will a new president be in office within four weeks, but the finance minister, Mario Ramon Beteta, and the Bank of Mexico's director-general, Ernesto Fernandez Hurtado, seem certain to be replaced, if only because of their unimpressive handling of the aftermath of the first devaluation.

Economic policy decisions are being taken erratically. From its long-fixed rate of 12.50 to the dollar, the peso was on Aug. 31, first floated in a regulated manner, then pegged, then floated freely; export taxes were also first imposed and then removed, export incentives were eliminated then reinstated and handsome wage increases were encouraged then rejected.

Frog, he went a courtin'

CHICAGO (AP) — The frog he went a courtin', and he was caught in the act by sculptor David Gilhooly.

This witty artist has created a series of humanized ceramic frogs — some of them, as in the folk song, courting — which was recently on exhibit at the Museum of Contemporary Art.

Gilhooly until recently taught at the University of California at Davis and now lives in Aurora, Ont. With Claes Oldenburg, he is among the wittiest of the present generation of artists.

The son of a veterinarian, Gilhooly was trained initially as a marine biologist, so his interest in amphibians and other animals comes naturally. Before frogs entered, Gilhooly's ceramic menagerie was occupied by warthogs, dogs, cats and sloths.

The sculptures, many larger than human-size, are fanciful, whimsical, satirical, humorous. They sometimes parody historical figures and spoof the Bicentennial celebration and "fine art."

Gilhooly's courting frogs include two on "The First Date at Plymouth Rock Memorial," another pair playing hide-and-seek at the Washington Monument and two other lover-frogs posing on the steps of the Jefferson Memorial, with a Jefferson frog inside.

The sculptor devastates a revered monarch with his "Bust of Victoria, Her 101st Year as Queen," and is just as irreverent with his "Mao Tse Toad" and "Frog Benjamin Franklin and his Pet Wild Turkey."

Gilhooly has likewise peopled — or animaled — the Tablet of the Ten Commandments with frog figures and has done the same with the Liberty Bell.

TV shows said soft on reality

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Cleveland State University poll suggests television situation comedies featuring minority characters may be doing racial relations more harm than good, the survey's director says.

Dr. Jess Yoder, who directed the poll taken among 280 families of varied income levels by student and Urban League interviewers, said findings agreed among high and low-income families.

Yoder said television has made progress in featuring blacks in lead roles and dealing with racial issues.

But he added that "if the shows are not portraying the black lifestyle and blacks cannot identify with them, they may be more of a hindrance than a help in racial relations."

The participants favored "Good Times" as most true to life, followed by "That's My Mama," Yoder said. "Chico and the Man" was last. They disagree both with Archie Bunker of "All in the Family" and George Jefferson of "The Jeffersons."

Those with lower incomes identified more often with "Sanford and Son" than did those with higher incomes, Yoder said.

Dani tribe:

Primitives step into modern civilization

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — It's been a tough year for the Dani tribe out there in New Guinea. First an earthquake devastated their home in the Grand Valley of the Baliem and then their sex life was exposed in the name of science.

The Dani, one of several highland tribes, numbered about 80,000 before the earthquake on June 26. Scientists rank them among the world's most primitive people.

The same geographic isolation that hindered rescue operations after the quake made them an anthropologist's dream by keeping their Stone Age culture relatively intact.

There are few roads and the country is so rugged that distance is often calculated by how many days it takes to walk from one point to another. A river and steep ridges help isolate the valley, which is 40 miles long and about 10 miles across at its widest point.

Diplomats from countries which contributed to relief efforts say an exact casualty list cannot be compiled. One U.S. official in Jakarta estimated that more than 400 died and more than 1,000 were missing four months after the earth shifted, triggering landslides.

Indonesia is the world's largest archipelago with 13,677 islands, of which about 6,000 are inhabited. Jayapura, capital of the province of Irian Jaya in western New Guinea, is 2,400 miles east of Jakarta. As a Dutch possession, Irian Jaya was called West Irian.

Official records say the Grand Valley of the Baliem was not discovered by Westerners until 1938. In it they found a tribe of ancestor worshippers who habitually hacked off the top finger joints of young girls as a mark of respect to the deceased.

Yams are their staple food. Dani men raise pigs for dowries and as symbols of wealth, but pork is rarely eaten except on ceremonial occasions.

Women wear bark skirts and not much else. The male wardrobe consists of little more than a penis sheath, or "koteka" in Indonesian.

In 1954 Dutch colonial authorities established a presence in the area at the hamlet of Wamena, which they reached at first by landing amphibious planes on the river. Airstrips on land were cleared later. Administrators and police were followed by missionaries, scientists and other visitors.

In 1967 a United Nations consultant advised Jakarta that "there can be no question of isolating or bypassing the area. Its innocence has already been lost and its induction into the big world well begun."

The government launched Operation Koteka in 1970 to better the social and economic conditions of the highland peoples. At first this crash program stressed putting clothes on the near-naked Dani. Officials now acknowledge that some refused to wear what they were given while others did so reluctantly, without discarding the sheath. This aspect of Operation Koteka was later soft-pedaled and efforts switched to encouraging the tribes to improve their villages.

A new report describes the Dani as "low energy" people who are seemingly indifferent to sex, among other things.

Karl Heider, an anthropologist from the University of South Carolina, published his findings recently in "Man," the journal of Britain's Royal Anthropological Society.

The Dani do not make love during the first two years of marriage, Heider wrote. They abstain from sex for four to six years after the birth of a child. Premarital sex and adultery are virtually unknown. There seems to be no homosexuality or other sexual outlet, the article said.

Heider uncovered no tribal sanctions against sex and "no one shows signs of unhappiness or stress."

They appear reasonably healthy and happy and have a low infant mortality rate. Heider said their low-key view of sex is also reflected in their attitude toward clan warfare.

Ritual battles with plenty of timeouts and few casualties are the rule. There is a "marked absence of aggression or hatred for the enemy."

The Dani, it seems, just couldn't care less.

Social changes add new words

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Stonewall is there. So is Chandler's wobble, smart bomb, fat city, megadeath, and schlockmeister. You'll find hydrocracker, and Baltimore chop.

This is not a menu for disaster, but words from the "new English" — the thousands of new words and meanings that have become firmly established in the language over the past 15 years and have added a whole new dimension to the way we speak.

"The vocabulary of English, like that of every other living language, is constantly growing," says James Lowe, associate editor of "6,000 Words," a dictionary of new English just published by G. & C. Merriam Co. "However, the past 15 years has probably seen more changes than at any time in our history.

"We have lived through a time of great social change and of world-shattering events, and it follows that we needed new words and new meanings to express these events," he adds. "These range from Vietnam and the moon landings to the new sexual permissiveness and the search for personal identity. We made the word 'establishment' pejorative, and new words and phrases — ego trip, counterculture, sexism, funky — were developed to describe our new ways of living, new ideas, new philosophies."

The most prolific sources of new words were science and technology, Lowe points out, including space flight (moonwalk, earthrise), astronomy (quasar, black hole), genetics (messenger RNA) and mathematics (Fourier transform), to name a few.

But the book also shows that over the past 15 years Americans were talking about the Peter Principle, veganism (extreme vegetarianism), vexillology (the study of flags) and ufology (the study of UFOs). We looked into cloning (growing identical things from a single cell), bionics (solving engineering problems with biological information), and cryonics (freezing the dead).

We used "in" words like flaky and ticky-tacky. We discussed rapid eye movement, synectics and aversion therapy. From Watergate we learned to stonewall it, although the word itself is not new. And the word watergate is still only a synonym for floodgate.

It was a time of unisex, when straight not only meant heterosexuality but an entire catalog of conventional attitudes and mores. The interest in sexual identity gave us Ms., chairperson, macho and many others.

"There were, of course, many influences on the language in those years," Lowe says.

"Surfing gave us almost a whole new vocabulary, including head dip, hang ten, goofy foot, hotdog and hodad. You are a hodad if you hang around but don't surf."

Chandler's wobble, according to "6,000 Words," refers to an "elliptical oscillation of the earth's axis." A smart bomb is a bomb that can be guided to its target; "fat city" means being well off; megadeath is one million deaths; schlockmeister is one who deals in schlock; hydrocracker is an apparatus for cracking hydrocarbons,

Trojans have too much for Bruins

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — USC had a little too much of everything including good luck Saturday.

The Trojans (9-1) simply overpowered UCLA (9-1-1), 24-14, in a game that was not as close as the score would indicate. The game meant everything to both teams. It gave USC the city championship, the Pac 8 title, the trip to the Rose Bowl and, possibly, the momentum and road to another national championship.

Troy will now face mighty Michigan (10-1) in the Rose Bowl January 1 although there is still Notre Dame to play (here Saturday).

By failing to make the game closer, UCLA not only lost out on the Rose Bowl, the one-sided defeat also knocked the Bruins out of an Orange Bowl berth.

The Orange Bowl people were on hand and had agreed that UCLA would get the bid if the game was close. But the Bruins were held scoreless for the first 56 minutes. Their two touchdowns in the last 3:49 were not enough.

Instead, they will journey to Memphis, Tenn. December 20 for a date with Alabama (7-3) in the Liberty Bowl.

The turning point came with 10:45 left in the second quarter. Up until that time, the two giants had battled evenly. UCLA quarterback Jeff Dankworth had just ripped off a 20-yard gain around left end, longest run of the game to that time.

On a first-and-10 at the Bruin 40, running back Theotis Brown ran into the line at left guard. As he hit the opening (no one touched him), he attempted to change hands and the ball popped into the air in front of him and into the waiting arms of safety Dennis Thurman who had come up close to meet the run.

Thurman latched on to the ball in midair and sprinted down the south sideline for a USC touchdown.

The Trojans added a 42-yard field goal by Glen Walker in the third quarter and two more touchdowns in the fourth before UCLA got on the scoreboard.

"I want to thank every player and every coach on the staff," said coach John Robinson. "They were in charge of stopping the Veer-T (formation). The Veer-T is supposed to be unstoppable, but they stopped it.

"UCLA is a great team. But we didn't give them a smell of the ball until well into the second half."

The powerful UCLA ground game had been mainly responsible for the Bruins scoring average of 37.1 points a game, second in the nation going into the game. On the ground they had averaged 361.5 yards per contest, also second in the country.

USC allowed them 14 points and a paltry 140 yards rushing. Instead of their average total offense of 446 yards a game, the Bruins got just 230.

"Offensively, we wore them down," Robinson commented. "They didn't overplay and gamble. So we ran at them. Ricky Bell still is not well but did a heck of a job (170 yards on 36 carries). Vince Evans was brilliant and has been all season."

USC, had averaged 459.9 yards a game, tops in the nation. Against UCLA, the Trojans got 345, 266 rushing and 79 passing (to UCLA's 90). The 24 points was, again, more than twice as many as UCLA had allowed on an average (11.3). Troy had given up an average of 11.8 points per game, so the Bruins scored 2.2 points more than the Trojans' average allowance.

"I think we dominated the second half," Robinson commented. "Eventually they lost confidence in their running game. I don't think they got a first down until late in the fourth quarter."

"They" didn't. Only 6:17 was left in the game when Wendell Tyler ran for six yards and UCLA's first first down in the second half.

However, there were three questionable calls that hurt the Bruins.

In the second quarter, Evans, on a 16-yard scramble, was hit hard and fumbled at his own 44. UCLA recovered, but the officials had blown the play dead although Evans was not yet down when the Bruins had the ball.

With 7:26 left in the game, Bell fumbled and the Bruins thought they had the ball at their own 33. But again the officials insisted the ball was dead before the fumble.

A key call came just after the start of the fourth quarter. The Bruins were behind only 10-0. On a first-and-10 at the UCLA 13, a UCLA defender used both hands to knock down Evans' pass in the end zone in front of Randy Simmrin. Yet the officials ruled defensive pass interference, and gave Troy the ball with a first down on the

Owls clinch title

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE — Citrus College clinched the Mission Conference football title in impressive fashion Saturday night, trouncing host Riverside City College, 42-8.

If anything, the Owls' should have won by an even bigger margin. They amassed a huge 553 yards in total offense, 501 of those yards on the ground, and out-first-downed RCC 26-12 to completely outclass the Tigers.

However, by any score the Owls will take the win, as it means they will be hosting the winner of the Western States Conference in the Mission Bowl, to be played Saturday.

A win in that post-season affair and a couple losses by top-ranked California JC teams and the Owls just might sneak into the Junior Rose Bowl, slated for Dec. 11.

Halfback Obie Graves led the way Saturday night over RCC, as the sophomore flash rang up a total of 244 yards rushing in three quarters of action and scored the first four Owl touchdowns.

Graves also caught two Dale Bunn passes for an additional 38 yards. The 244 yards pushed Graves well over the 1,000 mark for the year, as he now has 1,186 in ten games.

Graves' backfield mates, Raymond Butler and Bunn, added 122 and 73 yards respectively on the ground as Citrus ran its season mark to an impressive 8-1-1 and finished Mission play with a spotless 7-0 ledger, their seventh conference title in the past 10 years.

The host Tigers were in the contest only briefly, as they managed to rally for a second-quarter score and two-point PAT to make it 14-8 Citrus midway through the second quarter.

However, Graves promptly got loose for two TDs in the remainder of the period to give Citrus a 26-8 halftime edge.

When Riverside quarterback Robbin Jones was sacked for a safety on the Tigers' very first play of the second half, it ended any hopes of a miracle comeback by the hosts.

Other Citrus scores in the final 30 minutes came on a 12-yard TD run by Butler and a four-yard sweep by Bunn.

While Citrus was running up 553 yards on offense, the Owl defense stopped the Tiger running game cold. RCC could manage only 22 net yards on 31 rushes, and did not get a first down rushing in the second half.

RCC quarterbacks' Jones and Ron Harvey did manage to scramble about long enough to complete 14 of 37 passes for 173 yards, but the aggressive Citrus defense picked off two RCC aerials and recovered two fumbles to subdue the hosts.

Riverside finished the season with a 3-6 ledger.

Puget Sound downs Broncs

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

The most exciting happening at Cal Poly's Kellogg Field Saturday night was getting actor James Garner's autograph.

At least Garner had a good time.

The actor attended the game with his daughter, a student at the University of Puget Sound, and they enjoyed the results.

Puget Sound defeated Poly, 26-10, in the season finale for both teams as it was obvious from the start Poly's heart really wasn't in it after last week's tough 26-22 loss to Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

The visitors from Tacoma, Wash. completed their season with a 7-3 record while Poly's final mark will only be 3-6-1. Ironically, the two teams meet again in Tacoma on Sept. 10 to open the 1977 campaign.

Poly coach Andy Vinci, frustrated by the season, plans to take a week off to evaluate his situation and future at the university.

"I am going to take a couple of days off and decide what to do," he said after the loss. "I just can't keep worrying about raising money as well as coaching."

In discussing his team's lackluster performance Saturday, Vinci said, "We just couldn't stop them. We lost this game last week in the SLO defeat. Our players were down all week."

Puget Sound rolled up a 20-7 halftime lead and held off and Bronco comeback tries in the second half.

The Loggers also won the battle of statistics with 328 total yards on offense compared to Poly's 246. UPS rushed for 260 yards as Greg Baker ran for 109 on 28 carries and Casey Sander picked up 85 on 12 plays.

Tailback Ron Jones was Poly's big man with 109 rushing yards on 13 carries with his 50-yard touchdown run late in the first quarter being the highlight of the night for the home fans.

Sophomore quarterback Sammy Ross, who was forced to start the final two games because of Leo Costa's injury, had a rough night with only 11 completions in 30 attempts with four interceptions. The Broncs also lost two fumbles.

Puget Sound opened the scoring on an 80-yard drive in the first period with Baker crossing the end zone from the seven.

But Poly caught up at 7-7 on Jones' long run after freshman Beno Lee intercepted a Logger pass.

UPS scored 13 points in the second quarter to take a permanent lead.

Sander climaxed a 78-yard drive with an 11-yard run for the first TD and quarterback Clay Angle completed a 13-yard pass to Randy Moon in the end zone for the second.

A 27-yard field goal by Armando Herrera cut the deficit to 20-10 in the third quarter but Puget Sound iced the victory with 2:11 left in the game on a two-yard TD run by Joe Yeager after Brent Heath intercepted a Ross pass.

Top stockers to run at OMS

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

Eight of the top NASCAR drivers will be vie with 32 other drivers for the Los Angeles Times 500 stock car championship today at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Richard Brooks, Chuck Brown, James Hylton, Richard Childress and Janet Guthrie will be darkhorse candidates trying to upset the top field of David Pearson, Dave Marcis, Cale Yarborough, Buddy Baker, Bobby Allison, Darrell Waltrip, Richard Petty and Donnie Allison.

The Times 500, in existence for five years, is a prize that many drivers are hoping to capture. The race which begins at 11 a.m. is one of the few events Petty is still trying to win for the first time. Also, it is the only major speedway where Pearson hasn't notched a victory.

Yarborough, who only needs the green flag to win the driving crown, is also hungry for a win at Ontario. Bobby Allison has one last shot of avoiding his first winless season on the NASCAR circuit since his rookie year of 1966.

Petty, who has racked up six NASCAR Winston Cup Grand National Championships, would like to cap off a lean year for himself by capturing the Times 500.

However, Petty was just edged out in the point standings for the driving title by Yarborough despite only picking up three victories on the NASCAR Grand National circuit.

Petty, asked about the '76 season, said, "You can go into a slump just like a baseball player. It hasn't been any single factor that has kept us from winning. It seems like something different has gone wrong each time we haven't won.

"We have the same crew as in past years but we just haven't had any luck. It's just a deal we'll have to work out. When we get everything straightened out we'll start winning again.

In 1975, Petty won 13 of 30 Grand National championships. Even though he's having an off year according to his standards he realizes that Yarbourgh has earned the driving championship.

"The deal is that if you win races you'll win money," noted Petty. "If you pile up enough money and wins then you're going to win the championship.

"This year we just didn't win enough. Yarbourgh just beat us out for the championship but he ran hard all year and honestly deserved it."

Dave Pearson has the pole position but Petty intends to make a strong bid for his first Times 500 triumph.

Petty commented, "Ontario hasn't been one of our luckier tracks. I don't know about tomorrow's race but we usually run pretty good here. If everything works out we'll be right in there at the finish."

Brooks from Porterville, Ca. has the best shot of upsetting the field of favorites. He qualified with a speed of 151.285 for the 12th position in the starting field of 40. Brooks stood on his speed set in Friday's qualifying round.

Childress improved his position in the starting lineup by moving up from 27th to the 22nd spot Saturday. Guthrie, 25th Friday, improved her status to 23rd with a speed of 148.522.

Arlene Hiss, hoping to qualify for the Times 500, failed to do so Saturday. Her car never got back out to the track after being involved in a practice accident Friday afternoon. But Mike Hiss, the estranged husband of Arlene, qualified with a speed of 148.084 for the 28th spot.

Skip Manning, battling Terry Bivins for rookie of the year honors, captured the 26th spot with a speed of 148.502. Bivins nailed down the 15 position with his speed of 150.145.

Brown has virtually locked up the Winston West driving title. Ray Elder, who was battling Brown for the crown, failed to qualify. His speed of 145.987 wasn't good enough to get into the starting field of 40.

Bowls pick their partners

By The Associated Press

Michigan and Southern California both beat their hated rivals Saturday and earned trips to the 63rd Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day. Michigan blanked Big-Ten foe Ohio State 22-0 and Southern Cal defeated Pacific-8 opponent UCLA 24-14.

Both teams finished with Big Ten records of 7-1, but Michigan gets the nod because it won the head-to-head confrontation. After the game, Ohio State accepted a bid to the Orange Bowl.

The Rose Bowl wasn't the only game to fill its holiday stocking Saturday, the first day the bowls are allowed to officially line up their teams.

—The Sugar Bowl announced No. 1-ranked Pitt has accepted an invitation to New Orleans New Year's Day. The Panthers will play Georgia, the Southeastern Conference champion. Both Pitt and Georgia were idle Saturday.

—The Cotton Bowl selected undefeated Maryland for its New Year's Day classic in Dallas after the Terps whipped Virginia 28-0 for their 11th victory of the season, the most in the school's history. Maryland, co-ranked with Georgia as No. 6, will meet the Southwest Conference champion, probably Houston.

Houston, eligible for the SWC crown for the first time, ambushed previously undefeated and fifth-ranked Texas Tech 27-19. The ninth-ranked Cougars can storm into the Cotton Bowl as the host team against Maryland by defeating Rice next Saturday.

The Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston was on hand to extend an invitation to losing Texas Tech to play in its New Year's eve classic. The Red Raiders voted to go to the Bluebonnet Bowl if they don't make it to the Cotton Bowl. They could win the SWC title by beating Arkansas and Baylor, provided Rice beats Houston.

Saban quits at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — Lou Saban, former coach of the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League, quit Friday as the athletic director of the University of Cincinnati, just 19 days after taking the job.

Cincinnati vice president Cristos Demakes, who made the announcement, said Saban cited "personal reasons" for stepping down. Demakes said Saban had never actually signed a contract, although he verbally announced Nov.1 that he had accepted the job.

Demakes said Saban and the university parted company "on friendly terms."

Saban was in Buffalo at the time of the announcement.

Saban, who quit the Bills in midseason and was succeeded by Jim Ringo, replaced Hindman Wall, who left Cincinnati to become athletic director at Tulane University.

Damien gets home game

Damien High was named the home team for its second-round playoff game and San Dimas and Walnut were designated visitors as a result of CIF coin flips Saturday.

The Spartans will host Riverside Poly on their own field.

San Dimas will meet Northview at Covina District Stadium and Walnut will play Kennedy at Barstow High.

All three games will begin at 8 p.m. Friday.

Michigan blanks Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Well, the Rose Bowl won't have Woody Hayes to kick around anymore. Not this year, anyway.

The fourth-ranked Michigan Wolverines saw to that Saturday when they ended four years of frustration at the hands of Ohio State by humiliating Hayes and his eighth-ranked Buckeyes 22-0.

The triumph lifted Michigan into a share of the Big Ten championship with Ohio State, but although both finished with 7-1 conference records, the Wolverines earned their first trip to Pasadena in five seasons by taking the showdown battle they had to win.

During his visits to the Rose Bowl the last four years, Hayes not only came out on the short end three times but also had several run-ins with the West Coast media. Meanwhile, Michigan stayed home each winter except for an Orange Bowl loss last year.

"This doesn't totally erase the frustration of the past four years, but it does erase a lot of the bad feelings we had," said linebacker Jerry Zuver, who ran for a two-point conversion following Michigan's second touchdown and intercepted a pass to set up the third.

The Wolverines' dressing room was an emotional place with cheers and tears alike.

"I've never felt happier," said a tearful Jim Smith, whose 16-yard wingback reverse set up Michigan's second score and who ran the Wolverines out of several holes with shifty punt returns.

"There's no way I could anticipate this kind of feeling because we'd never beaten them since I've been at Michigan, so all I had was heartbreak."

The first half was scoreless as Ohio State held the nation's No. 1 running team to 107 yards. But Michigan, which didn't complete any of its six passes, erupted for 259 rushing yards in the second half. Rob Lytle had 113 of those 259 and finished with 165 on the cool, sunny afternoon.

A downcast Hayes said his Buckeyes' defense "was just as excellent as it could be in the first half." But Michigan turned in a near-perfect second half, including a pair of three-yard touchdown runs by Russell Davis in the third period.

"Our execution was better in the second half," said Coach Bo Schembechler. "It wasn't any brilliant strategy, just good execution. This has to rank with the great victories we've had, but we won't get the real impact of it until we get home because we weren't allowed to bring anyone down here."

He was referring to Michigan's allotment of only 4,000 seats in an arena that holds almost 90,000.

A record Ohio Stadium of 88,250—the 50th consecutive sellout—plus a national television audience saw the Buckeyes suffer their worst defeat at home since a 41-6 loss to Purdue early in the 1967 campaign.

And the embarrassing shutout ended Ohio State's near-record string of scoring 122 consecutive games, just one short of the record set by Oklahoma from 1946-57. The last team to blank the Buckeyes was Michigan by a 10-0 count in the 1964 finale.

Rob Lytle put the icing on Michigan's cake with a three-yard scoring plunge at 6:47 of the final period, three plays after Jerry Zuver intercepted a pass from Jim Pacenta at the Ohio State 28, and returned it to the 15.

Although Michigan shared the Big Ten title with Ohio State in 1972, 1973 and 1974, the Buckeyes went to the Rose Bowl each time, twice by a vote of conference athletic directors and once by winning the head-to-head meeting.

Michigan finished the regular season with a 10-1 record, the only blot a 16-14 loss to Purdue two weeks ago.

Ohio State wound up 8-2-1. The Buckeyes, however, did manage at least a piece of the Big Ten crown for a record fifth year in a row.

The Wolverines marched 80 and 52 yards on their first two possessions of the third quarter after a scoreless and frustrating first half to give Coach Bo Schembechler, a one-time Ohio State assistant, his first victory in four tries at Columbus.

Although Michigan leads the series 40-28-5, it was the Wolverines' first success since 1971. It also was the most one-sided victory for either team since Ohio State romped 50-14 eight years ago.

Kings lose another one

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gil Perreault fired in a 35-footer with 32 seconds left to play to give Buffalo a 4-3 National Hockey League victory over Los Angeles Saturday night.

The Sabres, who are now unbeaten in their last seven games and undefeated in their last four road games, had a two-goal performance from Andre Savard, who twice helped his club come from behind to even the score.

Los Angeles, winless in their last eight games with an 0-4-4 record, were led by defenseman Gary Sargent, who drilled his fourth and fifth goals of the season on a pair of 45-foot slap shots. Sargent lifted the Kings into a 3-3 tie with 12:09 left to play when his drive hit the glove hand of goalie Jerry Desjardins and bounced into the net.

The Kings' defenseman shot his club into a 1-0 lead on a power play at 6:24 of the opening period on his first 45-footer. Savard beat Kings goalie Rogie Vachon from 20 feet to tie it at 1-1.

USC outplays UCLA

Bruins' one.

Bell simply trotted into the end zone unmolested on the next play for a TD that put USC ahead, 17-0. But Bruin coach Terry Donahue would not criticize it.

"SC won today because they outplayed us," he commented. "On this particular day, they were far superior to our team after the second-quarter fumble by Theotis Brown that set up the touchdown. That was the break that put the Trojans in charge until the fourth quarter."

"USC is by far the strongest team we have met this year," said UCLA quarterback Jeff Dankworth. "They shut off our inside and our passing was inconsistent."

Dankworth netted 54 yards on 15 carries. Brown had 63 on 16 and Tyler 55 on 15. The Bruin signal caller completed eight of 16 passes for 90 yards but had one intercepted (by Rod Martin that set up the TD that put USC ahead, 17-0. Ricky Odom nearly picked off another Dankworth aerial in the first quarter that would have given the Trojans another TD.

There were a couple of other "interesting" plays both of which turned out to USC's advantage. On Martin's interception, he tipped the ball which bounced off Wendell Tyler's chest and back into his arms.

On the other hand, an Evans' pass was tipped high in the air and fell into the arms of Trojan tight end Bill Gay.

Evans finished the day with seven completions in 13 attempts and gained 63 yards on 14 rushes. But the husky signal caller was not pleased.

"I'm my own worst critic," he said. "I haven't played to the best of my ability yet. This was not one of my best games. I made some bad calls and I missed a couple of open receivers. But we're going to the Rose Bowl. Pasadena, that's where it's at.

"We thought we could run at them and wear them down and I think we did. We weren't going for the long bomb. We wanted to keep everything medium range. It was good to have the real Ricky Bell back."

Bell, who said he was only about 80 percent admitted he started to come around in the second half.

"I sort of got the feel of the flow of the game in the second half," he said. "We got a better idea of UCLA's slants. I got hit a couple of times and my ankle hurt. When I went out and sat down, it would tighten up and I'd have to get up and walk around to loosen it up.

"We're a slow starting team anyway. I think it takes us until the second half to get started."

After the 7-0 first half, Evans engineered a 12-play, 60-yard drive that ended in Walkers' 42-yard field goal. That was all the scoring in the third quarter although SC was on a TD drive when the period ended.

The march took eight plays and 61 yards plus the pass interference penalty and ended 13 seconds into the fourth quarter.

Martin's interception set up a four-play plus penalty, 35-yard drive ending in Evans' beautiful 36-yard touchdown run.

With a second-and-22 at the 36, Evans ran over the middle, slanted right then cut left by two Bruin defenders and ran right by Levi Armstrong for the TD.

Now can Troy get "up" again for Notre Dame? Certainly.

Mounties lose wild finale

SAN DIEGO — Mt. San Antonio College scored a touchdown with 50 seconds left in the game pulling within one point and after the two-point conversion failed dropped a 34-33 squeaker to South Coast Conference foe San Diego Mesa on the winner's field Saturday afternoon.

Mesa had driven to the Mountie one-foot line with 2:30 left to play and on third down, Alonso Blackwell recovered a fumble.

Steve Taylor, former Pomona High QB, took over the quarterback duties for Brian Bethke and drove the Mounties to their final score.

During the drive, Taylor hit on four-of-seven passes for 76 yards with Dana Hutchinson (the former Garey High star) picking up the rest of the yardage on the ground and scored from a yard out with under a minute to go.

On the conversion Taylor led an option left and was pressured into pitching too soon and tossed the pigskin behind Hutchinson to shatter MSAC's hopes.

Bethke on the evening hit on 10-of-17 aerials for 152 yards and threw two interceptions. Bethke scored two TDs on one-yard sneaks and also threw for another and kicked an extra point. Hutchinson carried 19 times for 126.

Mt SAC finishes the year at 5-3-2 overall and 2-3-1 in SCC play.

Oxy tops Sagehens

EAGLE ROCK — Occidental defeated Pomona-Pitzer, 23-0, at Oxy Saturday night and clinched a tie for second place in the SCIAC. The Tigers wound up 3-2 in the SCIAC and 5-3 overall.

The victory in the traditional battle between the two teams which dates back to 1895 cuts Pomona's lead in the series to 35 victories to Oxy's 34. There have been three ties.

The Tigers scored all the points, 10, they needed in the first quarter..

On their third possession, the Tigers drove 80 yards in six plays. The first was a 52-yard "bomb" from quarterback Tom Hamilton to wide receiver Rick Fry. Three rushes including a 13-yard run by James Overton put the ball at the Sagehens' nine from where Hamilton again connected with Fry for the TD. Willie Jefferson intercepted a Lyle Lansdell pass at Oxy's 38 and five plays later, Roger Sels booted a 28-yard field goal.

Oxy outgained the 'Hens, 413 yards to 258. Hamilton completed 15 of 28 passes for 247 yards with no interceptions. Pomona finishes with an 0-6 mark in the SCIAC and 2-7 overall.

Nebraska and Oklahoma, both 4-2 in conference play, clash Friday. If Nebraska wins, Nebraska goes to the Orange Bowl because the Cornhuskers beat Colorado 24-12. If Oklahoma wins, Colorado gets the trip to Miami because the Buffaloes beat Oklahoma 42-31 and Oklahoma State 20-10.

Leopards run past C-M

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

La Verne college wrapped up its 1976 football season in a rather impressive fashion Saturday afternoon at Claremont-Mudd, as the Leopards thrashed an undermanned Claremont-Mudd squad, 51-24.

What makes the season-ending SCIAC victory all the more impressive is the fact that Roland Ortmayer will welcome a lot, not a few, but a lot of his very talented athletes to his spring training in 1977.

Two of Ortmayer's top underclassmen were simply brutal Saturday, proving to the poor Stags just why La Verne was the proud owner of the top pair of running backs this year in the SCIAC.

Ben Morrow, a 5-11, 220 pound junior, rambled for 204 yards on 23 carries, his big gainer being a 56 yard gallop in the fourth quarter for his second touchdown of the day. Ben winds up the year with 711 yards rushing on 149 totes (4.7 avg.).

But the big news of the day for Leo fans came late in the final period when SOPHOMORE Brad Frick surpassed the coveted 1,000 yard barrier. Frick, who enjoyed two 1,000 yard seasons as a prep at Bonita High, racked up 177 ground yards (22 attempts), pushing his season totals to 1,013 yards on 185 carries (5.4 avg.). Second only in the SCIAC to Redlands David D'Arcangelo, the bruising soph also showed a little speed when he raced through the Stags secondary on a 51 yard score in the second quarter.

"I thought that I'd passed it (1,000) already", grinned a tired Bradley. "But then they told me in the huddle that I still needed four yards! But I've got it now, and it feels good."

Outstanding individual performances by members of La Verne seemed to dominate the day. Offensively, Randy Brown and Ted Pedvin each had their most productive games, respectively. On the defensive side of the line of scrimmage, John Rome, Mike Bustos and Bruce Hines led a ferocious charge.

Brown completed 12 of 22 passing attempts for 180 yards, including two touchdown tosses to Pedvin, who six aerials for 71 yards. Rome, a junior tackle, and Bustos, a sophomore end, combined for 10 sacks on hapless Mudd runners. Hines, a freshman defensive back, led the team by being involved in 14 tackles.

"Yes, this is a fun way to end the year", offered skipper Ortmayer. "I just hope that this doesn't create any hard feelings . . . you don't want to pour it on, but you can't stop the kids from being aggressive and enthusiastic."

"One thing about this young these men," continued Ort, "Is that everything they've done this year they've done on their own. We as coaches haven't done a thing . . . we're not on any level higher than the players, we're no more important than they are. Everybody is just, well, everybody! The most important thing here is not winning, but having a little friendship and fun."

La Verne wound up with 647 yards in total offense, along with 32 first downs (19 in the first half!). Claremont-Mudd picked up a not-too-shabby total of 393 yards and 18 first downs, thanks largely to the work of freshman quarterback Robert Nielson.

In his first start of the year, Nielson completed 19 of 33 passes, good for 230 yards. Junior running back Jim Reed (129 yards) of the Stags also contributed to the lost cause with a school-record 91 yard TD run. If nothing else, Stag coach John Zinda has to be very pleased with these two performances.

La Verne finishes with a 3-2 SCIAC mark and a 5-4 record overall, while the Stags end their year at 2-3 and 2-6, respectively.

College football roundup

Notre Dame explodes

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Second-string quarterback Rusty Lisch threw for one touchdown and ran for two more Saturday as 13th-ranked Notre Dame exploded for 24 points in a six-minute span in the first half, then held on to defeat Miami, Fla., 40-27.

The victory, Notre Dame's eighth in 10 games, earned the Fighting Irish an invitation to the Gator Bowl,

Miami's record dropped to 36.

The Hurricanes, trailing 30-0 early in the third period, charged back behind the passing of quarterback E.J. Baker, who threw for two touchdowns to culminate two long scoring drives. But the outcome was never really in doubt after the intermission.

Along the way, halfback Al Hunter became Notre Dame's all-time single season rushing leader after picking up 128 yards on 27 carries, including one 13-yard touchdown. That gave him 943 yards for the year, 16 better than Marchy Schwartz's 927 yards set in 1930.

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Brash sophomore quarterback Danny Davis ignited Houston with two second quarter touchdowns Saturday and the ninth-ranked Cougars ambushed previously undefeated and fifth-ranked Texas Tech 27-19 to climb into a Southwest Conference tie with the Red Raiders.

Houston, picked to finish sixth in the preseason polls, can storm into the Cotton Bowl as the host team against Maryland by defeating Rice next Saturday.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Mark Vicendese threw for one touchdown and ran for another Saturday as the Kansas Jayhawks broke loose for 24 points in the second quarter to shock 19th-ranked Missouri 41-14 in Big Eight football action.

The victory was Kansas' fifth in six games in the oldest football rivalry west of the Mississippi

The Jayhawks, nationally ranked until losing quarterback Nolan Cromwell at mid-season, dominated the contest from the second period as Vicendese brought their wishbone to life with a variety of option runs and pitches.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Undefeated and untied Maryland, paced by freshman George Scott's two touchdowns, rolled over Virginia 28-0 Saturday and became the first team in the school's 84-year history to win 11 games in a season.

The triumph extended the Terps' record Atlantic Coast Conference winning streak to 20 games and gave them their third consecutive ACC championship.

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Colorado converted two Kansas State fumbles and a 67-yard drive into three second-half touchdowns for a 35-28 Big Eight victory Saturday, enhancing its hopes for an Orange Bowl appearance New Years's night.

The Buffaloes, completing their regular season with an 8-3 record and a guaranteed share of the conference championship for the first time in 15 years, need a victory by Oklahoma over Nebraska Friday to win the Orange Bowl bid.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Burly George Woodard staked 11th-ranked Texas A&M to an early lead with three first-half touchdowns as the Aggies romped over winless Texas Christian 59-10 Saturday and then accepted a berth in the Sun Bowl Jan. 2 at El Paso.

Woodard, who became the second Aggie runner to surpass 1,000 yards rushing in a season, ran three, 13, and one yard as the Aggies rolled up a 35-3 halftime lead over the Frogs, who lost for the 30th time in 31 games.

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Quarterback Mark Jackson scored one touchdown and passed for another Saturday, and the Baylor defense strangled once-proud Texas as the Bears claimed a 20-10 Southwest Conference football victory.

Jackson escaped Texas defenders all afternoon to keep Baylor in control of the game. The once-fearsome Texas running game was rendered impotent by a swarming Baylor defense.

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Quarterback Charlie Weatherbie ran for two touchdowns and passed for another and setback Terry Miller rambled for 199 yards and two touchdowns as Oklahoma State pounded Iowa State 42-21 to insure the Cowboys a share of the Big Eight Conference title.

Both teams came into the game with 4-2 league records and hopes of getting a piece of the Big Eight crown. But an aggressive Cowboy defense, which forced five Cyclone turnovers, Weatherbie's pinpoint passing and Miller's running proved too much for the Cyclones, who last week stunned Nebraska 37-28.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Derrick Ramsey completed a short pass to Greg Woods that ended up as a 62-yard touchdown play and plowed his way over Tennessee defenders for 77 yards to give Kentucky a 7-0 victory Saturday in a Southeastern Conference football game.

It was the Wildcats' first victory over Tennessee in the last 12 games as Kentucky ended the season with a 7-4 overall record and 4-2 SEC mark.

Stanford wins 79th 'Big Game'

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Defensive end Duncan McColl recovered a fumble at California's two-yard line, setting up Ron Inge's touchdown run which came with 1:31 remaining, and Stanford edged the Bears 27-24 Saturday in their 79th "Big Game."

Inge, a senior tailback, scored from the one on a third-down play to make up for a fumble he lost at Cal's goalline in the opening minutes of the error-filled but thrilling Pacific-8 football battle.

The late score sent Jack Christiansen out of the Stanford coaching job as a winner. The Cardinals claimed third place in the Pac-8 with a 5-2 record and were 6-5 over-all, but Christiansen was notified Friday he would be fired.

Sophomore running back Markey Crane, whose 13-yard touchdown run with five minutes left went Cal into a 24-19 lead, dropped a pitchout from quarterback Joe Roth, allowing McColl to make the key fumble recovery with 2:20 remaining.

After Inge's touchdown run sent Stanford ahead 25-24, quarterback Mike Cordova ran for a two-point conversion.

Cal, which finished the season 5-6 over-all and 3-4 in the Pac-8, twice trailed by nine points. The Bears were down 19-10 entering the final period, but drove 66 yards for a touchdown before cornerback Mike O'Brien intercepted a Cordova pass to set up Crane's go-ahead touchdown run.

Huskies romp

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Robin Earl and Ron Rowland each ran for two touchdowns and quarterback Warren Moon passed for two more scores to lead Washington to a 51-32 victory over Washington State in their traditional season-ending college football game Saturday.

The Huskies, who now lead the series 43-20-6, exploded for three touchdowns each in the second and third quarters for a 49-14 lead.

Rowland, who surpassed 1,000 yard rushing on the last play of the game, bolted 59 yards to cap the game-opening drive.

He added a 26-yard touchdown run in the third period following a fumble recovery by Washington.

Earl scored on runs of four and nine yards.

Moon passed 45 yards to Scott Phillips and 39 yards to Robert Gaines for touchdowns. His first TD pass gave the Huskies a 27-14 halftime lead.

WSU sophomore quarterback Jack Thompson tied a Pacific-8 conference record with his five touchdown passes, three of them to Mike Levenseller on throws of 28 yards in the second period and two 12-yard tosses in the final period.

Thompson also set conference season marks for most plays, most completions and most passing yards and tied the Pac-8 record of 20 touchdown passes. He threw scoring strikes of 22 yards to Bob Bratkowski and nine yards to Brian Kelly.

The victory left the Huskies, under second-year coach Don James, 5-6 overall and 3-4 in the conference. WSU finished 38 and 2-5 in Coach Jackie Sherrill's first season.

Ducks' rally tops Beavers

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Quarterback Jack Henderson ran for two touchdowns and passed for another Saturday as Oregon overcame a 14-0 halftime deficit to defeat Oregon State 23-14 in a traditional Pacific-8 Conference football encounter.

It was the first Pac-8 victory of the season for Oregon and its coach, Don Read, whose job was rumored to be in jeopardy. Oregon finished the season with a 4-7 record.

Henderson, a junior from Menlo Park, Calif., scored the go-ahead touchdown on a one-yard sweep around right end with 8:04 left in the game then, after a pass interference penalty on a two-point conversion try, Henderson swept left end for the two points to make it 17-14.

Oregon iced the game on Henderson's one-yard plunge with 2:35 remaining in the period.

Oregon State had taken its two-touchdown lead on a pair of scoring passes by tailback Rich Dodge in the first half.

Henderson revived the sluggish Oregon offense with a wide-open aerial attack in the second half.

Riverside tournament slated

RIVERSIDE — The 29-game schedule for the 11th UC Riverside National Intercollegiate Baseball Tournament is set.

Host UC Riverside will welcome Missouri, California and Oral Roberts to the tournament for the first time while UCLA, Washington State, BYU, and Pitt are making return appearances for the tournament, March 28-April 2, 1977.

"I would have to say that any one of three teams could win the championship," tournament director Don Edwards said. "Certainly UCLA has to be considered, following a fine season last year" which saw the Bruins post a 35-25 game record enroute to the league title.

"Washington State was 42-13 last year. With most of the players back following their trip to the College World Series, they will want to show Southern California fans that they are a championship team.

"Even though I have not seen them play, Missouri's Tigers have a strong nucleus from all reports and (coach) Gene McArtor will bring a fine team here." The Tigers were 46-22 last year, winning the Big 8 title.

Oral oberts, 27-18 last year, is under new coach Larry Cochell. BYU, 26-21 last season, has a new mentor in Gary Pullins and BYU is making its seventh appearance in the UC Riverside tourney.

Pitt, 10-4 last year, makes its second appearance at the tournament while Jackie Jensen brings his Cal Bears to Riverside for the first time, following a 33-20 year.

UCR, 26-23 last year, is the only NCAA Division II team in the tournament. The Highlanders, winners two years ago, hope to return to that form.

UCR, UCLA and BYU will be featured in the Evans Park night games. UCR and BYU play three night games apiece while UCLA is slated for two night contests.

The host Highlanders are coupled with Missouri, Cal and Pit in the Blue Division while UCLA, BYU, Washington State and Oral Roberts comprise the Gold Division.

Each team plays seven games in the round robin tourney. The team with the best won-loss record in the Blue event will meet the Gold Division counterpart for the championship Sat., April 2 at Evans Park at 7 p.m.

Record for WS shares

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds will receive individual record shares of $26,366.68 for winning the 1976 World Series, the Baseball Commissioner's office announced.

Chaffey Aquatics win second place

Paced by Karen Kostoff and Mike Grabowski and the relay teams, Chaffey Aquatics, in its first team effort of the season, captured the second-place team trophy at the Riverside AAU Invitational Swim Meet.

John Ries, head coach of the Chaffey team, indicated that he was extremely satisfied with his swimmers' performance.

Miss Kostoff out-stroke her opponents in winning two races, the 100 yard freestyle in 55.3 seconds and the 100 yard back in 1:06.7. She also placed second in the 50 yard freestyle and the 200 yard individual medley, fourth in the 100 yard butterfly, and sixth in the 100 yard breast.

Grabowski took two first places, the 100 yard backstroke in 1:03.4 and the 200 yard individual medley in 2:13.9, a second in the 50 yard free and a fourth in the 100 yard fly.

Both Grabowski and Miss Kostoff swam in the 13-14 year old division.

Steve Mohnike was the other individual winner as he took the 15-18 year old 100 yard free in 52.3 seconds.

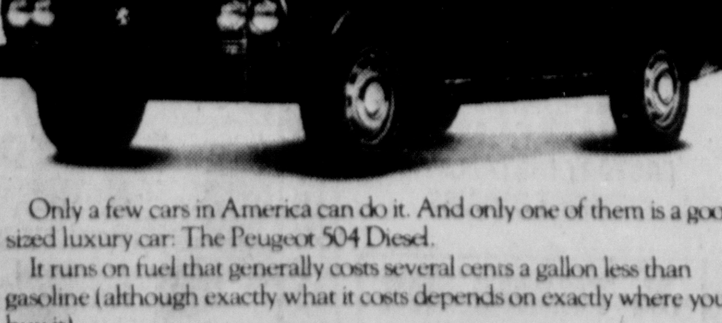
How to get up to 58 miles on a dollar's worth of fuel.*



Only a few cars in America can do it. And only one of them is a good-sized luxury car: The Peugeot 504 Diesel.

It runs on fuel that generally costs several cents a gallon less than gasoline (although exactly what it costs depends on exactly where you buy it).

And because diesel fuel produces more usable energy per gallon than gasoline, you get much better mileage. According to 1976 EPA estimates, the Peugeot Diesel gets 35 mpg on the highway and 27 mpg in the city — far better than any car in its weight class.

So if you do a lot of driving, the Peugeot 504 Diesel — sedan or wagon — may be just the car for you.

Poly's height, depth improved

TALL AND SHORT OF IT — Cal Poly's two new tall centers — Carl Jones (7-0) at left and Don Johnson (6-11) at right — tower over playmaking guard Tom Ispas, who says he is 5-8. Poly opens basketball season Monday night by entertaining the Athletes in Action Monday night at Kellogg Gym.

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Cal Poly has high hopes this basketball season because of more height and added depth.

But the won-loss record may not reflect much improvement because coach Don Hogan's cagers will be tackling their toughest schedule yet.

For instance, Poly will open the campaign next Saturday at the University of Dayton followed by games at South Carolina, Notre Dame and Kansas State. Later on, Poly will also meet major college foes San Francisco, Nevada Reno and Loyola.

But Poly will get a good idea of rugged opponents Monday night when it offers a preview by hosting a talented Athletes in Action team Monday night at Kellogg Gym in an 8 p.m. tipoff.

Hogan clearly understands how difficult it will be to get a sensational record because of the schedule but it isn't a concern. The big thing is to develop the team for the California Collegiate Athletic Association race beginning in January.

It worked for Poly last year.

After a slow start on the won-loss ledger because of games against the likes of Houston, Louisville, Texas and Stanford, Poly placed second in the CCAA race and earned a berth in the NCAA Division II West regionals. National champion Puget Sound eliminated the Broncs.

"We know we're playing some of the top teams in the nation but we're looking at the games realistically," Hogan said. "We are making plans and we'll be ready. Playing against that level of competition isn't going to hurt us. I expect us to learn from the experience.

"It's a positive type of experience. The players will have fun, and of course should be better able to compete at the conference (CCAA) level," he said.

Hogan definitely feels he has the talent and depth this season to make a strong run at the CCAA title despite losing two key starters — guard Joe Sills and forward Paul Newton — from last year's 16-13 club.

"We have a better squad with more depth," Hogan admits. "Our players have been improving every day."

The lack of size and depth were problems last year but a good recruiting year by Hogan and his assistant, Allen Van Winkle, have helped correct those deficiencies.

Returning starters are forward Jack Gamulin (6-6), center Mark Bernhard (6-8) and guard Tom Ispas (5-8). Gamulin was second to Sills in scoring with 17.7 points a game and second to Newton in rebounding with 6.9. Ispas, the playmaker, was the leader in assists with 4.2.

The big newcomers are junior college transfers Carl Jones (7-0) and Don Johnson (6-11). Jones, who didn't play high school ball, came to Poly from Malcolm X College in Chicago. Johnson, a product of Chicago's prep leagues at Austin High, played one season at Kishwaukee College in Illinois.

Other JC transfers are forwards Henry Randolph (6-4) from Oakland and Lyonel Hardin (6-7) from State Fair JC (Mo.) plus guards Charles Johnson (6-2) from State Fair and Paten Calloway (6-3) from Riverside City College.

Redshirts include Dennis Weisse (6-5), who sat out last year because of an injury, and James Webb (6-3), a transfer from the University of Cincinnati and former Indiana All-State prep star at South Bend Adams High. Hogan will also get some help in January when two local products — Broderick Hunter (6-6) of Ganesha and Kenny Clark (6-3) of Garey — are eligible. Hunter spent a year at Arizona State and Clark sat out last season.

Two freshmen — David Fitzgerald (6-4) of Redlands and Coart Owens (6-4) of Oakland — will get their opportunities in reserve roles.

As of now, Hogan intends to start a lineup of forwards Gamulin and Randolph, center Don Johnson and guards Ispas and Charles Johnson.

"The only reason I can name that five is because we have to start somebody," Hogan said. "It's always subject to change. It's hard to tell very much until we play a game. The jury is still out on us until we meet some other people."

Sunkist track meet set

The 18th annual Sunkist Invitational indoor track meet will be held Saturday, Jan. 15, at the Los Angeles Sports Arena, Chairman Al Franken announced.

Expectations are high that the majority of the stars of the 1976 Montreal Olympics will compete in the Sunkist, according to the chairman.

Bids have been extended to foreign standouts John Walker and Rod Dixon of New Zealand, Lasse Viren and Antti Kalliomarki of Finland, Filbert Bayi of Tanzania, Jamaica's Don Quarrie and Anders Garderud of Sweden.

On the domestic front, invitations have gone to Steven Williams, Houston McTear, Mac Wilkins, Dave Roberts, Dan Ripley, Dwight Stones, Earl Bell, Arnie Robinson, Randy Williams, Francie Larrieu, Rosalyn Bryant, Frank Shorter, Marty Liquori, Mike Durkin, Duncan McDonald, James Owens, Benny Brown, Maxie Parks, Mark Enyeart and Herman Frazier.

Competition will be over the nation's newest — and possibly fastest — indoor board surface.

CHINESE TEAM — Here is the National Team from the Republic of China that will play La Verne College. The team was not allowed to compete in the 1976 Olympics at Montreal.

From Republic of China

Leos host National Team

La Verne College's basketball team, which opens the 1976-77 season Friday night (at Chapman), will play its first home game of the season Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. against the National Team from the Republic of China.

The contest will be played in the Supertent and is sponsored by the People-to-People Sports Committee, Inc. The Chinese team (from Taiwan) was not allowed to compete in the last Olympics as the result of a protest by Red China.

La Verne, under coach Art Bias, has been to Scandanavia twice and Mexico several times.

"We're excited about this cultural exchange," said Bias. "It gives us the opportunity to learn their style of basketball. This adds a new dimension to our exchange program."

Admission for the event will be $3.00 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. For more information call the La Verne athletic office at 593-3511, ext. 215.

The Chinese National team is on a tour of the United States and among the opponents played so far are Stanford and Denver University.

Leading scorers for the Chinese have been Hung Chun-cheng, Chung Chih-ming and Yeh cheng all of whom have topped the 20-point mark.

La Verne plays its first two games on the road before the Sunday home opener with the Chinese National team. The Leos are at the University of San Diego Saturday night after playing Chapman Friday night.

"I'm very pleased with the way we've been practicing," said Bias. "We're in good shape. We're small again this year and we'll have to rely on speed and an aggresive defense."

La Verne will have three new players in its starting lineup this year. Center Ulysses Ruffin, a 6-6 junior, is a transfer from L.A. Southwest. Forward Mike Sharp (6-5) transferred from Barstow JC and guard Anthony Vasquez.

Vasquez (6-3) is from Alta Loma High where he was Player of the Year in the Hacienda League and earned All-CIF second-team honors.

Wolfpack cagers to challenge faculty

A pair of basketball games offer an evening's entertainment Wednesday night at Claremont High.

In the opening (6:30 p.m.) contest, faculty team "B " will play the freshman team for one quarter, the sophomore team for one quarter and the jayvees for two quarters.

The second game of the evening will pit the Claremont varsity against faculty team "A." All proceeds will go toward the basketball program. Tickets are $1.00 for adults, 50 cents for students with ASD cards and 75 cents for those without.

Players on the faculty teams include Steve Lambert, Curtis Frick (frosh football coach), Randy Brown (student teacher), Mike Huk and Cliff Hoover.

MSAC wrestlers look good

Eight returnees and six outstanding freshmen recruits highlight this year's Mt. San Antonio College wrestling roster.

The Mountie grapplers, under the guidance of head coach Fred Burri (back from a year's sabbatical leave), figure to have another successful campaign.

Two of this season's returning lettermen qualified for the State Finals last year. John Rudolph (a 177-pounder from San Dimas) and Joe Barragan (167 pounds) were those Mounties.

"This is the finest group of wrestlers we've had at MSAC," Burri claims. "If we stay healthy, we are sure to be one of the conference's top contenders.

"This looks like another tough year in the South Coast Conference," Burri said. "Four or five of our seven teams should be in contention for the state title."

Other returning lettermen are Mike Fraijo (118 pounds), Sergio Nunez (126 pounds, a Garey High product), Gary Dix (134 pounds), Ron Cota (150 pounds), Rodney Robinson (158 pounds) and Bob Allen (190 pounds).

Top newcomers are Don LeMelle from Bishop Amat, a 115-pounder, Greg Stegner from Arcadia High, a 141-pounder, Jose Godoy, a 126-pounder from Ontario, Bruce Flemming, a 142-pounder from Ganesha and Tommy Larry, a 142-pounder from Garey.

Burri starts the season with an impressive 183-50-7 mark. He assumed the helm of the MSAC wrestling program in 1960.

22-year-olds take over golf

Mr. Jerry Pate
U.S. Open champion,
PHA Tour,
Everywhere, U.S.A.
Dear Jerry,

I feel it's my duty to warn you. Ever since you shoved that dandy 5-iron to the pin on the 18th in the U.S. Open last summer, you've been the No. 1 22-year-old golfer in just about every part of the globe. But be careful, Jerry, because we've got a 22-year-old here fresh out of college who goes around beating the old pros in Southern California.

His name is Roger Calvin, and he just picked up a $3,000 check in the Southern Cal Open hardly ever using his woods. You see, Jerry, he takes his 1-iron out on the tee, hits the darn thing right down the middle, then he takes another iron out and puts the next shot on the green.

And when he gets in trouble, it's fun to watch him. Friday he got in trouble on the first hole at Via Verde out here. It's the doggondest narrowest hole you ever saw. Well, this time he knocks his drive behind a tree. He pulls out a 6-iron and hits it around and under the tree, and his ole ball rolls right up to the pin, 15 feet away, and he naturally drops it in for a birdie. He does this a couple of times, and everyone out here is shaking his head.

But almost always, Jerry, he's right down the middle of that freeway. He's kind of funny though, Roger doesn't act like a good golfer, you know what I mean, cold and steely, aloof and moody. He's more like the kind of guy you'd like to play 9 holes with for the fun of it. And you know what he was waiting around for after he picked up his three bills Friday? He was trying to find a course official so he could ask him if he could play another nine.

You know how a lot of pros don't like to play golf? Well, Calvin says he likes to play. He played Saturday morning with his pals at Fairmont, a 9-hole course in Riverside. Said he's got to get his game ready for those guys in his foursome.

Well, anyway, Jerry, if you see a blondhaired fellow on the big tour one of these days just having a heap of fun, it could be Calvin. If you're not sure, Jerry, take a good look at his eyes. If they're twinkling and the guy's got a wide smile, you'd better be a little wary because it's probably Roger Calvin from Canyon Lake, down Riverside County way. See you soon.

Your pal,
Phil

Here's an item of interest for all the good amateurs in the Pomona Valley, and there are plenty of them. Amateur qualifying for the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open is set for Monday, Dec. 27 at Hillcrest C.C. Only five spots are open in the L.A. Open, which will be played Feb. 17-20 at Riviera C.C.

Entry fee is $40 and that includes green fees and a season pass to the L.A.Open. The field is open to the first 150 entries with a 2 or less handicap. Registration forms are available at the Los Angeles Junior Chamber, 404 S. Bixel St., L.A. or by calling 482-1311. Deadline is Dec. 17, but that's usually too late for a spot.

Bonnie Goolsby of Walnut won the Western Hills President's Cup recently, and Irene MacIntosh, also of Walnut, was runnerup. Quarter finalists were Lenore Welborn, Pico Rivera; and Ardith Van Der Linden, Corona.

NOTES FROM THE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA OPEN: Most interesting golfers for me to watch were Charlie Sifford, 53, and Jerry Barber, 60, two older pros who make the game look especially easy. Barber talks easily with everyone, practices with gracefulness, and is the epitome of the older pro golfer. Sifford is as cool as ever. He fired a 68, then a 76, but on the final day he came in with a two under 70 to earn almost a full grand. Sifford and Barber are the pros at the Griffith Park courses . . . Two youngsters from Glendora High did well in the tournament. Mark Pailthorpe and Don DuBois, both 17, said they really enjoyed playing with the pros. DuBois is the CIF champ in these part . . . .I was glad to see Dave Brownlee do well. He was disappointed Friday after his 40-35 — 75 at Via Verde, but I reminded him of his 68 Thursday at Glendora. He's definitely a first-class player . . . Another player who continually amazes me is Gerry Simoni from Upland. The former Upland High ace shot 72-75-71 — 218 in the tournament to finish high among the pros and won second place among amateurs . . . Happy to see Tim Berry, the former South Hills C.C. assistant pro, playing again.

The death of Lyle Tripp, a tournament official, shocked everyone at Via Verde Thursday. Tripp, 63, worked with the tournament all day Thursday. Then he and three others decided to play nine holes while Lyle set the pin placements.

The foursome reached the fourth green, which is the culmination of a 427-yard par 4. Lyle chipped in his third shot, making a birdie. As he started to the green, he collapsed from an apparent heart attack. A short time later he was pronounced dead by doctors.

A resident of Yorba Linda, he was a well-known PGA official who loved golf.

Informed of the death of Tripp, Jerry Barber said that "When I die, I'd like to be playing golf. I'd just like to be on a golf course for all eternity."

One of the hardest working pros at the Open was Bob Risch of Diamond Bar who finished second. I caught Risch on the practice tee late Wednesday after he had shot a 73 at Glendora C.C. He talked about how important confidence in golf is. "You've got to feel confident about yourself," Risch said. "That's a big factor in the success of any golfer."

Risch was feeling good about his shotmaking when he decided to putt for awhile despite the growing darkness. "I'd sure like to play well tomorrow (Thursday)" he said. "Last time out here I shot a 66." Well, when all the shooting was completed Thursday night, there was the tall, good-looking pro in at 34-32, a neat 66, the best round of the tournament. PASSING NOTE ON THE OPEN: I for one think the Southern California Open can be one of the top tournaments on the coast. Some of the finest players around annually show up for it, and the tournament can be an outstanding attraction for Pomona and San Gabriel Valley golf fans.

Rams will fight for their lives today

By Associated Press

Before the season began, the forecasters figured this game would be a highly emotional but relatively unimportant one. After all, they reasoned, Los Angeles would have the National Conference title virtually locked up while San Francisco would be battling for a little more than a .500 season.

How wrong they were. The Rams, the odds-on choice by many to cruise through the National Football League season and likely candidates to represent the NFC in the Super Bowl, are fighting for their lives today — and in San Francisco, no less.

The 49ers, under Monte Clark, their new head coach, and new quarterback Jim Plunkett, have turned what was once an annual foregone conclusion into one of the league's tightest races.

It could remain just as tight if the 49ers do what they did once before this year, namely beat the Rams. San Francisco did it six weeks ago in Los Angeles, blitzing the Rams to pieces and scoring an impressive 16-0 Monday night victory.

Going into today's Bay Area brawl, Los Angeles holds a slender half-game edge over the 49ers. A victory by the Rams, favored by just three points, would open things up a bit—but another San Francisco triumph would swap the teams' positions in the standings and keep them half a game apart with three weeks of regular-season play left.

In today's other games it's Minnesota vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Oakland at Philadelphia, Dallas at Atlanta, Washington at St. Louis, Cincinnati at Kansas City, Houston at Pittsburgh, Cleveland at Tampa Bay, New England at the New York Jets, San Diego at Buffalo, Chicago at Detroit, New Orleans at Seattle and the New York Giants at Denver. Monday night's game is Baltimore at Miami.

In the past few weeks, it seems neither the Rams nor the 49ers have been trying to win the division. Los Angeles has dropped its last two games while San Francisco has lost three in a row—so something's got to give.

In the teams' first meeting, Jim Plunkett passed for two 49er touchdowns. James Harris of the Rams had trouble passing for anything that night. He was sacked 10 times by the furious San Francisco rush with defensive end Tommy Hart racking up six of them. If the 49ers take todays game, it'll be their first season sweep over their southern rivals since 1965.

Both Minnesota and Oakland can win divisional titles today. The Vikings of the NFC Central are 8-1-1 and poised to lock up their eighth crown in nine years. The Raiders, 9-1, are shooting for their fifth straight title in the American Conference West.

Should both teams win, it doesn't take the pressure off them. They'll still be trying to guarantee themselves homefield openers when the playoffs begin Dec. 18-19.

With Dallas at 9-1 in the NFC East, Minnesota has its work cut out. The Raiders are being pursued for the AFC's winningest records by Baltimore in the East and Cincinnati in the Central, each at 8-2.

The Cowboys have spent most of the season shooting it out with St. Louis and Washington. They can retain their one-game lead—if the Cardinals, 8-2, shoot the Redskins, 6-4, out of the race. If the 'Skins pull off a mild upset (St. Louis is a one-touchdown favorite) and the Cowboys handle the Eagles, Dallas will be able to widen its edge to two games with three to play.

The Bengals already have a two-game edge. But neither Pittsburgh nor Cleveland can be counted out as a divisional or wild-card contender.

Claim Angels may lose Rudi

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Neil Papiano, attorney for Oakland A's owner Charles Finley, says although the California Angels have signed Joe Rudi the outfielder could be forced to play for the Boston Red Sox in 1977.

Rudi, who played out his option with the A's, signed a reported $2 million, five-year contract Wednesday with the Angels.

But Papiano said Thursday if Finley wins his multi-million dollar suit against baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, Rudi may be forced to report to Boston.

Finley sold Rudi and relief pitcher Rollie Fingers to Boston for $1 million each and pitcher Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million in June but Kuhn voided the deal, saying baseball's integrity was at stake.

Business news in the valley

Security Pacific Bank has named Glenn R. Carlson to head its new Menlo Park office which opens Monday.

Carlson is former manager of the bank's Oakmead Village office and former assistant vice president of operations at the San Francisco office.

A native of Ontario, he is a graduate of Claremont Men's College and started with Security Pacific in 1966 as a management trainee.

He and his wife, Roberta, reside in El Granada with their two children.

Ron J. Messenger, administrator of Doctors Hospital at Montclair, has been promoted to corporate vice president of National Enterprises, Inc., effective immediately.

He will now be responsible for the coordination of a variety of high priority programs in the business phase of the national medical organization.

Messenger has been the administrator of the Montclair hospital since 1973. Prior to that, he was assistant administrator at Doctors Hospital of Lakewood.

Messenger was feted by the hospital staff prior to assuming his new post. His replacement will be announced in the near future.

Carter's friendly; market rebounding

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rebounded from its post-election slump this past week, responding to what it saw as some friendly words from President-elect Jimmy Carter.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, down more than 37 points in the two previous weeks, recovered 21.11 to 948.80.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index jumped 2.68 to 101.92, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index of all its listed common stocks rose 1.51 to 54.61.

Big Board volume set its fastest pace since late September, averaging 21.24 million shares a day, up from 16.68 million the week before.

The rally began Monday as Carter told reporters he expected Arthur Burns to continue as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

The President-to-be said he believed he could work harmoniously with Burns, whose hard line on inflation is widely supported on Wall Street.

Carter additionally downplayed the possibility of wage and price controls — and that, too, was something the investment community wanted to hear.

The Dow rose nearly 8 points on Monday. After a pause for a .08 decline on Tuesday, it moved ahead nearly 3 points Wednesday and another 12 on Thursday. Then it closed out the week with a 1.33 loss.

Some added impetus was supplied at midweek by talk that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, under diplomatic pressure, might delay action or soften its position on an oil price increase.

Late in the week, however, officials in Washington cautioned that they had no hard evidence of such an impending development.

With that question still open, the market showed little response Friday to some cheerful economic news.

Government reports showed consumer prices rising at their slowest rate in seven months, and durable goods orders turning upward.

And New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust, the sixth biggest commercial bank in the country, lowered its prime lending rate from 6½ to 6¼ per cent.

No other banks moved immediately to join in cutting the basic rate on blue chip loans.

After the market closed Friday, there came two major developments for investors to ponder over the weekend.

For unemployment

State needs more job data

By SUSAN SWARD
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California could do a better job of attacking its high unemployment rate if it had a better idea of who the unemployed are, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s employment director says.

Martin Glick, director of the Employment Development Department, told The Associated Press in an interview last week he would like more data on California's unemployed.

"It seems we could spend money better and do a lot more with it if we had better data," Glick said in reference to the state's 9.8 per cent October unemployment rate.

For unemployment benefits, California will pay out $2.1 billion in fiscal 1976-77.

And with 832,600 Californians unemployed in October, the state is spending about $5 billion total on job training and economic development programs funded by state and federal money, Glick said.

"If we could spend that money better by targeting more accurately, that's an attack on our unemployment problem," Glick said.

So why doesn't the state have the sort of household survey that would enable it to get a better fix on its unemployed and a better idea of which job programs are needed?

Glick, who oversees the state's $2.1 billion unemployment benefits program, said such a survey probably would cost $10 million or more a year, according to a three-year-old study for the legislature.

Glick, a former California Rural Legal Assistance attorney, declined to say whether he would press the Democratic governor to include the money for the survey in Brown's proposed 1977-78 budget.

Women artists exhibit set

"Women Artists: 1550-1950," the first international exhibit of work created by women artists, will be presented at the county Museum of Art, Los Angeles, Dec. 23-March 13.

Made possible by grants from Alcoa Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts, the exhibition will illustrate the contribution that women artists have made to Western culture during the past four centuries. It will include approximately 150 works of art, concentrating primarily on European and American painting, although a few prints and drawings will be included.

Two women specialists have been chosen by the museum as guest curators. They are Ann Sutherland Harris, Renaissance and Baroque scholar and professor of art history at the State University of New York, Albany, who will be curator for the 1550-1800 period, and Linda Nochlin, professor of art history at Vassar College, who will cover 1800-1950, a period she has studied and written about extensively.

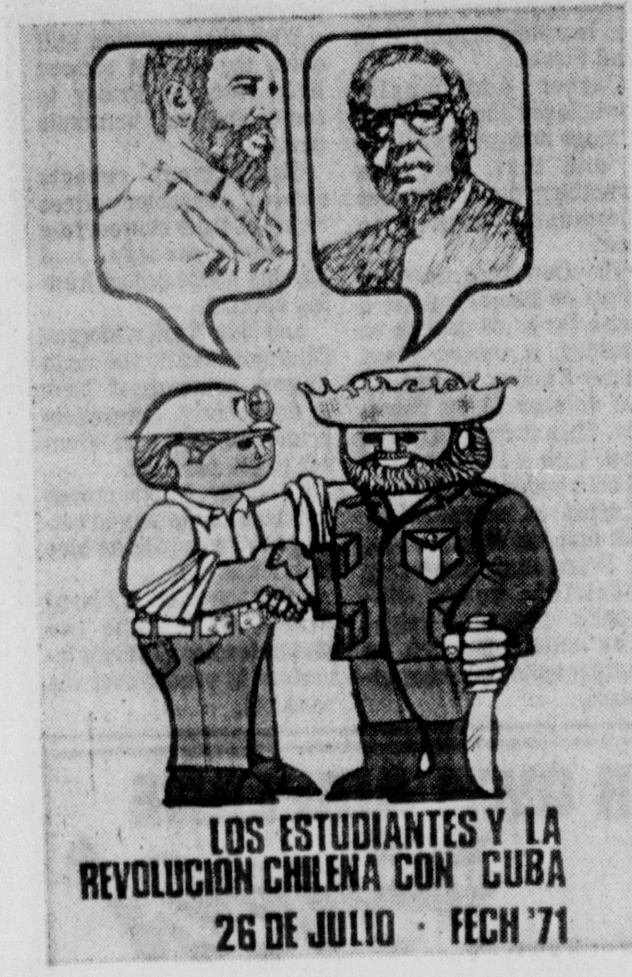
Although some of the artists included will be familiar to the general public, the majority will be recognized only by students and scholars. This is due to the fact that as women artists they have been underrated or ignored in art historical surveys, a distortion that the exhibition will attempt to correct.

Among the artists represented in the first period are: Sofonisba Anguissola, Caterina van Hemessen, Lavinia Fontana, Rachel Ruysch, Rosalba Carriera, Anne Vallayer-Coster, Artemisia Gentileschi, Judith Leyster and Marguerite Gerard.

The later period will include some well-known names such as Angelica Kauffman, Mary Cassatt, Berthe Morisot, Marie Laurencin, Rosa Bonheur, Kathe Kollwitz, Sonia Delauny and Georgia O'Keeffe, as well as lesser-known artists including Pauline Auzou, Eva Gonzales, Paula Modersohn-Becker, Gabriele Munter, Vanessa Bell, Gwen John, Florine Stettheimer and Romaine Brooks.

According to Jeanne D'Andrea, the museum's coordinator of exhibitions and publications, the variety and quality of paintings in the exhibition should both surprise and delight the general public. "Paintings by women are generally seen as a minority phenomenon both numerically and in terms of historical significance," she states. "This exhibition should make clear that in terms of style, subject matter and technique there are no perceptible distinctions between the approaches of the male and female artist."

The works in the exhibition are being lent by private collectors as well as major national and international museums.



POSTER OF REVOLUTION — This is one of the works in the exhibit, "Posters of Protest and Revolution" on view through Dec. 6 at the art gallery of Mt. San Antonio College. Gallery hours are noon to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday.

PIATIGORSKY PUPIL — Daniel Smith, former cello pupil of Griegor Piatigorsky, will join violinist Barbara Nord, one-time student of Jasha Heifetz, in a performance of Brahms' Double Concerto with the Claremont Symphony Orchestra in Bridges Hall, Pomona College, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Admission is free.

Ballet program slated

Ballet Odyssey, a newly formed dance company, will present premiere performances of "Spectrum" and "Nutcracker in a Nutshell" at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Dec. 19 in the Municipal Art Gallery Theater, Barnsdall Park, Los Angeles. Admission is free.

The company of six will dance to the music of Vivaldi, Dvorak, Shostakovitch, Tchaikovsky and Glazunov.

Carol Lynn Bennett, director of Ballet Odyssey, in describing the group states "We live to dance, not for ourselves, but for our audiences. We want them to come with us on a journey, an odyssey, to a magic place that for a moment leaves time and place behind and becomes a dream come true a place where imagination is real."

Much of the choreography, costumes and designs are done by the dancers themselves, who are, in addition to Miss Bennett, Urs no Del Valle, Michele Hart, Tom Ray, Bert Schoenen and Manny Wong.

The sponsoring Bureau of Music George Milan coordinator, is a division of the Municipal Arts Department of the City of Los Angeles.

DARWIN DUNCAN

Artist to talk at Chino

Artist and teacher Darwin Duncan will conduct a workshop for the Chino Art Association at the Wooden Shoe, Chino, at 9:30 a.m. Monday. Reservations can be made with Billy Lee Mathis at 985-7310.

Duncan began painting many years ago when he met a young artist named Karl Albert in the desert near Victorville. Albert was painting and urged Duncan to join him. Duncan later attended art school and studied with Sam Hyde Harris. He was a draftsman for Richfield Oil Corporation for many years before becoming fine arts instructor in the adult program at Orange Coast College. After 17 years at the college he retired in 1973 to devote his time to traveling, teaching and painting.

He is a member of many art associations and keeps busy giving demonstrations, conducting workshops and judging art shows.

The Captain & Tennille

Share and share alike

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — "Love Will Keep Us Together" sang The Captain and Tenille. On the strength of that one hit record, they got themselves a TV show.

But the song did more than make them rich and famous. It could be considered their national anthem. Because they claim that love will, in deed, keep them together.

They share everything, at this loving moment in their lives. They share philosophy, fortune and fads. They share a way of life, they share work, they share play. In fact, they are somewhat old-fashioned in their outlook on sharing.

Toni Tennille is a beauty, and it's easy to imagine her as a leading lady in motion pictures. But she says no, she won't do it, at least not if the film would include a love scene with her leading man.

"I'd never act in a movie," Toni says, "if there was a love scene with somebody else. I just have a feeling that that wouldn't be right, because Daryl is the only man for me."

Unlike some couples, they don't seem to feel the urge for privacy. They say that they haven't been apart for more than 11 hours since they began living together, four years ago.

They even have the same attitude toward the question of children.

"We have no plans to have any children," says Daryl Dragon, then turning the floor over to Toni, as usual, for a more detailed explanation.

"We feel strongly," she says, "that the only reason to bring children into the world would be if you thought they might make a contribution to humanity. And you just can't be sure if your own children would make such a contribution."

So they are childless, but not children-less. Toni has three sisters and Daryl has two brothers and two sisters. Among their seven siblings, they have a flock of nieces and nephews.

Uncle Daryl and Aunt Toni dote on their nieces and nephews. Tony says the kids love Daryl.

CLOSE RELATIONSHIP — Daryl Dragon and Tony Tennille say they haven't been apart for more than 11 hours since they began living together four years ago. They share everything.

"He's wonderful with kids," she says. "He's a very funny man and he does little pantomime routines for them. He used to do them for me and that's one reason I fell in love with him. He does one in which he eats a bunch of bananas while he's hiding behind a post."

Toni and Daryl met in San Francisco. There is some similarity to their paths which brought them there.

Daryl Dragon is the son of Carmen Dragon, a famous conductor of symphonic music. He started Daryl out on the piano when he was three.

"That was too young," he says. "I had no interest in it then. But I came back to it later."

He worked with several groups, until he found his niche as the keyboard player with The Beach Boys. He was with that noted group for several years.

Meanwhile, down in Montgomery, Ala., Toni Tennille was growing up. Her father, Frank Tennille, had been a singer — with Ben Pollock and Bob Crosby — until he left the music business to take over the family furniture business in Montgomery.

She studied classical piano and voice (later dancing, too) and she did some acting. Then she, too, joined a group. They were in San Francisco when they needed a new keyboard player.

Dragon, then at loose ends, went up to San Francisco and fit right in.

"I knew right away," says Toni, "that he was going to mean something to me. I get strong feelings about people and they're usually accurate."

They began living together in 1972, and the union was legalized in 1974. By that time, they had decided to form their own group, The Captain and Tennille.

His nickname — The Captain — was given to him by one of The Beach Boys. It was a natural nickname, because he had long worn yachting caps.

Now he has 17 caps, including a tweed one he wears on special occasions. He says for a long time, when they had not yet made it, he only had two.

The hats and the nickname really have nothing to do with the sea. Daryl says he's always liked boats but has never had one. Now, when he could easily afford one, he doesn't have the time to indulge a hobby.

In fact, in common with most of those who find fame virtually overnight, they haven't the time for any luxuries. Daryl did buy a 4-wheel drive Toyota "because I've always wanted one." Toni laughs it off; she considers it a toy and says he hasn't the time now to play with it.

Her indulgence was a house. They bought one with a lot of land around it. She says she had such a house as a child and wanted one again.

"But I still drive my old Pacer," she says. "I just like it. My friends keep telling me I should buy a Rolls. But I'd feel silly driving a Rolls-Royce to the supermarket."

Toni was always tall as a child and now is a statuesque 5'11". She says that, as an adolescent, her height bothered her. She used to stoop a little, to try and minimize her stature.

"And then a memorable thing happened," she says. "When I was 13, I was confirmed and the bishop was present. He commented on my being very tall and then he said, 'Someday, you'll love being tall. You should stand up straight and be proud of your height.' Since then, I have."

Daryl is an inch taller than his wife. They even have tallness in common.

Nancy Mehta to guest

Roger Wagner conducts.

The California Boys' Choir and the Women's Handbell Choir of the Neighborhood Church of Palos Verdes will join the 125-voice chorale for this event.

The program will include familiar carols as well as those from other countries and other times, Wagner said, and will conclude with the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel's "Messiah" in which the audience will be invited to participate. Several high school choirs will entertain during intermission.

'Sister George' at Riverside

"The Killing of Sister George," a hit on Broadway and the London stage and in the movies, will be presented in the Studio Theater of UC Riverside at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and Dec. 1-4.

The poignant comedy by Frank Marcus was voted best play of its year by the London Theater Critics Circle.

It takes place in London where June Buckridge, played by Rosie John, is worried about her job as the well-known radio serial character Sister George. Her ratings are slipping, and her world, consisting entirely of her role as Sister George and her living arrangement with Alice McNaught, begins to disintegrate.

Entering June's life is BBC executive Mrs. Mercy Croft, played by Marte Boyle Slout, who as bearer of evil tidings tells June that Sister George, the radio character, will have to be killed.

A triangle of relationships develop between the women. As a counterpoint to this, there is a fortune teller — Madame Xenia, played by Carol Kubiak — who acts as a sort of counsel to June and Alice.

Director Richard Brown says, " 'Sister George' is the kind of tragic-comedy which lets us see life from the reverse side of the tapestry. It shows us the funny side of our painful moments and the dark side of our foolishness." Brown directed last year's successful UCR production of "The Holt 1 Baltimore."

Women banned

At one time women were not allowed inside a mushroom-growing house, according to National Geographic, because their presence was believed to endanger the crop.

Jazz violinist to play at UCLA's Royce Hall

Jean-Luc Ponty, French jazz violinist, will present a recital in Royce Hall, UCLA, at 8:30 p.m. Dec. 4.

Ponty has shifted musical gears several times since winning highest classical honors as a teenager. The bearded 33-year-old switched first to popular music, then to progressive jazz idioms, and finally to electronically amplified improvisational jazz-rock. He is now moving toward the free music explorations projected for the late '70s.

Ponty has performed with such outstanding talents as Frank Zappa and John McLaughlin's Mahavishnu Orchestra, winning praise from the jazz world.

Born in the Normandy region, Ponty began classical music studies at the age of five with his parents, both noted music teachers. By 13 he had left regular school to practice the violin six hours a day.

After winning first prize at the Paris Conservatory, Ponty played with a symphony orchestra for three years before launching his jazz career.

Reserved seats for Ponty's appearance may be obtained now at the UCLA central ticket office, 650 Westwood Plaza, and all Mutual and Liberty agencies.

Annual home tour slated by auxiliary

The Women's Auxiliary of the Pomona Valley Community Hospital will present its annual Holiday Homes Tour Dec. 8, from 1 to 8 p.m.

Three lovely homes in the Claraboya area of Claremont will be opened for the inspiration and pleasure of all who come to view the homes.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Carr will be formally decorated in gold and white tones. Tiny white lights will twinkle at the entry. This is the "Sugar and Spice House," and the decorative theme will be changed in the kitchen area. Here red elves will dominate along with homemade goodies for holiday festivities. Karrina Pevarnik is decorating the Carr home. Mrs. Carr will provide music at her piano during the tour.

The Boutique House is the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Whitham. This is a Mediterranean style house and Casa Flores of Claremont will follow this theme in the Christmas decorations. Colors in the formal areas will be gold, green and blue with candles to enhance. In the family room, traditional reds and greens will predominate.

Tea will be served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Clark. Decorations have been planned by Pat Mayeda and Ruth Lemaster of Claremont. In the living room adjoining the dining room will be a formal tree bedecked with pastel colored ornaments which complement the colors in the rooms. Through glass doors opening onto the terrace guests will see a living tree decorated with twinkling lights. The family room will have a small tree and casual and playful decorations.

Mrs. Edith Frances Eells is president of the auxiliary and Mrs. Lawrence Smith is the general chairman for this special event. Mrs. G.J. McGuire is coordinator of the Whitham house; Mrs. Nelson Bell of the Carr house and Mrs. B.P. Jacobs of the Clark house.

Mrs. Vincent Aylward is chairman of awards. Other chairmen include: Miss Dorothy Grant, Mrs. Herbert Hall, Mrs. Robert Bolinger, and Mrs. William Kayer, Mrs. Charles Gildersleeve, Mrs. John Richardson, Mrs. Donald Hamilton and Mrs. Jay Palmer. Treasurer is Mrs. George Mickel.

Proceeds from the tour support the Sick Baby Fund of Pomona Valley Community Hospital, offering financial assistance to needy parents faced with unusually high costs. The auxiliary also provided items needed to equip the intensive care neonatal nursery, new born nursery, and the pediatric unit.

In addition to financial contributions, the auxiliary contributes many thousand hours of service for the comfort of patients and families.

The 18 services include the surgical waiting room, aiding in dismissals, assisting the Blood Donor program, the recovery room, and the critical care unit. The Auxiliary also offers scholarships to junior volunteers entering medical fields.

Wednesday, December 8 is the date to remember. Tickets may be obtained from Auxiliary members or by telephoning the volunteer office, 623-8715 ext. 1121. Tickets are $4.

Get set fo holiday with table decor

At Thanksgiving more than at any other time, the table becomes the focal point of the celebration. It's where family and friends gather not only for the holiday feast, but also for warm welcomes, fond reunions and good conversation.

Age and custom have made turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie the basics of a festive Thanksgiving menu. If one is entertaining for the holiday, she will want to make her table setting as inviting and seasonal as the dinner.

"Thanksgiving i traditionally a harves festival," says Anne Win field, home adviser fo F.W. Woolworth, "s fruits, vegetables an flowers are naturals fo table decor."

She suggests using cluster of inexpensive baskets, each filled with different autumnal fruit. Fresh apples, oranges, pears, bananas and bunches of grapes make a colorful display and do double duty as snacks or a light dessert. Vegetables, such as brightly-hued gourds, Indian corn, dark green acorn squash and pumpkins could be used in a similar arrangement. Artificial versions of these are available if you prefer.

Another edible centerpiece can be made using various kinds of breads and muffins. "Loaves of French or Italian bread, cornmeal muffins, herbed loaves, banana or cranberry nut bread and some decorative holiday breads set on a big carving board make an interesting, off-beat centerpiece and a practical one, too," says the Woolworth adviser.

For a more traditional look, try a mixture of candles or flowers in glorious fall colors, white, gold and russet. "Don't worry about using candlesticks of different types and heights or combining several kinds of vases," Mrs. Winfield suggests, "the variety will add a touch of distinction."

If it is desired to reserve the center of the table for Tom Turkey, one might decorate each place setting individually. Small votive candles, napkins swirled attractively in colorful rings or fanned out to resemble the gobbler's tail, and tiny vases with a single flower, one for each guest, look pretty and special.

"You can add small baskets of nuts mixed with raisins for the adults, and perhaps little candy turkeys for the children," suggests the Woolworth adviser.

THE RIDGES—VIEW ORIENTED COMMUNITY IN WALNUT

Building trends:

Prospects cary by area

Whether 1976 has been a sensational, a dismal or a comfortable housing year depends on where you live.

On the West Coast and in Texas, this has been the best year ever for single-family building and the third best for total starts.

In the Northeast, new housing is at the lowest ebb — except for last year — since immediately after World War II, and in Florida it is half the average rate of the past decade.

In the remaining 34 states, this has been an above-average housing year, especially for single-family, but far from a record

And the market will continue lopsided into 1977.

These are findings of Advance Mortgage Corporation's Economic Research Bureau which reported this week on housing activity through the third quarter of this year.

The outlook for housing gains in 1977, says Advance Mortgage president Robert J. Mylod, has brightened in recent weeks because of a strongly easing mortgage market. Next year should see some revival in the dormant apartment market, a resurgence in condominiums and further gains in single-family.

But none of this optimism applies to the Northeast or Florida.

PROJECTIONS

Advance's research bureau projects slightly more than 1.5 million total starts and close to 1.2 million single-family in 1976.

It looks for about 1.8 million total starts in 1977, of which about 1.3 million should be single-family.

Because the Northeast and Florida will remain depressed housing markets, those numbers should make 1977 close to a record year in both single-family and total production in the remaining 40 states.

Even 1976 has been a very good year — much better than generally recognized — for the country outside the Northeast and Florida. In the remaining 40 states, it will be the third best year for single-family starts, next only to 1955 and 1950. It will have been the best year for total starts except for the booms in 1971-73 and 1950.

REASONS FOR OPTIMISM

Mylod cites three factors for the upturn he expects in 1977.

The single-family market in many areas is even stronger than the statistics show, and increases in production are needed to overtake the demand.

In Chicago, for example, a number of large builders are sold out a year and a half ahead of production. In Southern California, waiting lists are so long that buyers camp out to be the first in line when a new tract goes on sale; other tracts are sold by lotteries and some by bidding contests.

The recovery in the apartment market, so often heralded, is at last breaking through. It will be a modest recovery in 1977 — to only about half the levels reached in the 1971-73 boom. And it will still be stronger in California than elsewhere.

Mortgage rates, for both homes and apartments, are under strong downward pressure, as a result of unexpectedly sustained high savings flows and increased competition among lenders.

By spring the conventional home mortgage rate should be down to 8½ per cent, perhaps 8¼ per cent (for prime risks) compared to the present 8¾ percent (9 per cent in California). FHA-VA mortgage yields are already in the 8-8¼ per cent range.

Conventional rates have already dropped ¼ per cent since the summer. FHA-VA yields have dropped ½ per cent.

RIPE FOR RECOVERY

Mylod cites several harbingers of apartment upturn.

Rental vacancies in the U.S. outside the Northeast are the lowest in at least 20 years, according to Census Bureau figures. They are especially low by historical standards in the West and Southwest.

Many local markets have vacancy rates in modern apartments in the 2-3 per cent range — too low to allow for normal turnover. Even markets which are softer overall, like Atlanta, have sectors with high occupancy.

Board picks Murphy

DEAN MURPHY

Dean Murphy, owner of All American Real Estate, has been elected new president of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

Other officers are Sanford Newton, Newton Realty, first vice president; Robert A. Miller, Magnum Realty, second vice president; Charles F. Farritor, Century 21-Gene Hart Realty, secretary; and David J. Legters, Legters Realty, treasurer.

Frederick W. Jones, Century 21-La Verne, is director — elect and Mark A. Warren, outgoing president, will serve as a state director.

Retiring as directors are Joseph D. Beck and William B. Johnson.

The new officers will be installed Dec. 4 at the board's annual dinner to be held at the San Dimas Canyon Country Club. They will take office on Jan. 1. The board has 350 members and includes Pomona, Claremont, La Verne and parts of San Dimas and Diamond Bar.

Murphy began his real estate career in 1971 and joined the realty board in 1973. He passed the brokers examination in last February and then opened his own real estate office in June.

Murphy and his wife, Martha, have two children, Lisa and Brian.

The Ridges

Single family view featured

The Ridges, a new single family, view oriented community in Walnut, announces its grand opening reports William N. Kennicott, President of Southern Development Company, builders and developers.

"Four beautifully decorated models by Robert Minnex Associates of Los Angeles, are available for viewing," stated Kennicott. "The homebuyer has a chance to see the furnished and decorated floorplan of his choice, instead of selecting from blueprints and renderings."

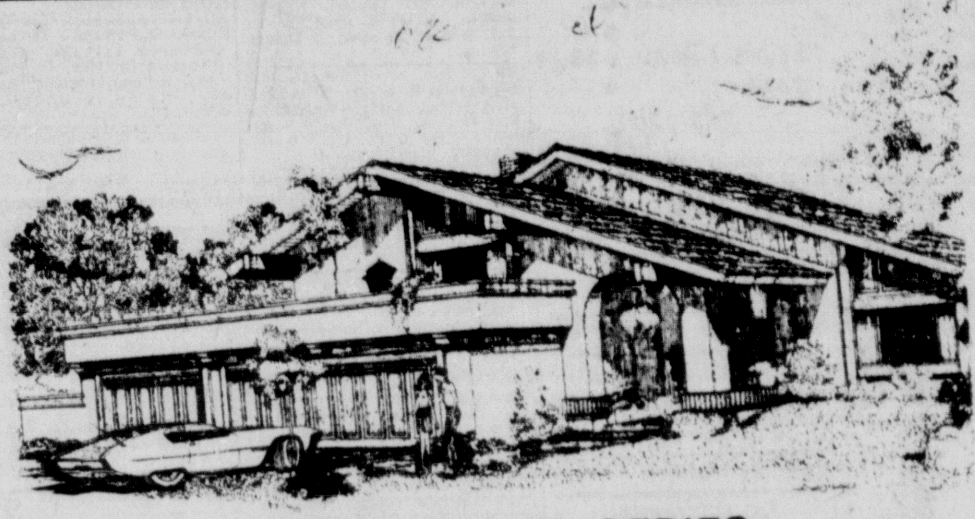
There are 158 homes, valued at over $8 million, scheduled for completion by the fall of 1977. Single and two-story homes designed by Hales-Langston of Orange feature three and four bedrooms, and are priced from $52,000 to $68,000. Homes contain 1,413 to 1,981 square feet.

"Due to pre-opening buyer interest, phase one, containing 46 homes has been sold out. Phase two, containing 66 homes, due for completion in the Spring of 1977, has also met with excellent buyer interest. Over half the homes have been sold, but there is still a wide selection of homes available." Kennicott stated. "We feel this exceptional response is due in part to the large view lots, exciting floorplans and architecture, and the obvious value these spacious homes offer."

Custom quality features include 100 per cent nylon carpeting throughout, custom fireplaces, vaulted ceilings, wet bars, double door entries, tile or cedar shake roofs, open-garden kitchens with pantries, luminous ceilings, ceramic tile counter tops, breakfast bars, eye-level continuous-clean oven, range and dishwasher. Vaulted ceilings grace the master bedroom suites. Large master baths, some featuring luminous ceilings and double pullmans, have roman tubs, most accentuated by glass enclosed planters.

Landscape architects were Becknell-Villa of Costa Mesa.

The Ridges sales office is at 19885 E. Calle Granada, located just east of Nogales Street and north of La Puente Road. It may be reached by exiting Pomona Freeway at Nogales Street turnoff and driving north to La Puente Road. Turn right and follow signs to furnished models.



LEWIS EUCLID SERIES

Located in Upland

Elegance in Euclid homes

Reservations for ownership are being taken by Lewis Homes for its new Euclid Series development of single-family homes, described by building company vice-president Roger G. Lewis as marking a "return to elegance both in palatial decor and huge lot sites."

The development centers on the west side of Euclid Avenue, one-half block south of 19th Street, Upland.

Lewis noted that reservations were started just 11 days ago and already account for 11 of the 19 homes.

Euclid Series homes are designed in single-story and split level models, set on 20,000-square-foot lots. Floor plans are arranged with four bedrooms and 2½ baths, and measure up to 2,719 square feet of actual living area.

Purchase price, including refrigerated air-conditioning, is from $85,500 to $89,000, with financing on conventional terms.

Shake roofs, three-car garages and tiled entry foyers are features quickly noted in an inspection of the homes. Wet bars and roof decks are style appeals noted in various models.

Stating that "we have designed the Euclid Series to win the approval of the most demanding home buyers," pointed out that kitchens number microwave ovens among their appliances and feature tiled cooking counters.

The development may be reached from the San Bernardino Freeway or Foothill Boulevard by turning north on Euclid Avenue to models, which are located just below 19th Street.

Sales information at the models is available today 10 a.m. to dusk. On weekdays, information may be obtained at another Lewis Homes development, The Prestige Series, at 22nd Street and San Antonio Avenue.

Median home price up

The median price of an existing home in California jumped to $50,298 in September, which represents a 2.8 per cent increase over the previous month.

This is particularly noteworthy in light of the fact that the median price fell one half of one per cent during the preceding month of August. These statistics were announced today by the Research Department of the 88,000-member California Association of Realtors. CAR conducts a monthly survey in order to keep track of current housing trends.

The September increase means that the average price of an existing home was $1,380 more than in August.

Business opportunity

Realty seminar set in Anaheim

Something new has been added by the state Realtors' organization just before the old year ends.

An entirely new two-day course, Business Opportunities Seminar, is being offered by the Investment Division of the 88,000-member California Association of Realtors. Sessions will be held Dec. 1 and 2, at the Inn at the Park, 1855 South Harbor Blvd., Anaheim, near Disneyland.

The purpose of the course, according to Marvin Cohen of Van Nuys, Investment Division chairman, is many fold.

For example, he said, it's to answer such questions as what is a business opportunity? How does it differ from a real estate venture? What are the benefits and rewards of owning a business? How does a person find or start a good business?

The seminar will be taught by two Realtor experts, David T. Schumacher of Hermosa Beach and Mrs. Evelyn Walsh of Hawthorne.

Standing as best man was Garry Stewart and ushers were Thomas Nicoles, Kenneth Nicoles, Richard Baldwin, James Hein, Mark Lee and Craig Lee.

Flower girl was Audrey Britsch, niece of the bride, and ring bearer was Michael Platt.

Following the rite, a reception was held at the Darlington House in La Jolla.

Banker to address women

J. Howard Craven, senior vice president and economist at Union Bank will be the speaker at the annual public relations meeting of the American Society of Women Accountants.

Prior to joining Union Bank in 1973, Mr. Craven was with the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

The meeting will be held at 6 p.m., Nov. 30, at the Sheraton West Hotel, 2961 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles.

Dancers scheduled on float

In previous years, seven was the maximum number of persons permitted to ride a float in the Rose Parade.

This year there will be a deviation from that rule for the float entered by the Square Dancers of America, Inc. There will be a "square" of live dancers dancing on the float, and it takes eight persons to form the square.

A contest was open to all square dancers between the ages of 18 and 40 to ride the float. The deadline for applications passed and recently the names of the persons who will be dancing on the float were drawn at a "Float the Float" benefit dance, held to raise funds to help pay for the float, at Palomares Community Center in Pomona.

Approximately 300 persons attended the dance, and watched as Christine Henderson, drew the winners.

There will be three couples from outside the State of California and one couple from California. The out-of-state couples whose names were drawn are: Dale and Carol Keirns, Columbus, Ohio; Phil and Barbara Sabin, Bryans Road, Md.; and Steven Chavin and Sue Pawlan, Champaign, Ill. The California winners are Howie and Dale Korman of Torrance.

Claremont Travel ilm slated Friday

The second presentation of the Claremont Travel Film Series for the 23rd season is scheduled in Garrison Theater Friday at 2 p.m. and at 8 p.m.

Jonathan Hagar, a favorite of the Claremont audiences, will narrate an outstanding and exciting picture, "Immortal Poland."

Mr. Hagar brings to the film-lecture platform a long background in newspaper work. Drawing on experience gained as a reporter, feature writer and photo editor, he uses his camera and in-person narration to tell absorbing stories of the lands and peoples he visits. He is a graduate of the University of Missouri School of Journalism and is a member of honorary, professional and photo-journalism fraternities. He makes his home in St. Louis, where for 10 years he was photo editor of the Globe-Democrat.

The film highlights include Warsaw, Cracow, Baltic Coast, Tatra Mountains, Upper Silesia, Lower Silesia and Wroclaw. Emphasis will be on the way the Poles live today in both their major industrial centers and their most scenic and historic regions.

The Claremont Travel Film Series is a benefit project for the development fund of Pomona College.

Chairman of the series is Mrs. Milo Tigner. She is assisted by Mrs. Wesley Leighton, Mrs. Roy Miller, Miss Esther Ballew, Mrs. Charles Gill, Mrs. Earle Jones, Mrs. Jackson Niebrugge and Mrs. Stuart Wheeler.

Single tickets for the presentation may be purchased at the box office for each performance. Season tickets are available for the afternoon series only. Courtesy coffee will again be served in the foyer during intermission at the evening performance. Members of the Travel Film Committee will be hostesses at the door of the theater.

DO YOU HAVE THE 8 HOUR HUM DRUM BLUES?

When was the last time you had an opportunity to manage your own small business without a $20,000 to $30,000 investment? When was the last day you were able to go to work without having to face the same boring 8 hour routine! When was the last time that your career offered you a challenge worthy of your ability? If you can't remember when then perhaps its time we discuss it.

I'm with the Nation's 4th largest Food Retailer and I am searching for career minded sales people in the West San Gabriel Valley area only, interested in not only selling to 350 of my established fine customers on a regular basis but, also handling the administrative portion of our business.

You'll have the freedom of a small business owner but without the investment. The only thing that I ask you to invest in is your time. You'll have the responsibility and challenge of managing a small business but you'll have the security in fringe benefits of a large corporation, such as hospitalization, profit sharing, vacation, company vehicles, etc. Average earnings usually in excess of $12,000 per year. What I am offering is not too good to be true it requires long hours and hard work, but if it sounds of interest to you . . .

FUN FACTS® from WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT GUM

CAMELS ARE RARELY OBSERVED SWEATING. AS THE TEMPERATURE GOES UP, SO DOES A CAMEL'S BODY TEMPERATURE, SOMETIMES AS MUCH AS ELEVEN DEGREES.

THE PEARL IS THE ONLY GEM WHICH DOES NOT HAVE TO BE POLISHED; IT HAS ITS OWN NATURAL IRIDESCENT LUSTER.

IN EARLY ENGLAND, A WHIPPING BOY WAS AN UNFORTUNATE YOUNGSTER APPOINTED TO RECEIVE ANY CHASTISEMENT EARNED BY THE SON OF A ROYAL FAMILY.

DEEP IN THE TUFT AT THE END OF A LION'S TAIL THERE IS A HORN-LIKE SPUR, WHICH HAS NO APPARENT USEFUL FUNCTION.

You'll like the big, long-lasting flavor.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

LIONEL LONGSON OF PROVO, UT, ASKS: "HOW ARE CLOTHES DRY-CLEANED?"

SOME FABRICS, SUCH AS WOOL AND SILK, MAY FADE OR SHRINK IF WASHED IN SOAP AND WATER. SO THESE FABRICS ARE DRY-CLEANED INSTEAD. THE CLOTHES ARE PUT INTO A WASHER FILLED WITH A CLEANING SOLVENT. THE CLOTHES TUMBLE IN THE SOLVENT UNTIL THE DIRT IS WASHED OUT. ANOTHER MACHINE WILL SPIN THE SOLVENT OUT OF THEM. THE CLOTHES ARE DRIED IN A TUMBLER THAT TUMBLES THEM AROUND, WHILE WARM AIR IS BLOWN THROUGH THEM. FINALLY, THE CLOTHES WILL BE PRESSED FOR WEARING.

FEIGNING UNCONSCIOUSNESS, PERFUME IS AWARE OF THE HIJACKERS' SHOTGUN LYING UNATTENDED AS THEY FEVERISHLY WORK TO "REVIVE" THEIR HOSTAGE.
IN A SERIES OF QUICK ROLLS SHE REACHES THE GUN.
NOW, I'VE GOT THE SHOTGUN— I'M RUNNING THINGS!
WITH TRACY STILL UNAWARE OF PERFUME'S PRESENCE IN THE HOUSE—
TIME'S UP HERE COMES THE TEAR GAS.
WAIT! WE'RE COMING OUT!
THAT WAS A GIRL'S VOICE!
SORT OF A SCREAM, EH?
I RECOGNIZE THAT VOICE! IT WAS MY NIECE— LITTLE PERFUME.
JOSIE ST. LOVE AVE.
SOUNDED LIKE A CRY FOR HELP!
KEEP THAT ARTILLERY ON TARGET—TILL WE'RE SURE.

DEAR POLLY — Don't discard that empty roll-on deodorant or perfume bottle. Save it to use for sealing envelopes, applying stamps or pasting stamps you may be saving in a book. The roll-on top is easily removed, making it a cinch to clean and fill with water. —MRS.W.C.P.

DEAR POLLY — A quick and easy way to clean lettuce or other greens is to put them in a large open mesh bag, and give it a few shakes in a big bowl of clear water. They come out clean and fresh. — MIN.

Send your helpful hints to Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — An 87-year-old friend gave me this Pointer. I promised I would send it to you: Take a very small paintbrush and dip it in water to use for wiping off the leaves on your house plants. — ANNA.

DEAR POLLY — When hemming the legs of men's trousers with iron-on tape, I place the wrong side of the tape and the pants (with narrow hem turned up) and machine-baste through tape and pants. Press, not iron, with a hot iron, remove the long stitches and have a perfect hem. — MRS. R.D.H. (Polly's note — The sample included with this hint was about the neatest job I have ever seen.)

DEAR POLLY — Those who cannot bend down to wash out the bathtub because of back trouble could use a sponge mop with a long handle. Put liquid cleaner on the damp mop and clean the tub while standing up. This is ideal. —J.D.H.

DEAR POLLY — I have a quick way to trim frosted cakes. Place a cookie cutter on the frosting, and then sprinkle inside it with multicolored decorettes. Use several designs on one cake or repeat the same one all around the top. —BESSIE.

DEAR POLLY — One of my beautiful glass pitchers became wedged inside another pitcher as I was soaking them. Nothing would get them apart until, in desperation, I put a drop of machine oil on the wedged places, filled the top pitcher with crushed ice and let them stand for four or five minutes. The top one lifted out without any stress. — H.M.C.

DEAR POLLY — Lids from potato chip canister cans can be put between records on a spindle. Cut away the rim until only a small portion extends, put a hole in the center and the records will not get scratched. — MRS. H.H.

The job you learn in the Army is a skill that stays with you.

You'll find that the job you learn in the Army has a lot of "staying" power. And it gives you options you probably didn't have before. You can use your skill to build a career in the Army.

And, we think you'll discover another important fact. The Army's job-training courses are probably the best around. They're taught by excellent instructors, in good schools, on the most up-to-date equipment. You'll have a job that could cost you a lot of money to learn in civilian life.

Remember, you're also paid good money while you learn. And after six months, while you're learning your skill, you get a nice raise. After that, further raises and promotions will come as you earn them. And, of course, the Army takes care of your meals, clothing, housing, medical and dental care, plus a lot of other benefits, such as a 30 day vacation paid every year. Send back the card today and get all the facts.

Get ahead now. Stay ahead for a lifetime.

It provides job training and experience in a skill you can use throughout your life. And in addition, the Army can help you develop a greater sense of confidence and responsibility. Flip Wilson and Nadia Comaneci

'THE LITTLE GIRL WHO COULD'

They arrive in a flurry of pigtails, ponytails, ribbons, books and school uniforms. Nadia Comaneci is suddenly a quiet 14-year-old school girl instead of a world-famous Olympic gymnast. She stands there, surrounded by her girlfriends, in her school in Onesi, Romania.

Nadia and her classmates all want to go to the local movie theater to see "The Count of Monte Cristo," starring Richard Chamberlain, but first they must participate in the filming of a television entertainment special, "Nadia—From Romania With Love," airing Tuesday at 8PM on CBS.

"At first I was anxious to have the filming over with," Nadia said, "because it disrupted my school work and gym practice. But when I understood that so many people came so far to do this, it became a challenge and fun to do."

No stranger to challenges, Nadia spoke of her gymnastic practice sessions. "I must do over and over again, the precise movements which are a part of the gymnastic routine. When I concentrate on this work I say to myself, 'I must do better, I must do better!'"

In 1969, Nadia competed in the junior national championships of Romania, finishing in 13th place. The next year, she won. She hasn't lost a competition since. "Nadia is the best gymnast in the world," says her coach, Bela Karolyi. "My wife Marta, who is also a gym coach, and I, discovered Nadia in the playground of a school when she was only six years old. She was running and doing things, pretending to be a gymnast. She showed promise, then. Now we continue working to develop perfection so she will get nothing but a perfect score in every event in a single competition."

In between the constant exercise sessions, which she pursues two hours in the morning and two hours in the afternoon, she goes to school, like any girl her age.

Nadia eats a minumum of sweets, however, and is kept on a nutritious diet, prepared by her mother. She lives with her family in a new building near her school, and studies in the school dormitory. By and large, her daily activity is that of an average 14-year-old school girl, with a very strong dose of discipline, however. "It is part of the training," she says in a no-nonsense way. "I am a gymnast and I must concentrate on that."

NBC, which pioneered network broadcasting in this country starting Nov. 15, 1926, celebrates its 50th year of broadcasting service to the nation with an unprecedented four-and-a-half-hour, prime-time Special, "The First Fifty Years," on NBC, Sunday from 7 to 11:30PM. Orson Welles, actor/writer/producer, and possessor of many more talents, acts as narrator of the Big Event Special. Stars, hosting different segments, include Johnny Carson, Dean Martin, Gene Kelly, Angie Dickinson, George C. Scott, Gregory Peck, Jack Albertson and Freddie Prinze. David Brinkley, who has been with NBC for more than 30 years, will host the news segment. Joe Garagiola hosts the World Series section of sports, and Don Meredith, the pro football sports segment.

PERFORMERS GALORE

Carol Burnett and Beverly Sills, each an outstanding artist in the entertainment world, appear together for the first time when they star in "Sills and Burnett at the Met," a CBS Special on Thursday at 10PM. The hour-long production was taped before an audience at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City. For Miss Burnett, this will be her third musical special performed in one of New York City's cultural centers. The two prior specials, in which she performed with Julie Andrews, were the award-winning "Julie and Carol at Carnegie Hall," and "Julie and Carol at Lincoln Center." As were Miss Burnett's two previous specials with Miss Andrews, "Sills and Burnett at the Met," will be a two-woman show.

Variety Clubs International hosts "An All-Star Party for John Wayne," a one-hour Special on ABC, Friday at 8PM. Wayne is pictured here with Variety Club's Monty Hall and Frank Sinatra—who will act as host for the Special. Wayne has outgrown about all the adjectives used to describe star performers...he is, quite simply, an institution in the entertainment world, and his friends and fans are legion. Variety Clubs International started 50 years ago and since that time has raised more than 300 million dollars for underprivileged and handicapped children. Proceeds from ABC's coverage of this Special will go to Variety Clubs to further the charitable work of the organization which now has "Tents" (chapters) in 25 major U.S. cities and a number in other countries.

Starting tonight David Sheehan explores the current obsession with the supernatural. He'll talk to the stars and directors who created the cult… Gregory Peck, Richard Burton, Linda Blair, Louise Fletcher, and others. And he'll show you scenes from their spine-chilling films. 'VULNERABLE COP'

On CBS Sunday nights at 9PM nowadays, you'll find the screen filled with Kojak—a police detective who speaks with a nasally-reverberating New York accent. Stay tuned from 10 to 11PM, and your screen is filled with Delvecchio, a second police detective with a nasally reverberating New York acccent.

Too much of a good thing—like chocolate cake? Well, not if you're a nasal reverberation buff. Besides, the similiarity between the first cop (Telly Savalas) and the second one (Judd Hirsch), ends with the accent. The pair provide an appealing contrast.

Kojak is a tough tamale who gives the impression that he always has the situation well in hand, even when he may not. He isn't given to making mistakes by acting emotionally and impulsively—and if he did, it would be hard to envision him agonizing over them. On the other hand, that's precisely the kind of guy Delvecchio is. He has a definite vulnerability. He can be had—and sometimes is—because he is capable of doing or saying things he may well regret later.

Then there's the matter of his relationship with his partner, Shonski, played by Charles Haid. Whereas Delvecchio has a tendency to become emotionally involved, Shonski is a rather bovine type who feels his job is just that...a job, not a crusade. Because this difference opens up ground for disagreement, the two partners frequently argue...they even shout. But this is strictly play-acting on Hirsch's part. Off camera he is mostly unflappable, deliberate and analytical—something like the real-life Kojak.

And this probably explains why his first serious ambition was to be an engineer. He studied engineering and, later, architecture in college and ended up with a degree in physics from CCNY. Hirsch is still strongly attracted to the field of physics and is sure except that for the accident that lured him into acting he would today be working in aerospace science.

While native New Yorker Hirsch was attending CCNY, he enrolled in an acting class out of desperation because classes in the elective subjects he really wanted to take were full. To his surprise he was captivated by the class and later, with his physics degree in hand, he wasted no time enrolling in dramatic school.

Haid's course to acting was laid unwittingly by his grandfather, the late Roy S. Folger, a noted raconteur who was president of San Francisco's prestigious Bohemian Club. Folger felt he was a natural for acting and yearned to go south to Hollywood and try his hand but never did. Nevertheless, his yearning influenced his grandson, Charlie, who entered Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh to study theatrical directing after serving three years in the Navy submarine service. To date Haid has spent most of his career in directing, producing and acting in stage productions on the East Coast.

Number three in the regular cast of Delvecchio is Michael Conrad, who appears as the irrascible boss of Delvecchio and Shonski, Det. Lt. Macavan. Conrad is a New Yorker who has been acting in Hollywood since 1963 and lives in Malibu, where he spends some of his spare time doing recreational long distance running.

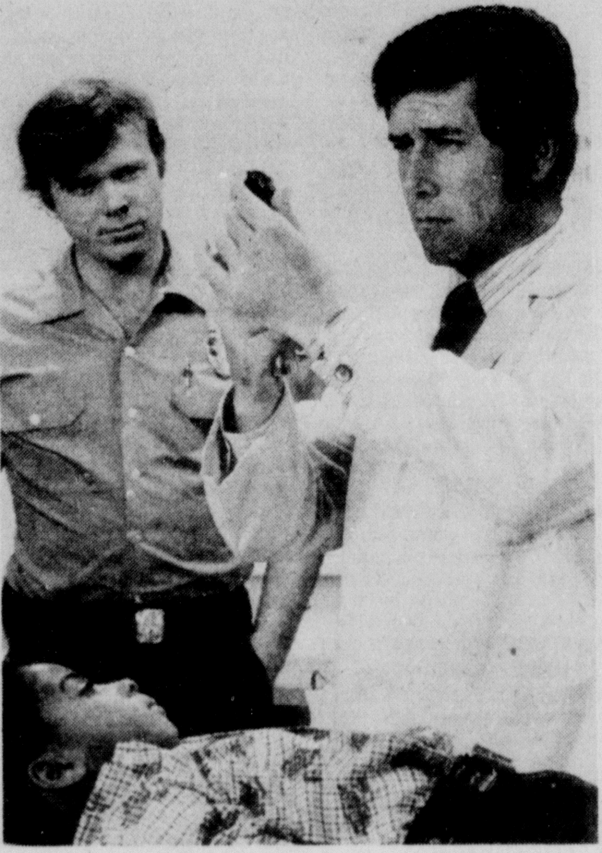
'PARAMEDIC GROUPS PAY ATTENTION'



Paramedic organizations throughout the United States are lauding NBC's Emergency series for its practical demonstrations of innovative equipment as well as for its authentic dramatizations of paramedics' real-life exploits in emergency medical care. Good examples of the attention given the top-rated series by emergency crews around the country are the recent responses to "The Game," the episodes that launched the sixth season of the popular series seen Saturdays at 8PM on NBC.

A reporter for the Fort Myers News-Press in Naples, Fla., called the Emergency production office to inquire about a new ambulance used in the segment. Apparently, the community was in the process of buying one just like it and wanted some information about it. The reporter, Donna Jablonski, said: "We understand that ours is the 'sister' of the one used on the show—that is, ours is the second one off the assembly line and the one on Emergency was the first."

Series executive producer Robert A. Cinader confirmed that Emergency does have the first such model produced by a custom ambulance manufacturer in Texas. "I was happy to recommend it," said Cinader. "It has all the latest modern emergency equipment. What we particularly like about it is the size. It is larger than any others we've had and enables us to film scenes inside the vehicle more easily."

Gary Griessinger, a paramedic with the Mundelein Fire Department in a Chicago, Illinois suburb, called to ask about a belt pouch worn by Emergency stars Kevin Tighe and Randy Mantooth. "We've been looking for something just like that," said Griessinger, "and since we were just in the process of ordering new equipment for our unit, I thought I'd check to see if it was really on the market. It's something we'd never seen before."

The belt provides a simple means for carrying small but key items such as a flashlight, shears, knife, etc. It was custom-designed for Tighe and Mantooth for use on the show and is now being produced by Bob McCullough, a paramedic with the Santa Clarita Valley, Calif., fire-rescue squad—and an occasional technical adviser on Emergency.

LUCILLE BALL:

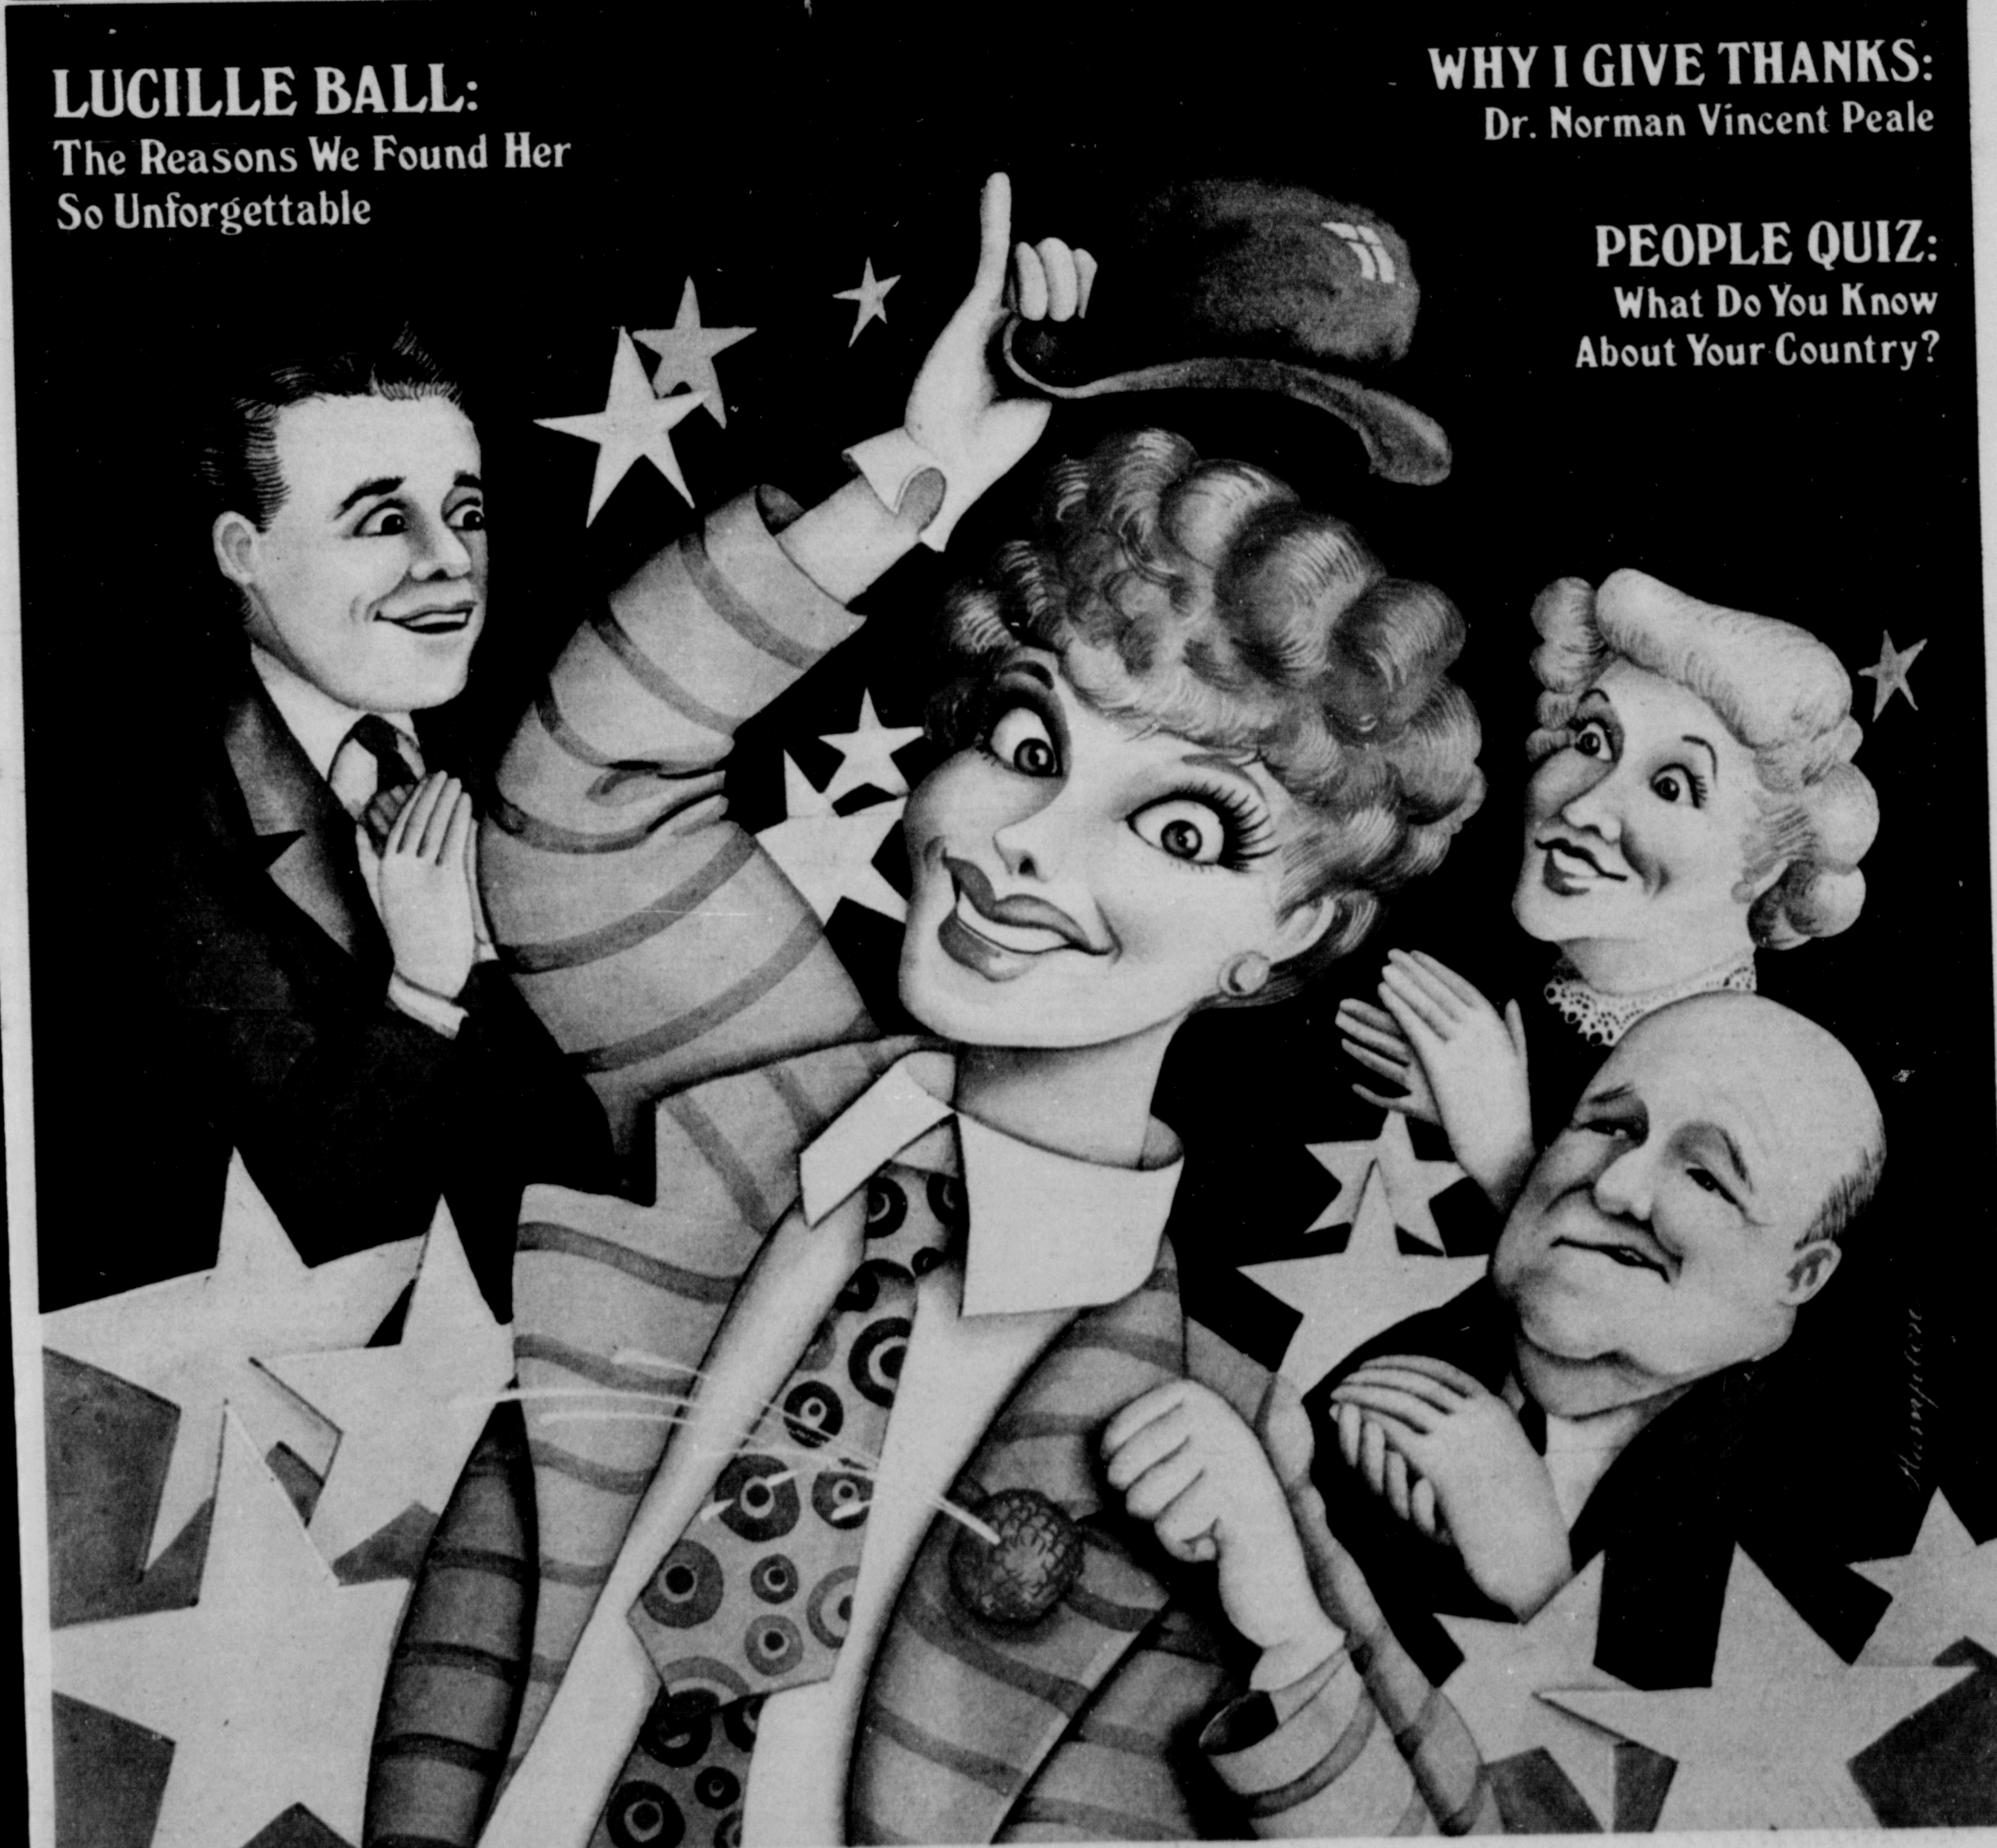
The Reasons We Found Her So Unforgettable

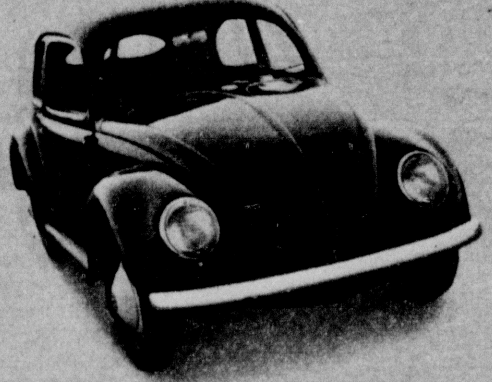
WHY I GIVE THANKS:

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale

PEOPLE QUIZ:

What Do You Know About Your Country?





A whole generation grew up with it. And now...

27 years and 33 million cars later, there's a whole new generation of Volkswagens.

The 1977 Rabbit, Dasher, and Scirocco. Three of the most remarkable cars ever built, these Volkswagens feature highly advanced engineering. Such as fuel-injection. Front-wheel drive. Front-disc brakes. And precise rack-and-pinion steering.

And all three get 24 MPG in the city. Rabbit and Scirocco get 37 MPG on the highway, Dasher gets 36. (EPA estimates with standard transmission. Actual mileage depends on how and where you drive, optional equipment and the car's condition.)

A new generatio
for a new genera

Dasher. It's the first elegant automobile with all the virtues of a Volkswagen. In appointments, it has a luxurious interior, with reclining bucket seats and rich carpeting. It even comes with a quartz-crystal clock. In performance, it can travel from 0 to 50 in 8.0 seconds and still keep its road manners. Extravagant, yet not opulent. We call it "the sensible luxury car."

© Volkswagen of America Inc

Rabbit. Hailed by automotive experts as the specific kind of car Detroit will be building in the 1980's. Six years in the making, that car is ready now, when America needs it. Small outside. Big inside. With the rear seat folded down, it has more trunk space than some American cars twice its size. And from 0 to 60, it will outaccelerate a Jaguar XJ6-L.* Room. Performance. Economy. It's more Volkswagen than you've ever had before.

n of Volkswagens
tion of Americans.

Scirocco. It's the Volkswagen that people can't believe is a Volkswagen. It looks like an Italian sportscar because Giugiaro designed it. And it performs like a powerful German sportscar because it has a powerful fuel-injected overhead cam engine. In fact, Scirocco, our racing Volkswagen, just won the 1976 Trans Am Championship for cars under two liters.

The Rabbit, Dasher and Scirocco. Times have changed, America. And so have Volkswagens.

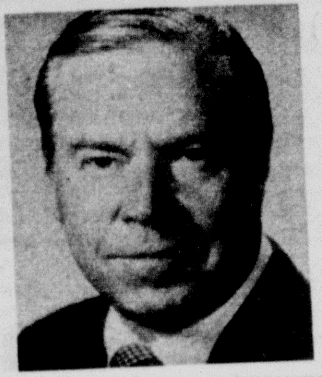
ASK THEM YOURSELF

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.



FOR REP. JOHN J. RHODES (R.-Ariz.)

Why won't you accept the military pension you legally deserve?—Mrs. Lela Owens, Hobart, Ind.

● As long as I'm on the Government payroll and being paid an adequate salary, it would be wrong for me to accept supplementary income from the Government. I don't need my pension while I'm working full time. Since one of my major concerns has been the alarming increase in the Federal budget, accompanied by a staggering increase in the national debt, I decided to return my pension funds to the Treasury. My $500 monthly pension won't do much to reduce that debt, but I have the satisfaction of having made a personal contribution to alleviate a situation that greatly concerns me. Since I'm a member of Congress, my decision has received media publicity. Perhaps other Federal employees will follow my lead.

FOR KATHY CROSBY, TV hostess

Will you be serving anything unusual for Thanksgiving dinner?—B.G., Pottstown, Pa.

● I don't know if this is unusual, but this is what we'll be having: roast turkey with cornbread stuffing, sweet potato balls, peas with artichoke hearts and cranberry salad mold. For dessert, we usually serve the traditional pumpkin and mince pies, but we also have a tray of assorted cheese with fruit for those who can't tackle the heavy desserts. I also make a light dessert cake, Orange Delight.

FOR O. J. SIMPSON, football star

You went back to the Buffalo Bills after saying early last summer that you would never return. What changed your mind?—David Moran, Waco, Texas

● When it became clear that the Bills were not going to get the trade they wanted and thus I had to play for them or for nobody, I asked myself if I were emotionally and financially set to stay out of football. The answer was yes. The next question was, "Did I want to quit playing?" The answer was no.

FOR CORRIE TEN BOOM, author of The Hiding Place

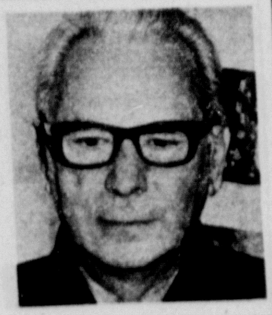
Have you been in touch with any of the people whose lives you saved in World War II?—Mrs. Gordon Oberg, Cheyenne, Wyo.

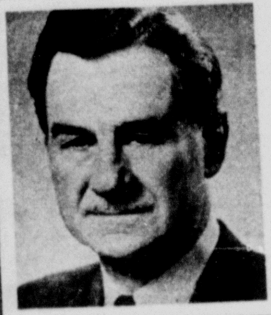
● Yes, many of them. About 15 years ago, I met a teenage Jewish boy I had saved (along with more than 100 other Jewish babies marked for death in an orphanage). What a joy that was! I have even talked with one of the guards who was so very cruel to my sister, Betsie. The Lord has been good by showing me the fruits of my years of work.



FOR J. B. WEST, former chief usher of the White House

How have former First Ladies reacted to your book, "Upstairs at the White House?"—Jack Montgomery, Waco, Texas

● I sent an inscribed copy of Upstairs at the White House to each of the First Ladies and received a nice thank-you note from each. If any of them were unhappy about the book, they would probably not have mentioned it since Presidential families become immune to criticism.



FOR LOWELL THOMAS, veteran broadcaster

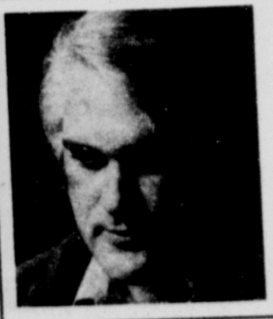
Is there any part of the world you regret not having visited?—R. Olsen, Idaho Falls, Idaho

● Even though I've been moving about the globe almost nonstop for the past six decades, there still remain a few thousand areas I haven't seen. I've been to Outer Mongolia, but not to the Inner part. I regret having missed a mountain range named for me in the Antarctic. And although I've visited Eastern, Western and Central Siberia, I'd like to take a peek at the Arctic part of that enormous land.

FOR RAQUEL WELCH

If you have a squabble with your boyfriend, how do you make up with him?—H.H., Hackensack, N.J.

● Get into a good mood and a new dress at the same time and plan the kind of evening we both enjoy. We ignore the cause of the argument (pretend it never happened) because what's past is dead. We usually go to a dinner, then a show. But before we meet, we both think over what happened and analyze it. Nine times out of 10, the cause of the tiff was unimportant, magnified by tension or work pressures.



FOR CHARLIE RICH, country-western singer

Were you once a farmer?—F.S., San Pedro, Calif.

● Yes. When I got my 1955 Air Force discharge, I wanted security for my family. We had two kids and one on the way. The idea of making money from music seemed remote. My uncle in West Memphis, Ark. set me up as a farmer. The first year was fine; the second was so-so. All we got in the third year was rain. I couldn't get the crops in, so I decided to quit. My uncle said he'd keep helping me, but by then I'd had enough. I turned to singing and playing in Memphis on a regular basis.

FOR ROBERTA PETERS, Metropolitan Opera star

As an opera star, how do you feel about movies?—S.A., Charlottesville, Va.

● I love tearjerkers. Wild horses can't hold me back if I hear of one playing nearby. I don't like horror films and usually give them a wide berth. I'm squeamish and can't stand the sight of blood. When Elizabeth Taylor got a face lift in Ash Wednesday, I became violently ill. Films I enjoy most are musicals and comedies. They have happy endings.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I know handwriting reveals one's personality, but can you tell what people are like by the way they dress?—B.S., Ann Arbor, Mich.

● We checked with noted designer Jacques Bellini, who dresses the famous as well as the obscure. He said you can, and analyzed some of his clients: "It's easy to see that Liza Minnelli is busy and confused because she's not coordinated. She can't mix and match clothes. Same with James Caan, a fine man and actor, but he's a sloppy, mixed-up dresser. You can tell Sylvia Miles is outgoing and eccentric. Her outfits are startling and exposing. With one glance it's obvious Monique Van Vooren is organized. Her things are orderly and neat. Also Margaux Hemingway, who's chic, neat and tailored. She's always in control. Ben Vereen, a marvelous human being, treats his clothes with consideration; he's very compassionate."

WHY WE LOVED LUCY SO MUCH

Television shows come and go, but Americans have clung to Lucy with fierce fidelity. Turns out there are some interesting reasons why.

By Bart Andrews

Lucy gives out a snappy rendition of "Glow Worm."

Martian chronicles: Lucy and Ethel in outer-space drag.

A harebrained scheme in the making: Golf widows Lucy and Ethel decide on a new plan of retaliation.

Lucy "vamps" Tennessee Ernie Ford.

Lucy demonstrates her good manners for Edward Everett Horton.

It was crazy, exciting, and it involved millions of us every week for a quarter of a century. How did it all begin?

Twenty-five years ago at a New York dinner party, a public-relations man was overheard saying, "We've just bought a little thing made out in Hollywood . . . a situation comedy with Lucille Ball and her husband whatsizname. I don't know if it will amount to anything."

That "little thing" turned out to be the most successful television program of the 1950's: "I Love Lucy." And "whatsizname"—Desi Arnaz—soon became TV's top entrepreneur, the brains not only behind Miss Ball's million-dollar laugh machine but also king over enough TV film to stretch from Hollywood to Nigeria, where, incidentally, "I Love Lucy" is still running.

This week marks the show's 25th anniversary. For nine years, Lucy and Desi romped through prime time television, and even if you didn't write one of the 10,000 letters they received each month or didn't send one of the 500 gifts they opened the day after Desi Jr.'s birth or were not among the 60,000 fans (over the years) who watched "I Love Lucy" being filmed in Hollywood, you'll remember something special from those 25 great years. Maybe Lucy and Ethel working at Kramer's Kandy Kitchen or Lucy being caught up in a wine vat in Italy or just the Ricardos and the Mertzes loose in Hollywood.

Come back with us and remember. We promise this rerun will not be interrupted by commercials.

The Desilu empire began as an inauspicious comedy which, just prior to its debut in October, 1951, TV Guide described as a show "revolving around problems arising in a household where the wife is stage-struck and the orchestra-leader husband thinks she should stay home."

It hardly sounded like something to rush right out and buy a new 12-inch TV for, but in a short six months, America was all but coming to a grinding halt every Monday night. Telephone companies reported a substantial reduction in calls during the half-hour period. Chicago's Marshall Field switched its evening shopping hours to Thursdays when it became clear that the biggest clearance sale in the store's history was no match for "I Love Lucy." Management put up a sign in the window declaring: "We love Lucy, too, so we're closing on Monday nights."

When Presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson cut in on "I Love Lucy" for a five-minute campaign pitch in the fall of 1952, his office was flooded with hate mail. One woman wrote: "I love Lucy. I like Ike. Drop dead."

George J. Van Dorp, water commissioner of Toledo, Ohio, had his own rating system in 1953. Van Dorp contended: "There's an amazing correlation between the degree of attention that people pay to a television show and the amount of water they use. While "I Love Lucy" is being shown, pressure in the main is consistently high. As soon as the commercial comes on, the pressure drops because people are using the water again. That lasts only one minute: I don't need a watch; all I do is look at the water-pressure gauge. When the show is over and people again avail themselves of water services, the pressure sometimes drops as much as 30 percent."

Whatever rating system you subscribed to, "I Love Lucy" came out ahead. The series won more than 200 awards, including five Emmys (it was nominated 23 times). At the Fourth Annual Emmy Awards dinner, in 1952, after accepting the second of two Emmys for excellence in comedy, Red Skelton remarked: "Ladies and gentlemen, you've given it to the wrong redhead. I don't deserve this. It should go to Lucille Ball." The overflowing audience of industry bigwigs cheered loudly. The Arnazes could not contain their elation and broke down and wept.

All in all, there were 192 so-called "I Love Lucy" escapades. If reviewed in succession, they would consume four days, seven hours and 15 minutes. They are also available dubbed in Japanese, Portuguese, Italian, French and Spanish.

What made "I Love Lucy" one of TV's all-time hits? TV writer Jack Sher put it this way: "The captivating thing about Lucy and Ricky is the fact that they hold a mirror up to every married couple in America. Not a regular mirror that reflects the truth nor a magic mirror that portrays fantasy. But a Coney Island kind of mirror that distorts, exaggerates and makes vastly amusing every little incident, foible and idiosyncrasy of married life."

Jess Oppenheimer, one of the show's three creators, harbors the same opinion: "The funniest single line ever uttered on "I Love Lucy" came when Lucy summed up smartly what happens to a lot of marriages: 'Since we said, "I do," there are so many things we don't.' "

In Jess's opinion, the line was not particularly funny in itself, but it gave viewers a sudden, deep insight into themselves—a shock relieved by laughter.

After the first season of "I Love Lucy" was over, journalist Jack Gould made this statement: "If there is one universal theme that knows no age limitations and is recognizable to young and old, it is the institution of marriage—and more particularly the day-to-day trials of husband and wife. It is this single story line above all others, with which the audience can most readily identify itself."

However, no real-life situation could have matched the circumstances surrounding Lucille Ball's pregnancy in 1952 when it was decided that Lucy Ricardo also would have a baby on "I Love Lucy."

"We decided that although it had never been done before, we could tackle the job of a pregnancy on TV," producer Jess Oppenheimer recalls. "We felt certain we could extract all the inherent humor from the situation while staying within the bounds of good taste. To further insure that we offended no one, we arranged for a priest, a minister and a rabbi to approve the scripts and see th shows being filmed."

When Lucy gave birth to a big baby boy headlines all over the world carried the news Seven minutes after the baby's birth, it wa

Don't let your fingers be bare just because you don't want to spend $1,000 a carat (or more) for a diamond ring. Our Gemfires are so elegant only a diamond expert, or someone with a powerful magnifier can be really sure they aren't natural diamonds.

Gemfires are polished and precision-faceted by master diamond cutters to bring out their full fire and brilliance. They are then set by master craftsmen, by hand, in expensive-looking, open-back mountings so the base of the stone is exposed for maximum reflection of light.

You don't have to be afraid that Gemfires will be phony-looking plastic or paste jewelry. They gleam like diamonds formed deep within the earth by tremendous heat and pressure. Yet they are free of the imperfections found in most natural diamonds. There are no cracks, no flaws, no spots of impurities to marr their sparkling beauty. We invite you to wear a Gemfire. If you, your family or your friends can tell the difference between it and a natural diamond return it to us within 30 days and we'll gladly send you your money back.

You're in good company when you wear Gemfires. Today, even millionaires wear simulated diamonds and keep their precious jewels hidden away in bank vaults to prevent them from being lost or stolen.

Gemfires make a lifetime gift — — and the gift of a lifetime.

HEAVY GOLD ELECTROPLATE (HGE) — — this mounting uses karat gold (either white or yellow) that is electrically bonded to the mounting after it is formed and the gold, by government standard, is 14 times thicker than the designation "gold electroplate".

STERLING SILVER (SS) — — the mounting is 92.5% pure silver, 7.5% other metals for strength, and to eliminate tarnishing is lightly plated with precious rhodium.

Judy & Jerry Ervin

broadcast in Japan. Los Angeles school officials went around to classrooms to announce the blessed event to the students. A spokesman for the Associated Press claimed, "We covered the birth on a wartime basis, with hourly bulletins."

The day following the baby's birth, General Dwight D. Eisenhower was inaugurated President, and on his ABC broadcast, Walter Winchell reported, "This was a banner week—the nation got a man and Lucy got a boy."

But while 29 million people witnessed Ike's swearing-in ceremony on American television, 44 million tuned in to watch Little Ricky's arrival.

Desi Arnaz Jr., now 23, remembers: "I can still recall watching the show when I was about 3 and wondering who was the baby with Mommy and Daddy. When my parents said it was me, I was confused because I knew it wasn't. So I had this identity problem, and it wasn't helped any by people calling me Little Ricky, a name I learned to despise. I remember wanting desperately to be better at something—anything—than the boy who played Little Ricky (actor Keith Thibodeaux). Although he was two years older than I, we became close friends. One of the things he did was play the drums, and that's what really got me interested in music. I studied percussion because I wanted to drum better than Keith did—and I'll always be grateful to him for that."

Young Desi knew all too well that there wasn't much relationship between what he saw on TV and what was really going on at home. "I learned pretty early," he says, "to relate to 'I Love Lucy' as a TV show and to my parents as actors in it. Those were difficult years—all those funny things happening each week on television to people who looked like my parents, then the same people agonizing through unhappy times at home."

The Arnaz's shaky marriage, which ended in divorce in 1960, was not the only cause of tension behind the scenes. While the Desilu press department fostered the image of a happy foursome on the "I Love Lucy" set, it wasn't the case. After "Lucy" went off prime time, William Frawley (who played neighbor Fred Mertz) said of Vivian Vance, his TV wife, his so-called "honeybunch": "She's said to be one of the finest gals to come out of Kansas, and I often wish she'd go back there. I don't know where she is now, and she doesn't know where I am, and that's exactly the way I like it."

Searching for the reasons behind "Lucy mania" turns out to be a journey that leads us back to ourselves.

Most of the credit for the show's superiority goes to Lucy's incredible drive for perfection.

Very rarely did Lucille Ball goof. However, one crew member recalls an occasion when she hopelessly stumbled over a speech eight or nine times in succession, until she broke the tension by yelling out into the audience to her mother De-De (who missed nary a one "I Love Lucy" filming), "Don't worry, Mom, I'll get it!"

At about the time "I Love Lucy" went off prime time schedules in 1960, Columbia University conducted a survey of TV-viewing habits. One of the questions was, "Are there any programs that you'd like to see put back on the air? I don't mean reruns; I mean new versions. If 'yes,' which one(s)?" The overwhelming favorite—"I Love Lucy."

No format appeared so unlikely to succeed as the adventures of a carrot-top clown and a Cuban bandleader with an accent so thick you could cut it with a cleaver; yet for nine happy years, the lives of millions of Americans, and countless more worldwide, ran on one tether with the Ricardos. They and the Mertzes became America's favorite foursome; and the laughs have gone on, uninterrupted, for 25 years.

Jack Gould of The New York Times summed up his feeling about the success of "I Love Lucy" by saying, " 'I Love Lucy' is very human—and so are we."

The Real-Life Waltons' Favorite Thanksgiving Recipes

GRANDPA WALTON
"The best Thanksgiving pie I ever had anywhere!"

Born in Frankfort, Indiana, Will Geer began his colorful career nearly 50 years ago, performing in tent shows and on riverboats. In 1924, he started his own repertory company, and that's where he often finds himself on the big holidays.

Once they served a Thanksgiving pie that was so incredibly good, Will demanded the recipe: "You take a 9-inch unbaked piecrust, 3 eggs, a cup of dark corn syrup, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 cup melted margarine, a cup of canned pumpkin, a teaspoon of vanilla, and a cup of pecan halves. Preheat your oven to 350°F, and prepare piecrust. Then, with a hand beater or wire whisk, beat the eggs well. Beat in the next 5 ingredients until well blended. Now arrange the pecans in the bottom of the piecrust. Slowly pour the egg mixture over them. Bake for 1 hour, or until a knife inserted 1 inch from edge comes out clean. Let it cool, then serve it with good old whipped cream!"

JOHN WALTON
"My super turkey sandwich will knock you out!"

Ralph Waite is totally, helplessly in love with the theater. He has appeared in 8 Broadway plays, several films, and is founder and artistic director of the Los Angeles Actors Theater, a drama company which he established in the spring of 1975. But more and more his interest has turned to directing. He's even directed several episodes of "The Waltons."

Though Ralph doesn't direct in the kitchen often, there is one recipe he loves for left-over Thanksgiving turkey. "First, you make some Russian dressing. In a small bowl, combine mayonnaise and a good dash of pepper. Mix this with relish, catsup and Worcestershire. Then you take two slices of rye bread and spread generously with the Russian dressing. Top one slice of bread with three slices of turkey, two slices of Swiss cheese and one slice of ham, folded in half. Top all this with two heaping tablespoons of sauerkraut and the remaining slice of rye. Cut it in half and serve it with dill pickles. Man, it's delicious!"

OLIVIA WALTON
"I'm something of an expert on vegetables."

When Michael Learned remembers Thanksgiving, she immediately thinks of the 21-acre Connecticut farm she grew up on—especially the kitchen. How many kitchens do you know that have a sitting room and fireplace inside? Michael's mother did most of the holiday cooking, including roast turkey, baked ham, traditional vegetables, and a big salad.

Today, Michael's Thanksgiving dinner usually includes some very special vegetable dishes, because that's what her family loves! Now married to Glen Chadwick, Michael has a lively household of 5 teenagers. Since the children are all fond of vegetable-type diets, she is an expert on the subject. One of her favorite ways to do peas is "the French way," with lettuce, chopped onion, and a little slivered ham. She also works magic with zucchini, either steaming it to a tender turn with sliced onion and dill; or mixing it with onion, fresh diced tomatoes and a touch of salt and fresh ground pepper.

GRANDMA WALTON
"Can you believe my mother once owned a restaurant?"

Ellen Corby was born in Wisconsin and grew up in Philadelphia, Pa., during the 1930's. "I've worked my whole life," says Ellen. "It's important to be doing what you like to the best of your ability." On the subject of Women's Lib, she says, "Women have always been capable. L-I-B means life is beautiful."

And for Ellen, Thanksgiving brings back beautiful memories. She recalls going to her mother's restaurant and getting her dinner right from the steamtable. They served all the traditional things: roast turkey, ham, gravy, sweet potatoes, carrots, peas, and cauliflower. Often her Danish-born mother would make "special" dishes from her home country: Danish cucumber salad, the cucumbers sliced "paper thin," and cranberry sauce with "Danish spices."

Being on "The Waltons" has strengthened her, Ellen feels. "The character you play rubs off on you. 'The Waltons' proves that a good family can survive on love without much money."

Grandpa Walton skillfully carves a Walton Mountain turkey while the other family members help and supervise.

PEOPLE QUIZ/ By John E. Gibson

A Look at You and the U.S.A.

Are the happiest people those who live in our small towns and rural areas?

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Most Americans consider George Washington to be our greatest President.
2. How Americans characterize a person is likely to depend on the mode of transportation that person prefers.
3. Americans live longest in the regions that have the best climate.
4. U.S. Senators tend to fall into four distinct personality types.
5. People who live in the small towns and rural areas of America are the happiest.

ANSWERS

1. False. A recent nationwide survey showed that, in the public's view, the greatest Presidents were John F. Kennedy, Abraham Lincoln and Franklin Roosevelt. Harry Truman ranked next in popularity, with George Washington barely nosing out Dwight Eisenhower for fifth place.

2. True. In a University of Pittsburgh study, it was found that modes of travel—buses, automobiles, bicycles, motorcycles and walking—tended to be directly associated with specific values. The investigation showed that people tended to characterize others as follows: Bus riders were seen to value equality above all. Automobile use was associated with comfort, family security and social recognition. Bicycles were associated with pleasure; motorcycles with excitement and freedom; and walking with inner harmony and a desire for a world of beauty and peace.

3. False. A study of longevity patterns in the U.S., conducted by the statistical bureau of a leading life insurance company, shows that the opposite is true, that states in the West North Central region—led by North Dakota—had the best longevity record. This general area is noted for its rigorous climate, with severe winters and broiling-hot summers. And previous research has shown that frequent storms and dramatic weather changes tend to have a stimulating effect on our mental and physical processes, and that the excitement of weather in-the-making also has a direct effect on morale and general sense of well-being.

4. True—as evidenced by a Columbia University study which "psyched out" representative Senators' personalities and careers and found they tended to fall into four distinct categories: the Active-Positive subjects (Lawmakers) "who tended to concern themselves with substantive achievements"; the Active-Negative (Advertisers), with an accent on achieving personal ambitions; the Passive-Positive (Spectators), largely concerned with "winning others' affection"; and the Passive-Negative (Reluctants), bent on "escaping from 'politics' while still satisfying their consciences' demand that they serve the public."

5. True—according to the findings of university studies which show that small-town and rural lifestyles tend to go hand in hand with closer ties with fellow human beings, more meaningful relationships, more lasting friendships and a feeling of belonging. Behavior specialists point out that most people who live in rural areas do so because they prefer country living, while many of those who make up the population of the crowded metropolitan areas live there not by preference but because of economic necessity.

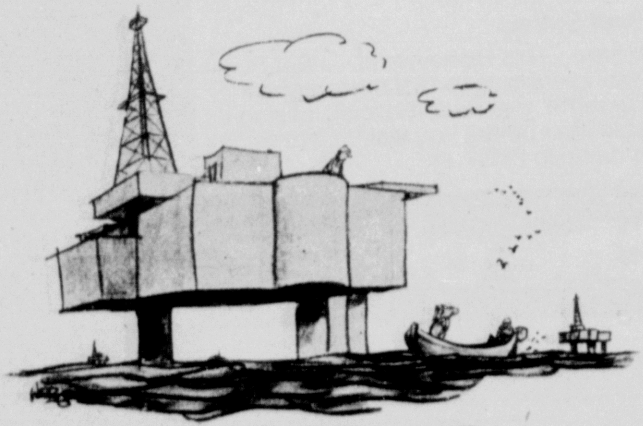
Observations™

Drilling up. As everyone knows, oil people really do drill downward. But drilling activity is up. During the first half of this year, 13,065 oil and gas wells were completed in the United States and offshore—an increase of 24.6 percent over the same period last year. In fact, overall drilling activity has risen sharply since the fourth quarter of 1973, and the number of wells drilled in 1975 was the highest in a decade. Keep that in mind the next time someone says the oil industry isn't going all out to find more oil and gas.

Underground endowment. The University of California may soon have one answer to the college financial squeeze. The University will shortly solicit bids from producing companies for leasing 11 sites on its 3,000-acre Davis campus, near Sacramento, where natural gas has been discovered. Revenues from gas production would help defray university operating costs, even as classes continue. The 11 drilling sites are scattered through the rural areas used for agricultural experimentation.



"DO YOU HAVE ANY CRANBERRY SAUCE?"

Building better mousetraps. Energy-saving inventions are eligible for government grants, under a program initiated by the Office of Energy-Related Inventions, which is part of the National Bureau of Standards. The idea is to stimulate the creative tinkering of individuals and small research groups. Every idea is first screened for technical feasibility by New England Industrial Resource Development Inc., a consulting firm in Durham, N.H. working with the government. Inventions that are being considered for grants include a microwave device to make car engines more efficient, a rubber-recycling machine for used tires, and a system for saving energy in making maple syrup.

Bottom of the barrel. The State of Maryland turned down a $60,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for a consumer education program. Reason: About 75 percent of the money would have gone for paper work required under terms of the grant.

MARY AND SAM WEIR: THEY BUY AND SELL MANSIONS

Photograph by Elizabeth Gee

The Weirs have renovated 22 houses in the past 10½ years.

They devote all their talent and energy to "recycling" old houses to their original elegance.

What could a former chemist and a fine artist have in common? In the case of Sam and Mary Weir, the chemist and artist formed a marriage and business partnership that required shedding old lifestyles and adjusting to a great deal of house-hopping.

In the past 10½ years, the Weirs have bought, renovated and then sold 22 houses on or near the New Jersey shore. During this time, they've lived in eight of the houses—all mansions—and their current home is a palatial 35-room residence, which they're restoring to its original elegance. As soon as the work is completed, they will sell or rent, and move on.

House-hopping for the Weirs began at the tender age of 22, when they purchased a two-story fisherman's row house in Sea Bright. The house was a shambles and dirt-cheap. Even so, the couple had to borrow money and talk the owner into an extended mortgage to finance the deal. But they felt just having a home of their own made it all worthwhile.

It took them about a year and a half of trial and error to renovate that first house. By the time they had converted it into apartments, the Weirs were sold on the idea of continuing such projects. So they bought another run-down relic, improved it, rented the apartments and moved on—and they've been moving on ever since.

For the first five years of their venture, Sam continued to work as a research chemist to provide the money for mortgage payments and material costs. Now he devotes all his talent and energy to "recycling" old houses.

When asked how they managed to get up the courage to tackle dilapidated 30-and-40-room mansions, Mary said, "We've always felt that if we looked at anything long enough, we'd know what to do with it. I guess we just have a lot of faith in ourselves. We may not always know exactly what we want, but we do know what we don't want."

The Weirs have learned a lot since their first undertaking. One thing they've learned is when to call for help —they sometimes get freelancers to assist on larger projects. Now referring to themselves as home recyclers, they offer guidance to others who want to renovate. Their basic plan of action, which applies to cottages, mansions and anything in between, begins with an attic-to-basement cleaning job. This usually means clearing cobwebs, broken furniture and junk from rooms that have not been opened for years. Once this is done, it's possible to see what raw material (paneling, floors, etc.) there is to work with. One of the great bonuses in larger houses is an abundance of beautiful hardwood, exquisite floors and wall paneling, which withstands neglect far better than paint or plaster. Paneling rarely requires any work, and floors are easily restored to their original beauty. "Right now," says Mary "we're building a new house with a chestnut interior that we rescued from another mansion. Somehow, old wood in a new house helps make it seem like a home a lot sooner."

The next step in the Weirs' plan is to design a traffic pattern. This is particularly important in smaller houses where too much space is often taken up by halls. These house recyclers often eliminate a hall entirely and knock down walls to enlarge a kitchen or living room. In larger houses the traffic pattern usually indicates a need to relocate the kitchen. Servants might have been content to have the kitchen in the back of the house, but today's homemaker wants the kitchen to be a family-centered room, a place where the chief-cook-and-bottle-washer can be in the middle of the action.

Closet space, a real shortcoming in older homes, is another major consideration. A good rule of thumb, say the Weirs, is to create half-again as much closet space as you think you'll need.

Another essential of the Weirs' plan is to make the entire structure air-tight. First Sam fills all cracks in the foundation and elsewhere with polyurethane, which hardens quickly. Next, for insulation, he uses urea-formaldehyde foam, a substance that looks like shaving cream. It is pumped into small holes drilled into the outside wall of the house and spreads and fills the entire space between the interior and exterior walls. When he's through, the old house is as solid as many new houses, and usually better insulated.

Mansions are great places for parties, and the Weirs always plan celebrations before and after renovations. The before party, however, just has never materialized. "We're too anxious to get down to work," says Mary. "But we make up for it with our after parties. At the last one we had a band, and we even put on a skit that included all the funny things that happened while we were transforming the house."

The Weirs have two sons, Chris, aged 5, and Charlie, 11. The boys work with their parents, cleaning, painting and carting. And so far, they've been more of a help than a hindrance. Sam remarks, "They know what not to do. They've been up on the roof with me ever since they could walk, and they know what's safe and what's not."

Photograph by Elizabeth Gee

Work is a family affair for the Weirs. Since their two sons could walk, they have helped with painting, cleaning and carting.

Mansion-living is a youngster's paradise. Charlie and Chris ride their bikes in the living room and skate-board in the halls—until the rooms are finished. In addition, they have their father around the house all day. Their parents feel this is one of the joys of their work together. Sam always has time for the boys, and he never has a need to unwind at the end of the day because he's been doing just what he enjoys most. There's never a problem deciding what to do in the evenings, which are usually spent mapping out the next-day's work.

The prospect of renovating a huge mansion seems overwhelming and, yet, the relaxed, easygoing manner of the Weirs makes it all seem possible. The secret of their successs is that they love what they're doing and make a profit in the bargain.

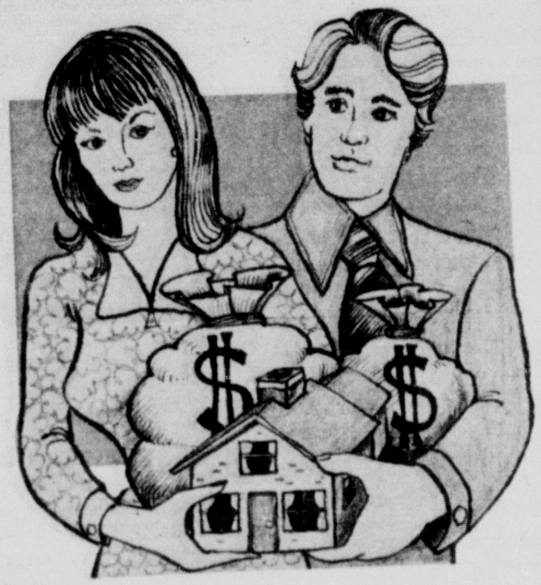
MONEY

Is Joint Ownership Double Trouble?



Soon after Jack and Alice Robbins were married, Jack opened a savings account in both their names. He put much more money into it than she did, but he insisted that it remain a joint account. "I don't want Alice to have to go through any complicated inheritance procedures if anything happens to me," he said. "And besides, I want her to know that any money either of us earns is ours." Two years later Jack was killed in a plane crash. The bank froze the Robbins' joint account until the state tax authorities examined it. To Alice's dismay, she learned that she had to pay an inheritance tax on the entire amount. "But some of that is my own money," she protested. Yet because she could not prove how much she had deposited, she was taxed on the total sum. Many couples make the mistake of letting their feelings override financial good judgment. They think of joint ownership—of savings, a house, stocks—as a gesture of love and trust. But they do not foresee the problems it can create. "Joint ownership," says one bank president, "is a complex device with many built-in booby traps. The theoretical advantages can turn out to be liabilities." For example, joint ownership can become a weapon in times of domestic conflict. Since neither partner has sole control of the property, an angry spouse (perhaps one who is about to seek a divorce or about to be divorced) can simply withdraw all the savings or sell jointly owned stock and place the proceeds in his or her own name. One husband used a jointly owned home as a bargaining weapon in a divorce settlement. The wife wanted to sell their house and move to an apartment, but her husband refused to sign a contract of sale until she agreed to lower alimony payments. Since the house couldn't be sold without his signature, the wife was faced with a case of legal blackmail. There are several kinds of joint ownership, each with its own legal requirements and complicated rules. One should always consult an attorney before putting property into joint ownership. Even though joint ownership may create a sense of family unity and signify love and trust, there are far better and simpler ways to achieve those goals.

WHY I GIVE THANKS

As Thanksgiving nears, Dr. Peale remembers a good friend's advice: live by "the attitude of gratitude."

By Dr. Norman Vincent Peale

Especially for Family Weekly

A phrase, "The attitude of gratitude" was first introduced to me by a man I had known for some years. He used to be a disgruntled person, but, at some point, a profound change took place. He became optimistic and joyful. I probed for the secret of this change, and I was astonished to learn it was due to his application of one magic word: "Thanks."

"One day, inadvertently," he said, "I sincerely thanked a person for doing something for me that was a little more than expected. And I noticed a pleasurable glow in myself and a similar reaction in the other person."

From that simple beginning came his habit of thanking everyone for everything. Then, in his reading, he chanced upon a statement by the psychologist William James, who said that the most fundamental desire of human nature is the desire to be appreciated. "Therefore, if you give appreciation to people, you win their love," said my friend. "But, more important than that, the practice of this philosophy has made a different person of me."

It was then that he coined the phrase, "The attitude of gratitude." "The attitude of gratitude will do wonders for you," he said. Then he told me that every day he repeats the opening sentence of the 107th Psalm: "O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good: for His mercy endureth for ever." And he added, "I believe from my experience that anyone who says that passage every day will be a happier person."

I agree that it will certainly help one feel better and have a better philosophy. Every morning when you get up, instead of fretting and complaining, instead of turning on the news to find out how bad everything is, look out the window, take a deep breath and say, "I give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good: for His mercy endureth for ever." It will help you feel great.

Elizabeth Gee

Dr. Peale, with wife Ruth, appealing for more positive thinking: "We seem to have developed a national inferiority complex."

I read in a newspaper once the complaint of a minister that the right of national self-criticism was being interfered with. I would be the last person to approve such interference. But it may be possible that Americans have overcriticized themselves. We seem to have developed a national inferiority complex.

Personally, I get a tremendous thrill out of this country. And I have visited almost every part of it. The more one travels around the nation, the more one gives thanks for this goodly land that the Lord has given as part of our heritage.

Remember the story of William Bradford? We have no picture of him. We do not know the color of his eyes and hair, but we know the "color" of his mind and soul. We can see him standing in the meadow at Plymouth, praying for rain. And when the rain came, he ascribed it to God and thanked Him. For three decades he was Governor of Plymouth Colony and put his stamp on it; and for more than 200 years he has put his stamp on the American people.

Neither starvation nor hostile attack could overwhelm that body of settlers, who had faith in God and their leaders. They were an indomitable breed. They say of Daniel Boone that when he wanted to cross a ravine he didn't walk down into it; he would grab a grapevine and swing across.

One day he came home to his cabin in the wilderness and said to his wife, "Ma, we're moving." Ma did not show any enthusiasm because she had just gotten herself nicely settled from the last move, and she asked, "Why are we moving, Dan?" "I just noticed a cabin 40 miles from here," he explained. "People are crowding us; we have to move." I wonder what Daniel would do in this teeming America of today?

Those early Americans wanted amplitude, scope, greatness, vastness because they had those same qualities in their souls. "O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good." He gave us a great land like this. He gave us magnificent ancestors. A great people made us, and we should feel gratitude for the high principles handed down to us.

Norman Vincent Peale has been minister of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York for the past 44 years. He is the author of The Power of Positive Thinking as well as 24 other books, including The Positive Principle Today (Prentice-Hall, 1976). Copies of Dr. Peale's weekly sermons for radio and TV may be obtained from the Foundation for Christian Living, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

"We can see the Governor of Plymouth Colony in the meadow, praying for rain. When it came, he ascribed it to God . . ."

You will find these principles in the Declaration of Independence, in the Constitution of the United States, in the Bill of Rights and in the body of literature produced by our founding fathers. Our future depends on preserving those basic principles not because those people were everlastingly right—no one can be that—but because these principles were taken out of an ancient body of jurisprudence and law, out of the Holy Scriptures, out of the philosophy of liberal thinkers of the past. Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln all warned us that it is dangerous to tamper with principles which have proven themselves.

"In a hotel once, I dreamt my wife had died....I awoke to dial home...and could only say, 'Ruth, it's you...'"

One of these principles, for example, is a firm reliance on Divine Providence. Washington said, "The event is in the hands of God." Lincoln said, "No mortal council hath devised, no human hand hath wrought these wonders." Franklin said, "No sparrow falleth from heaven without the Almighty taking notice of it. Is it likely that an empire can rise without His aid?" Faith in Divine Providence is one of our basic principles.

Returning to my friend who said, "The attitude of gratitude will do wonders for you," I wonder whether there is any disgruntled, unhappy, dissatisfied person reading this article. I suppose so, for we are all that way at times, ignoring blessings and causes for happiness. For our own mental health we need to emphasize the many reasons for thankfulness.

One night in a West Coast hotel I dreamt that my wife had died, and I experienced all the agony as though it had been real. When I awoke, I said with relief, "It was only a dream!" But I wondered whether it were so, and I went to a telephone to dial our home in New York.

When my wife answered, I could only say, "Ruth, it's you, isn't it? I'm so glad." "Of course," she said in surprise, "Why are you so excited?" I said, "You have the sweetest voice I ever heard." "Did you call just to tell me that?" she demanded. And, being a frugal soul, she added, "I'll venture this call will cost you ten dollars." "I wouldn't care if it cost me a hundred dollars," I said "just to hear your voice."

How grateful we should be for our blessings. There is an old hymn which goes, "Count your many blessings—name them one by one." At home at your Thanksgiving table, take a few minutes to enumerate your blessings; count them, one by one. You will have a well-filled table; you can eat that turkey; you can talk; you can sleep; you can walk—simple blessings, perhaps, but very real ones. The "attitude of gratitude" lifts us up and makes us people of faith and hope and joy.

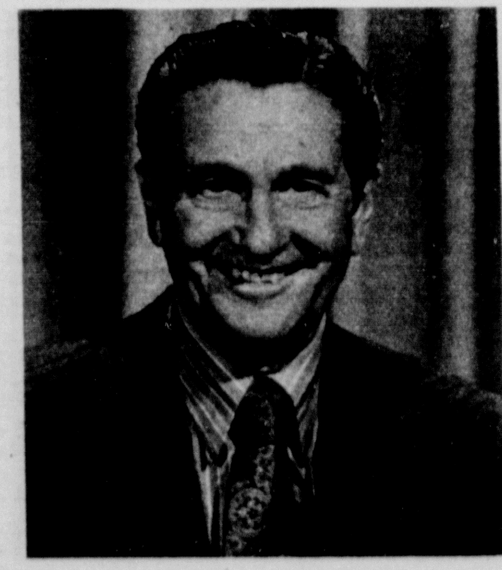
CHRYSTIE AND BRUCE JENNER
Competing in generosity

She dropped out of college and worked as an airline stewardess to support her husband while he trained for the 1976 Olympics. He went to Montreal and won the Decathlon. Now he's a star, and she's sitting pretty. Bruce Jenner is currently being wooed by television, movie and print people alike. He tested for the starring role in a soon-to-be-made re-make of "Superman" (he didn't get the part because he looked too young), and now they're asking him to play Errol Flynn in an upcoming film. The TV networks want him to do sports announcing. Sports-equipment manufacturers are competing for the honor of having his handsome face on their packaging. Says Jenner: "I don't know about acting. It makes me nervous because I've never done it before. Right now, I want to take Chrystie on a vacation to Hawaii." Says Chrystie: "It sounds corny, but he's the same old guy. I think we'd both like to kick back and have a really good time for about a year." Right now, there are just a couple of promises: an assurance that he will look carefully at all offers and a commitment to sending Chrystie back to school. She'll pick up the 50 credits she needs for a B.A., then it's on to law school. Says Chrystie: "Sacrifices? No, I'm very uncomfortable being any kind of martyr. It was a priority structure. His needs had to come first for a while. The rewards came almost instantly." Says Jenner: "She has sacrificed a lot for me. I hope I can do a lot for her."



LAWRENCE WELK
Knowing when to leave

A tough lesson for the Champagne Music Maker: "I was about 19 and on my way to play at a dance in Zeeland, N.D., about two hours away by train from my home. There were a couple of salesmen in our coach who knew me from some of the dances I'd played in the area, and they asked me if I'd favor them with a few accordion tunes. Would I! I didn't have to be asked twice. I happily played—with all stops out—waltzes, polkas, old-country folk tunes, wedding dances—I even threw in a couple of marches. After a good while, the salesmen told me they'd decided to get up a card game, and they pressed me to join them. 'Oh, that's all right,' I said, not getting their point at all. 'I like to play the accordion!' As I burst into my favorite waltz, suddenly one of the fellows threw down his cards, grabbed great hunks of his hair in both hands and shouted, 'Please! I can't stand any more!' Crushed and humiliated beyond belief, I put my accordion away immediately and sat all by myself for the rest of the trip. It was a harsh lesson, but a good one, and I never forgot it. It's the reason we try to keep our show moving as fast as possible today." From My America, Your America, by Lawrence Welk with Bernice McGeehan (Prentice-Hall, $7.95).

AND SMILE WHEN YOU SAY THAT, TURKEY!
Gobbling the Thanksgiving bird

Smile when people call you a turkey—that's a compliment. Because, as Ben Franklin, proponent of the turkey as national bird, foresaw, the gobbler is a great bird. In fact, if we are what we eat, we're all going to be turkeys soon because the poultry industry has begun marketing turkey ham, turkey hot dogs, turkey pastrami, turkey salami and turkey bologna. The stuff is purported to look and taste like regular ham, hot dogs, etc. It's all part of the trend away from beef to poultry and seafood. Of all animals raised and sold for meat, the turkey has the most protein, with the lowest calorie count. He (or she) also produces more meat than any other market animal—65 percent white, 35 percent dark. And come this Bicentennial Thanksgiving, it's estimated we Americans will gobble 37,080,000 turkeys—and not a single eagle.
